YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Herb Pennock held the Cardinals to three hits today while his Yankee teammates led by Babe Ruth, battled their way to a 2-1 victory over the National League champions in the opening game of the World's Series.

An estimated record breaking crowd of 65,000 fans in the mammoth stadium saw the American League titleholders gain a close and exciting victory in a hazy but spectacular setting.

Pennock outpitched two St. Louis rivals, Willie Sherdel and Jess Haines, right hander, who took up the mound burden for the Nationals after the Yankees had tallied the winning run in the sixth inning.

Play By Innings

Following is the play by play of the World Series by Carl S. Brandebury.

First, Cardinals

Pennock warmed up in the box while a flock of photographers were chased from the playing field. The crowd gave a great cheer as Babe Ruth and his mates trotted on the field. Douthit up. Pennock was working his big curve. Douthit got a two base hit into right. Douthit is ordinarily a left field hitter. Southworth fouled the ball into the right field stands. Lazzeri threw out Southworth at first, Douthit going to third. Hornsby up. The crowd cheered the Cardinal leaer. The Yankee infiel came in on the grass. Pennock threw out Hornsby at first and Douthit was held at third. Douthit scored on Bottomley's single just over Dugan's head. Bell drove a long foul into the left field stand. Ruth came in and took Bell's fly. One run, two hits, no errors.

First, Yankees

Combs up. Combs got a base on balls, the fourth pitch being inside. Koenig tried to bunt but fouled the ball. O'Farrell tried to pick Combs off first. Kienig flied out to Southworth. Ruth up. The crowd gave Ruth a big hand and the St. Louis outfielders backed out against the fences. Ruth got a base on balls and the crowd hooted Sherdel. Sherdel tried to pick Combs off second but Combs beat the throw to the bag. Hornsby came in and talked to Sherdel. Meusel also walked and the bases were filled. Gehrig up. Combs scored when Gehrig forced Meusel, Thevenow to Hornsby. Ruth going to third. Thevenuow threw out Lazzeri at first. One run, no hits, no errors.

Second Cardinals

Sherdel worked nothing but a curve on the Yankees, all during the first inning, but his control was bad. Hafey tried to bunt. Koenig made a wonderful play on Hafey's seeming hit and, with a long throw, got him at first. Koenig also threw out O'Farrell, coming in fast to take O'Farrell's slow roller. Pennock had his old drop hook working. Lazzeri took Thevenow's hopper and threw him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Yankees

It was very gloomy and hard to follow the course of the ball. Dugan shot a single into left field for the Yankees' first hit. Severeid flied out to Hafey. Pennock sacrificed. Sherdel taking his bunt and tagging him on the line. Douthit took Combs' short fly. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third, Cardinals

Sherdel up. The Yankee outfield played a shallow outfield for Sherdel. Sherdel struck out on three pitched balls, swinging wildly for the third. Pennock took Douthit's bunt, with a fast throw nailed his man at first. Southworth sent up a high foul to Severeid, who took the ball near the screen. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third, Yankees

Koenig up. Koenig sent a sharp single to left. Ruth tried to sacrifice but forced Koenig, O'Farrell to Thevenow. Sherdel threw out Meusel at first, Ruth going to second. It was the hit and run play. Ruth slid into second and time was called until his wearing apparel could be mended. This gave the crowd a big laugh. Sherdel fooled Gehrig on two wide curves. Sherdel tried to catch Ruth off second, but Ruth slid back to the bag safely. Hafey took Gehrig's towering fly. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth, Cardinals.

Hornsby up, and again he got a big hand. Koenig threw out the St. Louis manager at first. Bottomley called out on the pitched ball, letting a third strike sail over with his bat on his shoulder. Bell tried to hit but fouled the ball. Bell got a walk. Koenig tossed out Hafey at first. Gehrig making a nice pick up of Koenig's low throw. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth, Yanks

Lazzeri struck out, missing a curve by three feet. Thevenow threw out Dugan. Severeid sent a fly out to Hafey. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth, Cardinals

So far the pitchers had the upper hand of the batters. Meusel gathered in O'Farrell's hoist. Thevenow up. Lazerri took the Thevenow's bunt and tossed him out at first. Sherdel up. Meusel took Sherdel's pop fly back of short. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth, Yankees

Pennock got a hand. Thevenow juggled Pennock's grounder but threw him out. Combs singled into left. Koenig hit into a double play, Thevenow to Hornsby to Bottomley. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth, Cardinals

Joe Dugan took Douthit's grass cutter and threw him out. Southworth flied out to Meusel. Dugan made a nice play on Hornsby's difficult hopper and tossed him out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth, Yankees

Ruth singled past Bell. The Yankee hitter choking his bat. Meusel sacrificed. Sherdel to Bottomley, Ruth racing for second. Ruth scored on Gehrig's sharp hit to right. Lazzeri singled. Past Thevenow and when Gehrig tried for third he was thrown out Hafey to Bell. Lazzeri went to second on the throw. Bell juggled Dugan's grounder Lazzeri sliding safely into third It is now beginning to rain again. Severeid forced Dugan, Thevenow to Hornsby. One run, three hits, one error.

Seventh, Cardinals

The crowd stood up and began rooting. Bottomley went out to Gehrig, unassisted. Bell sent up a foul which Severeid snared. Hafey struck out, swinging weakly on a low curve. Pennock was pitching magnificent ball, not a hit being made off him since the first inning, when two were made. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh, Yankees

Pennock went out, Thevenow to Bottomley. Hornsby made a nice play on Combs' roller and tossed him out. Koenig shot a fly out to Hafey. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth Cardinals

O'Farrell got a base on balls, the fourth ball being wide. Thevenow sacrificed, Dugan to Gehrig. Flowers batting for Sherdel. Pennock took Flowers' grounder and O'Farrell was run down, the play being Pennock to Tozerri to Dugan. Flowers went to second on the play. Douthit got a base on balls. Holm batted for Southworth. Combs made a fine catch of Holm's short fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Eighth, Yankees

Ruth limped a littl eas he came to the plate, meanwhile there was a delay as the St. Louis pitcher walked across the field from the bull pen. Maines now in the box for St. Louis. In the dark light Hornsby had called up a fast ball pitcher. Haines warmed up a bit in the box. Haines is using nothing but a slow ball. Bell threw out Ruth at first. Meusel had to step away from the ball. Ball two, Meusel had to sidestep another one. Meusel got a ticket to first. Gehrig up. Strike one, called. Gehrig flied out to Hafey. Haines tried t caotch Meusel off first. Lazzeri grounded out to Bottomley who touched him as he dashed to the bag. No runs, no hits, no errors.

COBHAM BACK IN LONDON

England's Long Distance Flying Ace Received With Open Arms

LONDON, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Home from a 28,000 mile aerial jaunt to Australia and back, England's long distance flying ace, Alan Cobham, was received by London today with open arms.

He brought his seaplane down on the Thames in front of the parliament building at 2:26 p. m. amid the roars of vast crowds lining both sides of the river, and went ashore to receive an official welcome which included a personal message from the king.

