PEACE AGAIN FOR COAL MINERS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Peace reigns today in the 600 square miles of territory comprising the Pennsylvania hard coal fields.

By virtue of the agreement reached yesterday between the miners' and operators' representatives, the disastrous strike, which had kept 155,000 miners in idleness for nearly six months was over and the men were preparing to return to their underground employment.

Reconciliation by a tri-lateral convention of miners, he held in Scranton last Tuesday, is the only formality remaining to make the peace pact effective. No time was expressed by either miners or operators that this approval would be in operation a few days later.

The operators announced that they expected the public would pay "normal winter prices" for domestic coal. It is also expected that the coal will be in operation a few days later.

Settlement of the strike caused a wave of rejoicing throughout the coal regions and dispelled gloom that has shrouded the district all winter, especially in late weeks when long lines of children waited for food at soup kitchens.

The settlement was hailed as a triumph for the miners' wage, and the fact that the strike was ended by a peaceful settlement was hailed as a triumph for the miners' wage.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATIC SENATOR PLAYS TREASURY SECRETARY BUT IS NOT HEEDED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Standing pat for a reduction of the deficit, a billion dollars in the annual fiscal year, the Missouri Democratic Senator plays Treasury Secretary but is not heeded.

The $125,000,000 cut made by the senate over the house bill must run the first of conference between the two houses which will begin next week with a view to final enactment of the measure in time to make the reductions effective with the filing of first tax return on March 15.

Conferees are warned that the condition of the treasury will not permit of the $125,000,000 reduction in the fiscal year.

Under present estimates of the treasury relief sufficient to yield $100,000,000 more would be provided for by the senate bill.

Changes approved by the senate would be provided for by the senate bill.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS MARK ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL WOMAN'S CLUB

Mrs. Charles Farnum and Mrs. Harold V. Milligan, Provide Outstanding Event in Club's History

In celebration of its eighth birthday, Corning Women's Club held a luncheon in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday at 1 o'clock with Mrs. Charles Farnum and Mrs. Harold V. Milligan, two of the ablest women of the State, as speakers. The celebration was an outstanding event in the history of the club but two such eloquent and forceful speakers have been heard on the same date and it is certain that never before has the club presented such a high standard of advancement and growth as was given yesterday.

A. F. Smith met Mrs. Milligan at the train and assisted Mrs. Thomas J. Hart who entertained her for the first time she was in the city. Mrs. Milligan is the wife of the Smith family by marriage. Mrs. Hart also entertained Mrs. Farnum who remained in the city until late last evening.

Mrs. Corwin introduced the following: Mrs. Farnum, Mrs. Corwin introduced the second speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Milligan, chairman of the State Federation, Mrs. Department. Mrs. Milligan's address was on an entirely different aspect of modern life and but served to show the universality of the appeal of a club like Corning Women's Club to types by the different interests represented within both the local and state organization.

Mrs. Milligan pointed clearly and forcibly the dangers and difficulties which women face today, that the best part of one who aspires to a title role in the Metropolitan Opera House. Her point was that the community would increase in size and the sweet voices at home or club send them to New York for a year or two of training with the understanding that they would return to their home community or as elsewhere as musical substitutes, arousing appreciation of good music among the people with whom they are in contact, rather than send them to New York with the Metropolitan Opera House as their aim in life.

At the close of her address, a straw vote was taken in favor of the raising of the dues of the club. Fifty-six votes were cast, 60 in favor of raising the dues and 35 opposed to it. The votes, classified are as follows: 21 in favor of $5 dues and $2 initiation fee; 15 in favor of $5 dues and $1 initiation fee; 20 in favor of $4 dues and no vote on the initiation fee; 22 votes in favor of $4 dues and no vote on initiation fee; two votes opposed to increase in dues but in favor of $2 initiation fee; 23 votes opposed to raising dues and also in any initiation fee; 12 opposed to increase in dues but in favor of initiation fee of $1.

The vote was taken only for the purpose of determining the sentiment of the club members on the questions involved and not for the purpose of settling the matter. A raise in the dues would necessitate a constitutional amendment which would have to be presented to the members 30 days before being acted upon at the regular business meeting of the club.

Recalls Her Experiences
Mrs. Farnum, who spoke first, gave an inspirational address painting in startling fashion the horrors which the Serbian people received by Serbia during the war and the courage and determination of its people. She said in part:

"When I was making speeches during the war asking for funds for Serbia, I found that usually people did not know exactly where the money was going. They said it was so far away and they were giving their money to the Red Cross fund which was so much nearer. So I had to tell them that the money was the next door neighbor of Italy."

