PERFECT SETTING FOR ARMY-NAVY GAME; MRS. HALL TAKES THE STAND

ARMY-NAVY MILLION DOLLAR GATE IN VIEW

Prices Soar as Weather Clears—Cadets Are a 6 to 5 Favorite

SOLDIERS FIELD, CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mascots of the two service teams were the first to be admitted to the field for the 29th annual Army-Navy football battle.

None but the Navy goat and the Army mule got past the gates before 11 o'clock, while 200 huskies cleared off the gridiron. Rolling up the canvass and raking off the hay, showed the turf to be in magnificent condition, fairly soft and springy, unfrozen and almost dry.

Overhead a wintry sun did its best to add to the perfect setting.

The Legion and civilian ushers, on hand early, were augmented by a Culver Military Academy troop, the first martial note of the pageant.

Location of the southern goal post, about 150 feet from the arch of the stadium's horseshoe end, and the northern goal barely more than half way down the huge expanse left the northern end of the stadium nearly a hundred yards from the actual field.

Frost and snow ringed the grass expanse which had been blanketed ten yards out from each sideline.

Last minute developments tended toward a certainty that the game would pull a million dollar gate. Prices for seats soared as the weather cleared this forenoon. The Cadets were still a 6 to 5 favorite in the betting this afternoon just before the game.

SMALL NUMBER CLAIMS FILED

This Month Has Least of Any One Month In the Past Year

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—According to a statement issued by Commissioner James A. Hamilton, claims for 122 deaths were filed with the State Department of Labor during the month of October. This is the smallest number that has been filed in any one month in the past year and represents a decrease of 52 cases as compared with 174 filed in September. These death claims were reported by the five local offices of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau as follows: New York 71, Albany 14, Buffalo and Rochester each 13 and Syracuse 11. The Buffalo district showed the greatest decrease for the month reporting exactly half as many cases for October as for September.

There were only two women among the workers whose deaths were reported this month and both were employed in the New York district. One was a nurse who was overcome by heat while on duty in the operating room. The other was a woman cook aged who was employed as a kitchen helper. She slipped and fell into a hole in the floor. Two of the eight miners ... for whom death claims were filed were struck by automobiles while riding bicycles.

Of the 87 cases for which information regarding dependents was available, there were only 11 cases where the deceased worker left no dependents. Fifty-eight employees were survived by widows and 23 by both widows and children. The death of one worker left his only child, a daughter, without either father or mother. The dependents of the remaining 17 workers were all either parents or minor brothers and sisters.

The Commissioner said that more than one-third of all the fatal accidents reported this month and more than two-thirds of those reported in the Rochester district occurred in the construction industries. This group with a total of 44 fatalities exceeded by 13 cases the number reported by the manufacturing group which was second on the list with a total of 25. Fifteen deaths were reported by trades, 13 by transportation, eight by public utilities, five by service and 12 by all other industries combined. The New York district reported 11 of the 15 deaths among workers employed by trade; each of the other districts reported one.

Falls of various kinds and vehicular accidents were by far the most frequent causes of death, being charged with 32 and 31 respectively. Ten deaths resulted from objects falling, seven from handling objects, seven from explosions, electricity and burns, six each from hoisting apparatus and power working machinery and five from other or indefinite causes.

HARVARD MAN KILLS HIS WIFE, ENDS OWN LIFE

Norton Shaw, Once Famous Football Player, Involved In Will Case

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 27.—(AP)—An answer was being sought today to the mystery surrounding the fatal shooting yesterday of Mrs. J. E. Norton Shaw of Mattapoisett by her husband, once famous Harvard football player, who then turned a shotgun upon himself.

Shaw, a prominent attorney of this city, was to have figured in probate court hearing next Monday upon objections of the town of Acushnit to the allowance of his account as executor of the will of George T. Russell, wealthy resident.

Russell made the town chief beneficiary of a will that disposed of $105,000 but Shaw was reported set forth when the document was filed that because of the withdrawal a few days prior to Mr. Russell's death of $42,000 from a local bank all bequests could not be paid in full.

The withdrawal orders were signed by Mr. Russell. The major portion of the will was said to have gone to Mrs. Rebecca C. Holmes, an old sweetheart of Mr. Russell and co-executor of the will, while a smaller part was paid to Mr. Shaw.

Witnesses summoned to testify as the probate hearing included a physician and others who were to tell of Mr. Russell's alleged feeble condition of body and mind for three months before his death.

Shaw returned to his home from this city yesterday afternoon, changed his clothes and procured the gun with which he told his housekeeper he was going to kill a rat. Later he went to his wife's room and a minute after the discharge of the gun was heard.

The attorney cried to the housekeeper he had shot his wife and directed her to call a physician. While she was at the telephone Shaw ended his own life.

RUMANIA IS SHAKEN WITH POSSIBILITIES

King Doomed, but Temporarily Better, While Throne's Fortunes Are In Balance

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—That Ferdinand, king of Rumania, is a doomed man there seems no longer any doubt. But the latest reliable news received in Paris indicates that he is manfully fighting the inroads of the cancerous growths and is slightly better than he was several days ago.

General P. Angelescu, chief of the king's military household who is in Paris, asserts that the monarch is in no immediate danger of death. He says he has come to Paris not to hasten Queen Marie to Bucharest but to reassure her with regard to her husband's condition. The queen and her children, Prince Nicolas and Princess Ileana, are returning from their visit to the United States and Canada aboard the steamer Berengaria.

Prof. Lecene, a French cancer specialist, left for Buchrest last night to attend Ferdinand. He was summoned to the Rumanian capital by the French radiologist, Dr. Regaut, who arrived there Thursday.

Meanwhile, the political parties in Rumania are showing feverish activity, and public advices received here say that the principal preoccupation of the parties at present is over a declaration in the composition of the Council of Regents named to rule in the event of the death of the king until Prince Michael, son of the abdicated Crown Prince Carol, shall reach his majority.

Modification is regarded as certain, at present the regency council is made up of Prince Nicolas, the head of the Rumanian church and the patriarch Miron Cristea, which he renounced last January.

CHAMBERLAIN OFF FOR PARIS BUT NOT FOR A TALK WITH MUSSOLINI

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain will leave for Paris on Thursday to spend two days talking over affairs generally with Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand.

A government spokesman, in making the announcement today, made it clear that Sir Austen had no intention of "arranging any meeting for Premier Mussolini of Italy or any one else."

This apparently is in reply to reports that the British foreign secretary was arranging a meeting of the foreign ministers of France, Germany, Italy and Great Britain.

BREWSTER CHARGES ARE THROWN OUT

Maine Secretary of State Finds No Proof—Governor Renews His Attacks

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The charges of excessive primary campaign expenditures against Arthur R. Gould, Republican nominee for United States Senator, were dismissed by Secretary of State Frank W. Ball tonight, after two and a half hours' deliberation on the evidence introduced in the hearing today.

"This is not an investigation, and the burden of proof rests on the complainant," said the Secretary of State in announcing his findings. "The proof introduced has fallen far short of the standards set by authorities in such cases. The fact that the respondent, Mr. Gould, did not appear at the hearing cannot be considered evidence of guilt."

The charges against Mr. Gould were made last Saturday by the Rev. Arthur P. Leigh of Randolph an admitted Ku Klux Klan leader. Thirty-one specifications were filed on Wednesday afternoon to support the complaint. Of these, twenty-one enumerated advertisements placed in many newspapers, it was alleged by Mr. Gould or with his knowledge and consent, and the next dealt with payments to Mr. Gould's workers, car hire and purchase of buttons and other campaign material.

The return filed by Mr. Gould in compliance with the law showed an expenditure of $1,300 as the total for the campaign.

At the same time Daniel F. Field, chairman of the Republican state committee, and Senator Frederick Hale voiced renewed belief in the integrity of Mr. Gould and predicted his election.

But Governor Ralph O. Brewster, whose letter to Maine Republicans on Thursday night had repudiated Gould and exploded a bombshell in an already tense political situation, renewed his attacks upon his party's successful candidate in the primary.

Denial from Klan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Associated Press today received a telegram from Calverton, Va., signed "H. W. Evans," denying statements relating to the Ku Klux Klan in connection with the dispute over expenditures in behalf of Arthur R. Gould, Republican candidate for the Senate in Maine.

N., has completed his flight, begun in Norfolk, Va., in the seaplane PN-10, number 2. The plane arrived here late yesterday from th elsle of Pines, Cuba, where it was compelled to come down on the non-stop flight to Colon from the Virginia city owing to a shortage of lubricating oil.

The plane was met at sea by two U. S. destroyers on the Coco Solo flying field which flew thirty miles out from Colon to greet Commander Bartlett and his crew, made up of Lieutenants H. C. Rodd and C. H. Schildhauer and Machinist's Mate Charles J. Perrell. On arrival the seaplane was given a great ovation when they came ashore.

LOST BALLOON IS FOUND NEAR COUDERSPORT

Two Hunters Discover Costly Gas Bag Owned by Dr. LeGalle of Detroit

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 27—Apparently little the worse for an exposure of over a month to the elements the balloon lost near Cross Fork, early Monday morning, October 18, by Dr. J. M. LeGalle, of Detroit, Mich., was found on Tuesday by hunters in the mountains about five miles from Roaring Branch.

Two Roaring Branch men, Willard Rauch and Wayne Gardner, while on a hunting trip saw the big balloon, caught securely in two trees, the basket anchored in one tree, and the bag to the adjoining one. Although now completely deflated it appears to be in good condition. The trees in which it was found are probably forty or fifty feet high.

Find Records In Balloon

Some of Dr. LeGalle's records were found by the men, and these, although they have been water-soaked by the hard rains which have prevailed in this vicinity during the past month, are perfectly legible.

Dr. LeGalle, who resides at 3222 Warren avenue, Detroit, and who desired to qualify for a pilot's license, took the balloon and the balloon on the afternoon of Sunday, October 17, with several students of aeronautical engineering of the University of Michigan. These he left at Ontario, Canada, and started his qualifying night flight alone, crossing Lake Erie. Becoming confused during a hard snow storm about 1 o'clock Monday morning, October 18, he landed near Cross Fork, and as he was preparing to deflate the balloon, it broke eaway. He searched during that day at Cross Fork, and late in the afternoon came to Williamsport, and told the story of the lost balloon.

Notified of Recovery

The balloon was reported seen the next morning by Mrs. C. B. Breining, about a half-mile from Cogan Station, and Dr. LeGalle was notified of its discovery, but when he reached Cogan Station the wind had again boosted it and carried it away. After searching for several days Dr. LeGalle returned to Somerville, N. J., and later stated in a telegram that he expected soon to come to this locality and make an airplane search for the valuable piece of property.

The balloon, which is of 35,000 cubic feet capacity, contained valuable instruments, and was itself a costly vehicle of transportation. A telegram has been sent notifying Dr. LeGalle of the discovery of the hunters.

