INQUEST INTO ERIE WRECK IS HELD AT OWEGO

OWEGO, May 29.—Coroner Kennedy P. Rapert, following yesterday's inquest into the Erie wreck east of Camptons last Sunday morning, in which James Richardson of Hornell, George P. Lounsbury of South Waverly, and William H. Lovell of Hornell lost their lives, yesterday rendered in effect the following verdict:

That Erie train No. 7, in which the three men were killed, was traveling at its usual rate of speed at the point where it was derailed.

That the road bed was in good condition.

That the passenger engine left the rails first and crashed into the freight, which was passing on the eastbound track.

That the cause of the passenger engine leaving the rails is undetermined.

Thirteen witnesses in all were examined by Dr. Rapert, including Harry Johnson, of Hornell, injured mail clerk, who was questioned at the Endicott General hospital yesterday by the coroner.

Mr. Johnson, who is recovering from his injuries, told the coroner that he felt the brakes applied before the crash; that the train was traveling at its usual speed and that it felt at the same time as if his mail car struck the side of the eastbound freight.

60,000 VOLTS PASS THROUGH BODY OF FREDERICK CHAMPLIN; FOUND HANGING FROM TOWER

AVON, May 29.—Suspended 25 feet in the air, Frederick Champlin, 9 years old, an electrician when he touched a 60,000-volt power line on top of one of the big steel towers of the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Company yesterday, it was nearly an hour later before the body buried to script by the high voltage could be brought to the ground.

Fredrick has been kept from school owing to a sore eye. After dinner he started for an old barn, a half mile south of the Albany Buffalo highway between their village and Canawauque. This has always been a favorite "hang out" for lads playing "hokey" from school. They frequently "hung out" to follow the transmission lines, which run from Avon to the salt mines at Gettysburg. What caused him to climb the big tower, which is protected by a five-foot fence, is not known.

Residents of West Third Street Also Ask for Extension of Sewers

Twenty-five property owners on West Third street, petitioned the board of Public Works at the regular meeting last evening for the extension of water and sewer mains. The petition pointed out that the street was one of the oldest in the city and that the residents had no fire protection. The matter was referred to the board of Public Works, and a survey and an estimate of the cost of the extension.

A communication was received from Miss Frances Gilman, of Addison, who is a student at Cortland Normal school, making an application for play ground work in this city. Mr. Drake was instructed to notify Miss Gilman that the city had already employed Mrs. Julia Gillard for this work.

MR. HEERMANS

87 YEARS OLD

Well Known Corning Man is Hale and Hearty at Advanced Age

George A. Heermans of Wall street, resident of Corning, is receiving congratulations today the occasion being the celebration of his 87th birthday. Mr. Heermans has a host of friends in Corning where he has lived for a number of years, first coming here in 1867 when what is now the city of Corning was the town of Knoxville.

Mr. Heermans' life which has covered a large span of years reads like the history of the city of Corning. He was one of the two men for he engaged in one business for 20 years which was frequently considered a "time of war" and then he engaged in the other business for 21 years.

Nothing of several years of work in his youth in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio, New York.

Mr. Heermans was born in Lancaster county near Berntown, Pa. May 29, 1837, and spent his boyhood in this part of the state, Pennsylvania and New York state. He attended Madison Academy in Waverly, Lancaster, Pa., and taught for one winter in that city.

Here it was that Mr. Heermans earned his first $100. He was paid $25 per month for teaching school and the school term was four months. Out of his first $100 he had to pay $48 for board.

Then he moved to West Virginia with his father and worked in Pellowellville in that state for a few years.

Mr. Heermans' father moved to Bath and Mr. Heermans accompanied him, entering the Putney Land Office there as a general utility clerk boy. He stayed there for several years gradually working up until he was bookkeeper. Then he left and went to what was then Hornsblower where he was in the morning business for one year coming from there to Corning in 1876.

Upon arriving here he went to partnership with George W. Preston in the machinery business. They started with such a small capital that they had to go rather heavily in debt, and for some years they struggled against debt and overcoming many business losses such as a result from fires and other discouragements which would have completely disheartened men with less courage and determination.

Eventually they succeeded and pluck and determination always succeed, every debt was paid and the business was put on a sound financial footing.

After continuing in this line of work for 20 years, Mr. Preston became so feeble that he wanted to get out of the business so they closed out in 1897 and Mr. Heermans went to Rochester where he was engaged in a variety of business for 24 years. In 1921 he returned to Corning to live with his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Heermans of Wall street where he is residing at the present time.

