Former Endicott Resident Now
Back in Europe Learns That
U.S. Paper is Always Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—After ten years of roving, an international money order for $100 has finally reached its destination.

The money order department told the story today of the purchase of the money order in 1915, by Molek Pusa, a Russian citizen, living at Endicott. It was made payable to his family at New York, but before it reached there, Russia had been swept by revolution and the government had withdrawn the entire population.

From Mervia to Pusa family, a year later the Russian authorities returned the money to this country and the postmaster at Endicott was instructed to hand it to the sender. He had disappeared and the money was returned to the post office department.

Last month the Polish government wrote the department that Pusa had complained his money order never had been delivered. It was promptly delivered to the man and his family in Poland.

MORE SEEMINGLY PETRIFIED EGGS

By Chapin

Mr. Rogers elaborates the thing that dust and germs go hand in hand. He tells of consumptive families, where the disease, supposedly "in the blood" was in reality lurking in rag carpets and plush furniture. And in particular he makes indictment of the modern refuge of the disease germ, the upholstered automobile cushion.

He presents specimens secured with vacuum cleaner and with saphira to prove that the fabrics from closed cars, civil or military, are covered with dust, dirt, and germs from furniture, draperies, rugs, and carpets as repositories of dust.

Sartor ad Libitum

The headmaster of Riton has been forced to take cognizance of the fact that the trousers worn in this school are still a history, though our own youth are stretching the width of their trousers as far as they dare. It will be known as a fashion starting in the venerable British set of learning. Riton's headmaster decried that it any trousers worn by boys should exceed twenty inches in width at the bottom they would have to be returned to the tailor.

Alteration, Mr. Chesterton finds a contributor to esthetics on the subject, and doubtless he found it a grateful thing that once in a way the folly of fashion was not monopolized by women. This writer in "K's Weekly" (London) is "all in favor" of the wide trousers. He begins with the hue:

"I like the color; that delicate fawn shade is far more fetching than the old starchy gray. I like also those few dark lines, that generous opulence of limp material. Surely it betrays a seafaring race that even its duds should look like sailors. But above all, I like the name. For these Oxford trousers are really Oenian. They aptly express the luxuriance of life as lived in the more leisurely and ancient of our two universities. Never, one feels, could they have been called 'Cambridge trousers.' Philosophical, dreaming, capricious, they belong to the life of a group of men removed by riches from the need, or by lack of training from the ability, to earn a livelihood by working for it. Uncultured, strenuous people, of course, can do so; but the rash act of leaving their trousers in their lair, like evening dress, these trousers may be said to be an act of gentility. And so it comes that the Oxford man in Oxford trousers is almost as much ridiculous as an Oxford man in a British suit, which is saying a great deal."

"Unhappily no one so far has attempted to define an Oxford trouser as a group of men removed by riches from the need, or by lack of training from the ability, to earn a livelihood by working for it. Uncultured, strenuous people, of course, can do so; but the rash act of leaving their trousers in their lair, like evening dress, these trousers may be said to be an act of gentility. ## New York Day by Day

On the Bookshelf

By O. C. McINTIRE
(Copyright 1925, Macmillan Syndicate, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—There are at least a dozen men who come to their offices daily from country estates and private yachts. Most of them belong to Wall Street but a few to the movie industry. A secretary usually accompanies them to have early orders ready for delivery at the office.

Breakfast is taken en route. Every moment must be saved. Fate hangs on seconds. So it appears. Quite a few yachts are equipped with wireless in case anything cataclysmic happens on the way. The maintenance of this bit of luxury costs at least $5,000 a year—made from the profits at the Yacht Club.

There is a touch of boyishness to some of them, for on the journey they wear the cap they bought in the office. They like to stand at the wheel and perhaps dream of serene seas, blue lagoons and coral reefs far from business, tickers and dull directors' meetings.

Most successful men are dreamers despite their aloof unconcern for anything that does not stand on balance sheets. There is one of these yacht owners whose expression is as cold as a pawnbroker's heart. He sits in a huge, dimly lighted, barren office at a long, low, domed Century table whose top is as bare as a Winter garden's back.

ALL HIS employees tremble when he casts his shadow down the hall. He is known as a controlled tyrant, and yet they love him. He is in the office for months of the year he slips away to a studio on Montmartre hill and there, in bedazzled mood, his real soul escapes on canvas.

I am always touched by these apparently human glances who must present the unbecoming front to the world, when in reality they would like to be just folks. There is certainly little joy in affecting to be a tyrant.

I am often at a hotel where many of them live, and they seem to enjoy talking to me. I am not a clerk, I am not a waiter, I am not a doorman, I am not a watchman. They are weary of the stern-faced part they must play. But I started out to talk about yachts—remind me, Miss Flattery, to stop for one tomorrow.