HUMBLE HOME OF MRS. MILLS

THE MILLS HOME

MRS. HALL TO END DEFENSE IS EXPECTED

Rector's Widow on Stand, Says She Did Her Best To Clear Mystery

COURT HOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 27.—(AP)—While one lawyer was testifying in the Hall-Mills case shortly nearly all the other attorneys in the trial became involved in a free-for-all argument.

Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall went to the witness stand in the Hall-Mills trial at 2 p. m.

Dressed in black, as she has been since the trial began, Mrs. Hall walked to the witness stand in the same calm manner that has marked her conduct in the court room since the trial began almost four weeks ago. Her testimony was expected to bring the defense's case to a close. Mrs. Hall was the last of the three defendants to testify.

"Where were you born?" asked Robert H. McCarter of defense counsel at the first question in the direct examination of Mrs. Hall.

In South Carolina in 1896, answered Mrs. Hall.

Mr. McCarter showed her the family Bible containing the birth records of Mrs. Hall and her brother, Henry and Willie Stevens. The records of his sisters' brothers' baptisms were written in the Bible by the witness' father, Hal Isaid. These records had been introduced earlier.

Mrs. Hall said she moved to New Brunswick when she was a girl and had lived there ever since.

"In your early childhood where did you attend church?" asked McCarter.

"At Christ's church," answered Mrs. Hall.

"Prior to your marriage and while you were a communicant of Christ's church, did you have any connection with your husband's church, the Church of St. John the Evangelist?"

"Yes, I taught Sunday School there."

"It was there you became acquainted with Mr. Hall?"

"Yes."

"When were you married?"

"In July, 1911."

"Was your husband older than you or younger?"

"He was younger."

"How much younger?"

"Seven years."

Mrs. Hall related that after her marriage she and her husband lived in New Brunswick with her mother and Willie Stevens.

"When did your brother, Henry, move from New Brunswick?"

"About 1909."

"Did you have to see you less often after your mother died?"

"I think he came more often during my mother's illness."

"At the time of your husband's death, how many cars did you have?"

"A Dodge sedan and Case."

"Did you drive both cars?"

"I drove only the Dodge."

"Did Willie drive?"

"No."

"Was your husband a devoted husband?"

"Absolutely."

"Up to the time of his death did you notice the slightest change in his demeanor and conduct?"

"No."

"Did Willie have a pistol?"

"Yes."

"Did you remember your husband doing anything to that pistol?"

"About three years before his death my husband filed the firing pin."

"Where did he keep it?"

"In his room. I never told Willie it had been filed."

"Describe the daily life of your husband."

"He was very apt to stay in the house during the morning. Usually he made the calls in the afternoon. We always had supper together and he was often out at church meetings in the evening."

"Did you enter into the work of your parish?"

"In every way I could. I taught a Sunday school class and helped in every way I could."

"Did you become acquainted with the women of your parish?"

"Yes."

"Did you know Eleanor Mills?"

"I met her in connection with the work of the church. For a time she was a member of my Sunday School class."

Justice Parker interrupted proceedings to state that a photographer in violation of court orders, was attempting to focus a camera on her.

Justice Parker ordered the camera seized and the photographer left the room.

"Was it customary for members of your church to visit various institutions?" asked Robert H. McCarter. "Do you remember a visit to the home for the aged at Brooklyn?" "Yes."

Total stock sales 1,526,300 shares.

(x) Ex-dividend .19.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A sudden jump of five points in Baldwin to a new record high at 164, followed by a sharp break which practically wiped out the day's gain, unsettled today's stock market after an opening period of strength. Early gains of one to two points in standard industrials quickly melted away, and closing quotations disclosed a mixture of gains and losses which ran from 1 to 3 points.

The most important overnight business development was the confirmation of the sale of the White Star Line to the Royal Mail interests, but this apparently had been discounted as Marine preferred, which had jumped six points yesterday, fell back today on realizing.

Declines in such issues as Sloss Sheffield, Allied Chemical, Interborough Rapid Transit, Woolworth, Air Reduction and U. S. Rubber ran 1 to 3 points below yesterday's final quotations. An early rise in New York Traction was accompanied by rumors of an increase in fare.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 750,000 shares.

A firm tone characterized the opening of today's stock market. Accumulation of high grade industrials was resumed on a large scale, the first sale of U. S. Steel common being a block of 3500 shares at the "split" price of 150-3-8-151, an extreme gain of one point. Baldwin opened half higher at 159 1-2, a new high record. Loose Wiles Biscuit jumped 4 1/4 points and National Biscuit and National Lead each opened a point higher.

Powerful speculative pools, plentifully supplied with funds, continued to mark up stocks in which developments are believed to be pending. Baldwin quickly the extended its gain to five points by touching 164 but encountered heavy profit taking around that level and slid back a few points. General Motors, South Porto Rican Sugar and National Lead extended their initial gains to 2 points or more before the end of the first half hour.

Local tractions again moved upward under the leadership of Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, which touched another new high record around 75. Buying of the rails centered largely in the low priced issues. A good demand also was noted for a selective list of food shares with Armour of Illinois preferred, Ward Baking "B" and National Dairy Products all selling a point or more higher. Marine preferred fell back over a point on the traditional "selling on the good news" which followed the confirmation of reports that the White Star Line was to be sold to the Royal Mail interests.

A jump of over ten points in Italian rentes to 4.21 1-2 cents and a drop of 12 points in Norwegian krone to 25.40 cents were the only changes of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held steady, were slightly firmer around 3.61-1-2 cents.

STOCKS GAIN GROUND, NEAR RECORD HIGH

Trading Professional; Steel, Sugars Railroads and Industrials Prosper This Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Despite occasional bear raids against stocks of companies whose current earnings and prospects are disappointing, both industrial and railroad stocks gained ground this week, the average of 20 leading industrial issues advancing to within less than 2 points of the record high established in September. Bond prices, responding to easier money rates, moved up to record high levels.

Trading in stocks was largely of a professional character, with the public apparently taking little part in the week's proceedings. Powerful pools, apparently well supplied with funds, had little difficulty in marking up their favorites, more than two score issues attaining new peak prices for the year, or longer, during the week. Baldwin touched 159, the highest price ever recorded, and Texas and Pacific Land Trust, which ordinarily change hands in ten share lots, jumped 220 points to a record peak at 1150 on the day.

Despite a further falling off in mill operations, steel shares received a good support. While ordinarily fall off during this season of the year because of the desire of many manufacturers to keep their inventories as low as possible, there was an unusually heavy demand for railroad equipment, although the December car and record breaking crude production tended to dampen bullish enthusiasm for the rails, special buying tok place in a few issues, particularly Phillips and General Asphalt.

Sugars continued to respond to higher commodity prices. Coppers showed little change, motors were lifted, momentum of Chrysler, Studebaker and Mack Truck contrasting with the weakness of several minor automotive issues such as Hayes Wheel, Motor Wheel, Kelsey Wheel, Peerless and Paige Detroit which sank to new low levels.

Strong spots also developed in a number of foods, mercantiles, chemicals, amusements, farm implements, textiles and shippings. New York Canners and the Worthington Pump issues were weak on the omission of dividends. Electric Refrigerator dropped over 10 points below last week's bith but recovered enough to close 2 up.

Rails were kept in check by the announcement of several wage increases to employees, and the delay in bringing forward the revised "Nickel Plate" merger plan. Special strength of Rock Island and Frisco common was in anticipation of an early inauguration of dividends on the former.

Reception Conditions

The warm rain of last evening brought with it an abundance of static which made reception of many stations very noisy. However, it appeared that for the noisy condition of the air, programs were unusually strong.

Several distant stations not regularly heard provided excellent entertainment last evening, among them being KFAB, at Lincoln, Neb.; WOS, Jefferson City, Mo.; WSB, Atlanta, Ga., and KSB, at St. Louis. WLS and WEEH at Chicago, gave an elaborate program for the many visitors in that city for the Army and Navy football game. WLS went on the air at 6 o'clock in the evening and did not sign off until 1 o'clock this morning.

BATH'S ALLEGED STICK-UP MAN IS SENT TO JAIL

BATH, Nov. 27.—Thomas Fitzgerald was convicted on the charge of illegally possessing a revolver and was sentenced yesterday by Police Justice James S. Drake, Jr., to serve 60 days in the county jail. Reuben Robinson of Detroit, who was held as a material witness against Fitzgerald, was discharged from custody. Fitzgerald was arrested last Sunday night when Robinson, his companion advised Anthony T. Mayer, Erie station agent, that Fitzgerald planned to rob the station. Mr. Mayer telephoned the sheriff's office, and Officer J. O'Gorman responded and arrested Fitzgerald. Robinson told the officers that riding from New York to Buffalo on a baggage and freight train Sunday, he met up with Fitzgerald and another stranger, whose name is unknown. Robinson alleges that Fitzgerald suggested that they stop in Bath, commit robbery, and then make a "get away."

They reached Bath late in the afternoon, when the third member of the party, who claimed to be a veteran of the World War, started for the Soldiers Home to secure a meal. He failed to return, so was not further implicated. Fitzgerald looked over the town, ascertained the number and patrols of the police, and then gave the plan to Robinson. This was that upon the arrival of the Erie train from Rochester, that night, they would wait in Chamein street, and hold up prosperous appearing passengers, who left the train. They were then to return and rob the Erie station, and from there proceed to the D. L. & W. station, rob that and then board a passing freight train in flight.

Robinson did not approve of Fitzgerald's plan and watched his opportunity, advised Mr. Mayer shortly before the arrival of the Rochester train. After Fitzgerald's arrest, Frank Redmond, a business man of Avoca, charged Fitzgerald with forgery. Mr. Redmond claims that some weeks ago, Fitzgerald was employed by him, and that Fitzgerald forged and cashed a check for $29 at the Bank of Avoca, and then disappeared. The forgery charge against Fitzgerld will be considered by the January grand jury.

STATE SAFETY CONGRESS MEET IN ROCHESTER

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—(AP)—More than 1,500 persons directly interested in the prevention of industrial accidents will gather in Rochester next week for the tenth New York State Industrial Safety Congress. The sessions will open Tuesday and close Thursday afternoon.

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor of the United States, heads the list of speakers. Others on the program include Professor C. E. A. Winslow of the Department of Public Health, Yale University School of Medicine; James A. Hamilton, state Industrial Commissioner; John Sullivan president of the State Federation of Labor; Maxwell S. Wheeler, president of the Associated Industries of New York State; and Dr. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University.

"The aim of the conference," said Commissioner Hamilton today, "is to show the public what we have been able to do so far in making the worker's job safe and to drive home the fact that although workmen's compensation is a great boon the prevention of accidents would be infinitely better."

Industrial accidents in New York State during the fiscal year ending June 30 last totalled 441,491, with 1821 fatalities. The list is growing annually, officials point out, partly because the assurance of compensation for injured workmen is leading to the prompt reporting of all accidents and also because the steady stream of new mechanical inventions and improvements in machines results in accidents until workers become familiar with the new apparatus or until proper safeguards have been devised to protect the employes.