Typical of the regularity of his progress throughout the journey, he completed the last lap, from Sartrouville, near Paris, only a few minutes behind schedule.

To the layman, at least, he had accomplished his object, which was to prove the possibility of the regular air service to the Antipodes, which the government proposes to sponsor.

Taken ashore in a tug with his mechanicians, Ward and Captel, he was welcomed on the parliament terrace by his wife and government officials.

WRONG DOING BY REPUBLICANS NOT SUPPORTED

Motive Uppermost in Minds of Department of Justice in Daugherty Case

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Political Correspondent for The Evening Leader. Copyright 1926, By The Evening Leader.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Never shall it be said that the Coolidge administration countenanced any wrong doing by Republicans in high office—this is the motive which has been uppermost in the minds of those in the Department of Justice, who are striving hard to convict a former attorney general, Harry M. Daugherty, and to invalidate the oil leases made by a former secretary of the interior, Albert B. Fall.

The legal battle over the Teapot Dome leases is long drawn out but the government by its victory in the Federal Court at St. Louis moved its battle still further toward the highest court in the land where a final adjudication would be reached.

Mr. Coolidge began his term in 1923, about the same time the public was shocked by the revelations in Teapot Dome scandals. During the campaign of 1924 the Democrats endeavored to make an issue of the Teapot Dome revelations but the voters refused to straddle Mr. Coolidge with any blame and accepted his promise that Republicans or Democrats would be prosecuted with relentless vigor. So far as the oil cases are concerned, the administration has not allowed matters to drift but has pressed for action through every lower court and made an appeal promptly to the higher courts wherever an adverse decision was given. As for the Daugherty case, the government has been slowly collecting evidence and District Attorney Buckner in New York is handling the matter to the satisfaction of officials here because he is drawing as closely as possible the web of circumstantial evidence on which the indictment was based.

Whether Mr. Buckner obtains a conviction depends on the jury, of course, but the publicity given to the case by the prosecution is considered here ample refutation of any suggestion that the former attorney general is being whitewashed.

This much is true—if the administration had not proceeded with the case the political speakers would have been making capital out of it this Fall and unquestionably in 1928 because no matter how effectively it might be argued that Mr. Coolidge knew nothing of the events which took place in the alien property custodian's office, or in the Department of the Interior, he has been and is responsible now for the operations of the Department of Justice, which has been prosecuting charges of bribery, fraud and conspiracy.

The hope of the government officials is that so far as the Department of Justice is concerned all the cases will have been cleared up before the 1928 campaign begins so that instead of a liability, the activity of the department may be an asset.

Total stock sales 1,848,700 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Alternate periods of weakness and strength characterized today's stock market. Prices shot upward at the opening, when an impressive buying demonstration was staged in a few high priced industrials, broke sharply on a combination of bear selling profit taking and then made irregular recovery from the low levels.

The bulk of the day's operations reflected the play of opposing speculative forces, with outside participation reported on a relatively small scale. With over half a billion dollars disbursed in dividend and interest payments this month, operators for the rise acted o nthe theory that a large portion of it would find its way into the stock and bond markets and endeavored to make their favorites look attractive to investors and speculators. On the other hand, bears continued to stress the relatively high money rates and to attack issues whose current earnings were believed to be out of line with their assets and earnings power.

Nearly a score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year, or longer during the session. Buoyancy of General Motors failed to find any response int he other motors. Mack Trucks and Hudson being liquidated in rather large volume. A four point jump in Sloss Sheffield Steel was one of the late features.

Rails were a bit sluggish, with heavy profit taking apparent in Norfolk and Western and Chesapeake and Ohio, which were strong earlier in the week.

Another outburst of strength characterized the opening of today's stock market with General Motors, DuPont and Norfolk and Western quickly elevated to record high levels. Collins and Aikman showed an initial gain of four points, Commercial Solvents B 3 1-2, Union Bag and Paper 2 1-4 and International Telephone, Woolworth, Baldwin and Atlantic Coast Line a point or more.

Buying operations centered in the high priced industrials in the early trading. General Motors was bid up nearly four points to 173 before the end of the first half hour and DuPont extended its gain to nearly 7 points by selling close to 360. U. S. Steel was bid up 1 1-2 points to 154 3-4 indicating that Wall street was little concerned over the new foreign steel combine.

Although call money is expected to remain firm for most of the month, due to the heavy agricultural demand for funds, speculators for the advance do not anticipate any credit stringency. Judging from the weekly mercantile reports, business is being maintained in large volume, with no indications of any serious slowing up in any of the basic industries.

Short covering operations were again in evidence in many stocks, but bear traders continued to ferret out weak spots. Warner Pictures "A" was again under pressure and American Smelting sold a point below yesterday's final quotation. Foreign exchanges opened steady with trading quiet.

Financial & Industrial

NEWS AND COMMENTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Fears of a credit stringency continued to send chills through this week's securities markets. Stock prices drifted lower during the early part of the week but turned briskly upward on the retention of the 4 per cent re-discount rate by the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the reduction in call loans from 6 to 5½ per cent. The advance was by no means uniform. Bond prices lost ground, but new offerings again ran close to $100,000,000.

Although unfavorable weather brought about some irregularity in distributive trade during the week the business situation, in the main continued favorable. Freight car loadings continued to establish record high levels, bank clearings are being mainlined in large volume, and there has been no appreciated let-down in the production of basic industries.

Revival of activity and strength in the copper shares, despite the sharp drop in silver prices, was one of the outstanding features of the week. Buying of these issues was influenced by unconfirmed rumors that the regular dividends on Kennecott and American Smelting would each be raised $1 this month. U. S. Steel rallied 10 points from last week's low, but the other issues in that group failed to make headway.

Special buying of General Motors, based on the prospect of another large cash dividend this fall, sent that stock up to a new record high price above $169 a share for the present issue. Other motors were inclined to sluggishness, however, with persistent reports that some of the smaller companies will be forced to cut or omit their dividends within the next few months.

Reports of gasoline price cutting in the far west had a depressing effect on the oil shares. A sensational advance in Commercial Solvents issues featured the chemical group. Tobaccos, public utilities, equipments and sugars presented several points of strength. Erratic fluctuations took place place in the amusement issues as a result of conflicting merger and leasing reports.

Railroad shares made irregular response to record breaking earnings and traffic statements. Raising of the regular dividend on Baltimore and Ohio common from $5 to $6 failed to rally that stock, probably because a $7 a rate was expected in many speculative quarters. Union Pacific was bid up to its highest price in over 15 years and "Nickel Plate" common sold at the highest price in its history.

WALL ST BRIEFS

SEABOARD AIR Line Railway has distributed large orders for equipment costing $11,336,000 to be financed by the sale of equipment trust certificates through Dillon, Read and Company, with approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Baldwin Locomotive Works got an order for 50 Mikado and mountain type engines and American Car and Foundry, Pullman Company and Pressed Steel Car Company each chared in the distribution of cars.

