Yates County Board of Supervisors met Wednesday and gave $3,000 to the Yates County Bureau of Conservation.

PENNY YAN, Dec. 5.—The Yates County Board of Supervisors met Wednesday and gave $3,000 to the Yates County Bureau of Conservation. The money received from automobile fees was divided among the nine towns of the county, each receiving $2,000 for road work the coming year. The board was also asked by the Bureau of Conservation to permit the use of funds from November until March and at the same time asked the placing of a guard between the hours of sunset and sunrise. It is hoped this may do away with the damage done to sheep. It is said the dogs have done so much damage that funds used for paying this loss have been exhausted.

New Record Established on Los Angeles-San Francisco Run

Chrysler Six Roadster Does Distance in Eight Hours and Thirty Minutes

Fleeting through snow, rain and over and down mountain, a stock car, with a motorist, broke all motor car speed records between Los Angeles and San Francisco. It averaged 43.9 miles an hour for the 439 miles of the run.

The car topped a full 27 minutes from the last previous record established last April by a professional driver with a car used to make speed records in the country. Since that time, many attempts by various cars to secure this enviable record for themselves have failed to lower the mark over the historic Valley Route.

This newest evidence of Chrysler stamina and roadability appears all the more remarkable in that a driver, totally without previous experience in a run of this nature, made it, and with his own personal car. Total time for the 439 miles, including one stop for gasoline, at Fresno, and another to replace a punctured tire, was 8 hours and 30 minutes. Time was checked and certified by the Western Union at each end of the run, with constant checkings through various towns by Edward Shattuck, who rode as observer with John V. Boyd, the driver. Car and pilot were checked out of the Western Union Office at Sixth and Spring streets, Los Angeles, at 9:30 p. m., and the Western Union stamp of arrival was placed on Boyd's certificate by the company's San Francisco office at Third and Market streets, at exactly 6 a. m.

"After negotiating the traffic out of Los Angeles and Hollywood, we maintained a constant pace," says Mr. Shattuck, who rode as observer with John V. Boyd, the driver. "The tortuous grapevine of the valley, and the stages was made doubly hard to drive on by a snow storm which covered the pavement for a mile or a half inch or more, necessitating a continual use of the windshield wiper. No particular difficulty was experienced, however, due to Boyd's ability to keep the car under control."

"TWEEDLES" IS BIG SUCCESS

Three Act Comedy Understudies Addition Good Fellowship Club Much Enjoyed

ADDITION, Dec. 5.—"Tweedles" the three act comedy presented in the Opera House Thursday evening, by a local cast, under the auspices of the Good Fellowship Club was a decided success and one of the best home plays ever presented here. Howard L. Porter of Ontario, a student of the Ithaca Dramatic School, to be contrasted. Each particular character was well placed, and owing to the excellent presentation of each one's role, it would be difficult to estimate just who was the best. Miss Addie, played by the teacher in the high school, gave an excellent performance. In the leading part, Robert Brown as "Julian" in the man's leading role, was a study of special mention. Of course, Mrs. Carrie Adams as "Mrs. Addie" brought forth screams of laughter from the audience. Mrs. Addie's performance was a study of special mention. THE MODERN GOOSE THAT LAYS GOLDEN EGGS By Brown

Golden Rule Among the Nations

The Near East Relief is to be congratulated on the power and reach already attained by its endeavor to preach the Golden Rule through the annual observance of Golden Rule Sunday, Tomorrow.

It is particularly significant that the day is appointed by international agreement among more than thirty nations, for the Golden Rule stands not only as a symbol of, but a force for, the true internationalism that the world stands in need of, above all else.

No man can trace how the currents of spiritual and humane influence run through the veins of international diplomacy, but Henry Morgenthau, a diplomat of no mean attainments, declared that "the ameliorating conditions of present European politics have been advanced by the appeal of the friends of the Near East for practical application of the Golden Rule."

The new dispositions toward mutual goodwill and mutual concession among the nations, which was manifest at Locarno and in other recent conferences, make it more possible to trust in the early coming of a day when even the rulers of governments shall feel it obligatory, from both moral and civic considerations, to treat their neighbor nations as they wish their neighbor nations to treat them.