REV. F. G. BRIGGS LEAVES BORDEN FOR STOCKTON

BORDEN, Nov. 27.—The Rev. Fred G. Briggs, for the past four years, pastor of the Baptist churches at Borden, Freeman and Tuscarora Hill, assumed his duties this week in his new pastorate at Stockton, N. Y. Since being sent to this vicinity the Rev. Briggs has made friendship not only with the members of his own parish, but also outside of his church, and it is with the greatest regret that this community parts with the Rev. Briggs, his wife and daughter. Always alert and active in the performance of his duties as pastor, he has also been a wonderful organizer, the membership of the Borden church having doubled in numbers since he came here. Through his aggressiveness and perseverance, a new church was erected on Tuscarora Hill and the Borden Church has been extensively repaired.

His farewell sermon last Sunday was filled with words of appreciation for his people and expressions of regret that he must leave this community where he had spent nearly four years.

Mrs. Briggs also tendered her resignation as cradle roll superintendent at the Sunday School hour, and her place was filled by Miss Margaret Gabel.

A Rule That Works for Everybody's Benefit

The merchants of Corning and the Police Commision are to be congratulated upon the introduction of the one hour daytime parking rule between Walnut and Cedar streets.

This rule will relieve much of the congestion and permit automobile city and suburban customers to park near the business center.

It is a fair rule, will work hardship upon no one and certainly will bring more business to Market street merchants for nowadays almost every one at least at times shops and markets by auto.

Our Airplane Future

Our aerial development is becoming increasingly important, and it is generally agreed that we ought not fall behind in this important branch of the national defense.

The best way to develop aerial forces is, of course, to encourage commercial aviation.

It is rather significant fact that Germany now leads all the countries of the world in commercial aviation. According to the New York Times, in the last five months German planes flew 2,500,000 miles and carried 25,000 passengers, which was about five times what was accomplished by British aircraft.

The Germans are extending the aerial activities all over eastern Europe and western Asia and are now beginning to penetrate South America. There are twenty-six German companies manufacturing planes and seven more turning out airplane engines.

Under the Treaty of Versailles, Germany was prohibited from turning out war planes. Instead of crippling her in the air, this only served to stimulate production for commercial purposes.

It is encouraging to know that Americans are alive to the situation. Our Department of Commerce and our Postoffice Department are doing everything they can to stimulate the use of airplanes in the United States.

And it has just recently been announced that two aerial express routes are to be established by the American Express Company in conjunction with National Air Transport, Inc. These two routes will extend from New York to Chicago and from Chicago to Dallas, and doubtless will be the forerunners of more routes to follow.

Verging on the Flippant

Of course, if it had been the other way around, and Europe had loaned Uncle Sam money to carry on a war to save himself, Europe would have been more than glad to cancel the debt and then lend us a lot more money.

A whole county ticket of redskins was elected in South Dakota which is much better than electing a ticket of ordinary reds.

A Boston fisherman saw a deer three miles from shore headed straight for the middle of the ocean. The animal must have swallowed a bottle of synthetic gin which had been washed ashore.

Farm Relief and Tax Reduction

BY MARK SULLIVAN

The controversy about farm relief is merging into the controversy about tax reduction, and these two combined will compose the core about which most of the battling in the coming session will revolve. That battling will include the question whether this session shall complete the legislation pending or whether there shall be a special session of the new Congress after March 4.

The situation starts from the existence of a surplus in the Treasury, which present estimates say will be about three hundred million dollars. Of all the points of view about this surplus, the simplest is the one attributed to Secretary Mellon. Mr. Mellon has not uttered this opinion officially, but from his past course it is inferred that his notion of what to do with a surplus is to do nothing about it. By doing nothing about it is meant that Mr. Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury, would use the surplus to pay off that much of the national debt, which is the simplest and most enduring form of tax reduction.

In any event, it is now assured that the surplus will be made the basis of some action about taxation. Mr. Coolidge and those who think with him are disposed cautiously to regard this surplus as merely a temporary one for the current year, and as not being a certain indication that there will be similar surpluses in future years. Consequently President Coolidge's notion is to use the surplus as a rebate of 10 to 12 per cent to the taxpayers who have actually provided the surplus. Mr. Coolidges plan, however, was to give the rebate to income taxpayers only.

It is the first principle of the spirit of a rebate that the money should go back to the identical hands from which it came, and Mr. Coolidge tried to follow that principle as closely as practicable, by having the rebate made during the current year. In fact, however, it is not possible to get the money back to all the identical sources from which it came. Some of the surplus is due to the fact that back taxes for previous years, disputed or unpaid, are being cleaned up rapidly by the Treasury Department. As the most practicable approximate effort to give the money back to those who paid it, the present administration's proposal is that it be given in the shape of credit to the income taxpayers of the coming year.

As against this, the Democrats and some others want to go on the assumption that the surplus of this year is necessarily a forerunner of a continuing surplus in other years. Therefore the Democrats would reduce the surplus the basis of a general reduction and revision of taxation.

In this Democratic project for general rearrangement of the taxes, intricate controversies are raising among the proponents of it. It is pointed out that some of the surplus comes from the payment of tariff duties and that it is logical to reduce the tariff in the same proportion as the proposed reduction of income tax. This point of view alarms those business men who regard their prosperity as dependent on tife tariff. They would much rather continue to pay high income taxes than see a general tax reduction that would lower the tariff. In short the high tariff Republicans are close to the point where, as they see it, a Treasury surplus is not a certain benefit but a potential menace. The name situation arose after the Civil War. When the Civil War debt had been so far paid off that there was a surplus in the Treasury, the high tariff Republicans devised a policy of extremely generous pensions to veterans, in order to forestall the Democrats who wanted to use the surplus as a reason for reducing the tariff.

Another group opposes President Coolidge's policy of a rebate on income taxes alone, because they think the tax on automobiles ought to be reduced or removed. President Coolidge's answer to this is that the federal government spends about seventy-five million dollars a year on good roads, and that the automobile ought to contribute some of this. The real reason why the automobile tax was retained last year was that this is the only form of tax that can be collected from a considerable number of people. The total number of payers of income tax is less than six million; whereas the total number of owners of automobiles is about twenty-one million. The theory that appealed to Congress successfully last year was that anybody able to own an automobile should be able to pay at least a few dollars tax to the federal government.

By some farm leaders the conviction is held with increasing tenacity that the surplus should be used to help the farmer, directly or indirectly in the form of a loan or a subsidy or some other kind of financial aid. This agricultural point of view is resisted on the ground that practically none of the surplus was paid by the farmers. A typical farmer with a wife and several children would have to achieve a net income, after all expenses are pair, of about $5,000 before he is required to pay an income tax. Very few farmers have a net income that large.

Nevertheless the farm leaders insist that some of the surplus comes from the tariff, and insist also that the farmer indirectly pays much of all the taxation, both income and tariff. Practically all the variations of farm relief proposed from the west include as one feature money in large sums to be paid by the federal government to the farming industry. Sometimes it is described as a loan, of which the repayment will be distant and uncertain. Sometimes it is frankly described as a subsidy direct or indirect.

A complete picture of the present situation may say that the tax question is no longer the simple cleavage between President Coolidge's view that there should be a rebate for a single year, and the Democratic view that there should be a general and permanent reduction and revision of taxation rates. On the contrary, the surplus of about three hundred millions has become a melon about which an increasing number of groups are covetous for a share.

Where They Do Such Things and Say Such Things

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Colorful interpretations flash through the programs, both operatic and orchestral, which await music lovers this season. Novelties have been garnered at home and abroad by New York masters, who have arranged an elaborate list of premieres.

American, as well as French, German and Italian composers, have contributed to the array, with many of the compositions coming from the younger talent of this and other countries.

A notable program will be that of the New York Symphony orchestra on "Modern Music, Pleasant and Unpleasant," in which Walter Damrosch will air his views on the works of the new school.

THE AMERICAN opera, "The King's Henchman," by Deems Taylor, and Giacomo Puccini's posthumous opera, "Turandot," are the new works to be presented by the Metropolitan Opera company. "Turandot" will have its premiere November 16 and the American opera in February.

Revivals on the Metropolitan program include Mozart's "The Magic Flute"; Beethoven's "Fidelio"; Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon"; Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," and Montemezzi's "L'Amore Del Tre Re."

ANTI-TRUST LAW GATHERS IN MYSTERY

Ever Changing Economic Laws Increase Doubt As To Various Provisions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Although the Sherman anti-trust law has been interpreted again and again by the Supreme Court of the United States the ever changing factors of competition and large combinations have increased rather than diminished the area of doubt as to what may or may not be done legally.

The Department of Justice is anxiously awaiting the decisions of the highest court of the land on several of the outstanding anti-trust cases some of which have been in the courts since the time George W. Wickersham was attorney general. Main principles on which there is doubt at present are: Does the combination of two companies each of which has valuable patents make it possible for the merged concern to fix prices arbitrarily on the theory that what two companies may not do in competition they may do when merged simply by falling back on the rights of a patented article?

Does the acquisition of stock in a competing concern constitute a monopoly and would the outright purchase of such stock constitute a legitimate method of acquiring the property and business of the same competitor?

Is there objection to the pooling of information on costs by competitors through trade associations without any understanding as to the fixing of the price to the consumer?

These illustrate the ramifications of modern business at a time when expansion both in the domestic and foreign field has driven large competitors into each other's arms to eliminate economic waste. The fact that the government cannot without considerable difficulty protect the public interests against exorbitant prices when once it removes its objection to a large combination of business is the governing cause of the many actions begun by the Department of Justice to prevent combinations "in restraint of trade."

Under the present administration, Col. William Donovan, assistant attorney general, who is in direct charge of anti-trust work, is taking seriously the words "to prevent" combinations in restraint of trade. He considers it the government's duty to act even before a combination or merger has begun its operations on a merged basis. His theory is that it is much more difficult to obtain a dissolution later, and infinitely more expensive to all concerned, including the public, than to enjoin competitors at the outset from following what may easily become a monopolistic practice. It is suggested, too, that this procedure eliminates most of the criminal features of anti-trust prosecutions in that a civil proceeding to prevent is either approved by the courts or disapproved before a criminal act is performed.

The activities of trade associations are being watched with care by the Department, not because they are looked upon as improper factors in the modern development of business for, indeed, their economic value is enthusiastically recognized but because it is feared that wrong interpretation of recent decisions may cause some of these associations to overstep the bounds.

If the associations were merely to exchange data on costs and give each other information which cannot to be construed as price fixing there would be no danger of prosecutions. The difficulty is that in the informal conferences, understandings are reached by the men in control of an industry to keep prices up in defiance of the laws of supply and demand.

Perhaps the most delicate point involved in the big trust cases is that relating to the rights that flow from a patented article. The manufacturer himself has fixed his prices arbitrarily on the idea of all the traffic may bear, especially if he has had an article not easily imitated. There is a temptation when an imitator does come along to merge with the competitor and by virtue of both patents to keep the prices high enough for both to make a considerable profit. Were it not for the patent feature, this would not be permitted under the Sherman anti-trust law governing monopoly. It's a nice point whether the existence of patents in a pool deprives the government of its point of attack on monopolistic grounds. The Department of Justice is inclined to the view that protection of the public requires that at no point in the evolution of business should the growth of monopoly be permitted to the detriment of the consumer but the courts will, of course, have the final word as to how far the rights of a patented article can carry.