FLORIDA CITIES will offer for sale to bankers next week about $10,000,000 in bonds, including two small issues in the hurricane district, giving Wall street its first opportunity to measure the financial effect of the erecnt disastrous storm on Florida's obligations.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT of commercial failures in the United States for the nine months this year shows the largest number for that period since 1922, but liabilities, though exceeding those of last year, were considerably below the same periods of 1924, 1922 and 1921. A total of 15,125 defaults with liabilities of $462,-810,996 were increases respectively of 5.3 per cent and 29 per cent over the same period last eyar.

GLASS WORKS REPORT FINE

Only One Minor Accident Puts Plant in Second Place In State Campaign

A sprained ankle suffered by one of the employes resulting in 24 hours lost time, placed Corning Glass Works in second place in the Lost-Time Accident Prevention contest in which Corning Glass Works is entered.

Four other factories have 100 per cent record, while the record of the local plant is now 99.989 per cent. A small amount of lost time due to accident, in the fourth week of the contest, has kept the average of the plant at 99.989.

However, officials are not despairing of winning first place in the contest, as all the concerns with 100 per cent are small manufacturing plants and one accident, even as slight as those at the local plant will bring their averages down much lower than the present average of Corning Glass Works.

BIG ADIRONDACK BEAR BECOMES MUTTON THIEF

SARANAC LAKE, Oct. 2 (AP)—A big black bear with a taste for mutton is causing heavy losses to sheep owners in the Harkness district by its raids on flocks pastured in Adirondack meadows.

The bear's methods of satisfying its appetite for fresh meat is to kill one sheep, carry it into the woods and eat only the choice cuts. When brain again hungers the raid is repeated.

Black bears are protected by law until mid-October. They may then be hunted for one month, but may not be trapped.

DUNDEE GETS LOWER RATES

Electricity To Be Cheaper As Result of Satisfactory Arrangement

DUNDEE, Oct. 2.—Dundee and vicinity will begin to receive the lower rates in electricity this month. The new rate schedule will be on the bills sent out the first of next month. The lowering of the rates was due to the fact that the business men of this place made out a petition to the Public Service Commission, which in turn notified the New York Electric Corpertaion and advised that if satisfactory arrangements could be made with the village, the Commission would not interfere. The company at once sent a representative here to confer with a committee and together they made out a satisfactory rate schedule. The village was paying a higher rate than other places obtaining current from the same company and from the same power house at the outlet of Keuka Lake. People using electricity for business purposes will be given a special rate that will make it worth while to install the electric motors.

People who have driven Buicks for years and people who have owned much more expensive cars, are captivated by the luxury of this one.

PRAYER—O Lord, Thou hast said, "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go.'

Taking an Inventory

Every city likes to grow, and every town likes to develop into a city. It is human nature to desire progress, and it is the progress we make which marks us from the lower animals.

Of course every city cannot develop into a metropolis, and all towns cannot develop into great manufacturing cities. But in nearly every city and town it is possible to get better year by year.

There are different ways of developing. The commonest one of course is to bring new industries into the community. Before this is undertaken the community might well take a survey of its industries and its natural advantages. This ought to be done every year or two so that any work performed by the commercial club or civic organization will not be done blindly, but with some definite plan in view.

Every enterprising merchant takes an inventory of his business once or twice a year. Why should not the city and town take stock of what it has and what it expects to do in the succeeding twelve months?

Some cities and towns are ideally situated for certain kinds of industries, and other communities would naturally attract different industhies. The thing to do, of course, is to do what Corning Chamber of Commerce is doing, find out what kind of business it can get and then go after it.

If this be done there is little doubt that the average community can do some developing. There are many industries anxious to leave the congested centers of population for various reasons. As a general thing small factories which are apt to grow into big institutions do a town more good than the larger kind which are apt to make its industrial life one sided. And as like attracts like one or two industries of a certain kind are likely to bring similar or correlating industries into the city.

Where Railroad Income Goes

All the cash from all sources taken in during a year by all the railroads is about six billion dollars.

According to the Bureau of Railway Economics, the total railway income for 1924—the last year for which exact figures are available—was $5,921,490,100.

That's a daily income of $16,223,260.55.

Fuel requirements take the income from June 7 to July 3—27 days.

The next 70 days cash—from July 4 to September 11—goes for materials and supplies.

Other expenses of operation absorb the intake from September 12 to October 5—24 days.

Tax collectors preempt the income from October 6 to 26—21 days.

Bond and other security holders get the earnings of the next 41 days—October 27 to December 6 as interest on their investments.

The income of the next 19 days from December 7 to Christmas, goes to the owners, the stockholders, as dividends—two days earnings less than the tax collector demands.

That leaves six days income as the sole portion of the year's intake available to retire losses of previous years, or to create a reserve fund against lean periods in future or to pay for improvements out of current earnings rather than by the sale of interest-bearing bonds or securities.—Nation's Business Magazine.

Government Duplication

If the conscientious mother mother would prepare her child's school luncheon with the help of the Federal Government, she may get that help from either the Treasury Department, the Department of Agriculture, or the Department of the Interior, says Nations Business Magazine.

The first named, through its Public Health Service, will furnish her with "Nutrition and Education."

The second, through its Bureau of Home Economics, will respond with "School Lunches."

The third, through its Bureau of Education, will send "Diet for the School Child."

Does the subject of milk for the growing child concern her, she may ask for:

"Milk, the Indispensible Food for Children," from the Children's Bureau of the Dept. of Labor;

"Milk and Our School Children," from the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior;

"Safe Milk, an Important Food Problem," from the Public Health Service of the Treasury Dept.;

"Milk and Its Uses in the Home," from the Bureau of Home Economics, of the Department of Agriculture.

Or would you learn to protect yourself from deadly carbon monoxide gas in garages, you can turn to the Public Health Service, the Bureau of Mines or the Bureau of Labor Statistics, and each will gladly send you a bulletin.

Some six government bureaus deal with tuberculosis prevention; three departments and an independent board are working on rural hygiene; four departments and some independent bureaus have an eye on sanitary engineering.

Bank Crimes Decreasing

The greatest drop in attacks by bank criminals against members of the American Bankers Association recorded for any year in its thirty-six years of warfare on this class of crooks reported to the Executive Council by James E. Baum who is in charge of the organization's Protective Department. He attributed the bulk of the reduction in respect to crimes of violence to the activities of bankers in states using vigilante methods to combat bandits. Mr. Baum said:

"Throughout its 51 eventful years of organized and diversified activities, crime prevention and prosecution without compromise have been the cardinal principles of the American Bankers Association's warfare against criminality. In all those years of service during 36 of which the Association banks now finds the fraternity the arrest of 302 of the 472 bank crooks, the chapter ended August 31, 1926, shows the greatest reduction of any year in criminal attacks against member banks.

