REXVILLE ROAD WORK STARTED

Reconstruction Begins on Greenwood-Rexville Road Finished Last Year

HORSELL, May 22.—Reconstruction has started on a section of the Greenwood-Rexville road that was finished last year but which state highway department officials found lacking in thickness in several places. The road was built by a Mount Morris concern and is being reconstructed by the same firm.

Henceforth the state accepted the report of the inspection engineers as the basis of its acceptance policy was followed. By means of a boring machine sections of the road were removed and where the construction was not in accordance with specifications, rejections were made on the spot.

The distance between Greenwood and Rexville is about four miles but only about a mile will have to be rebuilt. In some places it is said that the concrete road built last year is an improvement under the specifications and where such conditions were found the road must be reconstructed.

EMIRA WOMAN TAKES LIFE

Mrs. Mary Palmer Jennings Suicides by Chloroform

ELMIRA, May 22.—Mrs. Mary Palmer Jennings, 66, the widow of a former prominent Elmira merchant, was found dead at her home, 917 West Water street, about 9 o'clock Friday night. She had expired about 24 hours after the onset of chloroform asphyxiation, a condition which is usually fatal.

Dependancy, induced by falling health, is thought to have been the cause of her suicide. A note written in pencil and a note deprecating Elizabeth L. Hathaway of Meville, Pa., to take care of her effects were found on a bureau in the bedroom.

Mrs. Jennings was last seen alive about 10 o'clock Thursday morning by David S. Chang, a roomer at the Jennings' home. Mr. Chang, who is a draughtman at the American Brick Company plant, informed Coroner S. Tracy Hamilton, M. D., who investigated the case, that he had seen his breakfast table prepared for him on the table in the event that she did not arrive.

Friday morning he partook of the breakfast but thinking that anything was amiss in the household, he called on Friday evening that Mrs. Jennings' body was discovered. Dr. A. Lande was summoned and on examining the remains pronounced her dead and sent her to the coroner.

Two Buffalo men, Edward Sand and Lyman White, witnessed the accident and in aiding the victim on the face and hand. The wreckage of the car was burned at the Campbell boulevard.

He said he applied the brakes, the car skidded, took the dirt and turned over.

Sand, after receiving medical aid at the hospital, took the car and the wrecked car passed his machine at a rate of 100 miles an hour and five hundred yards beyond, left the road at a curve and turned turtle. The car crashed into a tree, caught fire and was totally burned.

The victims were on their way to the first dance of the season at Olcott Beach.

RUFFALO.—The population of the Erie county jail average about 130. There are 96 men, nine women and two witnesses.

MORRIS CHILD KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

ONEONTA, May 22.—(AP)—Bertha Washburn, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Washburn of Morris, 14 miles from here, was instantly killed at the foot of Prospect Hill, about a mile from Morris, when she was struck by an automobile while crossing the highway. The driver of the car failed to stop. The body was carried by the car for 100 feet before being stopped and was greatly mutilated.

If Rip Van Winkle Should Awaken Again

When Rip Van Winkle awoke from his twenty years of sleep he found his old friends gone and the world in a new era. If he could awake now, after twenty years of sleep, he would find more startling changes than he found after his first hibernating experience. For instance, he would find, as he totters on weak legs across the road, that a new speed demon had come into existence. One menace life and limb. He would find that thousands of lives are sacrificed and thousands of dollars lost yearly in this new monster—the auto. But then, too, he would find a protection against the losses made by the auto. And that protection is adequate insurance.

This agency, for more than three times the number of years in sleep, has been serving the people of this community with insurance protection. By its methods it has kept alive the spirit of service instituted by the founder. And has built up an enviable reputation for courtesy to its clients. Consult us today.

The Disarmament Program

The preliminary disarmament conference to meet at Geneva May 18 will be plenty of difficult questions to discuss.

The French government lays down these conditions: 1. That no country will have more neighbors than allowed larger armed forces than those which exist in the neighborhood.

This means evidently that France's European allies, being regarded as not "troublesome" and not industrial, should be allowed to maintain a small military power by land, sea and air.

Great Britain and the United States, being so large, should be allowed to require so much armament as France and her particular European friends require.

There is something in this argument, unquestionably. But how far the principles may be pushed is open to debate.

A Fundamentalist Victory

The Book of Genesis was taken as to Eve and the serpent, says Robert Howe, for twenty-seven years keeper of the "Book of Genesis" in the Fairmount Park Zoo, Philadelphia.

"They are fascinated by our snakes," asserts the veteran keeper. "They come to see and stand and stay for hours; and then standing perfectly motionless, just watching the big reptiles."

But Bobby is dead, too. He slipped on an orange peel not long ago. He broke his leg. The leg was amputated. "Bobby" was put in. Death had the last laugh on Bobby Leach.

Which is only the tale that insurance companies and other suspicious figures tell again and again. "Occupations of risk," even plain "accident prone," kill the few persons compared with the one who slips on the stair step, the kitchen stepladder and the rusty tack.

Bobby Leach

Nobby Leach went over Niagara Falls in a barrel and came out of that tremendous battering whirlpool alive.

Bobby Leach, one July day 15 years ago, crashed through space with the thunder of raging waters beating him into insensibility.

Belated Spring and Roads

One of the aftermaths of a belated spring is the delay in necessary road construction and maintenance.

While in May the sky abrades peeps its scented purple haze, up above its leafy cover just to watch yes as you tread.

They's another month, October 'N' I wouldn't miss a day of it. Or of 'n' golden 'n' of autumn roundelay.

While right here in December, come to mention 'n' present times, I am bursts! with the music of the snowy moonlight chimes!