WOMAN CONQUERS FEARS

Husband Delighted and Home Happier

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lerberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women but knew how to keep their health and strength for the most thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me. One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lerberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!"

MORE EVIDENCE AGAINST COPP

Modern Priscilla Publishing Company Informs Chief of Man's Activity

Activities of Stanley Copp, who this week was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory following disclosures made concerning his alleged representation of a magazine agency, have been under investigation for some time according to information received this afternoon by the local police.

An official of the Modern Priscilla Publishing Company of Buffalo telephoned to Chief Eckess that he had additional evidence against the man if it was needed. The representative of the publishing company was not aware that Copp had already been sentenced. According to this man, the publishing company has received many complaints in the past from people in various sections of the state who had paid money for magazine subscriptions and had never received the periodical.

Copp in these activities in this section claimed to be an agent of the Priscilla Publishing Company of Rochester and the police learned that there was not such a company in existence. The official of the Buffalo concern informed Chief Eckess that he had learned of Copp's arrest here through a news item appearing in a Jamestown newspaper.

SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS IS LAUNCHED; APPEAL FOR SUPPORT

Mrs. John W. Shea Chairman of Committee in Charge; Accomplishments of Organization Lauded

The Christmas Seal Sale was launched today when 2,500 people found letters containing the seals and asking that they be purchased or returned.

Mrs. James W. Shea is chairman of the committee in charge, the Committee on Tuberculosis and public health. The first sheet of the Christmas seals was awarded Kenneth Norton at Corning Rotary Tuesday. The final purchase price of this sheet was $17.82.

Mrs. Shea said there are three very important pieces of work which depend upon this sale of Christmas Seals for funds. These are: First, the upkeep of the Higman Hill Health Camp property, keeping it in repair and making needed improvements from time to time. At least $500 will be needed for this purpose alone. The work of the Health Camp is so well known in Corning, it hardly seems necessary to state again that it is for the benefit of underweight children of Corning.

The second piece of work, is the supplying of milk daily to underweight school children in the schools on the recommendations of the school nurses. We feel that this is a very important piece of work in the prevention of tuberculosis as a weak child is much more susceptible to the disease and certainly cannot do well in school," stated Mrs. Shea.

The third work which this committee has undertaken reaches into every home in Corning where there are children in the school grades. This is the work of the Dental Hygienist, who examines the children's teeth, charts them and makes recommendations that the family dentist be visited where her examination show this need. She also cleans the teeth of those needing that prophylactic treatment. As a result of her work hundreds of children have been stimulated to keep their teeth clean, and to have needed dental work done. This work is very important, as sound teeth and a healthy mouth play a most important part in preventing the development of tuberculosis, and in preserving health generally, according to those in charge.

Mrs. Shea said, "We believe in these forms of health work very much, and will continue them if the proceeds of the Christmas Seal Sale will permit us to do it. This work is not covered by the Community Chest so for this reason we must depend upon Seals for the money to carry on. Buying Seals is one way expressing approval of these forms of health work." Mrs. Shea also added that school children are not permitted to sell seals. They will be on sale at book stores and drug stores or may be had from the Social Service Society office.

COAL THIEVES PAY $7 FINES

Both Erie and Central Police Apprehend Two Men; One Caught In Act

Railroad police in this city have started a war against raids made on coal trains by residents of this section and as a result two arrests were made yesterday on charges of stealing coal.

Wilbur Gleason, of South Corning, was arrested Friday by Erie Officer M. J. Cannon for stealing coal from an Erie train near Hope Cemetery. When arraigned before Justice of the Peace L. W. Welliver he pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

Louie Darcangelo, of 64 East William street, was arrested by Detective Stivers of the New York Central railroad for stealing coal from a New York Central train. The man was caught in the act and when the officer visited the man's home he found about 1,500 pounds which Darcangelo admitted of having stolen. The defendant was arraigned in City Court this morning and when he admitted the theft was fined $7.

3 ARRESTED ON BRIDGE

Detectives Pick Up Men Walking on Bridge; Safety First Campaign

Following a safety first meeting held by employes of the New York Central railroad here yesterday and which was attended by railroad police, three arrests were made late in the afternoon on charges of trespassing on railroad property. Three men were found walking across the railroad bridge and when they pleaded guilty this morning each was fined $2. The defendants were Joseph Stupko of 372 Baker street, George M. Bruck, of 176 Baker street and Basil M. Willsey, of 106 Arthur street.

Several serious accidents have occurred on this bridge in the past several years and some of the accidents have resulted fatally. The railroad has posted large signs prohibiting trespassing on the bridge because of the dangerous practice. The arrests yesterday were made in the interest of safety for all.

UNAWARE OF MILLS AFFAIR —MRS. HALL

COURT HOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Wanoca Stevens Hall went to the witness stand in her own behalf in the Hall-Mills trial today to say that at the time her husband was slain she believed him faithful to his marriage vows.

Mrs. Hall said that the Rev. Edward W. Hall was a devoted husband. She declared that she never heard of letters read in court from her husband to Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, killed with him, nor those of Mrs. Mills to Mr. Hall. She did not know, she said, that her husband kept a diary. The diary, in evidence in the trial, was filled with affectionate expressions directed to Mrs. Mills.

A prompt negative was her answer to a question whether she knew of a clandestine correspondence between the rector and choir singer.

"In whose car did you ride that night?"

"I rode with my cousin Mr. Bearman."

The state through a sister of Mrs. Mills had introduced testimony to the effect that Mrs. Hall was provoked with her husband for taking Mrs. Mills and her sister in his car on the trip to the Bound Brook home to hold services.

"Have you any recollection of attending a Hallowe'en party at your husband's church which was a masquerade affair?"

"I don't recollect doing so."

A sister of Mrs. Mills, testifying for the state had said she attended da Hallowe'en party at which the Rev. Hall danced most of the evening with Mrs. Mills and that Mrs. Hall showed signs of jealousy.

"Do you recall that in February, 1922, Mrs. Mills was ill?"

"I do," answered Mrs. Hall, her voice showing a trace of tremor as she testified concerning the "other woman."

"Who took her to the hospital?"

"I did."

"In your car?"

"Yes."

"Did you visit her in the hospital?"

"Yes."

"How often?"

"Several times."

"How did she get home after leaving the hospital?"

"I took her home in my car."

"Did you help pay her hospital bill?"

"Idid."

The defense was pressing the point that Mrs. Hall never suspected that her husband was engaged in a love affair with Mrs. Mills. The state has contended that her knowledge of that affair provided the motive for the double slaying.

"Do you remember, on arriving at Mrs. Mills' home, after she'd returned from the hospital, that she made any remarks in Charlotte's presence?" asked McCarter, referring to the daughter of Mrs. Mills.

Alexander Simpson, special state prosecutor, objected, and McCarter said, "We intend to show there was a friendly relation between these people as late as February 1922."

The court overruled the question.

"Do you recall that your husband in the summer of 1922 attended any camps in the southern part of the state?"

"Yes, at Point Pleasant," replied Mrs. Hall.

"Did you go down to the camp?"

"Not to stay, I drove down with some friends for a visit."

The state has contended that the conduct of the Rev. Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills at one of the camps for girls, caused gossip, and that this gossip must have reached the ears of Mrs. Hall.

Mrs. Hall next was asked about the vacation which she and her husband spent in Isleford, Maine, in the summer of 1922. She said they left New Brunswick near the end of July. Earlier testimony showed that the vacation lasted until near the end of September.

"What was the life of your husband and yourself at Isleford?" asked McCarter.

"We spent much of our time walking over the mountains."

"Did you notice any change in the demeanor or conduct of your husband toward you?"

"None whatever."

"He was attentive to you?"

"Yes."

THEFT OF CAR IS REPORTED

Accessories Also Continues as Police Make Efforts To Apprehend Thieves

For the past several weeks many reports have been made to the police of the theft of automobile accessories and last night an automobile was stolen from where it had been parked on East Market street. Albert Olson, of 199 Decatur street, reported at 10:45 o'clock that his Chrysler four-door sedan had been stolen. The car is blue in color and bore license number 17-70-98. Surrounding towns and cities were notified of the theft.

Joseph Cocche, of 14 Steuben street, reported last evening that some one had slashed one of the tires on his car with a knife. He said that this same occurrence happened about six weeks ago.

An extensive investigation has been under way by the police for some time in an effort to stop the wholesale thefts of automobile accessories in the city, but as yet they have been unable to stop it. Officers in plain clothes have been stationed at various sections of the city where most of the thefts have occurred but while the officers were in one place the thefts would occur in another section.

DENY RESPONSIBILITY IN THEFTS AT DANCE

The officers of the Women of Mooseheart Legion have denied any responsibility for the theft of several articles of wearing apparel and money from the cloak room of the Odd Fellows' Temple last Monday night. The theft occurred while a dance, sponsored by the women of the local lodge was in progress.

One of the members stated to a reporter this morning, that as the lodge did not conduct a checking service, it could not assume responsibility for the theft.

ASLEEP For Twenty Years

For twenty years while Rip Van Winkle slept, he was blissfully unconscious of the many changes that were going on at home. Old friends died, children grew up, new persons were in control of the times and with them new customs were brought about.

The man who feels that he does not need insurance "because he has gone on for years without it" can be likened to Rip. New hazzards have arisen that were not in existence years ago. More dangers and chances for losses prevail. And with them new insurance policies have been devised to meet the new conditions. Are you aware of the newest in insurance policies? Consult your agent now.

The last twenty years—just as the three quarters of a century this agency has been in existence—has not been "sleeping years" for us. Yearly we have kept abreast of the times. Your Sunday School Lesson

GIDEON AND THE THREE HUNDRED

Lesson Text—Judges 7:1-25

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1926

Copyright 1926 By The Evening Leader.

GOLDEN TEXT—Be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Gideon and His Brave Band.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Brave Leader.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Gideon and the Three Hundred.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Working Together With God.

Because of Israel's sin, God permitted them to be brought under the cruel yoke of bondage at the hands of the Midianites. So severe was this affliction that they hid in dens, caves and strongholds. (Judg. 6:2). In their distress they cried unto the Lord and He sent deliverance to them through the judgeship of Gideon. The angel of the Lord appeared to him while he the post of duty. Gideon hesitated. His hesitancy was not due to unbelief but to prudence and cautiousness. He came from an obscure and uninfluential family. (Judg. 6:15). Before going forward in this enterprise he wished to be doubly sure that God had called him (Judg. 6:36-40). The tangible evidence was furnished by means of the fleece. Gideon began his reformatory work at once (Judg. 6:25-27). He was that of a barley cake tumbling into camp and smiting it. He also heard the interpretation given to that dream which made Gideon to be that cake. This greatly cheered his heart and strengthened him for his work and caused him to break forth in praise to God. The battle cry was a very insignificant thing—a very cheap affair in itself, but with the hand of God upon it it would be sufficient to spread consternation among the Midianites and bring destruction upon their armies. No matter how unlikely or unpromising a man may be, if God is with him he shall not fail.