"Crimes of violence were reduced 30 per cent below those reported in the previous year, daylight robberies having dropped from 144 to 112 attacks, and the 57 burglaries of 1925 falling to 29 during the current period. Virtually all of this commendable reduction in crimes of violence is traced to the experience of banks in Illinois, Indiana, Kansas and Oklahoma where armed forces of vigilantes were effectively organized and directed by bankers. Vigilante organizations also exist in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin where criminal attacks have reached a low level.

"With a material reduction also shown in forgeries, swindles and other paper frauds, the Protective Committee is gratified to report that the general decline noted in the various classes of crimes committed against member banks now finds the fraternity back to the more normal condition of pre-war days.

"Our detective agents caused the arrest of 302 of the 472 bank criminals apprehended during the past year, 203 of these being convicted and imprisoned. In the same period, 121 additional prisoners, who were arrested prior to last year, were also convicted.

NATURE TALKS and WALKS
CONDUCTED BY O. S. E.

THE DOG IN THE PARSONAGE

The following letter from Rev. William C. Sainsbury, pastor of Central Park M. E. Church, St. Paul, Minn., appeared in the Dispatch of that city:

It is Sunday, and in our house, Sunday means church and school and all the sweet associations of home. But this is an unusually happy Sunday, for it is Mother's Day and we are so glad that we may wear the red flower, for mother is with us. It is a glittering morning, and the three youngsters are more than exuberant.

But nobody is as happy as "Zeph," for though only a dog, from the tip of her cool, damp nose, to the final hair of her Spitz-like tail, she quivers with life and good will. We call her Zeph, which is short for Zephyr, and like a breeze of light she flashes from room to room, a streak of light and canine comfort. It is clear that brother 7, and brother 9, have entered into conspiracy with sister 13, and the box of chocolates is for Mother, with Zeph as chief counsel and willing witness.

With a rush, Zeph is outside, and the children, never far behind, prepare to follow. It seems only a minute or two when we hear a startled, alarmed cry from the children which brings us outside on the run. "Papa! Zeph is dead." Impossible! Incredible! Why it is only a moment ago since she was careening across the emerald lawn, luxuriating in life. But here she lies, with agonized mouth against the steps she vainly tried to climb that she might die in the home that had given her shelter during her brief two years of life and among the little friends from whom she never separated. With glazed eye, she stares, unseeing, and that tongue which was so eager to give the lick of love, is thrust out in an agony of struggle. Yes, she is dead.

We are awe-stricken. We had heard that people sometimes poisoned dogs, but never supposed that anyone could be cruel enough nor vile enough to inflict such torture on our Zeph. We are stunned, but as we lift the stiffened, poisoned body, and carry it into the garage, the children begin to weep. Oh, such tears, such grief, such sorrow. They are unconsolable. There is no breakfast eaten. Gone is the joy of the day, shadowed is the sun of even Mother's Day, for Zeph is dead, poisoned by some anonymous cad who sneaks in the shadows and leaves a trail of murder.

What had my dog done? Well, she had protected my home and my children and was a faithful guardian of my domicile. Friendly and courteous always, yet she never tolerated the stranger to take liberties, though her approving sniff of satisfaction was quickly given when master or mistress welcomed the guest. Probably she crossed my neighbor's lawn, though nobody ever complained, and I swear she never molested a soul. All she asked was a little space on this wide earth to live her life, and some children to love.

What has the coward accomplished in poisoning my dog? Well, he has robbed my three children of the best little friend they have ever known. There is nobody to take her place, for it was Zeph who sat in sympathetic silence when sickness was in the home, and it was Zeph who watched the invalid who suffered the long winter days, and it was Zeph who welcomed the master who late returns home long after the house is hushed and silent.

It may also be a comfort to the person whose profane hand set the poison that my children have discovered for the first time that there are such monsters in the world. Little eyes have flashed with blazing hate, and indignant breasts have heaved with unrequit-revenge. They now abhor an invisible foe, and it must be a great source of satisfaction to the individual, whose satanic selfishness cannot find room for a children's dog in the city of St. Paul, to know that three little children who pray night and morning and who know no guile have "been offended." There is something about a millstone written in the Great Book as a reward for those who offend these little ones.

I suppose a few paltry flowers are now better protected since the four dogs that have been poisoned in this neighborhood in the past few days have gone. But it must be a noble mind that conceives the elevated plan of putting poison in the paths of puppies! I think that on the day of judgment, when the deeds of great men and little dogs are reviewed by the Great Judge, I would rather take my chances with my four-footed friend than with that abominable biped who probably looks like a human being.

And I write to you sir, in behalf of all the little boys and girls in our neighborhood, whose tears have flowed and whose hearts have been heavy and whose homes saddened through the same ubiquitous sneak. Recourse to the law is not very hopeful, for while the penalty is well established, the conviction is difficult. Unless we want a childless city, we might as well assume that we shall have dogs on our streets.

Meanwhile, my children are weeping. Mother's Day was a dark day. It was written high in the memory as a murder day by my boys, for Zeph is dead.

ROMANCE AND INDUSTRY IN OLD SOUTH'S LIFE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 2.—(P)—The romance of the Old South has intermingled with industrial development to make the western tier of these states a year-round attraction to travelers.

Horses are the magnet which attracts thousands to this state annually. Lexington is the center of the breeding district, and Idle Hour farm, owned by Colonel E. R. Bradley, is the show place with its beautiful properties and elaborate equipment.

Blue Grass Region

The caves in Fulton county are a premier attraction for thousands of others, while few motorists neglect to drive through the Blue Grass Region, located among the hills and famed in gorges which make it a wonder spot 8,000 square miles in area.

Another 5,000 square mile area in the western part of the state contains lakes, ponds, marshes and thickets where abound in profusion large families of wild life.

To the south is the Parthenon at Nashville, Tenn. This sole replica of the Greek structure of ancient times was erected in 1897 for the centennary celebration of the state of Tennessee. It has been made permanent by a number of famous artists.

Jackson and Polk Tombs

Near Nashville also is located The Hermitage, home of President Jackson, which has been preserved intact. His tomb is in the garden. Nearby on the State Capitol grounds are the tomb of President Polk and the statue of Sam Davis.

Tennessee's natural attractions roughly are divided into two districts. The mountainous region is in the East. There are the Cumberland Plateau and Lookout Mountain near Chattanooga, while Reelfoot Lake, 52,000 acres in extent, attracts fishermen to the northwest.

Alabama Industries

The Muscle Shoals development on the Tennessee River is the largest of these, being located near Sheffield and Florence. Birmingham long has been famous for its steel mills.

Montgomery retains many reminders of the days of the Confederacy when it aspired to be the nation's capital. The Capitol of the Southern states and the home of Jefferson Davis, the only President of the South, still stand.

The French occupation is remembered by Fort Touluse, built by the French in 1714 and occupied by the Americans an even century later. The state also is dotted with Indian mounds.

Romantic Lousiana

The tourist then may drive westward through Mississippi, where much has been left unchanged since the Civil War and then into New Orleans, on the Mississippi delta.