THE BEACHCOMBER
By CHARLES NICHOLS WEBB
"He's a faithless vagabond."

Do I hear you say?
"Singing songs of Hamarland, Maund'ring of Cathay; Fate may seek this sorry scamp, As a rusty cannon tramp, Against, ding! it to be lost in the Saragasso Sea, Not a fairy, dancing ship, With aught of gold or silver, Silken sails to tease the gales, And rubies in her hold!"

Keep your snug religious creed, Framed for poor folk, Dumb and dim, as a vagabond, Treat me as a joke, Let me only rest and wait, For my ship, that some call Fate, For my ship that means to me, More than immortality; For my ship, my dancing ship, With aught of gold or silver, Silken sails to tease the gales, And rubies in her hold!"

Setting On

MOLDING FRIENDS

It has been said that President McKinley had more personal friends than any man who ever sat in the White House, due in part to the fact that he kept what he called a "Personal Reminder Book," a sort of "Who's Who" of his friends.

It is a fine thing to keep a record of one's friendships. If you have met a man you would like for a friend, jot down his name and something about him. Put him on your mailing list for a Christmas greeting.

This is a modern-day extension of the old autograph album, that medium around which is built up so much of the hospitality and friendship of the South. Many a transplanted son in the North and West has nearly packed away in the archives of cellar or garret the album which he passed around among his schoolmates the day he quit the seminary. The covers are probably done in plush and the word "Autograph" in silver. The pages are in varied colors; the ink is purple. Here and there a leaf is covered with gold, scrawly hand in hazy alignment. On one of these Bob Welch, now banker back home, wrote, "Don't forget how we carried water to the elephant at the circus."

The old friends are the best, and they are not going to be just away, out there in the reaches of memory where you may call them back after a busy day. You do not need to live always "at home" because you happen to be there most of the time. Often when you are out for a walk down Broadway you can be taking a mental stroll down the village pike.

Whatever the time and place, remember to cultivate people as you would cultivate flowers, and with as much of your getting do not forget to get friends.—Copyright 1925, The Specialty Salesman's Magazine.

BEVERLY HAYNE has departed for New York.

That's the news item. But it tells a story of great disappointment and heartache.

Francis made good all over again in the silent drama and went to Italy to work in "Ben Hur," leaving Beverly behind.

Beverly went to work for Warner Brothers, and after the picture, or, oh, "didn't take."

Now she's got to try to start all over again.

MICHAEL ARLEN of "Maytime," "These Charming People" and "The Graceland" is here ready to battle the movie game.

Speaking for the local press, he opined—"I am free to do what I like. If I want to go to China or the South Seas tomorrow I can—and may—do so."

"Star" probably heard from Sir Gilbert Parker, Theodore Albion, Matherell and others how unappreciative of genius the movie are. Evidently he's prepared to move on at a moment's notice. He may.

Anyway, he's scheduled to "adopt" his story, "The Ace of Cards" (not Cards, for Adolphe Menjou, and I hope Adolphe will appreciate it).

"My face began to break out in small pimples which grew larger and deeper and in about three days I could see an improvement. They are pleasing to use, as is also Cuticura Talcum for powdering."

"I was treated without any benefit. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about three days I could see an improvement. They are pleasing to use, as is also Cuticura Talcum for powdering."

FOOTBALL

Score at Syracuse: Final score Syracuse 17; Niagara 0.

HARVARD STADIUM, CAMBRIDGE, MASS., SATURDAY, NOV. 20
A half century of football rivalry was celebrated in Harvard's Field House when Harvard and Yale met on the gridiron.

Yale went into the game the favorite, although many experts conceded to the Crimson a psychological victory by winning their first defeat of Brown last week and Yale's crushing defeat at the hands of Princeton last week.

All the historical color, glamour and drama of this classic of football games, greeted the 23,000 persons who swarmed to the stadium. Half an hour before the game started there were few empty seats in the stand.

Playing conditions were ideal for the first time in three years. Harvard kicked off to Fogg, who ran the ball back to the 40 yard line. After a few short runs, Yale punted to Ketchum, who fumbled, and Fogg swooped upon the ball on the 25 yard line, about 100 yards from the goal.

Harvard put up a strong defense and Captain Cheek finally grabbed a Yale pass back of his own goal line. The Crimson punt to Yale. Yale played the game well, but could not gain consistently and punted to Fogg, who found time to recover the ball on the 42 yard line.

After a punting duel, Foggbacked Yale's pass back of the 45 yard mark. Harvard broke up Yale's passing game and the ball punted to Harvard's 27 yard line. Cutler rebounded Nike in the Yale back field. Aided by a line of 15 yards for interference, Harvard made short advances as the game ended.