I. God Gives Victory to Gideon (vv. 16-23).

His attack was unique. The whole matter was of faith (Heb. 11:32). The ground of his faith was God's Word and the token which He had given him. Gideon with his 300 men formed into three companies, each man being provided with a lamp concealed in a pitcher. Thus armed they surrounded the camp of the Midianites. They were all instructed to keep their eyes upon their Leader, Christ, and to ever do as He did. At the proper moment they blew their trumpets and broke their pitchers, giving opportunity for their lights to shine out. The cry, "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon" threw the Midianites into a panic, causing them to fight among themselves. Meanwhile 10,000 were thus slain, leaving but 120,000 of that mighty army (Judg. 8:10), in making the application to ourselves in this age, we can think of the sound of the trumpets as the gospel message which is called of God; the torches as the light of the Gospel; the pitchers our human nature, the whole as this treasure in earthen vessels.

II. God Gives Encouragement (vv. 9-15).

God commanded Gideon to go down to the Midianite camp where he would hear something that would cheer his heart and strengthen his hands. God always comes to cheer us when our hearts are faint. When he came near he heard a man tell a dream which he was that of a barley cake tumbling into camp and smiting it. He also heard the interpretation given to that dream which made Gideon to be that cake. This greatly cheered his heart and strengthened him for his work and caused him to break forth in praise to God. The battle cry was a very insignificant thing—a very cheap affair in itself, but with the hand of God upon it it would be sufficient to spread consternation among the Midianites and bring destruction upon their armies. No matter how unlikely or unpromising a man may be, if God is with him he shall not fail.

III. The Opposing Armies (v. 1).

Gideon and his army were early on the eventful day of his victory and encamped by the spring of Harod. Over against them was the host of the Midianites in battle array. Gideon's army was quite insignificant in comparison with the Midianites.

II. The Sifting of Gideon's Army (vv. 2-8).

At Gideon's call, 32,000 men responded ready for the struggle. This seemed a small army to go against the Midianite army—135,000 strong, but God said even this was too many, lest they be led to boasting and self-confidence. Their real danger was not in their small army but in their pride. All that were faint-hearted were allowed to go back. Only 10,000 of the 32,000 remained. There were 22,000 cowards in that group of men and worst of all, these were encouraged to cowardice it. Still, this was too many. Whom God was through with His sifting process only 300 remained. The 10,000 were brave men, but not of proper quality and fitness. Those who lapped the water showed alertness and watchfulness.

III. God Gives Encouragement (vv. 9-15).

God commanded Gideon to go down to the Midianite camp where he would hear something that would cheer his heart and strengthen his hands. God always comes to cheer us when our hearts are faint. When he came near he heard a man tell a dream which was that of a barley cake tumbling into camp and smiting it. EPISCOPALIANS PLAN CANVASS

One hundred eminent Episcopalians—bishops, priests and laymen —will undertake a nation-wide campaign on the lines of a quadrennial political canvass, beginning early in January.

Unionein American religious movements, this "Bishops' Crusade" so-called will penetrate each of the eighty-five dioceses in Continental United States during the six weeks' Epiphany season beginning the first of the year. Plans for the crusade were announced recently from the Episcopal National Council in New York.

Every party in the Church—Anglo-Catholic, Broad, Modernist and Evangelical—is represented in the crusade. The campaign is not a revival, according to the announcement, nor is it identified with any denominational or proselytizing enterprise.

"It will be," reads the announcement, "in large measure a stock-taking of the spiritual resources of the Church, a counting of heads and hearts, to find out all those who call themselves Episcopalians to a reassertion of their beliefs, and a call to them to demonstrate practically by their acts and works the faith that is in them."

On November 30, St. Andrew's Day, the crusade will begin. Prayer is to be inaugurated by a service in the National Cathedral in Washington. On that day also every Episcopal Church in the country will be open from dawn to dusk for services and prayers for the crusade. Special intercessors for the crusade is at the National Cathedral.

Early in January the crusaders, under the direction of Bishop Thomas C. Darst, of East Carolina, will be stationed in two's and three's. In strategic centers about the country, ready to undertake their missions in mass meetings, services and conferences. Social, international and industrial, respect for law and problems of marriage and youth are to be stressed.

Religious Ideas and Beliefs to be Checked by America's Churches Through the Press

American churches are to use daily newspapers to find out how many people in this country believe in God according to an Associated Press dispatch from New York. The question "Do you believe in God?" and eleven others will make up a questionnaire to be sent to newspapers and churches all over the country by the church advertising department of the International Advertising Association early in December, it was announced today.

The questionnaire will ask these other questions:

"Do you believe in immortality?

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God?

"Do you believe that Jesus was divine as no other man was divine?

"Do you regard the Bible as inspired in a sense that no other literature could be said to be inspired?

"Are you an active member of any church?

"Do you regularly attend any religious services?

"Would you be willing to have your family grow up in a community in which there is no church?

"Do you regularly have family worship in your home?

"Were you brought up in a religious home?

"Do you send your children to any school of religious instruction?

"Do you think religion in some form is a necessary element of life for individual and the community?"

Newspapers are to be asked to print these questions daily and publish daily totals of the religious poll. Names of those answering will not be published.

Miss Irene Steinle, publicity councellor for the church advertising department, today said the facts and figures "will be good." No doubt, be startling to large numbers of church leaders whose opinions concerning the state of mind on religion have been based upon a comparatively limited personal acquaintance, mainly with those attending their churches."

Prominent ministers all over America are connected with the campaign.

PRESBYTERIAN DRIVE IS ON

Laymen of Steuben Will Be In Competition With 34 Presbyteries

Laymen of Steuben Presbytery, in their campaign to raise $28,000, as their share of the Service Pension Fund, December 5 to 12, will be in competition with thirty-four Presbyteries in New York, New Jersey, and New England in the race to meet quotas, according to word received here yesterday. The twenty-four Presbyteries in the New York Synod, the seven in New Jersey, and three in the New England Synod are carrying on simultaneous drives in the early part of December.

The Presbyterian Church in the United States is engaged in the task of raising $15,000,000 as a Service Pension Fund, to place on a sound basis the new service pension plan worked out to provide adequate pensions for aged and infirm ministers and missionaries and their dependents.

According to word received yesterday from William O. Thompson, moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the country-wide campaign of the Church is being watched with the keenest interest by other denominations. In an address delivered at Harrisburg, Dr. Thompson said:

"The Presbyterian Church is engaged in a campaign to put into operation a thoroughly sound proposal based upon the conclusion of competent actuarial authorities. The fact that the Church is a voluntary organization in which the authority and force such as the state has cannot be used, makes it necessary for us to appeal to the grateful and generous minds in the Church to provide willingly for the fund necessary for this great plan.

"It is also worthy of note in passing that other denominations are observing with great interest what we are attempting to do and the way in which we are proceeding. The subject is of absorbing interest to all the churches of Protestantism. The fact that the supply of ministers is not developing as rapidly as the demand in the churches suggests that a better provision for the old age of the ministry is an imperative duty, if we are to preserve the efficiency of our service.

"The wealth entrusted to the members of the Presbyterian Church is large enough to warrant a free answer. That we are able to do this thing, if the call can be sounded so that all may hear, is the name of the most honorable, the service most worthy known to our generation. I appeal to the Church to come forward and meet its obligations long overdue to the ambassadors of the King."

CHURCH DINNER A BIG SUCCESS

The North Baptist Church served its annual Thanksgiving dinner in the church dinning room last evening to the number of 200 congregation and their friends. The church has for several years served a free dinner on Thanksgiving Day taking up a free will offering. However, last evening the much more convenient Thanksgiving dinner the church has even given, over 200 people were present, and the offering amounted to $100.

After dinner a program was given which consisted of selections by the church orchestra, reading by Miss Marion Kniffin, Duet, Mrs. Charles Potter and Mrs. Clyde Van Etten, reading Miss Ethel Dreimer; Piano Solo, Miss Velma Jones; Whistling solo, Ralph Ketchum and reading by Harry Lent Chairman of the various committees were kitchen: Clarence Peer; dining room, Mrs. Ethel La Barron and Mrs. Leon W. Taylor; entertainment, Mrs. Charles Potter; soliciting, Mrs. Guy Smith and Mrs. Fred Stevens; reception committee was composed of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dorland and Miss Josephine Colt.

GENEVA PROFESSIONALS WILL PLAY ALL-HIGH GRID MEN HERE SUNDAY

INVADING TEAM IS COMPOSED OF FORMER COLLEGE PLAYERS

The All-High grid men will probably wind up their season at Pyrex Park Sunday when they tackle the Glenwoods of Geneva a team ranking with the Greyhounds and other Pro teams of Rochester and Buffalo. Geneva is one of the biggest football cities in the state and in the High School and the College they put out many fast teams.

Every year the High School has a snappy eleven and usually carries off the Central New York honors. Hobart usually has a strong team also and the Glenwoods are made up of former college and high school stars. Nothing as yet has been heard of the line up of the visitors but it is sure they will have a number of men from the college while the rest of the team will be composed of former High School stars.

Most of the members of the All-High backfield are getting a little of their wind back after the track meet with Dansville Red Jackets last Sunday and if any of the linemen were hit by Reotemwald they are probably nursing a few bumps for he was quite a large fellow with plenty of speed. In the game last Sunday it was noticed that the lightest All-High man put him down the prettiest. "Mike" Hicks, on end for the Orange team tackled the big fellow as it he outweighed the latter man 20 or 30 pounds. "Mike" is one of the best men on the squad and in the future he will probably have a regular berth owing to the good work he has been doing this year.

If the weather permits the All-High management will book games with some of the fastest teams in Pennsylvania besides some of the outfits from the upper yard of this state. Many of the Corning fans thinks the All-High aggregation has booked "set up" games in the past because it has defeated teams with ease. They have booked games with the same calibre that they played last year but this season the local outfit has improved so much that these teams are easily defeated. Take for instance the Dansville Red Jackets; last year they held the All-High to a tie game and the local management, thinking that it would be a close game this year, booked them to play here. During the past year the All-High men improved enough to beat the Red Jackets by 53 points. Next year the locals will be out for the championship of the state.

The SPOTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

The Army-Navy Game.

Those who esteem guessing contests highly can take this Army and Navy puzzle and work it out, man for man. The answer may not mean anything after the final score is in, but the puzzle itself will provide all the elements of competition.

As a starter, it is doubtful if any one game this year has drawn as many star football players as Army and Navy will put upon Chicago turf. Along the forward rail Wickhorst, Eddy, Sprague, Charles Born, Lloyd, Hardwick, Daley and Schmidt all stand on a par with the best. From the two backfields Wilson, Murrell, Cagle, Harding, Hamilton, Shapley and Caldwell are about as neat a bundle of backfield flesh as one would care to peer at. There are fifteen or sixteen stars on these two teams, and that lifts the double cast high above the average.