"The question which greets my attention is 'How did you happen to go to Serbia?' The Serbian people, such a savage, bloodthirsty people, and I passed through Serbia many times prior to 1913 but had never known any special interest in the country. Then in 1913 I was in Caribiah when a friend asked if I would not like to visit her in Belgrade to see the victorious Serbian army march home. I arrived in time to see my army disbanded after the unveiling of a monument to its leader."

"But I had a great surprise that day. It was a Serbian lady, a great and glorious lady, a Christian country known as the fifth century when the shepherdess and her flock. I thought that seems to be perfectly new to most audiences is that there is a Christian country where the people have lived according to the Golden Rule. They are reported to be quarantined from the rest of the world. They are surrounded by enemies on all sides of the world. They have always been a prey to other nations."

Threat of the Sword
"South of Serbia is the Turk and in the middle ages when Christianity, the Sultan, Turkey, decided to wipe out the new faith by the most thrilling of the march into Europe to get to Rome. But Serbia stood in his way. He had to march through the mountains of the Balkans and the small number of Serbians held off a much larger number of Turks. However, the Turk would let them pass if they peacefully he would grant them freedom and the Turk would let them pass if they peacefully he would grant them freedom and the Turk would let them pass if they peacefully he would grant them freedom."

"While the King of Serbia was debating whether to let the Turkish pass through or face all most utter destruction by trying to prevent him he had a dream in which the mother of Christ appeared to him and said, 'You can't stop them. Inherit the Kingdom of Serbia—' 'I don't want it—' 'Inherit the Kingdom of God.' The Serbians fought the war was wiped out and although the Turks were repulsed before they reached Rome, they raised in Serbia for 500 years during which their schools and churches taken away from her, her daughters were sold into slavery and her sons put in the Turkish army."

"The Serbians fought in caves and forests, always struggling to be free. After 500 years, the Serbians arose and armed themselves no longer slaves but free men. They fought the war, Bulgaria, and the Turkish army. They restored their church—the Greek Catholic—and gradually began a restoration of their land. Although all their literature was wiped out they had kept alive through their little firesides the old stories of their ancestors and when later the Turkish archives were brought to light of day, all these legends were substantiated."

Honored in Her Enemies
"But Serbia found herself surrounded by enemies. Then Mrs. Farnum told of the treachery of Bulgaria when Serbia and the little Balkan allies were fighting the Turk in 1912. Then after the close of the war, Bulgaria was determined to give her share of the spoils even though she had broken faith and not helped win the victory. She was refused and immediately she was against Serbia. Again Serbia was victorious and it was in celebration of this victory that the last of the old Serbian monument the day Mrs. Farnum first became vitally interested in the country."

She told of her arrival in Belgrade and seeing all the soldiers lying around in the shade of the station and such trees as they could find. Turning to her friend she said, 'This reminds me of Naples. So many beggars are in the streets. Her friends said, 'These are not beggars. They are sick and wounded soldiers. Every hospital is full. Every home has its quota and these men who have been fighting for their country are being left to die because there is no place to care for them.'

"This woman had borrowed a school house from the government and was running an emergency hospital here. When Mrs. Farnum visited it she found instead of a smell of blood and gangrene, the soldiers were lying on cots made from frames with three pieces of boards on which were laid sacks filled with straw. They wore the same uniforms they had worn through two wars."

Volunteers Services
Two days after Mrs. Farnum's arrival the British Red Cross unit was withdrawn and the work was left with only one nurse and one surgeon, a young chap from England with no experience. Mrs. Farnum volunteered her services although she was laughed at for doing so. She thought that inspired her. Mrs. Farnum said was the statement of her mother who used to tell her that when she said, 'I won't' she was being impudent but when she said, 'I can't' she was lying for anything her muscles could accomplish, in a mind could make her do."

With that determination she entered the service of the improved hospital."

After most of the wounded were cared for, Mrs. Farnum left Serbia, only to return again when the war broke out. There was a call for returned nurses and although Mrs. Farnum was asked to go and again, she was refused until the Crown Prince Alexei asked her to go with their party. This time she went not expecting to ever live to return. She was imperiled by three wars in the Balkans. Typhus which is carried by body lice was striking its victims right and left and eighty per cent died. However, after the relief units began their work, the percentage of deaths was finally reduced to 20 per cent."

