STEAL ESCAPES FROM COURT ROOM DURING RELEASE OF JURORS

Man Arrested Here, Awaiting Arraignment on Four Indictments, Calmly Walks Out and Makes Getaway

With the aid of bloodhounds, Federal officers today searched the swamps near Canandaigua for Carl A. Staal, 25, of Los Angeles, the alleged lawyer, who was arrested in Corning last July for burglarizing an Erie car. Staal was in court awaiting arraignment on a Federal indictment, when he walked out of the United States court room, during a sudden rush of jurors who had been released from further service.

Staal was arrested in Corning by Officer Michael J. Cannon of the local Erie force. After it is alleged he had taken Officer Cannon to a place where he had hidden some cloth, said to have been stolen from an Erie freight car here. The man was indicted by a Federal grand jury at Canandaigua last week on four counts, one for breaking a seal on a car used in interstate commerce, one for burglary, one for grand larceny and one for having stolen property in his possession.

Staal had been held in the Canandaigua jail during the past few days pending his arraignment and yesterday he was taken to court. While he was in the court room there was a sudden rush of jurorsmen to receive their commissions when they were discharged from further duty and in the confusion which resulted Staal saw an opportunity to escape and walked out undisturbed.

Bloodhounds, owned by a Canandaigua man, were put on the trail, obtaining the scent at the cell where Staal had been incarcerated. The dogs followed Staal's trail from the jail to the court room and from the court house out the front door and through several streets to a swamp east of Canandaigua.

Officials have given the use of the street square for the auto show to be held on Thursday and Friday afternoons and evenings, and the square will be brilliantly illuminated with various colored electric lights.

Incidental in the field day will be bill climbing contests open to all cars, endurance tests and automobile races. The biggest event of the day will be the mammoth parade, which is expected to be the largest and most beautiful ever staged in Corning.

The business sections of the city will be elaborately decorated with flags and bunting and thousands of banners and pennants will be strung from the building which will help to make the scene a very colorful affair. A committee of business men from Horrell are planning to come here for the three days to observe the festival and secure pointers for staging a similar affair in that city.

On Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, there will be a meeting of all the merchants interested in the project. They will discuss the various committees at which reports will be given of all that has been accomplished to date for this big event. Chairman Phillips stated this morning that the three day festival would undoubtedly be the biggest and most enjoyable event ever staged in the Southern Tier as everyone is co-operating to the fullest extent to put the thing across.

Two Corning Men Find Puff Ball Weighing 19 Pounds; Claim a Record

Records of all sorts are made and broken each day but the latest and probably the most unique is that claimed jointly by George Sutherland and David Wasson of this city whose claims to having found the largest puff ball on record still remains undoubted.

Frank Lowell of Corning found a puff ball a few weeks ago that weighed 17 1/4 pounds but he passed it to the glory of this discovery for only a short time.

While driving near Blue Point on Lake Kenesha, Mr. Sutherland and Mr. Wasson found a puff ball in an apple orchard which tipped the scales at 19 1/2 pounds. It was a big one all right and both swear that they haven't puffed the story of the puff ball by even an ounce.

REUNION OF BROTHERS FIRST TIME IN 15 YRS.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Bradshaw of Painted Post have just returned from a visit in Kansas with Mr. Bradshaw's brother, W. Bradshaw and family. This was an unusual reunion for the brothers as they had not met for 15 years. They made the trip over land by auto with their nephew, J. Edward Bradshaw and family, who drove out here recently for a visit with the New York relatives.

Many places of interest were visited among them being New York City, Philadelphia and Washington. They followed the "Old Trails" highway westward.

Some of the historic places visited were the Washington estate at Mt. Vernon, Washington's church in Alexandria, Va., and Frederick, Md., the home of Barbara Fritchie. They crossed the Catskills, Blue Ridge and Allegheny Mountains. The return was made by train with stop overs at Kansas City, Chicago, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Mr. Bradshaw reports excellent crops in Indiana and Kansas.

"COVERED WAGON" EPIC FILM OF EARLY AMERICAN COURAGE

"The Covered Wagon" is an epic of sturdiest and courage. Also it is one of the most thrilling moving pictures we have ever seen. It is more than thrilling—it is stirring. But to us the thrill did not lie in the sweep of the prairie fire or the attack of the advertised two thousand Indians.

It was the slow onward movement of the long line of prairie schooners that gave us the strange feeling of exultation over the indomitable spirit of the pioneer.

J. Vanden Kerkhof

There is a love story, too, with Lela Winger, the heroine; J. Vanden Kerkhof, the villain; and Alvin Hale as Sam Winger, the villain. But the piece of characterization in this film is Ernest Terrence's scene of Jack, a Missouri woodsman. It deserves, we believe, to rank with the Richard the Lionhearted of Wallace Berry, the other lovable character.

Marshall as Jim Bridger, a scene of the Indian attack on the prairie fire, an Indian attack on the gold rush, a movie love scene, all splendidly photographed, make this a great production. Now the pioneers in their covered wagons—Advertisement.