Doping Them Out.

How do they figure out? At the end two ends, Lloyd and Hardwick, have a slight shade on Born and Hardwick has a step on Harbold.

At tackles Wickhorst and Eddy together outrank Sprague and Hunters, although Sprague is one of the best tackles in the game.

In the center of the line the Army has the winning advantage with Daley at center, flanked by Schmidt and Hammack, two fine guards. Daley and Schmidt stand above the mass.

The Navy then is stronger at the two flanks and the Army is stronger in the middle group.

That leaves the line almost at a tand-off with the Navy slightly in the lead, holding such advantage as may exist.

Both lines compare with the best in football from flank to flank. They are fast, powerful and aggressive. They will make ground gaining a matter of inches and feet a large part of the afternoon so far as any straight plunging is concerned.

Army and Navy Stars.

The Army and Navy will bring together more individual stars than any service teams together ever sent to battle.

Born, Lloyd and Hardwick are among the best ends in the game.

Wilson, Murrell, Trapnell, Cagle, Shapley, Caldwell and Hamilton are among the best backs.

Wickhorst, Eddy and Sprague are three of the greatest tackles playing football. Schmidt is one of the best guards and Daley one of the best centers. There are at least fifteen high ranking football players on the two teams, without any visible weak spots anywhere in the thick of the scrimmage. There have been great football players on the service teams before, but not as many in one game.

The Two Backfields.

The Army has two backfield stars in Wilson and Murrell, but they are not any better than Hamilton and Shapley.

Hamilton is one of the best of the all-around performers and so is Shapley. They can do anything you might ask a star back to do, and Hamilton is one of those types who is at his best when the danger is greatest. He manages to be at the right spot at the right moment. He isn't the fastest back in the world, but there is no one who can sense an opposing play any quicker.

The Army has a trifle more power in its backfield push than the Navy has. But the army hasn't quite as much speed nor quite as much all-around deftness. Caldwell is as fast as a streak and a hard man to stop. Ransford, Hannegan and Goudge are good.

Yet when you begin rating Wilson, Murrell, Cagle, Harding, Trapnell and Dehl you get a combination that can't be topped. Trapnell is probably the fastest back on either team.

As a man to man proposition there isn't enough margin either way in the two backfield casts to mean anything.

Defensive Strength.

Outside of one perfectly executed play Notre Dame could make no great headway through the Army defense. And Notre Dame has an attack that means something.

Michigan could make no headway against the Navy and Michigan's attack is nothing to stop with feathers.

The defensive strength of both teams is out of the ordinary, and unless there is considerable craft and foxing the amount of ground gained won't be extensive.

It will take a double armful of deception to keep that ball traveling more than a few feet at a time.

The Navy had more deception against Michigan than the Army had against Notre Dame. Then again, Notre Dame might be harder to deceive.

The Two Schedules.

In the way of schedules the Navy has done a harder job. The Navy first beat Purdue, a good Conference team. Then the Navy beat Princeton.

A week later the Navy barely scrambled through against Colgate, but the Navy got there, and then the midshipmen beat Michigan.

Purdue, Princeton, Colgate, Michigan and Georgetown are about all you can ask any one team to meet and beat, and Loyola was no pink tea party.

The Army's toughest game was against Notre Dame, where the Army played great football in defeat. Its next toughest game was against Syracuse when Syracuse was at its best with Whippet Carr on hand. And that was a close call. Yale had little resistance to offer on hand and the game was a merry-go-round. So in all, the Navy's record has been more impressive. More impressive so far than the record of any team this season.

The Final Score

If there is any edge it should be slightly, with the Navy, but when two teams are as well matched as this pair are one or two sudden breaks of the game can throw the decision either way. It is an even money proposition, and even as any two teams have been all year. You might dope it further 'until you were pop-eyed without getting closer to the answer.

The Ranking Problem.

There are many futile episodes in this sporting life, but one of the leading futilities is attempting to rank any one of football teams or award a championship where there are several unbeaten elements and where almost none play the same brand of schedule.

If at the end of the season Notre Dame, Brown, Lafayette, Boston College, Navy, Alabama and others are all unbeaten, or any two are unbeaten, the argument can go on, and it will mean less than nothing. Which is all that most arguments mean, anyway.

The three teams which seem to have played the hardest schedules are Notre Dame, Navy and Michigan.

Michigan had six tough games in a row. The Navy had Purdee, Princeton, Colgate, Michigan, Georgetown and Army, six hard opponents, with only one intermission. Notre Dame's schedule included Minnesota, Northwestern, Penn State, Army, Carnegie Tech and Southern California as the testing games.

But there are no schedules that can win championships for any one, in so far as championships mean anything.

Who Can Say?

Officials and others who have seen Ray Morrison's Southwestern Methodist team at Dallas play football rate a big back named Cartemegelia as the finest football player they have looked on this fall.

This team played Missouri to a tie and won every other game, so it has more than average class. Cartemegelia is a 200-pounder, reported to be extremely fast and a fine passer, kicker and the rest of it. He is rated by officials who have worked in the East as another George Owen, only more, bigger and faster.

PLENTY OF GIRLS AT THE ARMY-NAVY BALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—There were 500 more girls than men at the dinner dance for Annapolis men and Army cadets last night, but nobody guessed it after the first dance.

Every braided sleeve was willingly offered to one, two or even three of the gay throngs of coeds, debs and telephone girls, and what started as a frankly "sticky" party turned into a frolic.

Navy cheers took good natured digs at the Army, and the West Pointers responded with their "slum and gravy" song. Vice-President Dawes waved a welcome, followed by the heads of the two academies, and a good time was had by all.

From the ballroom the guests tavied to downtown theatres, just in time to see themselves back in the ballroom. A film company developed pictures of the dance and had them on the screens when the city's guests trooped in.

"BUD" HEATH, CORNING BOY, IS AWARDED HIS "M" AT MICHIGAN

W. Harold "Bud" Heath, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Heath of 113 East Erie avenue, former Corning Free Academy football star and captain of the eleven has been awarded his "M" as one of the 25 members of the championship team of Michigan. This is the highest award that any athlete at the university can receive.

"Bud" was one of the three men who received their letter as a token of especially meritorious service to the varsity for three years as reserve material during which time they had been awarded their numerals.

The Corning boy who starred as an Academy grid warrior was a candidate for the fullback position during his first years at college but he was shifted from place to place until at the beginning of this season he landed in a regular berth at tackle. Just before the opening game, "Bud" suffered the hard luck of having his arm injured and although it was not considered serious at the time, it was later necessary to operate and place it in a cast where it will be for six more months.

Mr. Heath is a member of the senior class and is expected to graduate in June.

ALUMNI TRIMS POST QUINTET

"Rabbit-Footed" Five Is Downed 25-20 by "Old-Grads in Spectacular Tilt

The varsity basketball team of the Painted Post High School bowed in defeat Wednesday evening before the onslaught of the Alumni team composed almost solely of the players that represented Painted Post and New York State in the national tournament at Chicago in 1924. The regular aggregation staged a rally in the last quarter that netted 12 points while the "old grads" were sinking in but two but the lead of the Alumni could not be overcome and the final whistle left the members of the "Rabbit-footed" quintet five points in the rear with the score standing at 25-20.

"Bob" Lambert, former high school center who is a sophomore at Syracuse and is expected to make the varsity this season, was at his old position for the alumni while Scutt, Carey, Wasson, Pope, Beebe and Randall, who also were members of the famous team were at their old positions. "Art" Scott was unable to be present.

Jimmerson, Capt. Bradley, Payne, Stage, Adsit, Allen VanWie and Dennis are members of the varsity team.

EAGLES BOW TO ADDISON

Corning Aggregation Is Smothered 28-5 by Coach O'Brien's High School Quint

For the first time in history the Corning Eagles were defeated in their opener. Playing against a faster, taller and better organized quint they were smothered under by the score of 28-5 by the Addison High School last night at Addison. During the first quarter they held the High School team evenly but after that they were left behind by the swift playing of the home team. The Eagles must be given much credit for the showing they made against Coach O'Brien's outfit for they held the High School to the lowest score of any team so far this season. If their offensive work was on a par with their defensive they might have beaten Addison. They were slow on getting away and the Addison defensive formed quickly to stop all tries for the basket.

The Eagles scored only one basket during the fray while three fouls made up their total. Cross, the star player of the Eagles, made the only basket of the game. For Addison the Grange brothers and "Tuffy" Hewson did most of the destruction the former scoring six baskets between them while Hewson dropped in four double deckers during the last half after having been held scoreless in the first period. Kerins also had two points to his credit. The score:

ARMY AND NAVY ELEVENS CLASH TODAY IN ANNUAL BATTLE AT CHICAGO

110,000 GRID FANS WITNESS SERVICE BATTLE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Rich as is the Army-Navy football fray in color and tradition, it reached the climax as a spectacle today with the greatest crowd in gridiron history, close to 110,000, marshalled from all parts of the country, to fill the expanse of the newly dedicated Soldiers Field.

Thousands came from far and near to see and be a part of the brilliant, if decidedly chilly setting; other thousands came not alone for the spectacular elements of the game's first mid-western battleground but to watch a battle between two of the most formidable elevens in the country. Neither viewpoint, providing it was well protected against the chilling blasts from Lake Michigan, seemed likely to be disappointed.

Few sporting events have attracted as notable a throng as this, and only one, the Dempsey-Tunney fight of last September in Philadelphia, has been the magnet for a greater outpouring of fans from all walks of life. They came by thousands from the East, where the twenty eight previous service tilts have been fought, and in large numbers from the South and far West to make the occasion as nationally representative as it is nationally interesting.

Dyed in the wool football fans who haven't missed a football fans classic in years mingled with such conspicuous personages as Vice-President Dawes, Secretaries Davis and Wilbur, Speaker Longworth, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, Mayor Walker of New York and high officials of both branches of the service.

The game itself gave every promise of supplying the thrills eagerly sought for by this great outpouring of spectators. Seldom have the rival academies sent such well drilled and well matched elevens into battle and never before has any more significance been attached to the outcome.

Expert opinion, which largely had favored the chances of the Army, showed an overnight drift in sentiment toward the prospects of a Navy victory for the first time since 1921. It didn't require much of a drift to figure the outcome as a tossup for wagering on the game at no time put the odds on the Cadets at more than 7 to 5.

The Army-Navy football game has been called "The Greatest Show on Earth." This year it should be greater than ever, with two teams that are stronger than usual fighting it out for the service championship in Chicago's beautiful $5,000,000 Stadium. That municipal coliseum, with its graceful columns of white stone will form a splendid and appropriate background for the game between the future admirals and future generals. Football had its origin in Ancient Greece, and today the biggest game of the year is to be played in a beautiful outdoor arena, whose top is crowned with splendid rows of Doric columns. The sight of the cadets and middies parading on the field before the game should be better than ever this year because of the interesting architectural background.

