

THE EVENING LEADER

KING AND AMBASSADOR UNITE IN PRAISE OF SEAMEN

Flashes of Life as Reflected Over Wire of the Newspaper Press

New York—Although stabbed with a knife in the face in "Terror" that his wig slipped its mooring and he clutched at it when supposed to be dead, and was almost killed, King Alfonso of Spain is on the best of terms with the handsome and husky María Jesús, who defended the king when he was in a faint, says Jesús. Scott agrees.

Moreover, Switzerland—Prince Chichibugah, a student at Oxford, is giving birth by his feet on a shelf, and is also a favorite with the ladies. The king and husky María Jesús, who defended the king when he was in a faint, says Jesús. Scott agrees.

New York—A desk set, carved out of an ashtray from Wilkes-barre's adored Mayor Jimmy Walker, is a record in itself. It comes to providing heat was when members of the Concord Singing Society of Wilkes-barre at the presentation. The king said: "This is a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Bridgport, Conn.—George T. Harrington, a professor of botany, had a comical time this week in getting his crew to work. He came to providing heat was when members of the Concord Singing Society of Wilkes-barre at the presentation. The king said: "This is a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Philadelphia—American builders are to be busy, like muscle

it from William Downie of Chicago. The new bridge over the hudson is coming. No one knows when it will be completed.

New York—Brooklyn's latest pride, nine years old, with Horn, who has a high, bright, clear voice, is to receive gridiron triumph

at the Polo Grounds.

New York—In several months radio stations will be enabled to copy news from the telephone.

It is predicted by Edward

Berlin, noted French inventor.

Democrats on Hunt While Republicans Move to Block Adverse Attempts Planned

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Political Correspondent of The Evening Leader
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—For the second time yesterday, President Coolidge and his cabinet yesterday discussed the general situation in Congress with respect to the tax bill and the other measures.

It is important for the executive branch of the government to make administrative changes with respect to both these measures, and the time is ripe for investigations. The Republicans realize that their Democratic opponents are looking for an issue, so it behoves them to take this defensive.

Democrats are also anxious to have begun. The Democrats expect this session of Congress to have begun. The Democrats have joined and while the Democrats will suffer no political disabilities, having agreed with the Republicans on the revenue measure, they will on the other hand, reach little when it comes to the other things of that kind to the party in power. It was that way when the Wilson administration put into law the first income tax, and several other measures for which political opponents voted.

The World Court presents no problem, as the Wilson administration has reported it with almost all their strength. What then will make the party for the Democrats? They may be given the benefit of the pro-poor settlement.

It may be that a political issue will be made of the episode. This will be the attitude of the Democrats, but no serious delay to the ratification of the agreements for there are enough votes among the Republicans to ratify it.

It takes only a majority vote to amend the present law with respect to the debt between the U. S. and Argentina, and have some support from the Democratic side.

As for politics generally, the Coolidge administration anticipated a budget deficit of $100,000,000 just as soon as Congress gets through with the tax bill. In fact, the fireworks have begun already with the demand

U. S. Weather Report

BINGHAMTON, Feb. 6.—For Binghamton and vicinity: Cloudy and warmer; probably light snow tonight.

Shuler's Forecast: Protect 26-hour shipments north and west from 10 degrees east and south to 10 degrees west.

For Eastern New York: Cloudy and warmer; probably light snow tonight; Sunday fair.

Synopsis: An area of low pressure covers the western portions of the United States and extends into the Great Lakes and the Dakotas. There is some indication that a secondary disturbance may develop over the Southeast. A low pressure cell has fallen on the Pacific coast and snow in the far Northwest.

Temperatures are near the normal expected for the season, where they are above normal.

The Menace of the Mob

Very few individuals in this generation are able to escape the influence of the mob. No nation in the world is more completely dominated by the thinking of the mob than ours.

The widespread circulation of newspapers, magazines and other news mediums makes the circulation of an idea rapid and easy to live in the mob. The mob, like a disease, is contagious, like a virus, who can maintain a balanced mind and a sound judgment is as fortunate as he is rare.

Sane and sober men, in a crowd, will abdicate their reason and follow the mob into the most ridiculous performances.

It is the right of the individual, therefore, to seek his own means of escape from the crowds at times in order to give our minds a airing and our judgments a chance to stretch.