Serbia Again Suffers
There she heard most of the negotiations between Serbia and the Allies. Serbia, knowing the duplicity of Bulgaria, pleaded with the Allies to give them reinforcements in order that they might defend both the Austrian and the Bulgarian front. But the Allies laughed at her. The Bulgarians would turn against them and did not give the needed aid with promise. Serbia was given the promise of peace and immunity by her enemies but would allow them to pass through her country."

Tells of Herodism
Then followed the thrilling stories of the heroism of these people who were driven from their country, mountain peaks were a bitter cold weather that caused them to perish with cold and completely annihilated, yet through it all kept a high burning flame. The Bulgarians, who restore Serbia to the Serbians."

Not a day of the war, the story of her experience in getting from the United States where she had been living, to the front, where she saw the burning of cannons and the firing of shells. She was a sergeant in the Serbian army, after having been the first woman to give nationality to the conquered Serbian soil. Then she returned she went up and down through the mountains preaching propaganda and urging Americans to do their part in the government. Asked her the cause of each time her reply was, 'Alright, make me.' Then when America did enter the war, she was the woman upon whom it depended to help them raise their quotas of munitions, which were done by closing Mrs. Farnum said, 'Our country is in desperate danger. We are worse off today than we were ever. I believe that the day when we should be abolished. All people live while the war settles nothing in the immediate future. 'You have heard speakers tell you better than I a better word, 'magnanimous' and I would tear down our flag, destroy our religion and take our children from our homes. The pertinent part of their program is that they say, 'We don't need a large majority. We need the apathy of the great majority. Let us keep on telling them there is no danger of communism here in the United States; that working man is so well satisfied that there is no room for the spirit of anarchy and Bolshevism.' 'Will Americans waken in time?' They want to take from us that thing for which Serbia died and was resurrected again. They want to take from our God and our liberty."

Following Mrs. Farnum, Mrs. Milligan spoke on the subject of "Music in America and Americans in Music." She said in part:

Last Night

Getting London during International Radio Test Week were not have been considered much of a feat as listeners were supposed to get 2LO then without difficulty. But getting the station last night was an occasion for surprise and the unexpected variety. But such was the case with two radio fans of Painted Post who were at home listening in on station WJZ. News by Glen B. Sims, a well known New York Central employee, and Clinton Pettit, local pianist, both of whom reside at Painted Post, and many other radio listeners.

The announcer at the New York station said he had a little surprise for his audience. He announced that London would be on the air immediately. The mechanical operations were set at the surprise of listeners through their machines. The Painted Post men say they distinctly heard jazz music and could hear the announcer although it was not received with great volume.

COURT CASES CLOG DOCKETS

1,500 Liquor Actions Scheduled to be Heard at March Term in Buffalo

Fifteen hundred liquor cases have been clogging the criminal dockets of the Western New York federal district court since its opening on March 1. March term at Buffalo over which Judge George F. Morris, of New Hampshire, will preside. The term, which will last four weeks will be devoted entirely to an attempt to clear the dockets of dry cases. Many of these cases are from Steuben county.

The congested calendar is the result in part, of an intensive cleaning up campaign launched by Judge Eugene C. Roberts, Jr., district administrator, last October, and continued since with unabated vigor. Nearly half of the cases, however, were made before Judge Roberts assumed command of the docket here. Many are more than three years old.

Each month since Judge Roberts began the drive, raids have been on the increase until in January a record of 308 arrests and seizures valued at $1,500,000 was reached.

It is expected that not more than 200 of the cases on the docket can be cleared in Judge Morris' special term.

MASKED STRANGER IN LEBRANTZ HOME BINDS, GAGS MISS LEBRANTZ

Young Woman is Unmolested After Being Tied; Takes House Key Saying He May Come Back

As the result of being bound and gagged by a masked man who mysteriously appeared in her home after midnight last night, Miss Dorothy Lebrantz, of 150 East Fulton street is a nervous state today, according to a report made to the Corning police shortly after 2:30 o'clock this morning. A pastoral investigation was made by the police early this morning and further efforts are being made this afternoon to learn the identity of the stranger.

The full details of the exciting experience of Miss Lebrantz could not be learned by the police this morning, as the young woman is under the care of a physician due to the nervous shock which she received. It was expected that by late this afternoon she would be able to give complete details.