If the Golden Rule conception of duty and advantage, which dominates chancelleries and cabinets throughout the world, no other insurance of peace will be requisite.

The Golden Rule is as efficient and as sufficient for the community of nations as for all lesser communities—for the fellowship of peoples as for the friendliness of persons. The Near East Relief, appealing to its international comprehensiveness, is simply the first to strike the inevitable keynote of the future.

We Need to Get Down to Earth

We learn from Secretary Hoover that while the United States is busy with the Dawes plan to help stabilize Europe, and while it is occupied with giving three cheers for Locarno and world peace, various astute gentlemen living in foreign parts are collecting some rather fat profits by the sale of various raw materials in America. Mr. Hoover figures that these foreign monopolies are making more than a million dollars a year above a reasonable profitable price.

It is just as well to get down to earth and discover what is going on. The United States has been so pre-occupied with world problems that it has paid little attention to such material things as potash, nitrates, cotton and rubber.

Our country has had a little experience with foreign prices under war conditions. It was discovered, for instance, early in the war, that Britain was charging the United States exorbitant prices for wool. The British government was so sure that it could not be beaten that it even offered the United States a million dollars in one contract.

There were taking enormous quantities of hemp from India at an extortionate price. This could not be helped, the American government was informed, until it stopped the sale of silver to India. Within a week the Calcutta government had the price of hemp reduced to the level of the market. The owners of tin mines abroad were calling it at the expense of the United States until there was a hint that two could play at that game, whereupon tin tumbled from $1.25 to 75 cents a pound, with a saving to America of 75 million dollars.

We are all for the brotherhood of man and helping Europe get on its feet in all proper ways. But we trust that our altruism will not blind us to the fact that we are dealing with exceedingly shrewd gentlemen abroad, who require some rather stiff and practical methods to cause them to see the light.

What Editors Are Saying

An American admirer of Great Britain has just forwarded $2,500 to the British treasury as his share in helping John Bull pay off the American debt. Here is a sample of the kind of our local internationalists who want to help promote brotherly feeling among nations.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—There is meaty philosophy and a mental stimulus to clothes. They deserve more than a passing pat. Some of the great novel will be written about clothes. Not the hackneyed tale of a burglar in evening clothes who becomes a neighbor. Something deeper. Fundamental!

THE FASHIONABLE section of New York, like a screaming but gorgeous plumed cockatoo, in a great asset, it gives New York dash and color and strikes about the only note of difference from other towns. The sense of fine clothes is more inspirational than we realize. Clothes are mesmerizing.

Without purple, ermine and jeweled coronets royalty would have become a long, long ago. The metropolis today is living in its greatest era of fashion. You see it in the theatre, the cafes and other places where smart people gather.

STYLE HAS wrought almost a complete change in woman. For years style was in state of flux but compares a New York woman of today with her sister of the Nineties. Corsets, hair, high shoes, long skirts, eyebrows and puff sleeves are tossed away.

She is an entirely different creature and I believe more appealing and presentable. Where there was one prevailing style there are now a hundred. The style of two months ago is scarcely remembered. Women of the smart world dress four and five times a day.

A courtier tells of one woman who, having come into sudden fortune, gave him a blacked order to outfit her. "I want to be the best dressed woman in Palm Beach," she stated. Her costume for the beach, for tea, for sport and evening numbered 108.

THE COST was more than $16,000. That is, of course, an extreme in fashion display. Most fashionists will be content with a wardrobe to 20 frocks. Women take much more time to dress than formerly despite the fact they aim to achieve that striking note of utmost simplicity.

CHINA IN THROES OF INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION
The latest development in the industrial revolution through which China is now going is explained by Charles C. Hatchelder, American diplomat and former Acting Commercial Attaché, in an article which he contributes to the August Current History Magazine. Mr. Hatchelder sees the present civil war in China as due in no small measure to the acute poverty of the working classes.

The industrialization of China, he writes, "has precipitated a head-on collision between the modern factory worker and the hand worker. Chaos and suffering resulted. The process has affected 100,000,000 of people, many of whom are constantly underfed. Millions suffer from actual famine."