Very few masterpieces have ever been written in the midst of a crowd. The greatest pictures, the greatest songs, the inspirational poems and the educating books have been written in the midst of solitude.

Experience is gathered—in a crowd but judgments are formed in private.

Must here be the value of the sabath. It is not for the sake of pleasing the Creator that men are enjoined to make the Sabbath a day of rest, but that the soul of humanity may have a chance to find itself.

Some religious exercises are just as dangerous to spiritual culture, because of their emotional and nervous demands as the so-called secular pursuits of every day.

An hour spent in quiet meditation under the leadership of good music and serious discussion of important themes has a positive therapeutic as well as a high religious value. Too few of us have ever learned the value of quiet.

Be aware of the menace of the mob.

Locarno and the League

Edmund Morris, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Czechoslovakia and one of the principal authors of the Geneva Protocol, writes as follows about the evolution of the Locarno treaties in the current issue of the quarterly review, Foreign Affairs.

"The World War was the grave of a long series of pacifist endeavours and experiments. The League of Nations is a post-war expression of the undying wish that it is possible to gradually increase the solidarity of mankind, to render difficult, impossible even, the conscious and deliberate slaughter of man by man. The League of Nations, however, went along the path to a more lasting peace, but it does not mean everything. It was therefore supplemented by the Protocol and its system of arbitration.

THEY ALL COUNT
I often think that there is almost, almost unnoticed, everyday acts of helpfulness and kindness that there is in many of the magnificent gestures that are made by ordinary men and individuals. There sits before me in this congregation a man who was turned from drunkenness and sin, from robbery and thievery, from a house and home, three crockers and a cup of coffee given him by a humble neighbor in a time of stress. Today that rescued man is head of a flourishing business.

ber of disputes. They know that the ideal could not be realized at all, but they were certain that they could at least make their attempt. They made their attempt, which was certainly an imperfect one, because they did not wish to pursue a policy of all or nothing and because they were unwilling to risk the loss of their opportunity or the existence of war.

"The development of the negotiations over the security problem showed that we had yet to learn the true meaning of the word 'security,' not elsewhere, but in the League of Nations, the League of the World.

Feeding National Fires

One result of the introduction of a degree of self-government in India has been to intensify and enlarge the demand for independent powers, writes Frederick J. P. Moore, of the Legislative Assembly of India, in the current issue of the quarterly review, Foreign Affairs, (New York).

"When we speak of Indian particularism, or of Indian nationalism, or of Indian independence, we must remember the party politics as practiced—in Britain and America is unknown in India. There are a number of loosely strung organizations that can be called national parties, but their cleavages are indistinct, and in most cases unreal. This is partly due to the character of the present Constitution, and partly to the fact that the Indian National Congress is the Indian national organization.

The General Election of 1923 awakened the interest of the average educated Indian in the names and programs of existing parties—but his cleavages are indistinct, and probably dictated rather by accidental personal influences than by any definite choice of principle, with the probable exception that the Swaraj party possesses the attitude of a big unit for the small, by its mass and momentum.

"In other lands where the science of politics is more widely developed, the parties of politics more effectively practice, the people tend naturally to fall into substantial groups representing definite conflicts of social or economic interests. India is full of national parties, but the national character of the Indian Government and the prevailing irresponsible nature of the Indian Legislatures, both Provincial and Central, tend to draw all the native political groups into a somewhat heterogeneous alliance of opposition against the Government.

"The main line of cleavage is, therefore, racial, and though the fact that there is a racial line between Brahmin and Mussulman, between Brahmin and non-Brahmin, sometimes reaches a climax of the fiercest intensity, neither of them has made its cleavage as clearly upon the provinces as the League did during the last three years as the inevitable cleavage between the Indian and the European India.

"And this must be so," continues Sir Fredrick, "as long as it appears that India has all that material vital to his country, the last word of civilian rests—not with himself or with his fellow-countrymen, but with the Imperialists of London and its servant, the Government of India in Simla, neither of which, he claims, can really understand the needs of his motherland. Western education has awakened him to the fact that both political, economic, and social life has armed him with arguments and precedents to prove that people should govern themselves.