The first that was learned of the young woman's predicament was about 2:30 o'clock this morning when her father, William Lebrantz, had occasion to arise and go to the first floor of the home. There he found his daughter lying on a couch, bound and gagged, being unable to move or yell for help after being released she told her story.

About 12:30 o'clock last night Brantz arose to go down stairs and as she passed the front door of her home she noticed the key to the door on the floor. She picked it up and placed it in the lock and as she did so, a masked man, with a revolver in his hand suddenly appeared in front of her. She was ordered into an adjoining room, according to the statement to the police, and then bound and gagged with her own stockings which the masked man took of the young woman. One stocking was used to tie her ankles and the other was tied around her head after a handkerchief had been stuffed into her mouth. A piece of silk ribbon was used to fasten her wrists together.

Mr. Lebrantz immediately notified the police and Captain Shiner accompanied by Patrolmen Morse and Rose went to the home. When questioned the young woman told the officers that after the stranger had bound and gagged her, he informed her that he was the one who recently stole some furs from her father. And as certain rain the couch on which the young woman was lying and pointed out his car in front of the house and at that time there was a man sitting in the machine. She told the officers that the stranger informed her that this man was his chauffeur.

There was a white poodle dog in the room at the time and the masked man called the animal by name, "Pepi" and gave it some candy, she said. After that he stayed but a short time but leaving he told Miss Lebrantz that he would take the door key as he might want to use it on some future occasion. The young woman was not further molested, according to her report and nothing was disturbed or taken in the home.

She was unable to give much of a description of the man as she said he wore a mask over his eyes and a handkerchief over the lower portion of his face. Miss Lebrantz told the officers that he was about five feet, seven inches in height and was rather slim but had very broad shoulders. He wore a raised gray overcoat and a cap and had shaggy white hair on his feet, the woolly part of the overcoat being on the outside. She also said that the man had been drinking liquor. After leaving the house he went to the automobile outside and drove away toward the east, the report further stated.

Mr. Lebrantz when questioned stated that he was positive he had locked the doors when he retired about 11 o'clock at which time the other members of the family were already in bed. No marks were found by the police on the doors or windows to indicate that an entered entrance had been made. The police say that there were no footprints in the snow about the house.

Miss Lebrantz was quite severely injured a few weeks ago when she was struck by an automobile while crossing Market street and she only recently left the hospital, according to the police report.

WANT ENLIGHT FOR NEW-BUFFALO DEPARTMENT?

According to news dispatches from Buffalo a plan is underfoot in that city to bring Richard E. Burleigh, of New York, to Buffalo as a commissioner of the department of public safety.

Buffalo has no such office at the present time but it is said that such an office is to be soon created. The report, however, is denied by Mayor Schwab. Mr. Burleigh is a native of Buffalo and was a commissioner of the department of public safety.

Mr. Lebrantz immediately notified the police and Captain Shiner accompanied by Patrolmen Morse and Rose went to the home. When questioned the young woman told the officers that after the stranger had bound and gagged her, he informed her that he was the one who recently stole some furs from her father. And as certain rain the couch on which the young woman was lying and pointed out his car in front of the house and at that time there was a man sitting in the machine. NO CHANGES IN PHONES

Dial System Not Expected to be Adopted Here as in Many Cities

This city is not included in any immediate plan of the New York Telephone Company to change over to dial or automatic telephone system, although the system is being changed, either whole or in part in nearby cities, such as Ithaca, Syracuse, Williamsport and other cities are now being changed over to the automatic system.

Men employed by the Bell Telephone Company are engaged in changing Williamsport, Pa. from the manual telephone to the machine switching or dial sets in advance of the changes to the new system, which will take place later next summer.

About 8,000 telephones in Syracuse will be changed to the machine switching system on Saturday February 20. With the change more than half the telephones in Syracuse will be under the dial system.

WESTERN UNION FOLK RECEIVE ANNUAL BONUS

Three employees of the Western Union Telegraph Company in this city will receive their share of the bonus given by the company and covering the last half of 1925. Those employees who have been with the company since July 1, 1924, will receive 45 per cent of one month's pay as a bonus. The first half of last year they received 15 per cent of one month's salary.

Company employees throughout the country share in the bonus which is given semi-annually.

The Strike Is Over

It's great news but unfortunately it will be perhaps a month before the supply of hard coal will be adequate to meet the demands. In the meantime, we suggest the use of Anna S which is making a reputation in this community, this year that approaches the desirability of even anthracite. Then, too, there is Morris Run washed coal which as a substitute ranks among the best.