A similar note underlines Mr. Hatchelder's picture. There is danger of a Bolshevik uprising of great proportions, he adds, as "the masses are no longer willing to starve in silence." The Soviet success, profiting by the present unrest, are sowing the seed of propaganda throughout China. To avert this menace, there should be developed in China the "consolidating mechanism of Occidental social organization," the author suggests. Growth of population in another acute problem, Mr. Hatchelder's article contains this significant sentence: "Although migration to foreign lands and to Manchuria and other less densely settled portions of China may be a temporary remedy, a decrease in the excessive birth-rate and an increase in the productivity of agriculture will soon be necessary."

Discussing the question of foreign concessions in China, the author observes that much responsibility for the future of China rests with the Great Powers. It is important that international conditions in China be considered in any plan to solve her problems; otherwise, he observes, "great mistakes will be made."

These Herts Must Work
The other day Kansas lost its greatest grove of potatoes. "Potato King of Kansas," they called him. He was Julius Groves, a colored man who came to the state in 1867, a freed slave. By work and thrift he got him a small farm which grew into a large one and he left an estate valued at $150,000. In his will, he saw to it that his 11 sons and daughters should not follow the reckless path of moneyed children. The three daughters are not to marry husbands to live and reap benefits from the land. The estate is to remain intact and his children are to receive from it only a wage for working in the fields. That seems harsh, and maybe it is, and then again in the wisdom of human experience it may be the best thing he could do for them. What eventually becomes of the farm—whether it is handed on down forever to Groves descendants on the same terms— isn't told.

What eventually becomes of the farm—whether it is handed on down forever to Groves descendants on the same terms— isn't told.

These Herts Must Work
The other day Kansas lost its greatest grove of potatoes. "Potato King of Kansas," they called him. He was Julius Groves, a colored man who came to the state in 1867, a freed slave. By work and thrift he got him a small farm which grew into a large one and he left an estate valued at $150,000. In his will, he saw to it that his 11 sons and daughters should not follow the reckless path of moneyed children. The three daughters are not to marry husbands to live and reap benefits from the land. The estate is to remain intact and his children are to receive from it only a wage for working in the fields. That seems harsh, and maybe it is, and then again in the wisdom of human experience it may be the best thing he could do for them. What eventually becomes of the farm—whether it is handed on down forever to Groves descendants on the same terms— isn't told.

GEORGE HARADON TO RETIRE FROM POST OFFICE ON PENSION

Well Known Letter Carrier Concludes 38 Years of Faithful and Loyal Service Here

After 38 consecutive years of service, George H. Haradon, the oldest man in point of service on the carrying force of the Corning Post Office and the only living member of the trio of carriers who began duty when city delivery service was first instituted in Corning Monday retired from active service in the gray uniform.

Mr. Haradon, who is 69 years of age and who reached the age limit set by the postal department in 1921, was granted two successive extensions of two years each by the department in recognition of his unusual and efficient record of service.

During his 38 years of service he has seen the city change from the Corning of 1837 to the Corning of 1925, presents to the visitor. When he began carrying mail on July 1, 1837, the streets were unpaved mudholes and sidewalks were for those of the board variety, were few and far between.

Mr. Haradon's route took him into that section of the city now the sixth and seventh wards. To get there it was necessary to cross on the old wooden covered bridge which was in service at the time. Then the northern section of the city was not built up as at the present time and the houses were scattered. Where Wing & Bowditch's big department store now stands, a small residence, was located.

Every day, 300 days out of 365 years Mr. Haradon averaged a cross on the old wooden covered bridge over the river. He carried mail above the walking he did out side of working hours. Adding this up the entire distance Mr. Haradon walked during his years of service equals a distance of which one would traverse in six or seven trips around the world.

When Mr. Haradon entered the service the Post Office was located in the old brick block, Fifth street. The present spacious building was constructed in 1898. "Dawson" Haradon is a very popular man among his associates at the post office and his many friends and acquaintances have been a universal favorite. He holds the highest regard for his fellow workers and of those who daily are accustomed to receive mail from the gray uniformed agent.

A year later (Did you read the first letter?) the Retail Grocers incorporated under the name of Corning Wholesale Grocery Company Inc. Any reliable retail Grocer was eligible to "come in".

Our one and ONLY object was to place merchandise in the Grocers store at the smallest fraction above wholesale cost, thus placing the "One store Grocer" in a position to meet any competition.

The idea was right.