The city is a curiosity stronghold, there being in its buildings the unmixed lines denoting the Spanish and French rule prior to its acquisition in 1804 by this country.

A living memento from a great epic is preserved in Baton Rouge, where stands an ancient oak tree beneath which the lovers of Longfellow's "Evangeline" were reunited.

CIRCUMSTANCIAL EVIDENCE

We find this interesting example of the fallibility of circumstantial evidence in the Advocate: He was going home, and it was growing dark. His road from the station was a lonely one. Suddenly he suspected that a man was following him purposely. The faster he went, the faster the man followed until they came to a cemetery. "Now," he said to himself, "I'll find out if he's after me," and entered the cemetery. The man followed him. He circled a grave, and his pursuer jogged after him. He ducked around a family vault. Still the man was after him. At last, he turned and faced the fellow. "What do you want? What are you following me for?" "Well, sir, it's like this," said a small voice. "I'm going up to Mr. Brown's house with a parcel, and the station-agent told me if I followed you I should find the place as you live next door."

WELLS OF BETHLEHEM STILL RUN AFTER 2000 YEARS

The natural water wells of Bethlehem that assuaged the thirst of pilgrims in the days of Christ, are still running today after twenty centuries of continuous operation, according to William Lyon Phelps, of Yale University, in a special travel letter on modern Bethlehem published in the September issue of Good Housekeeping Magazine. Bethlehem in Biblical days was noted for the abundance and purity of its wells.

DIVORCED BUT NOT NAMELESS

Mrs. A. B. K. F. I. H. G. E. D. Hill has filed her petition for divorce in an English court, creating something of a stir because of her many initials which stand for Acle Bethel Kitsigner Firth Ishti Helena Goiga Pretoria Denver Hill. But not even Mrs. Hill has the longest name. It has been bestowed on his infant daughter by Arthur Pepper, Liverpool laundryman. The child's initials exhaust the alphabet. Taking the letters in order, omitting p, which is provided by Pepper the child was christened: Anna Bertha Cecilia Diana Emily Fanny Gertrude Hypatia Ines Jane Kate Louise Maud Nora Ophelia Quince Rebecca Starkey Teresa Ulysis Venus Winifred Xenophon Yetty Zeno Pepper. They might call her Miss Alphabet Petter for short.

WIVES DRESS TO PLEASE HUSBANDS

"Twenty years ago men prided themselves on knowing nothing about women's clothes. Today you may know a man's taste in clothes when you see his wife and he even goes shopping with her." It is a Detroit department store manager that is speaking, and he declares women dress to please their husbands. "A woman," said he, "may be elected governor, play polo, have a seat on the stock exchange, hunt wild game, hold $10,000-a-year jobs, run a woman's club—but, if her husband tells her that her new hat is 'terrible'—well, she just sits right down and cries. And the worst of it is that she usually has a sneaking suspicion that he is right about the hat." We pass on this Easter observation for what it may be worth.

GRAVES URGES GASOLINE TAX

Commissioner Calls It Best Way to Meet Rise in Government Cost

Sate Tax Commissioner Mark Graves told a Joint Legislative investigating Committee yesterday that New York State's constantly increasing expenditures demanded a State-wide tax on gasoline. The Commissioner appeared at a public hearing of the committee at the Hotel Astor, in New York, with representatives of automobile associations and civic organizations in attendance. He spoke somewhat boldly in the face of opposition by the automobile men.

Following a sharp attack on the proposed tax by an automobile dealers' spokesman, Mr. Graves arose and said:

"The Tax Commission believes that it is desirable to inaugurate a gasoline tax. In 1924 the cost to run the State and maintain all municipalities of the State, including schools, was $669,000,000. In 1925 this cost had risen to $731,000,000. I do not know what it will cost in 1926—probably from $760,000,000 to $765,000,000, or around that.

Theodore D. Pratt, general manager of the Motor Truck Association of America, preceded Mr. Graves, saying that he represented the New York Automobile Club, the Automobile Merchants' Association, the Brooklyn Auto Dealers' Association, the Empire State Automobile Merchants' Association of Albany, and the New York State Automobile Association.

Mr. Pratt contended that it would be "unfair discrimination to tax gasoline for the benefit of rural communities desirous of carrying out highway building programs."

"The gas tax as an abstract principle is not sound," he said, "because while purporting to be a tax on a commodity it is really a tax on essential transportation. Motor trucks pay many taxes now per ton, mile, day or vehicle than other cars."

Yesterday's hearing was not confined solely to the gasoline tax, Charles A. Harnett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, spoke against the present system of issuing separate licenses for chauffeurs, and the requirement of photographs for chauffeurs.

Mr. Harnett said there should be one kind of license for all classes of drivers, and that the photograph rule should be abolished. He declared that "75 per cent o fall the photograph studios frequented by chauffeurs in the vicinity of the license bureau are engaged in graft." He also recommended extending the license period from one year to three; licenses readable at night, and a tax on motorcycles.

The Joint Committee is headed by Assemblyman Herbert A. Bartholomew, and includes State Senators Martin J. Kennedy, Homer A. Dick, Mortimer Y. Ferris, and Assemblymen Wilson Messer, Ellis W. Bentley and Irwin Steingut.

Chief J. W. M'Carthy Offers Tips to Aid Firemen When Necessary to Summon Them

Fire Prevention Week this year will begin on Monday October 4 and end on October 9. Mayor Harry A. Rood has issued a proclamation requesting special observance of the occasion by local residents and Fire Chief J. W. McCarthy plans to have some observance by the local schools.

The preliminary estimate of the fire loss in the United States for 1925 is $570,225,921. This is an average of $1,562,344 per day or $1,084 for every minute of the year. To note the alarming increase of fire loss in the last decade the following figures are valuable for comparison: 1915, $172,033,200, 1925, $570,225,921. For the past several years efforts have been made to reduce this enormous loss by having a Fire Prevention week when a realization of the costliness of preventable fires is brought to the attention of the people.

President Coolidge has officially nationalized the week by issuing a proclamation and a supplemental message was given to the people of New York by Governor Smith.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has many bulletins and posters on this important subject and some of these have been sent to the local fire chief, McCarthy. These can be secured by any one interested by applying at the local fire station. The big day of the week will be Saturday October 9, the anniversary of the great Chicago fire of '71. In past years the schools have been asked to observe this occasion in a befitting manner but due to the fact that the anniversary comes on Saturday this year, Fire Chief McCarthy will visit the schools on some other day probably Friday.

"In order to comply with proclamations issued by President Coolidge, Governor Smith and Mayor Rood, I have arranged for the proper observance of Fire Prevention Week in the schools and would welcome the cooperation of all the citizens and general public in the reduction of fire hazards, general fire protection and in cleaning up premises and improving conditions generally.