I like winter, Summer, too. 'N' spring 'n' fall; 'N' winter, Summer, too. 'N' spring 'n' fall; 'N' winter, Summer, too. 'N' spring 'n' fall.

May

According to mythology, May was the daughter of Atlas and the mother of Mercury by Jupiter.

This explains a great deal! Blood will tell. The volatile nature of the month is accounted for, the variable and capricious qualities understood—Mercury was his mother's own son. Yet, whilst it seems eminently safe now to sing the Song of Solomon, which the place of honor at the head of the dissertation. Spring has come, and May is here in something more than name.

There can be no mistake about it, spring is at hand. For 'tis here and there upon the streets of the city the straw that appears, furtively and cautiously now, but by and bravely and bitingly, afterwards, the fashions, those ten-dollar gold pieces fresh from the mint of spring, are, bespangling every grassy sward.

The apple trees are in blossom, and the nightingale now in the song. Henry Ward Beecher averred that an apple tree in bloom puts up with the worst of weather, but when tempted to dress itself in its green, a strong statement, this, and admits of some qualification and exception. Still, it commends the apple tree and can not possibly detract from a maiden lying in platted crepe skirt and acquiescent, silk stockings and shoes to match—nothing can detract from her. An apple tree in bloom is not the first of June, but the first of June that begins to demand attention. House-making and home-keeping even among the birds is now in vogue.

Decision of the war department to abandon plans for a national defense test this year is a wise one in view of the opposition that developed in the two years in which the tests were attempted.

The first national motorist of civilization, in 1924, was held at the point of General Pershing, commemorated the sixth anniversary of the battle of St. Mihiel.

The war department wanted the nation's motorists to be on armistice day. Announcement that it would probably be held on that date was sent out from Washington, but before the plans had been voted they were with the suggestion that July 4 be substituted as a master date, however, July 4 proved to be very unpopular and as a result it was not generally observed.

Air Menace

Air traffic, being largely non-stop, hasn't yet been regulated in any appreciable extent. Yet it ought to be.

An airplane, sailing a thousand feet above the city of Colorado Springs, took a flap when the pilot was tempted to dress itself in its green, a strong statement, this, and admits of some qualification and exception.

That's an unusual occurrence, it's unusual because airplanes (compared with motor cars) are still unusual. Before, Henry Ford gets through with them you'd be surprised if he has the air fill of them.

CORNING CASE IS DISMISSED

Action Against George W. Pratt and C. F. Keyes Reverts to Original Status

Justice S. Nelson Sawyer in an equity case of the Supreme Court at Hornell yesterday dismissed the complaint in the case of James O. Keyes and Clarence F. Keyes, of this city. The action was brought on grounds of fraud, the plaintiff alleging that a default had been taken against him in City Court here some time ago by fraud.

In dismissing the complaint Justice Sawyer termed the litigation a result of misunderstanding between the attorneys and by his verdict reverted the entire case to its original status. The original City Court action was the outcome of an effort made by Keyes to collect a sum of $44 said to be due him for wages. No costs were assessed against either party in the equity matter.

An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted the plaintiff in the case of Mrs. Dora Hayward of Hornell against her husband, Burr Hayward. There was no defense offered.

Sara E. Watt was granted a bill of separation from her husband, John F. Watt and the latter was directed to pay the wife $15.00 per week.

The motion for a change of venue in the case of Peter D'Angelo will be argued Monday in Supreme Court at Canandaigua. This motion was to have been argued yesterday but Justice Sawyer deferred it until next week.

SOUTH CORNING VOTES APPROPRIATION $57,500 FOR SCHOOL BUILDING

By Vote of 65 to 29 Taxpayers Favor Proposition; Vote for Grounds Costing $2,500 Also Carried by 60 to 37

The new school proposition at South Corning was carried by an overwhelming majority at the special meeting of the voters of the district No. 2, Town of Corning, held last night in the Community Church building. By the terms of the proposition, the appropriation of $57,500, for the erection of a modern, two-story school building equipped with adequate schooling facilities, is made. The second question, that of the appropriation of $2,500 for the purchase of suitable grounds was also carried by a vote of 65 to 29.

Approximately 100 voters were present at the meeting, 43 voting on the first question and 60 on the second. The question of the erection of the first school as proposed was carried 65 to 29 while the vote of the second appropriation was 60 in favor and 31 opposed.

Plans for the new school building, by which the estimate of the cost was obtained, have already been prepared by the architect, J. P. Clark, of this city, who has been commissioned to prepare the plans and state approval of them has been received. Mr. Tietzel was present at the meeting and represented the plans to the voters.

District Attorney Guy W. Cheney also spoke at the meeting. He outlined the rules of the New York State Education Board and the State Education Department, in an effort to present forcibly to the voters the necessity of the erection of the new school, and the approval of the proposition he carried. He then read the resolution of the question to be voted on.

Mr. Tietzel was then presented and gave a brief account of the proceedings and explained the various propositions and plans that had been discussed and gave some statistics, gathered from investigations of schools of the class in the state, which prove that the school that in comparison with the other schools of the South Corning school will be low. He then gave an excellent account of the new school building, which will be of the north of the main entrance.

The new school will be of the north of the main entrance. It will be of the north of the main entrance. It will be of the north of the main entrance. It will be of the north of the main entrance.

The banquet was presided by the conferring of the 32nd and last degree of the order.

George R. Hemeway, of Elmira, Commander-in-Chief of the Consistory, presided as toastmaster at the banquet and although most of the talks were along humorous lines the spirit of co-operation and optimism prevailed throughout.