Our progress has been rapid, and we are not yet to the top.

It would surprise you to know the amount of

HOSE COMPANY BALL SUCCESS

One of Most Enjoyable Dancing Parties Ever Held at Painted Post

One of the most enjoyable dancing parties ever held in the village of Painted Post was that given by the Painted Post Hose Company No. 1, at the Painted Post Hotel last evening when the Painted Post Hose Company No. 1 gave their fourth annual ball. The largest crowd that ever turned out for one of the firemen's parties was present. The dancing was enjoyed by all. At 10 o'clock to 2 o'clock this morning, and at midnight a supper was served on the second floor. There was a large number present from out of town.

The decorations were both elaborate and appropriate, the color scheme being red and green. Crepe paper was used most effectively in hiding the bare walls and the lighting effect added much to the scene. During the dancing, rolls of serpentine were distributed to the dancers and they had become entwined with the decorations the hall was turned into a veritable fairyland.

All the members of the hose company dressed in uniform, were on hand to do everything possible for the enjoyment of their guests. Facilities were provided for the parking of automobiles. The main floor of the town hall being utilized for this purpose.

Patronesses for the affair were: Mrs. A. D. Stevens, Mrs. Fred L. Martin, Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mrs. Frank G. Phillips, Mrs. D. H. Seelye and Mrs. L. E. Wade.

Thirty-six arrests were made by the local police department during the last month of November and fines collected amounted to $175, according to the monthly report of Acting Chief Raymond H. Brown. Of these arrests, 15 were for drunkenness, 10 for violating the city ordinance against public decency, five for illegal train riding, two each for assault third degree, failure to provide for family, and returned for re-arrest. There was one arrest each for driving while intoxicated, grand larceny and forgery. Of those arrested 14 paid fines, eight were committed to jail and six received suspended sentences. 200,000 90-degree Cadillac Bought By Glenn H. Curtiss

In common with the great majority of the world's leading automobile manufacturers and experts, Mr. Curtiss feels that the V-Type engine possesses in a marked degree the compactness and dependability which are absolutely necessary for airplane use.

Obviously, therefore, he chooses a Cadillac—and as his letter shows, is justified to get the 200,000th car. Cadillac is pioneer of the world-famous V-Type principle—which, in the new 90-degree Cadillac, is developed and perfected to its highest and finest pitch.

See the new 90-degree Cadillac for yourself. A demonstration will reveal qualities of motor car performance beyond anything you imagined possible.

"THE MINIATURE BEA CHEST— Shortly after dinner that evening there was a sharp ring at the garden gate that came on the highway.

"Celia, sitting demurely opposite Rudolph, after serving him with coffee, started slightly. Her heart began to pound with excitement. For a moment she eyed him. It was Alan Forbes. Perhaps Rudolph had retained and given him permission to call.

"But it proved to be Count Boris whose smart military step echoed on the flagged walk.

"Ah, good evening, Your Highness—and Mademoiselle Celia, my respectful salutations," the Count bent over the hand she extended. "You will, I trust, forgive this unceremonious call at such an hour," he turned to Rudolph. "I have news which promises extreme interest. I have come to beg you to accompany me to an appointment I took the liberty of making for us both.

"Without question or comment, Rudolph went away with him.

leaving Celia fairly seething with excitement and curiosity.

But the noise of their motor had hardly died in the distance before the silent night was again cut with the roar of a car. "Tala one had a familiar sound that sent the blood to Celia's cheeks and it lit stars in her eyes. Headless of possible spring eggs, she sprang through the garden to the trellis-placed under the acacia tree.

In three minutes, she was in her lover's arms.

Meanwhile Rudolph and the Count were driving in the direction of Tony's house.

"We're stopping off at Captain Jack's," Celia had exclaimed. "The returned tourist from San Francisco where he was to take a train. I have news which promises extreme interest. I have come to beg you to accompany me to an appointment I took the liberty of making for us both.

"Without question or comment, Rudolph went away with him.

"Stops," and the Count, "To tell the truth, he was rather incoherent when I saw him a few hours ago. He had been drinking all the afternoon, I fancy."

Rudolph smiled grimly.

"As you know, there is no love lost between King Osker and myself. I find myself almost tempted to pity him in view of springing the captain on him as the father of his royal grand daughter."