Score first period: Harvard 6; Yale 0. Second period: Harvard 10; Yale 40 yard mark. Yale was unable to gain consistently and punted to Fogg, who found time to recover the ball on the 42 yard line. A pass, "Kick to Crutch," netted seven yards and Miller and Crosby made a touchdown. Score: Harvard 16; Yale 0.

FRENCH CLUB AT N. H. S. GIVES PLAY IN FRENCH

The French Club, an organization at Northside High School, held a delightful party in the auditorium of the school Thursday evening. A play given entirely in French was an important feature on the program. The following students took part in the play: Jones, Rhea Clark, Helen Hall, Bernice Hanley and Delbert Heston. Milton French, Joseph Rossetti, Delbert Carr, Harry Blank, Carlton Tucker, Adrian Smith and John Cook, Miss Elizabeth Chapman, French teacher, directed the play.

OHIO STADIUM, COLUMBUS, NOV. 21—(AP) Under a cloudless sky, with a warm sun smiling on 40,000 spectators, the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a football game in the midwest, packed the Ohio Stadium today to witness the passing of the "Red Grange" in the final game of his brilliant intercollegiate career.

Through Grange, during the first few plays made two runs, setting 13 and 12 yards each. It was Britton who carried the ball across for Illinois' first touch-down. On his first try, Grange was tripped after making a yard. He held the ball for Britton in trial for goal.

Grange led his "fighting Illini" to a draw, a slight favorite over Ohio. As Grange ran out of the south-east corner of the stadium, the 40,000 spectators scrambled to the front with a deafening roar. Grange's yardage was 25 yards, but he faded like a feather, with a "pass" in his hands.

The field was dry and fast. It was the first time this season that Grange has performed in a field that was not rain-soaked or muddy. On the first play after initial kick-off, Marek passed to Grim 53 yards.

Taking the kick-off after Illinois had gathered seven points, Grange returned the ball 75 yards and on a subsequent play made seven yards around and before being thrown into the bounds. Ohio State was unable to make gains except by passing. The period ended: Illinois 7; Ohio State 0.

At Ann Arbor first period Michigan 7; Minnesota 0.

At Columbus first period Illinois 7; Ohio State 0.

Score second period at Worcester: Holy Cross 21; Boston U. 0.

WARRANT MAY BE SECURED

LeBaron Refuses to Answer to Officers' Summons in Headlight Case

Richard LeBaron, a chauffeur of this city, was directed by Patrolman Milton Kice last night to appear in City Court this morning to answer to a charge of driving an automobile with but one headlight lighted. LeBaron failed to appear but David White, a clerk appeared instead and said that if the police wanted him it would be necessary to go get him. According to the officer, LeBaron had been stopped and warned concerning the defect of his headlight. Some time later the officer said he found the man driving about the city with the one headlight still out, whereupon he directed LeBaron to appear in court. According to White, who appeared in behalf of LeBaron, the action of the officer was due to a grudge. Acting Chief Broderick said today that probably a warrant would be issued against LeBaron unless officer Kice wished to withdraw the charge.

DINNER-DANCE NOVEMBER 30

Those Planning to Attend Asked to Make Reservations Immediately

Reservations for the third annual dinner-dance to be given Monday evening, November 30, by the Corning Business Women's Club, are coming in rapidly and those planning to attend and have not yet made their reservations are asked to do so at once in order that the proper arrangements can be made by the members of the committee. Only a certain number can be accommodated so it is necessary to fix reservations early.

Mrs. Alice Gallagher has charge of the reservations and she can be located at the Chamber of Commerce Office 242, during the day and at 531 in the evening. A meeting of the committee was held last evening in the club rooms to discuss the many arrangements necessary for the affair and from all reports, they will put forth every effort to make it one of the most successful social functions given by the organization.

DEPARTMENT REPORT SHOWS DIVORCE RAIL IN COUNTY GROWING

Comment of Supreme Court Justice Here Substantiated in Figures for Years 1923 and 1924

Wedded bliss in Steuben County seems to be on the wane according to statistics compiled by the Department of commerce which shows there was an increase of three divorces in 1924 over 1923, while there was a decrease of 15 in the number of marriages in 1924 from the number in 1923.

During 1923 there were 64 divorces and during 1924 there were 67. The number of marriages during 1923 was 713 while in 1924 this number dropped to 158. Steuben County had many times the number of divorces granted in various counties around this section. Yates county had two divorces as compared with four in 1923. Tioga had three compared with five in 1923; Tompkins had 11 compared with 10 in 1923. Schuyler had compared with three in 1923. In Chemung county there were 45 in 1924 and 22 in 1923. In Livingston County there was one absolute divorce granted in each of these years.