"I would suggest that each individual make a special effort to have a personal inspection of his or her home to see that all rubbish, old papers or anything of an inflammable nature be cleaned up and destroyed. A match carelessly thrown away, burning cigar or cigarette, spark from a box fire in contact with an accumulation of this kind might cause great loss of property and even of life. Examine heating apparatus in your home and see that it is in proper condition. Look over your gas heaters, especially the kind with the rubber tubing connection as they are very unsafe due to decay of rubber. See that your matches are kept in metal receptacles and that the children are not allowed to use them as we have had a number of fires that were caused by children playing with matches.

"Learn the location of your nearest fire alarm box. Do not hesitate to turn in an alarm of a fire at any time as often a delayed alarm means considerable loss to property. The fire alarm system has an advantage over telephone service in that it is faster, more reliable, gives less chance for delay and assures the department an accurate location of the fire. After turning in an alarm remain near the box to direct the firemen when they arrive. To send in an alarm open the outside door, pull the hook down once and let go. In sending an alarm by telephone be careful to give the name, street and number and especially the nearest cross street."

HEARING IN ASSESSMENT

Scheduled To Be Held at the Court House Monday In Review Petition

A hearing is scheduled to be held at the Court House in Corning Monday in the certiorari proceedings instituted by James O. Sebring for a review of the assessment on his property on West Second street but due to the fact that County Court begins Monday there is a possibility that the hearing will be postponed.

Attorney Paul Folger, of Rochester, was recently appointed as referee in the case to succeed Referee George S. Tinklepaugh who withdrew after the case had been dragged through the courts for the past five years.

This action was started by Mr. Sebring in an effort to have the assessment against his property reduced and since it was first started in 1921 no taxes have been paid on the property. Attorney Justin W. Purcell has represented the city in the case since it was first started.

City Attorney John C. Wheeler received notice today from Mr. Sebring that the latter had informed Referee Folger that it would be impossible for him to attend the hearing due to his presence being required in other courts.

To Perform Feats of Strength This Evening at Market and Cedar Streets

"Little Samson," the 140 pound little giant arrived in Corning today to give a free street show this evening. He will perform at the intersection of Cedar and Market streets at 7:30 o'clock.

Among the feats that Little Samson has in his repertoire are the following: he will let a big sedan run over him, while going at a speed of 25 miles per hour; he will pull a car for one block by his teeth, while there are seven people in the car; he will carry three men on his neck and arms; eat fire and do many other spectacular things. The car that runs over him weighs, with its seven occupants, 3,800 pounds.

Little Samson was born in Bessmer, Alabama. He is 21 years of age and has been doing this work for the past five years.

The origin of the blaze is undetermined, but when discovered was burning briskly. One large chemical tank and a stream of water were found necessary to extinguish the fire. The building is of brick with a meta lroof and the flames were kept confined to the space where the blaze started. The interior of the shed was badly burned.

PLANE LANDS EAST CORNING

Marine Aviator Runs Into Mists and Decides to Come Down Near City

A large plane sailing low over the city with gigantic 400 horsepower motor roaring, aroused the curiosity of Corningites the first part of the week. The plane circled low over he city late Tuesday morning and then returned Wednesday about noon.

The aviator was Captain James Moore of the marines. He was hoping from Rochester to Quantico, Virginia, and arrived as far as Corning when he ran into continued clouds of mists in the valleys from Corning to Williamsport, Pa. He flew to Elmira thinking to take another route to Williamsport, Pa., but found the valleys there filled with mists. So he returned to Corning and made a forced landing on the Lucas farm in East Corning.

The next day the weather was more favorable and he left about noon for his destination. During his stay in this vicinity, J. S. Rutan, of this city, became acquainted with him and inspected the airplane and equipment while it was on the Lucas farm.

The plane was the one purchased by the government during the war, cost $30,000. Besides the usual equipment including the best parachutes obtainable, the plane was equipped with a radio sending and receiving set. Captain Moore was accompanied by a corporal as mechanic.

—Miss Margaret Cunningham a student nurse a St. Joseph's Hospital, Elmira, visited her mother, Mrs. Thomas Cunningham of East Market street Sunday.

REVIEW—EARLY LEADERS OF ISRAEL

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1926.

Copyright 1926 by The Evening Leader

GOLDEN TEXT—Come thou with us and we will do thee good.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Journey of Long Ago.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Journeying in the Wilderness.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Guides His People.

Israel remained almost one year ing for them. Their stay was necessary.

1. To allow them to recuperate from the effects of many years of slavery.

2. To train them morally and spiritually for the great work before them. The wonderful transactions at Sinai served to inspire them with courage and hope, for through them they came to know God as their King and themselves as His covenant people.

3. To have them thoroughly organized.

This was not only necessary for the march, but for the welfare in gaining possession of the land of Canaan.

1. Marching From Sinai at the Hand of Moses (vv. 11-28).

The nation had now grown to a great host—the army itself of 603,550 strong. Allowing three persons to every soldier, there would be 1,810,650. The army was organized into four great sections or divisions with three tribes to each division. The Levites were organized on the basis of the three sons of Aaron—Gershon, Kohath and Merari. The Kohathites had the principal place about the tabernacles—charge of the most precious things. The Gershonites had the next place of honor, while the drudgery fell upon the Merarites.

1. The signal given (v. 11).

The lifting of the cloud from off the sanctuary was the signal for the camp to be broken and the march to begin.

2. The signal given to rest (v. 12).

Just as the sign to march must be recognized, so the sign to rest must be obeyed.

3. The Commander (v. 13).

God was the Commander through His servant, Moses.

4. The order of the march (vv. 14-18).

As they marched the division led by Judah went forward, followed by Gershon and Merari bearing the coarser part of the tabernacle. Then marched Reuben's division, followed by the Kohathites bearing the sacred utensils of the tabernacle. These were followed by the division of Ephraim and Dan. The ark occupied a central position with the moving caravan.

11. Moses Seeking the Help of Hobab (vv. 29-32).

Hobab was a shrewd child of the desert. Moses thought therefore that his knowledge thereof would be helpful. The children of Israel were going forth under the guiding care of the Almighty He knew that dreadful wilderness.

1. "We will do thee good."

Moses had faith in God's promises to Israel and could well assure Hobab that good would come to him by identifying himself with God's covenant people.

2. "Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes."

Moses still insisted that Hobab should go along, not only for the good he could get but for the good he might do.

111. Marching to Canaan with the Lord as Leader (vv. 33-36).

Even though Hobab did go with Israel, we never hear of his leading the people. The Lord will not have it so. Observe:

1. "The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them" (v 33).

The ark, the symbol of the divine presence, moved out of its place in the midst of the camp and took its place at the head.

2. The cloud of the Lord rested upon them (v. 34).

This was an indication that God was not only leading, but governing His people and protecting them.

3. The Lord's vindication (vv. 35, 36).

Moses' unbelief caused a reproach unto the Lord. This action on the part of God vindicated His leadership. Moses gave recognition to this act of God in identifying himself with His people. When the ark rested and set forward, he exclaimed, "Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered and let them that hate Thee flee before Thee,' and when it rested—"Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel."