Count Boris laughed outright.

"I am not so sure that the granddaughter herself will not prove a shock to our revered sovereign. The evidence should prove conclusive."

The captain was awaiting them in the living room of the house where he and Marie boarded with a family of better class. He was lit with hanging coal-lamps and was very hot and angry. He was very hot and angry. He was very hot and angry.

"There was also a small chest in the center of the table—a small chest of the same shape of a small chest. It caught and held Rudolph's gaze.

"He felt that the proof the captain claimed to offer was in that chest, and despite an inward skepticism, he was conscious of a thrill of excitement.

"Give me, Masters, and make yourself at home," the captain urged.

The round, red face was redder than ever and moist with heat. He was wrinkled with age, and clung to his big body and emphasized the muscles in his powerful chest and forearm.

"Think up, young fellows," he said, the captain, showing forth toward the bottle and glasses. "I stuff brought straight through from Shanghai by a body of mine—none of the slop to be seen."

In the glasses were filled, the captain continued to stand before his guests with the air of a show man about to introduce the principles in a rare performance.

"With his glass high and head tilted with it as he talked.

"A few days ago," he began, "when Count Boris up and told me he was looking for a certain princess, and that it kind of looked as though my niece might fill the bill, I clean forgot that I had something straight on the head."

He rested his hand on the chest in the center of the table. "Up in France, where my old chest that travelled the globe for the last thirty years is stored away with a haddy. I had this thing that going to prove that it is the girl you are looking for. So I shipped a train up there before yesterday, got the stuff and here it is."

He threw back the lid of the little chest and turned out its contents before the amazed eyes of his audience.

GRANGE MARKS ANNIVERSARY

History of North Cameron Organization Given on 50th Birthday

NORTH CAMERON, Dec. 5.—The 50th anniversary of North Cameron Grange No. 355, was held recently. The business meeting was held with all officers dressed as they used to dress 50 years ago.

At the close of the meeting about 25 of the members dressed in old-time clothes, marched around the room. Several good selections of music and recitations were rendered by the members. A play was given by Gladys and Frank Randall. Mrs. Anna and Annabel were given a seat of honor and a lovely basket of flowers was presented to her. She having been a faithful member of North Cameron Grange for the past 50 years.

Brother P. P. Mison gave an interesting history of North Cameron Grange. It was organized November 9, 1875 at the Gulf School house, by Mr. Treat. The charter members were: Cephus Smith and Matron Christopher Young and sister, Deal, George Eaton, Stull Clark, Isaac Mrs. George Crandall, Jerome Aldrich, Freeman Hines and Matron U. A. Carpenter and Matron P. R. Rummy and Matron Alton Wagoner. Since that time the Grange has grown to a membership of 150.

It has since been replaced by a new one. The Charter was granted by the National Grange, January 21, 1876, the first application was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lincoln on March 1, 1876. The first loss by death was Frank Lincoln, July 2, 1882, January 24, 1889, it was voted to move the Grange from the school house to the W. Mason's Church. The officers for 1889 were installed by A. R. DeWitt of Bath, Maine, February 1, 1889 they met in the hall in Cheque factory for the first time. In 1890, the Grange was a class of 24 initiated in the 4th degree. In the Fall of 1890 the Grange factory burned and all the Grange equipment except an organ. Then the meetings were held for time in P. P. Mason's tenant house. The Good Temple Church, Allen and Grange, leased a plot of ground on E. Merrill in the Gulf. Later a hall was built.

At the close of the meeting they retired to the dining hall for dinner.

DEFENSE WINS BY DECISION

Justice Denies Motion in Action of Ernest Frankhauser and Theodore Shaffer

Notice was received at the office of Cheney & Costello, attorneys here today that Supreme Court Justice Ernest L. Edgemoor, of Syracuse, who presided at the September term at Bath, had denied the motion of the plaintiff's attorney in the case of Ernest Frankhauser and Theodore Shaffer, of this city, against the Indemnity Insurance Company of North America to set aside the verdict of the jury. A no cause verdict was returned in the case following which a motion was made for a new trial in addition to setting the verdict aside and Judge Edgemoor has decided in favor of the defense. The firm of Cheney & Costello appeared for the insurance company in the action.