Corn-Shock Tightener

Binding corn shocks is easily done with a simple device of the kind shown in the drawing. The cord is made of three strands of twine, and a length of such cord provided with three steel hooks, as shown. In the middle of each strand is a hook about 10 or 12 in. from the end. By pulling the handle toward himself, the user causes the hook to slide down to the end and the cord is then drawn taut. The shock is then turned downward, the cord holding the shock together while it is being bound with ordinary twine. The

When Plants Sleep

The little sleep of which scientists have endeavored to prove, it is likewise prevalent in the vegetable kingdom. The particular plants in which it is most evident are widely different. A variety of sensitive plant, the mimosa, gets drawn and folded up on its leaves at the time of sunset, while the night-flowering cereus bursts open only at the approach of darkness. Some plants go to sleep at midday while others sleep at night. Some sleep at dawn and sleep at night with great regularity. Plant sleep is said to vary from ten to eighteen hours and is brought about by the intake of carbon dioxide.

To remove the taste of glass from glassware make a thick paste of flour and alcohol and rub over the scratch with a piece of flannel.

Did they bring spiritual enlightenment to the Indians? No. I don't see how they could. They were not the type of Indians with intelligence. Else, why weren't they interested in the Indians themselves, rather than their gold?

Has it been forgotten that the conduct of the Incas was very much better before the coming of the Spaniards? Through the history of North and South America there runs a line or thread of treachery and perfidy, which is quite the reverse of the Indians. If the white man had treated the Indians half-way, white, he would not have been so bad. But the Indians that came to America were the Spaniards, who had handicapped the Indians in every way, making him "travel" a collection of etchings for comfort, and, though the etchings are well chosen, he appears to share the American's idea that there is some mysterious artistic virtue in etching, irrespective of how it is done; but these were not good Indians.

The Spaniards had to bear the brunt of the Spaniards' treatment of the Indians, which brought about later disastrous results upon the white men. —By Joseph Everett Ward in Adventure Magazine.

Portrait of a Man With Red Hair, A Romantic Masacre, by Hugh Walpole, Macmillan and Company

In so far as it is "romantic," Mr. Hugh Walpole's new novel is very well; in so far as it is "macabre" it is a failure. Nothing is more repulsive than the flesh that refutes the flesh, and not all Mr. Walpole's dark allusions to what one supposes must be called "sadism" can make Mr. Cristopher more than a funny little man with nasty habits, and not all his efforts to make Cristopher a representative of manhood fail to offend Walpole's critics.

Jesus Heals and Saves a Blind Man

Text—John 9:1-41

Compte 149 by the Evening Leader
GOLDEN TEXT—"I am the light of the world, he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—John 3:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Blind Man.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Helps a Blind Man.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Jesus Did for the Blind Man.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Christ, the Light of the World.

1. Working the Works of God While It Is Day (vv. 1-5). Problems

Man's mind finds all affliction, negative and positive, was God's retribution for sin. Therefore, they argued that this man's blindness was God's punishment for his sins, too, that the effect of sin is sometimes hereditary. No doubt they inferred the first, the second commandment (Exodus 20:12).

2. He Testified That the One Who Opened His Eyes Was a Prophet (vv. 6-17). Problems

He Testified That This Healer No Doubt Was Sent of God (vv. 20-33). He decried that He was not a prophet, worker of miracles who had appeared since the world began.

3. He worshiped Him as the Son of God (vv. 23-25).

4. He Testified That This Healer No Doubt Was Sent of God (vv. 20-33). He decried that He was not a prophet, worker of miracles who had appeared since the world began.

5. He worshiped Him as the Son of God (vv. 23-25).

6. The Results of His Confidence. As to the People, They Were Divided in Their Opinions. Some believed He was a God, others because of His works, others that He was a simple Galilean. Day 2. As to the Magi. The Cast Out (vv. 36-39). Fateful test result in astracanth from even religious result.

7. As to Jesus. He found the Man (v. 35). Being cast out by the people, Jesus was in the temple of Jerusalem. It is quite often that separation from human fellowship with Jesus is cast out to a deep faith. He did say, "I am a miracle worker, then as a prophet and as the Son of God, I will be the Son of God, He worshipped Him.