Leader Want Ads Pay,

EVIDENCE IS FOUND ABOUT NEW TESTAMENT

NEW YORK.—Science has unearthed new evidence in support of the Old Testament, and has under scrutiny possible new evidence corroborating the New Testament.

Melvin G. Kyle, president of the Xenia Theological seminary in St. Louis, arrived here from an archeological inspection of the excavated ruins of the Biblical city of Kirjath-Sepher founded by the Canaanites in 2000 B. C., and finally destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, the Chaldean king, in 600 B. C.

Doctor Kyle declared that successive ages of the city, mentioned in the book of Joshua, and now called Tell-Beit-Mirsam by the Arabs, were traced by layers of ashes from the five times it burned, and by kitchen utensils and rope-worn well stones, placed one upon another.

The city, which Doctor Kyle estimated to have had a peace time population of 5,000 and a war time population of perhaps 15,000, had underneath it rock-hewn rcoms for water, food and war supplies. He estimated that the ruins provided a complete account in agreement with the Bible, of the Canaanites from 2000 B. C., until the exodus and the city's destruction in 600 B. C. The expedition led by Doctor Kyle, which has employed from sixty-five to eighty-five laborers since excavation began, cost but $2,500

Possible scientific confirmation of the existence of Jesus is sought by Prof. Solomon Zeitlin, it is said in dispatches from Paris, as an incident to examination of a manuscript recently found in Russia. He will go to Russia to study the document said to be a copy in Slavonic of Josephus' "Jewish Wars," presumably written in 80 A. D., in Aramaic.

Extant Slavonic versions of Josephus contain references to Jesus, but their authenticity is questioned by some scientists who believe them to have been inserted by translators.

Scholars hold that if Professor Zeitlin establishes the authenticity of the Russian document, and finds in it a reference to Jesus it will amount to a refutation of claims made in 1835 by the German Doctor Strauss, that the whole story of Jesus was a myth, as well as claims that the early historian, Josepnus, had ignored the existence of Jesus.

RESIGNS POST AT CAMPBELL

Mrs. Ida M'Laughlin Gives Up Pastorate Because of Ill Health

Mrs. Ida McLaughlin, of Coopers, formerly of this city, has resigned the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church in the village of Campbell. Her successor there will be appointed at the Methodist Episcopal conference in Buffalo next week.

Mrs. McLaughlin, who has been very successful in the pastorate of this church for the past two years, is resigning because of ill health. She recently underwent a very serious operation at Corning hospital and is now recuperating at the hospital.

During her administration at Campbell, the church has been placed on a firm financial basis, several new members have been added and the church has developed in a very satisfactory way. Of especial note is the unusual success Mrs. McLaughlin had with a large class of boys whom she interested in the church. Many of these boys have joined the church through her influence.

There will be special singing during the convention. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend these meetings.

SUNDAY CANVASS DAY AT GRACE METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday will be the Every-Member Canvass Day at the Grace M. E. church. The visitors will assemble at the church at 9:45. At this time an address will be given, and the teams will be arranged. In the afternoon it is hoped to reach every family between 2 and 5 o'clock.

At 6 o'clock the visitors and others will have supper at the church, making full reports. At the evening service the result of the day's ingathering will be announced and appropriately celebrated. It is the desire of the leaders of the church to finish all this work in one day.

Ministers Poorest Paid Workers

One way to increase interest in the churches and to cause a general revival in things religious would be to increase the pay of our clergymen according to the National Republic, which asserts editorially that the ministers of the gospel are the poorest paid class of citizens in America. The editorial says, in part:

"Recently there was held in Chicago a conference of clergymen for the consideration of economic questions. There was the usual talk about conducting industry for service rather than for profit, and a larger share of the rewards of production for the toiler. A Pittsburgh minister interrupted the flow of thought on this topic by reminding those present that the average compensation of a clergyman is about half that of a plasterer or bricklayer, and that it compares unfavorably with the wages of an unskilled workman in the steel industry, which was recently made the subject of an economic report by the Federation of Churches.

There ought to be an awakening and a reform in this matter. If the efforts of some official leaders of churches were employed in this task rather than in projects of national and international regeneration through political schemes like the League of Nations, attention to this near at home duty would have highly beneficial results. If such organizations as the Federal Council of Churches would engage in surveys of the economic status of ministers, and devise ways and means of lifting the level of life for those charged with the responsibility of preaching the gospel, it would probably be a more practical contribution toward the solution of public problems through the means churches have to offer—that regeneration of the masses through which alone better conditions can come—than attention to fine-spun chemes for reforming the world by patent process.

If a movement were inaugurated to raise the level of compensation for the clergy fifty per cent within the next five years, the effort of itself would increase the interest and loyalty of churchgoers, and put new heart into underpaid clergy men which would help to vitalize the churches. It would put religion "on the map" as nothing else could do. That accomplished, the churches should not stop short of providing adequately for the old age of wornout pastors. Millions are being poured out by American philanthropy at this time on schemes far less worthy than this. What object more important than to put more heart and hope into all of the hundred thousand clergymen who are carrying to millions of Americans the one message that is to be depended on to maintain not only the church, but society and the ordered state? Surely the laborer not only in the industrial but in the moral vineyard is worthy of his hire."

"Will Soon Discover the Unseen World," Says Sir Oliver Lodge, Scientist

Once the people living on this globe did not know it had a Western Hemisphere. But a few Norsemen, and after them, Christopher Columbus, believed there was such an undiscovered country and they set sail and found a so-called new world. Even before their time the now populous continent of North America was discovered by accident by tribes of wandering Asiatics.

Religion teaches us there is an unseen world of the spirit. There are those who say they have had communication with beings who inhabit it. As yet no Columbus has come back to tell us he has found it, but a great British scientist predicts that the next great advance in human knowledge will be the discovery of the spiritual world. Science has been digging to material thing all thru the ages, during recent years it has uncovered marvels undreamed of before. Now science will turn to things spiritual and discoveries in that field will so far out-marvel anything produced by materialistic science that there is no basis of comparison.

So prophesies Sir Oliver Lodge, noted English scientist. Sir Oliver is a firm believer in life after death. He could not be otherwise, he says, after the communion he has had with his dead son, killed in the Battle of Ypres early in the World War. He tells in a striking way of these evidences of life after death in a book published during the war and has never wavered in his beliefs since.

Sir Oliver believes the spiritual conception of the universe will be taken out of the domain of religion and hazy, visionary uncertainty, and placed in the realm of actual scientific discovery.

"The spiritual world is no novelty in religion," says Lodge, "but it is a novelty in science. It is not yet accepted but the indications are it will not be so very long before these questions, too, will be asked and we shall begin to answer. All thru the 19th century and up to the present we have been dealing chiefly with the material world. Now there lies before us the discovery of the spiritual world."

Sir Oliver declares that within a few years we shall look back upon our present civilization and position on things spiritual and they will be on a par with the beliefs, customs and rites of savage islanders unacquainted with the higher knowledge of the white race.