This was a breach of contract action and involved an automobile accident at East Corning on September 6, 1923 when an automobile owned by the plaintiffs was wrecked when struck by an Erie train. John Haar, aged 47 and William Haar, aged 5 years, passengers in the car at the time and were injured. An action was brought by the Haars against the owners of the car Messrs. Frankhauser and Shaffer and a default judgment was granted to them by a sheriff's jury after the insurance company had refused to defend the action. The present case was then started to recover the amount of the judgment from the insurance company.

PROGRAM FOR ELKS SERVICE

Annual Memorial Exercises to be Held Sunday at Regent Theatre

One of the most beautiful and impressive services ever held by the local lodge of Elks will mark the observance Sunday in the Regent theatre to commemorate the memory of the departed brothers of the lodge.

The musical program with Harry A. Rood in charge, has been arranged and Mr. Rood announces that he has secured the services of Lloyd L. Welsh, of Elmira, popular vocalist, to render several vocal solos. Mr. Welsh is well known in this vicinity and needs no introduction. At the piano to accompany the singer will be Mrs. Elmer E. Wheelock of Corning.

The Elks ritual will be conducted by the officers of the lodge and the main speaker will be Frederick M. Corfield, of Jamestown, who, as F. Rogers, of the local lodge, will deliver the eulogy "Our Departed Brothers."

The officers of the lodge urge all members who can attend the services to be there and extend a very cordial invitation to the public to attend.

The choir of the lodge who will have a part in the program are: Exalted Ruler, Arthur V. Remond; Exalted, Leaning Knight, Harry A. Rood; Esteemed, Leaning Knight, Fred A. Walker; Esteemed, Leaning Knight, E. W. Hendrick; Secretary, John M. Beck; P. E. R., Treasurer, Frank L. McGovern; P. E. R., District Deputy, G. E. R. Esquire, Dr. John A. Frankhauser; The Elks, P. E. R., Kimball; Chaplain, Joseph H. Purcell; Junior Guard, Joseph P. Babbitt; Trustees, Freda Mattay, P. E. R., E. P. Porter, P. E. R., Committee, Mr. Bernhardt and Mr. Rood.

STALKER WILL LEAVE SUNDAY

Congressman from This District to Return for Opening of Congress

ELMIRA, Dec. 5.—Gale H. Stalker, of Elmira, representative in Congress from this district, will leave Sunday for Washington to attend the opening of Congress at 12 noon.

Mr. Stalker stated today that he is in hearty accord with President Coolidge's economy program. The tax question will be considered early in the session and Mr. Stalker will go on record as favoring the elimination of nuisance taxes which include tax on theatre tickets, club dues and other similar assessments. He also will favor the elimination of a tax on automobile parts and accessories.

During the early part of the session Mr. Stalker will introduce his bill to strengthen the Volstead Act. This bill was introduced previously in Congress and was voted favorably in the committee. However, it was not brought to vote in the house. It is necessary at each session of Congress that bills be introduced as new, despite the fact that they may have been introduced at a previous session. —Representative Stalker probably will not return to Elmira until the Christmas vacation.

It is said by Mr. Stalker's supporters that entrance in the race by Senator E. E. Cole, of Bath, was inspired by dissatisfaction regarding the appointment of postmaster in Bath. It is said that Senator Cole desired the appointment of Sheldon Clark, present postmaster. Representative Stalker states he recommended Mr. Clark as the representative of the Steuben County Republican organization.

Although it has been published that Senator Cole will receive the support of the county organization Representative Stalker contends that the Steuben Republican party will support him.

Your Christmas Fund

How Are You Going to Invest it?

Are you going to spend it in knick-knacks or are you going to invest it in something that will bring returns on your investment a hundred fold?

Dollars invested in a Chevrolet automobile represent as good an investment as the intelligent American family can make.

The Chevrolet saves time, it increases efficiency and adds to the working hours by cutting out the cost of slow transportation.

Where the farmer lost a whole day going to the city or village over muddy roads he goes now in his Chevrolet in half an hour.

The well paid mechanic can take jobs near or far, his Chevrolet carries him.

And above all, the Chevrolet is important because of its contribution to human happiness and health.

The small cost of a Chevrolet enables the entire family to have pleasure, with the family united.