Let's hope it doesn't rain and spoil it all. This is the one game in the country that at least some one out of almost every family is interested in. This battle for gridiron supremacy between the lads who fight on land and the lads who fight on the sea probably attracts more nation-wide interest than any other sporting event, except a heavyweight championship or a Wills-Lenglen match. What about the World Series, you may ask? A majority of the women of America don't even know who is playing in the world series, and wouldn't go if they could, but the Army-Navy game—ah, just offer them tickets!

This fight between the Army and the Navy may very well be decided in the air, which brings up the question whether, if the Air Service is some day made into a separate department, there will be a military "Big Three," with annual football games between the Army, Navy, and Aviation?

Both of the service teams this year have new coaches. The results of the preliminary games seem to show that Coach "Bill" Ingram and Coach "Biff" Jones are pretty darn good coaches. This should be a most interesting game between the pupils of "Biff and Bill," admirals, generals, governors. The Army Mule and the Navy Goat will afford the usual side-shows to the main event.

MORE WAR IN CHICAGO — BY FEG MURRAY

TWELVE TEAMS CLASH TODAY AS CURTAIN IS RUNG DOWN ON FOOTBALL IN THE EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Eastern football found the end of the sport trail today with half a dozen contests.

The struggle at Pittsburgh of Knute Rockne's Hoosiers from Notre Dame, and Carnegie Tech, a powerful eleven that has come with a menacing rush in the closing weeks of the campaign, offered a contest of national significance. The Skibos, whipped twice in early games, smashed the powerful Pittsburgh and West Virginia machines in their latest starts while Notre Dame has swept aside at least one representative of every section of the country but the far West in gaining a grip on the national championship.

New England witnesses the final college fracas of the season in the annual struggle of the bitter Jesuit rivals, Holy Cross and Boston College. The Worcester eleven meeting the Boston moleskin artists of Coach Frank Cavanaugh for the last time under his leadership, is conceded a chance to stage the final startling upset of a season that has seen favorites battered repeatedly. Boston College has but a single tie to smirch a proud record while Holy Cross bowed to Boston University after an early winning streak.

Out in the middle West, Georgetown's mighty eleven rings down the curtain on a successful season in an intersectional match with Detroit. West Virginia ends a long campaign in an all state battle with Davis Elkins at Clarksburg and Bucknell hangs up the moleskins for the year after combat with Dickinson.

While the East watches its own final games, the minds of fandom will be far away in Chicago, Colgate's tie with Brown, Thursday, dropped the eleven iron men from a challenging position in the regional race. The Middies whipped Colgate earlier in the season, and by trouncing Army today can jump not only to the eastern forefront, but can put forth a claim to national supremacy challenged only by Notre Dame, a claim that cannot be settled until Navy meets the Hoosier warriors next season.

The defeat of Army by Notre Dame left the Cadets with only regional honors as reward for victory today. Lafayette, only other undefeated and untied team in the East, did not face the rugged opposition that confronted the service elevens.

"C" HARRISON MAKES RENSSELAER VARSITY

Cecil Harrison, a sophomore at Rensselaer, is spending the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Harrison of West Pulteney street.

Mr. Harrison, who was a prominent athlete while attending Northside High School of which he is a graduate, is one of the eight players selected for the college varsity basketball team.

Mr. Harrison won his numerals in both basketball and baseball last year and received the added honor of being selected manager of the Frosh court aggregation.

"C" was one of the outstanding stars of both the N. H. S. quintet and diamond outfit while in school and held a captainey in both sports. He is planning to try for the varsity baseball team in the spring.

BUFFALO MAY ABOLISH HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

BUFFALO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Football would be abolished as a sport at all public high schools in Buffalo under the terms of a resolution placed before the Buffalo School Board by Henry Jerge, a member of the board.

Former Mayor Louis Fuhrman of the board set Tuesday as the date of a hearing on the resolution. He asked every one interested in the subject to be present.

Jerge's resolution called attention to the death of Harry Finnegan, a student of the South Park High School, who was fatally injured in a football game between South Park and Canisius High last Friday.

RITCHIE FOR STATE RIGHTS

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Democratic creed of state determination offers the "one and only solution" of the prohibition question, Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland told Democrats at a luncheon given by the Iroquois Club today.

Rides on Rubber Drives thru Rubber

"Smoother and quieter than any car I have ever driven"—such is the verdict of owners of the Greater Oakland Six, with Rubber-Silenced Chassis.

A vital reason for its velvety performance is a new and exclusive engineering principle—the Oakland Six engine rides on rubber and drives through rubber.

Rubber engine supports absorb any vibration in the frame due to torque reaction of the engine, while a rubber-silenced drive erases all body rumbles and vibrations from the rear wheels, drive shaft and transmission.

EIGHT MILLION MOTORISTS—40% of all in the United States—used Pyro last winter.

Pyro is as good for a Ford as for a Rolls-Royce. It never clogs cooling systems, eats out metal parts, nor rots hose connections.

You can't buy equal safety cheaper—you can't buy greater safety at any price. The Pyro Proportion Chart shows how much Pyro is needed to give you complete protection at any temperature. Ask the garage man for your copy.

Stop tonight at any garage or filling station. Ask for Pyro and see that it comes from the blue-labeled Pyro drum. Take home a gallon can of Pyro. After the right mixture is put in your car at the garage you need only add a little more Pyro and water from time to time to take care of natural evaporation. It's no more trouble than filling up with water alone.

A Pyro-Meter tells you in an instant whether you have enough Pyro in your radiator. If your garage cannot supply one send us $1.00 and we will mail it promptly. U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., 110 E. 42nd Street, New York

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Tells Assembly of Work In Cairo, Egypt

Many Meekerites Receive Honorable Mention for Work

Four Questions Show Work Done In the New Personality Class

REGISTRATIONS MONDAY

Other News Notes of Interest At "The School Worth While"

ELMIRA, Nov. 27.—A large number of young people recently received their certificates of graduation from the Meeker Business Institute. They are as follows:

Complete Meeker Training: Esther Shapiro, Horseheads; Elsie Merrill, Elmira Heights.

Secretarial: Clara Fanning, Alma, Pa.

Stenographic and Office Training: Betty Pasmore, Blossburg, Pa.; Grace Schmidt, Elmira; Ruth Helen Lacey, Sayre, Pa.; Bess Williams, Watkins Glen.

Junior Acounting: Floyd Mabee, Trumansburg.

Banking: Landis Kibbe, North Bingham, Pa.

ASSEMBLY

The Meeker Student Body and Faculty enjoyed a rare treat on Friday of last week when Wilbert Smith, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., at Cairo, Egypt, spoke to them on the work of the Association in Cairo. It is needless to say that his talk was most interesting and educational. His personal contact he has had with the people of Egypt has given him a real opportunity to study their habits and customs. The story of the accomplishments of the Y. M. C. A., under the most adverse conditions was most interesting. It is clear to see that this organization was represented by a man who could readily be a leader of men under any circumstances.

Mr. Smith's accomplishments are most unusual due to the fact that he had the misfortune in his early life to lose one limb. Although he uses a crutch he is an unusually good tennis player. The Management and Student Body of the School considered Mr. Smith's talk a real treat, and appreciated this courtesy of the local Y. M. C. A., in bringing him here.

THANKSGIVING

The Management of the Meeker Business Institute is more than thankful at this time to the many young people who are now in the business world, for their part in making for our good will, we are thankful also for the courtesy and consideration that has been shown this Institute and its students by the business firms and employers in this section of the state. We are thankful for the opportunity that has been given us to serve a number of young people and to help them to become independent.

HONORABLE MENTION

We are glad to recognize the good work which has been accomplished by a number of young people in the Accounting Department. Mary Louise Potter of Ithaca, has completed her Part I set in Bookkeeping with a standing of 97 per cent; Gertrude DeCamp, of Dundee, has completed the same set at 95 per cent, Nellie Streinski, Elmira has completed Part II at 96 per cent; Alfred Butcher of Elmira, has completed Part IV with a standing of 95 per cent.

WHAT IS YOUR REPLY?

1. Cite three illustrious characters who made great contributions to the world in spite of personal handicaps.

2. Tell something of the life and work of a man or woman of your personal acquaintance who seems to have accomplished much in the face of difficulty.

3. Distinguish Handicap from Difficulty, from Hardship.

4. What unselfish reason can you assign for supporting the Golden Rule enterprises?

These are samples of questions taken from the daily work in the Personality Class being conducted through the Meeker Department of Supervision. You will notice that the student is taught to think of, and understand, the higher things of life.

ENTRANCE DAY

New students will be received on November 29. December classes are being formed at this time. It is now time to register also for January entrance. Only a few seats will be vacated between now and January, 1. To be sure of a place, make all arrangements at once.

OLDER BOYS HEAR TALKS

Corning Lads in Attendance At Buffalo Conference; At Niagara Falls

"The greatest success, the most distinguished career is but an air castle with a foundation under it I hope you all have built air castles because those of you who have built one about world brotherhood will probably hear this Older Boys Conference lay some of the foundation stones and mortar for it," said Horace Reed, president of the Buffalo Y. M. C. A., welcoming the 2,500 delegates to the New York State Older Boys conference in session at Buffalo this week-end. Corning has a delegation of about 12 at the conference.

The Elm Vocational School orchestra furnished a musical program before the general session was called. I. H. Meredith, of New York, lead the singing. This was followed by a devotional meeting also lead by him.

Candidates for president and vice-president, Harold Waters of Medina, Fred Light of Rome, Ross Lindbloom of Schenectady and Harold E. Barron of Brooklyn, each gave a short talk. These candidates for secretary and treasurer also spoke: Ralph Whipple of Rochester, Charles Ellis of Herkimer, David Hall of Glens Falls and Edwin Broch of Floral Park.

Prof. Harrison S. Elliott of Union seminary, New York City, is in charge of the group meetings. Prof. Elliott said that two of the outstanding purposes of the conference were to share views and experiences regarding world brotherhood. Prof. Elliott explained how the conference was divided into groups of delegates from different parts of the State.

There were more than 100 group meetings at Hutchinson Central high school. Speakers of world renown will address the general meetings to give the attitudes of other races toward this problem.

The afternoon was spent in viewing Niagara Falls. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise will be the evening speaker tonight at 8 o'clock.

During the Thanksgiving vacation the school boys pulled beans on the R. B. Swarts farm just west of this village. The boys were paid 25 cents an hour and they were glad to get a chance to earn some extra money. The beans picked in this way are cleaner than where they are pulled by machine, though it means much extra work for the workers.

Burgess Bedtime Story

Leader Birthday Club

By Thornton W. Burgess

Copyright 1926 for The Evening Leader.

WHERE WAS MRS. GROUSE?

How oft the thing on which we're set
Is just the thing we cannot get.

Reddy Fox glared up at Mr. Grouse, and Mr. Grouse glared back at Reddy Fox. Mr. Grouse was safely up in a tree. Then Reddy Fox turned and glared up at Chatterer the Red Squirrel, and showed all his teeth, and growled, and told what dreadful things he would do to Chatterer. And Chatterer glared back and scolded so fast that his tongue tripped over itself, and said all the mean things about Reddy Fox that he could think of, made fun of Reddy, and told him that he was glad that Mr. Grouse had escaped.