In 1862 while still in Bath, Mr. Heermans married Miss Henrietta C. Sedgwick of that place who is still living. To them were born seven children, only two of whom, W. J. Heermans, president of Corning Trust Company, and Roy Heermans, a prominent business man of Warren, Pa., are alive.

Besides these two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Heermans have four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Heermans is hale and hearty for a man of his years and has a pleasant personality, which undoubtedly accounts for his large number of friends and also for the success which has marked his long business career.

NEW ELECTION IS DEMANDED

School Electors in Town of Canton Say Procedure was Not Legal

An action has been started by the school electors of the town of Canton, residing in school district No. 1 to set aside and annul the election held at the school election held on May 3. The action has been started through the office of trustees and with the commissioner of education at Albany, the petition being signed by Thomas Deane, Jr., Walter C. Crooker and John G. Winters by a vote of 17 to 13. Mr. Pratt is representing the petitioners in the case and Attorney Robert H. T. the defendants.

At the annual school meeting May 3, a contest developed for the office of trustee and Burton McCarrie was elected over John H. Ruff by a vote of 17 to 13. John Ruff was elected clerk and Mrs. John Ruff, collector. It is contended by the petitioners that some of the votes cast at the election were made by residents of the district who, it is alleged, are not qualified to vote at a school election, and these are said to be Mr. Cornelius Ruff and Mrs. John Winters.

The petition asks that the proceedings of the meeting be set aside and another meeting called for the purpose of setting the election legally and properly. The petition sets forth the following reasons for invalidating the election: That several persons not qualified to vote for 21 years were there and did vote and their vote affected the result; that voting for collector and clerk was by acclamation and not by ballot; that the meeting was not held at the school house as required for use; that the minutes of the last annual meeting were not read; that the meeting was not a legal meeting and was irregular, unlawful and therefore, null and void.

The petitioners are asking that the meeting be annulled and a new meeting be called and business transacted on that time; that all proceedings be irregular, unlawful and therefore, null and void.

SUBMITS TO OPERATION

TOTAL OF 326 CASES LISTED ON CALENDAR FOR HORNELL COURT

Supreme Court Term to Open at Hornell Monday, Justice Thompson Presiding; 283 Triable by Jury

A trial term of Supreme Court Justice Robert S. Thompson of Canandaigua, presiding, will be convened in Hornell, on Monday, June 1. The calendar is a lengthy one, numbering 326 cases of which 283 are issues of fact, triable by jury.

An important action on the calendar, which also has precedence in order of trial is that of Mrs. Katherine Hinchman of Bath, an executive assistant of the Eastern Valley Railroad company. Mrs. Hinchman sues for damages in the death of her husband, Mr. Hinchman, who was employed as a delivery messenger for the Pleasant Valley Fish Hatchery. While enroute in the delivery of a consignment of fish, he was killed in a collision on the lines of the defendant company. The accident occurred near Bath in June last. Alleging negligence on the part of the company, Mrs. Hinchman seeks for $50,000 damages. Cole & Knapp of Bath will appear as attorneys for Mrs. Hinchman. The defense will be that Mr. Hinchman enjoyed transportation over the defendant's lines, on a pass which stipulated that in case of accident, the railroad company would not be liable. The defendants were represented by denied a chance of verdict in the case, which they sought to transfer upon trial out of Steuben County.

Another action of local interest is that of Chester Crane of Bath against his mother-in-law, Leola Spencer. The plaintiff seeks to foreclose a mortgage he acquired in June last. Alleging negligence on the part of the defendant, the defense is that the mortgage was paid in full by the husband, Leola Spencer, who has since died. The defense alleges that Spencer paid the mortgage to the Fung Yan party who had taken his own name, allowing his wife to believe it had been discharged. Later Spencer boarded with Cranz, the plaintiff's attorney, who died, the defense claims that Spencer, in payment of indebtedness he had incurred, had transferred the mortgage to Mr. Cranz who now seeks judgment.

There are five separate actions for damages against the Town of Howard. William Hemus, his wife, Mary and his daughters Lila and Freda are plaintiffs. The actions are outgrowths of an accident which occurred when the plaintiff's automobile skidded and overturned on a highway in the town of Howard. The town was charged with a "pothole" near the site of the accident. The town denies the charge. The defense is that it was not negligent.