You can buy for less than it would cost years ago to get a decent horse and buggy a Chevrolet that will carry you 200,000 miles.

And the cost of the gasoline used, and the oil, which keeps a Chevrolet from wearing out, are small.

Repairs on the Chevrolet in the hands of an intelligent owner are practically nothing.

Only the foolish talk of the Chevrolet as a "pleasure car", that which means economy, greater efficiency, health, happiness and families united is a blessing and a necessity.

The automobile does give pleasure, but it is primarily a useful car, the most useful invention of the human race thus far.

It is easy to pay for a Chevrolet.

Your Christmas fund, in most cases, will be sufficient for your down payment.

The balance you can pay in small monthly installments spread over a year more to suit your convenience.

Your down payment entitles you to the car, and we will deliver you a brand new Chevrolet to your door on Christmas morning or whenever you say.

If for any reason you do not want delivery now, but prefer to wait until Spring, you may deposit your Christmas fund or any part of it you desire with us and we will issue you a General Motors 6 per cent certificate, which will entitle you to 6 per cent interest on your Christmas fund and on any additional moneys you pay to us, until you take your car.

There Are Over 2,000,000 Chevrolet Owners

The number is increasing by leaps and bounds. Why? Because Chevrolet furnishes a quality car at low cost.

If you will call at our showroom or telephone to us, we will be glad to furnish you full information as to our Christmas fund plan for purchasing Chevrolets, our easy time payment plan and our 6 per cent Certificate plan, where immediate delivery is not desired.

CHRYSLER SHIPS 2 TRAINLOADS TO FLORIDA

A record shipment of motor cars for a specific locality was made by the Chrysler Corporation of Detroit recently when two solid trainloads, each consisting of more than 60 freight cars, filled with more than 60 freight cars with more than $225,000 worth of Chrysler Sixes and Fours, left here for immediate delivery to waiting new owners in Florida.

The influx of the advance guard of the southern tourists which have been arriving in Florida during the past month has added to the tremendous sales interest in Chrysler cars throughout the entire state of Florida. The coming winter will unquestionably see new Chrysler sales records established throughout that territory. These two trainloads are expected to be but the forerunners of more trainloads to come as a result of the enthusiasm already experienced for the Chrysler Six and Four.—Advertisement

KNOXVILLE AND LOCAL MEN IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Arthur Storer, of Knoxville, Pa., formerly of Corning and Bladair Mann, of 285 Denison Parkway, are the two men who narrowly escaped death or serious injury Tuesday morning when the car in which they were riding was tipped over and the occupants pinned underneath.

The two were en route to this city from Knoxville and when near the Frank C. Platt farm in the town of Erwin and as they passed the Addison auto, having proceeded in the opposite direction, the car started to skid and turned over in a ditch. Passengers lifted the car so that the two could be released and they were brought to Corning. Both were badly bruised but none of their injuries were serious.

ATTEMPTS TO END HER LIFE

Timely Arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowe Saves Mrs. Guy Ramsey

The timely arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowe at their boarding house, 235 Bridge street, saved the life of the landlady, Mrs. Guy Ramsey, who it is said made an attempt to commit suicide by leaving two gas jets turned on. When the woman was found she was in an unconscious condition and according to Dr. W. F. Cobb who was called, would have been dead in a very few minutes longer. The matter was also reported to the police.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowe had attended a local theatre during the evening and returned to their boarding house shortly after 10 o'clock. As soon as they entered the house they detected the smell of escaping gas. This was traced to Mrs. Ramsey's room and from the hallway the sound of the escaping gas could be heard. Mr. Crowe knocked at the door, and not getting any response attempted to open the door and found it locked. At this he became suspicious and broke in the door. Mrs. Ramsey was found on the bed and two gas jets were open. Mr. Crowe called Dr. Cobb and then reported the incident to the police. In reporting the incident he said that the woman had been in ill health and under the care of a physician for some time, which fact undoubtedly accounted for her rash act.

DAMAGE CLAIM IS NOT UPHELD

Wallace Warner Loses in Action Against Charles Lambert of Painted Post

After being in the courts for nearly two years, the case of Wallace Warner against Charles Lambert, both of Painted Post, and which was originally started in Workmen's Compensation Court here, has been decided by the Appellate Division against the claimant, Mr. Warner. The decision of the Appellate Division was unanimous and held that the claimant could not recover because he was acting as an independent contractor.