But Reddy suddenly remembered Mrs. Grouse. He turned his back on Mr. Grouse and Chatterer and eagerly began to sniff under that pile of brush. He was sure that Mrs. Grouse was somewhere under there. How could she be anywhere else? She couldn't fly, because she had been hurt with that terrible gun of the hunter who had come to the Green Forest. Of course, Mr. Grouse had been with her. Now Mr. Grouse was up in the tree, so Mrs. Grouse must be somewhere under that brush-pile.

No longer did Reddy try to be quiet and crafty. He simply began to tear at that brush-pile and throw sticks this way and throw sticks that way, pausing every now and then to sniff. At first he smelled Grouse very strongly. Of course. You see, Mr. Grouse had left there only a few minutes before. But as he worked his way under that pile of brush, the smell of Grouse grew fainter and fainter, until by and by it disappeared altogether. Then Reddy Fox backed out and looked about him with such a puzzled air that Mr. Grouse up above him chuckled.

"Were you looking for someone, Reddy?" inquired Mr. Grouse.

Reddy looked up and glared at Mr. Grouse

Reddy looked up and glared at Mr. Grouse, and if looks could have killed, Mr. Grouse would have dropped right down stone dead. But looks cannot kill. They cannot even hurt. So Mr. Grouse merely chuckled more than ever. Chatterer the Red Squirrel stopped scolding long enough to chuckle, too. This made Reddy angrier than ever. Somehow it always does make folks angry to be laughed at when they don't want to be laughed at. Reddy didn't want to be laughed at. He rushed around to the other side of the pile of brush. He thought Mrs. Grouse might have run out on that side. But though he ran this way and he ran that way, with his nose to the ground, he couldn't get the faintest whiff of the scent of Mrs. Grouse.

Once more Reddy went at that pile of brush until at last he had it all torn to pieces. Mrs. Grouse wasn't under it. There was nothing under it good to eat. "Ha, ha, ha!" laughed Mr. Grouse up in the tree. "Ho, ho, ho!" laughed Chatterer the Red Squirrel. And Sammy Jay, coming up just then, laughed too, although he didn't know what he was laughing about. Lots of people laugh when they don't know what they are laughing about.

Black anger filled the heart of Reddy Fox. He knew he was being laughed at and that was bad enough. But it was worse not to find that dinner he had been so sure of. It must—it simply must be there somewhere. Reddy sat down to think it over. It couldn't be possible that Mrs. Grouse was smarter than he. No, sir, Reddy would never admit that. But where was Mrs. Grouse?

The next story: "Reddy Continues the Search."

NEW PARLEY ON SALARIES

Elmira Teacher Takes Exception To Statements of Supt. Hutchinson

Elmira, which has been the scene of so many disturbances and differences of opinion among the faculty of its public schools, particularly over the question of teachers' salaries, is now witnessing another public discussion of the salary question.

When the New York State Teachers' Association, of which organization the teachers in the local public schools are members, convened in Binghamton November 18 and 19, Supt. Harvey O. Hutchinson, of Elmira, is credited with making the statement that he believed Elmira and Ithaca had solved a great problem in education through the payment of higher salaries.

Miss Rena Rockwell, history teacher at Elmira Free Academy and president of the Elmira Teachers' Association, took exception to the statements made by Supt. Hutchinson on this subject. Her exception dealt particularly with the statement accredited to Supt. Hutchinson in giving the financial advantage of a college education for a teacher over that received in a normal school.

Miss Rockwell is quoted as declaring that Supt. Hutchinson's statements are not in keeping with salaries paid local teachers under the present salary schedule.

Supt. Hutchinson pointed out that the statements he made are substantiated in the schedule of the local schools. He refused to comment further or to take issue with certain statements made by Miss Rockwell.

One of the Elmira papers carried the story in part as follows:

He explained, however, that the remarks credited to him in Binghamton were not made during the course of a formal address but in a small group discussion, that occurred during one of the dinners and were for benefit of a few schoolmen in attendance who were particularly interested in this phase of executive work.

The remuneration paid Elmira teachers, governed by their academic preparation for the work, is generally classified under Sub-divisions I and II, in the accepted schedule. Under the first division, including normal school graduates without teaching experience, the minimum salary is $1,200 a year and the maximum salary based upon service alone is $1,800. The annual increment is $75, and the number of increments eight. This same scale of increments applies to the second classification, which includes college graduates without teaching experience. In this division, however, the minimum salary is $1,400 and the maximum salary based on service alone is $2,000.

There is a varying schedule under the head of specialized departments, including industrial arts, household arts, physical training, school nurses, special class teachers and medical inspectors, in these departments, the requirements for academic preparation are those that prevail in the schools of the highest classification throughout the country.

Under the head of specialized departments, a slightly higher salary is allowed to teachers of chemistry, physics and general science. The annual minimum salary is $1,800, with annual increment of $75 and eight increments allowed; making the maximum salary based on service alone $2,600.

Six other classifications cover teachers and executives in other departments of the schools. The fifth of these include directors of academic, vocational and commercial work in the Southside High School who have a maximum salary on the basis of service alone fixed at $3,200. The final classification covers part time teachers.

As an exception to this schedule the board offers additional increments of $25 each, with the maximum fixed at four, for extension work or work done in Summer schools by any teachers coming under these nine classifications. The only other exception is that teachers under Section 1, normal school graduates, who are assigned to work in the Junior High School or Commercial Department in the Southside School, receive salaries under Section II that is for college graduates. Coming under this exception are not more than six teachers at the present time, according to school authorities.

Miss Rockwell, in published statements, took exception to Superintendent Hutchinson's claim that remuneration of teachers was governed by their academic preparation. College graduates, she believed, derived less benefit under the inducements offered for advanced school work than normal school graduates; and by reason of this fact the salaries of the latter often exceed those paid teachers in the first classification.

Miss Rockwell also pointed to one teacher who was not only a college graduate but held a master's degree who, she said, was receiving $100 a year less than teachers with much less preparation. She also took exception to the clause in the schedule, whereby male teachers in chemistry and physics receive $400 a year more for their services than the other teachers.

These facts, according to Miss Rockwell's statements, do not accord with Superintendent Hutchinson's remarks at Binghamton upon the Elmira schedule being based upon the preparation of the teachers. While this may be the general rule, she declared, there are so many exceptions that they very nearly outnumber it. She added that the Elmira Teachers' Association took up this matter with the Board of Education, when the present schedule was adopted, and while they did not forward its enactment, they are still opposed to it.

SAVONA FAMILY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE IN FIRE

SAVONA, Nov. 27.—Friday morning at 1:30 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. George Chappell were awakened by the violent coughing of their 18 months old son. They arose to find their home on fire and the child suffocating from smoke. After removing his family to safety, Mr. Chappell notified neighbors and a crowd soon gathered but the fire was under such headway it was useless to try to save the house as their only weapons were buckets. A few of the household effects were saved. All but clothing they saved was what they wore.

The building, an old landmark, known as the Ward Homestead, was partly covered by insurance. It was thought for some time the house on the lot adjoining, owned by Mrs. Minnie Youmans would also burn and other nearby buildings were in danger but a bucket brigade with plenty of help saved them.

Dr. Elwood, City Health Offiicer, is Well Pleased With First Response in Health Campaign

Dr. Henry E. Elwood, city health officer, was delighted with the response that met the first clinic for the innoculation of children of preschool age with the toxin-antitoxin serum. The clinic was held this morning in the City Health Center, City Hall and 67 children, most of them of preschool age, were innoculated.

The treatment, which is for the prevention of diphtheria is being greeted with enthusiasm everywhere. The school doctors, Dr. F. H. Starr, of District No. 12 and Dr. E. H. Hutton of District No. 9 will administer the serum to all children in the schools up to 10 years of age, providing the child has the parents' consent.

Parents, if they choose may take their children to their family physician for the innoculation. The school doctors will be assisted by the school nurses. Miss Dorothy Cole will assist Dr. Starr and Miss Sarah Smith, Dr. Hutton.

Dr. Elwood was assisted this morning at the clinic by Mrs. Charles H. Voorhees and Mrs. W. S. Wheat. Another clinic for children of pre-school age will be held next Saturday at the clinic beginning at 9 o'clock.

Dr. Elwood stated that twice as many children were brought for the innoculation as he had expected at the clinic this morning. Dr. Starr also reported that much interest was being shown in the project in School District No. 13, many mothers having called him to learn about the serum.

As some still hold the opinion that the innoculation is compulsory, it should be stated that only those children are innoculated, who have the parents' consent. The treatment is free of charge.

Three persons were injured and two motor vehicles badly damaged in a collision on the Addison road near Mulhollan about 8:15 o'clock last evening when a pleasure car driven by Leonard Mathewson, of Crooked Creek, Pa., and a truck driven by A. In his report to the local police last evening Mr. Mathewson stated that he was proceeding west at a speed of about 18 miles an hour. At a point about one-half mile east of Mulhollan he noticed a truck approaching from the opposite direction. In his report he stated that the truck suddenly swerved to the left side of the road and plunged head on into the small coupe, throwing all the occupants from their seats and badly smashing the car.

Class Party Successful

The Thanksgiving dancing party held in Town Hall last evening by the Alpha Omega Class of the Presbyterian Church proved to be a most enjoyable affair and a success from every standpoint. There were about 60 couples present.

The decorations were novel. Floor lamps were used to advantage in furnishing the lights for the hall, the ceiling lights being extinguished. The orchestra, seated on the stage was enclosed in a bower of evergreen. Wicker furniture placed along the walls added much to the decorative scheme. Many out of town people were present at the party.

MAKE REPAIRS IN LIGHTING

Service Interrupted During the Night to Equalize Commercial Circuits

Electric light service in certain sections of Corning and Painted Post and Addison was discontinued for a short period last night while necessary repairs were made at the sub station. The sections affected were in the sixth and seventh wards, part of the fifth ward, all of Painted Post and Addison.

It was announced yesterday by officials of the New York Central Electric Corporation that the service would be interrupted for 30 minutes from 1 o'clock until 1:30 o'clock this morning. The work consisted of equalizing the commercial circuits by a proper regulation of the circuits. The work was completed in much shorter time and the section west of Chestnut street in the Fifth ward was without lights for only six minutes. The other circuits were off for 20 minutes.

Board of Supervisors Are Expected To Hear Issue at Bath Tuesday

Those much-discussed detective bills presented by Sheriff Page many months ago to the Board of Supervisors are expected to be again brought in the limelight when the Supervisors will convene in Bath next Tuesday and remain in session until Friday. These are bills said to have been incurred in the interests of Prohibition and the claims up to this time have been denied payment.

Many important matters are scheduled to be considered. These include a child welfare appropriation urged by County Judge E. S. Brown, a number of highway matters and the compiling of the annual appropriation budget for costs of county government for the coming year.