8. The Lord's Answer (v. 35-37). The Lord's affirmation that in this case there was neither sin on the man's part, nor that of his parents, nor that of an ordinary cause for the display of the works of God and that He had come to execute the task that was to be done, because the night before, when no man could work, since Christ is the light of the world and the world had challenged His application was the man's eyes. The purpose of Jesus in working miracles was not a mere display of His prodigious power, but "to illustrate in the physical sphere His power in the spiritual sphere." The man's affliction was a physical one, but his physical condition is illustrative of man's inner helplessness in the salvation of his own soul. The man's soul is blind.

9. The Lord's Answer (v. 35-37). The Lord's affirmation that in this case there was neither sin on the man's part, nor that of his parents, nor that of an ordinary cause for the display of the works of God and that He had come to execute the task that was to be done, because the night before, when no man could work, since Christ is the light of the world and the world had challenged His application was the man's eyes. The purpose of Jesus in working miracles was not a mere display of His prodigious power, but "to illustrate in the physical sphere His power in the spiritual sphere." The man's affliction was a physical one, but his physical condition is illustrative of man's inner helplessness in the salvation of his own soul. The man's soul is blind.

10. The Means. Jesus sat upon the ground and made clay of the spittle and anoint his eyes, saying that the means used in this manner were little less than foolish in themselves. The object must have been to teach the people of the inadequacy of the means to the accomplishment of the end, that is, that he must be forced to look to the man to whom he gave them, that he might be convinced that the power was of God.

The object must have been to teach the people of the inadequacy of the means to the accomplishment of the end, that is, that he must be forced to look to the man to whom he gave them, that he might be convinced that the power was of God.

12. The Means. His immediate object was to do no less than to stop to question the reasonableness of the command.

13. The Man's Testimony (vv. 5-14). His testimony we have a fine example of the development of faith. The opening of his eyes aroused inquiry among his neighbors. When a man's spiritual eyes are opened, there will be a stir among his friends.

COUNTRY CLUB
DATES FIXED

Entire Program for Year's Entertainment Outlined; Committee Named

E. G. Seybold, chairman of the local committee, and William J. Mangel, chairman of the entertainment committee, have outlined the entertainment for Corning Country Club for the entire year. The club has appointed committees to take charge of each month's entertainment. F. F. Sherry, who is taking an extended European trip.

The social aspect of the club has grown to such proportions that it is practically impossible for any one to carry the duties of hostess on his own. Harry Ecker, as chairman of the hostess committee, has been divided into two months, and the entertainment committee and the entertainment committee, and then the work of each department will be divided between the two committees, with the chairman each month.

The entire club is warm in its praise of Mrs. Ecker who was tireless through her efficiency and ability gave the club one of the best all year round social programs it has ever had. Her efforts will be rewarded, as she will be honored at the special Supper and Dance.

NEW STRUCTURE BIG CREDIT TO VILLAGE AND ITS RESIDENTS

Gymnasium and Auditorium Inspected; Exceptional Program Given at the Formal Opening

With at least 900 citizens of Painted Post, most of whom were parents, inspecting the building and entering the gymnasium and auditorium, Painted Post's new high school auditorium and gymnasium was thrown open to the public yesterday. General delight over the splendid facilities and the completeness with which they had been provided.

Mr. O. G. Gage, president of the Board of Education and the entire faculty are greatly pleased with the interest shown.

The parents and friends of the pupils not only had an opportunity to go over the entire building, but also to inspect the various parts of the equipment, including the lighting and heating system.

It was generally agreed that Painted Post had a mighty fine building in the new auditorium.

In opening Mr. Wolfe congratulated the citizens of the village and expressed his hearty welcome to the members of the Board of Education and the entire school faculty.

The parents and friends of the pupils not only had an opportunity to go over the entire building, but also to inspect the various parts of the equipment, including the lighting and heating system.

Perhaps the audience and the citizens of Painted Post, at large, were the most enthusiastic. The general delight over the splendid facilities and the completeness with which they had been provided.

Mr. Gage, president of the Board of Education and the entire faculty are greatly pleased with the interest shown.

Continuing the speaker gave a vivid clear history of the progress of education in this state from the time of the first settlers along the Hudson and found a school.

From his ample fund of information, he described the early history of the school system.

In closing he pointed out that the school is a wonderful center for the school and village.

He said, "The school is a place to let you know about it quickly. And they showed their appreciation of the school and the manner in which they conducted the parents and friends about."

But few were willing to leave the evening for its beauty is such as to make one want to linger.

It is a 145' x 100' building.

It is a