Mr. Warner was injured while painting a building on Water street, Painted Post, owned by Mrs. Lambert. The case was taken to Workmen's Compensation Court against Mr. Lambert who had engaged Warner to do the work on the building owned by the wife. Warner was given an award by the referee after numerous hearings the award amounted to $1022.72 for a 30 per cent loss of the use of his right hand. An appeal was made to the industrial board at Rochester by Mrs. Lambert on the ground that he was not the owner of the property and the industrial board affirmed the award of the referee. The case was then moved up to the Appellate Division and in a decision handed down last week the industrial board was reversed. In the decision in which all the justices concurred it was held that no notice of the claim had been filed against Mrs. Lambert and that it was an independent contractor.

Noted Artists to Appear in Concert Monday Night

JEAN HANNON, Coloratura Soprano

CURTIS G. HARROWER, Gifted Pianist

ARTISTS IN CONCERT MONDAY EVENING AT MASONIC CATHEDRAL

Jean Hannon, Coloratura Soprano and Curtis G. Harrower, Pianist, Engaged for First Entertainment

Jean Hannon, coloratura soprano, and Curtis G. Harrower, gifted pianist, will appear in concert in this city Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock under the auspices of the Ashlar Club, at the Masonic Cathedral. This is the first public entertainment presented by the Masonic fraternity of Corning this year and it is expected that these well known artists will be greeted by a capacity crowd.

Both Miss Hannon and Mr. Harrower are well known to Corning music lovers as they have appeared here before and have also been heard frequently on the radio during the past year. Mr. Harrower visited here this summer and became acquainted with a large number of local people and during the past week he has spent one day in the city, renewing these acquaintances.

Miss Hannon is a gifted and youthful recitalist with a great capacity for vocal interpretation and she has a voice bell-like in quality and she interprets the old masters with delicate distinction. Mr. Harrower is perhaps best known for his pipe organ recitals, having broadcast many programs from many of the larger radio stations but he is also an artist of great versatility and has scored high as a piano virtuoso. He has journeyed far into the realm where is found concord of sweet sounds and those who are familiar with the work of these two artists anticipate their appearance here with much pleasure.

Members of the Masonic fraternity are selling tickets for the concert and the demand thus far has been very gratifying. The entertainment is open to the public and the committee in charge, which is headed by William Swazwood, urge all those who have an appreciation of the best in music to attend.

Judge and mayor-elect of Elmira as its president. He responded for the class pointing out the pleasure and benefit all had derived from the work.

The last speaker of the evening was the Rev. G. S. G. Hays, pastor of the First M. E. Church of this city, who gave the Constatory members a real message in urging increased attendance at meetings and renewed interest in the work. He said that the problem of the average Masonic member was to get out of the habit of degrees, their real value. He cautioned against advancing the younger members too rapidly, that in the full power of their manhood they could get the most out of the higher degrees and do the most for Masonry. We should prepare them for real Masonic service."

John P. Hennaway, deputy commissioner of motor vehicles, has announced a new method of hearing cases of motorists whose right to operate cars and whose licenses have been revoked. He plans to hold hearings in the various counties and has announced he will request the boards of supervisors to provide a place for such hearings. Heretofore hearings in cases where licenses have been revoked were held only in Albany and the new arrangement is a convenience for residents of the county. The time and place for such hearings will be announced later by the state department of motor vehicles.

To Omit Meeting
The Girl's Friendly Society of Christ Church will omit the usual supper, Monday evening, and in place of the business meeting, there will be a program of card party, at which prizes will be given, and after which light refreshments will be served.

THE COAL STRIKE

still remains unsolved, although the present indications are that rapid progress is being made towards an ultimate solution of the hard coal problem. Despite rumors to the contrary, we feel quite confident that the hard coal industry will resume operations, at least by the first of the year. However, assuming this to be so, it would be several weeks before any hard coal will reach Corning or any of our neighboring cities. In the meantime substitutes must be provided and the bituminous, or the so-called soft coal, is the only available fuel.

We have an abundant supply in stock of the various sizes of bituminous coal and can make prompt delivery on the receipt of orders.