The Department of Commerce announces that according to reports received there were 135 divorces for the calendar year 1924, and these figures prove the fact.

private and many housewives did not know whether to run the risk of the price of turkeys being more 14 a lb. or whether the more 14 a lb. birds, such as ducks, geese or chickens should be used for the Thanksgiving festival.

However, the news has been spread at last and does not appear alarming although from the reports received, it will pay for careful housewives who watch the premises to shop around a little as in some cases there is a variation of 10 to 15 cents per pound.

Turkey will run from 55 to 60 cents per pound. Ducks, geese and chickens will range from 30 to 40 cents and ducks and geese from 35 to 40 cents per pound according to local markets.

Now that the worst has been announced the decision for or against the big bird of the year may be made. In most cases the cost of the dinner may be reduced by one-third by purchasing chickens, ducks or geese instead of turkey but for so many Thanksgiving just isn't Thanksgiving if a rich, brown roasted turkey does not form the centerpiece on the table that the added cost will be overlooked.

Complaints for both warrants were made by William H. Tomlinson, who alleges that both offenses were committed last Sunday evening. Loftus is under bail of $200 on each charge.

Cats that have a sale price as low as $15 and $25 are nothing but junk, and dangerous to operate.

ARE OPPOSED TO CHANGES

Hornell Attorneys Object to Giving Bath Two Terms Instead of One

The Hornell Tribune has the following to say concerning the move to change Supreme Court terms:

"The movement on foot, originating at Steuben county lawyers' office Hornell to steal one of Hornell's supreme court terms is being met by much protest among the members of the Hornell Bar Association, although Fred A. Robbins, president of the association, when notified today of the move, said that he did not oppose it. Brought before the members and a meeting of the association will probably be called next week.

It became known today that a petition has been circulated among the Steuben county lawyers outside of this city, seeking to have the January and June terms of supreme court changed to July and August. The petition was signed by Hornell's Bath term, which is in September. This would take away one term from Hornell. The petition has been signed by many Corning lawyers as well as some in Bath.

Hornell lawyers and others in this end of the county, who were not aware of the petition, are not in favor of the movement which would rob Hornell of one successful term of court. Mr. Robbins said today in regard to the proposed change:

"I see no reason for this change. The present terms of the court have always been as successful as those in Corning and they have held here for twenty years without contention. The court house here was built for this purpose and there is no reason why it should be idle. Hornell is an accessible city as any city in the county and I believe that Hornell lawyers are as much interested in the supreme court terms as those of any other city in Steuben county."

Many other lawyers in the city, including Acton M. Hill, secretary and treasurer of the Hornell Bar Association, and others, are also of the opinion that the terms should be retained. It is certain, however, that a meeting will be called and formal protest against the petition proposed.

Under the present system Hornell has the January and June terms of supreme court. Bath has the April and November terms. The petition which will be presented to the justices who arrange the court terms, asks to give the two Hornell terms to Bath and give Hornell the September term only.

Those circulating the petition say the county fair interferes somewhat with the September term at Bath in that it is hard to get jurors. They claim that jurors can be easily drawn from the railroad men here at that time of the year. It is also said that Bath formerly had two terms of court but the arrangement was changed due to lack of hotel accommodations which are now overbooked. The local lawyers ridicule another claim made that Hornell is inaccessible and many cases are put over due to difficulty in getting witnesses here and that Corning and Bath lawyers try two thirds of the supreme court cases.

Hornell lawyers are prepared to refute many of these arguments and it is probable that a tagline form of protest will be the outcome of the meeting of the bar association. The petition is not to be made to impress upon the supreme court justices, who fix the terms, the necessity of continuing the two terms here.

THIEVES TAKE BROWN'S CAR

Machine and Luggage of Corning Man in Florida Stolen at St. Augustine

TURKEY TO BE AROUND 55-60

Chicken Price Quoted at from 30 to 40 Cents and Ducks 35 to 40

For days—yes, and weeks—there has been much speculation concerning the price of turkeys for Thanksgiving which seems to be one of the mysteries of the times just like the deep, dark secrets concerning bootleggers. Every one knows there is one in a certain community but no one can say anything definite about it. Just so every one knew there would be a price on the head of each turkey but who that price was and how far the place of resistance would set. Dad back was a riddle. No one could quote prices and many housewives did not know whether to run the risk of the price of turkeys being more 14 a lb. or whether the more 14 a lb. birds, such as ducks, geese or chickens should be used for the Thanksgiving festival.

However, the news has been spread at last and does not appear alarming although from the reports received, it will pay for careful housewives who watch the premises to shop around a little as in some cases there is a variation of 10 to 15 cents per pound.