"We are surrounded by intelligence," he says, "space is full of it. It is coming within our ken that we shall feel we are not lonely, but are 'surrounded by a cloud of witnesses' and company of helpers in a marvelous spiritual world of which we hitherto have been scientifically ingorant.

Lodge calls the life here on earth "our animal existence" and as such far from perfect. "Does man survive?" he asks. "If he does then the present man is not the highest we have cognizance of. If this life is a mere episode of the spiritual part of our existence, and if we are working in another sphere, we shall become beings a little higher than anything we know of. We are not limited to our animal existence. Once we have stepped over the gate of death there is no end of existence."

Which is another way of saying that what we call death is merely change. What makes the views of Sir Oliver on this subject more than ordinarily interesting is that they come from a great man of science.

MYSTERY

The wonderful thing about man is the way he builds his life on mystery, draws his inspirations out of mystery, hopes where he does not know, dreams where he does not see and believes where he cannot prove. Knowledge is no more than an island here and there, which lifts itself a little way above the waves while the great ocean of mystery round about laps all the shores of thought.

Mute and mum and mystery are companion words, grown out of the same ancient root and signifying that the world without speaks no language that man can clearly understand, while the world within also is without the power to utter its hidden meanings; and both fade away into dim frontiers where mystery sits in voiceless silence with her fingers on her lips.

Religion, of course, has been man's greatest adventure in mystery. But philosophy has followed close behind, while all the arts have found in it their fruitful source and inspiration.

Music, architecture, poetry and painting derive all their glow and rapture from the subtle and mysterious forces which move invisibly behind the reach of sense, and work their magic upon the spirits of men.

But, stranger than all these exploits of imagination and dream and love and hope is the way the solid and practical adventures of business and politics and all the purely physical labors of life root themselves deeply in the same world of mystery. How is all this enchantment of weaving and sewing and dressing and decoration which makes all the business in the world to be accounted for except by some mysterious elements of desire and delight, within which science so far has been totally unable to define or even to say where they reside or how they go and whence they come?

And here is the mystery within the mystery: Man lives far more by what he doesn't know than by what he does know. The known grows stale and commonplace. It is the unknown that lures and beckons.

GOD NOT IN FLORIDA STORM SAYS PASTOR

Asking whether God was in the recent Florida hurricane the Rev. David E. Haglund, Pastor of South Baptist church Rochester, former Pastor of First Baptist church here, asked farther why it happened and said that in ancient times, and even today, such a calamity was spoken of as a punishment and a warning. In the course of his argument, Mr. Haglund said:

"My own answer is suggested by an experience in the life of Elijah, one of the early Old Testament prophets. Elijah particularly in his early ministry seems to have identified God with external nature, with wind and storm and fire. But there came a time in his life when this nature phase of his religion was outgrown, and he could no more find God in the devastating winds, the wrecking earthquake, or the consuming fire. Instead he discovered within. That was a momentous discovery not only for the prophet, but for the future of religion.

"Are we to conclude then that God is not in nature? By no means. We see evidence of His mind there, in the orderliness, beauty and majesty of nature. But we also see much in nature that is inhuman and savage. Nature not only produces the rose but the thistle, not only the lamb but the tiger. She not only gives us the pleasant sunshine and the gentle cooling breeze, but the scorching heat and the devastating hurricane. We cannot consistently identify God with the killing instinct in animals or with such savage eruptions as the recent storm in Florida.

"Where then are we going to find God? Where can we be sure that He is? Our pigmy minds are as yet unequal to the task of following many of the movements of the Divine Mind. Wherever Christlike qualities of love and helpfulness are exhibited there we can be sure that God is. And wherever we see lust, hate, cruelty, indifference to human well-being we can be sure that God is not there. God is always love. And the best definition of what love is and does will be found in the thirteenth chapter of Paul's first letter to the Corinthians. No, God was not in the Florida hurricane; but He was in the hearts of the people who were moved to sympathy and deeds of practical helpfulness. He was in our President's urgent appeal for aid for the stricken people. He is in every constructive effort to heal the broken hearted and to build up what the wind and flood and fire have destroyed."

I. C. RELIEF TRAIN BREAKS RECORD TO FLORIDA

Breaking all previous speed records, the Illinois Central relief train, rushing doctors, nurses and relief workers to the scene of the Florida hurricane disaster, covered the 1499 miles between Chicago and Miami in the remarkable time of 38 hours and 12 minutes, beating by 4 hours and 43 minutes the fastest schedule of the famous flyer, the Floridan.

The relief train carried to the aid of the hurricane victims a party of 48 doctors and relief workers and 48 trained nurses, readed by Dr. H. E. Bundesen, chief of the Chicago Health Department—with medical and other supplies for the relief of the sufferers. Among the party were Colonel H. F. Miller, Chicago Association of Commerce and American Red Cross; Dr. Marshall Davison, Cook County Hospital; Dr. C. W. K. Briggs, newspaper surgeon; Dr. R. F. Olmstead, Presbyterian Hospital and A. E. Gorman, Chlorine expert, City of Chicago.

CLASSES WILL OPEN SHORTLY

Miss Olga Nelson, Americanization Director, Announces Year's Program

Miss Olga Nelson, director of Americanization work in the city, has announced the opening of the evening school to all persons, both men and women, who wish to learn to speak and read English and to prepare for citizenship.

The school will be held on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in the office building of Corning Glass Works. Four graded classes will be organized for those in various stages of the work.

Miss Nelson will be assisted by Miss Grace Ingersoll, Mrs. Thomas Harper and Hamilton Peltz. Those who cannot come to the registration class on Monday evening are asked to come to one of the following classes.

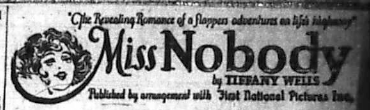

The School Board in District No. 9 has voted an appropriation to cover the expense of a helper in the home work and Mrs. Thomas Harper has accepted this position. The home work begins today in this school district.

The date for beginning home work among the foreign born women in School District No. 13 is unsettled as the school board of that district has not had a meeting to vote upon the question of an appropriation for the assistant, who will have charge of this part of the work. Miss Nelson has charge of the part time work at Corning Free Academy besides the Americanization work.

MRS. ROBERT BLACKMAN IS HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. Robert Brackman, of Pershing street, delightfully entertained the members of the W. a R. Club at her home Thursday afternoon. Sewing was enjoyed during the afternoon preceding a short business session. Delicious refreshments were served. Those assisting Mr. Brackman as hostesses were Mrs. George Newman and Mrs. George Strange. Mrs. William Gooding, of Houghton Circle, will entertain the club at the next meeting, Thursday, October 14.

Those present were Mrs. Walter Gleason Mrs. William Gooding, Mrs. Artemus Hedges, Mrs. H. Bertrand Mosier, Mrs. Walter Mullaney, Mrs. George Newman, Mrs. George Strange, and the hostess, Mrs. Robert Brackman.

Barbara has neither kith nor kin, owes four weeks' room rent—has just one dime—and is desperately lonesome.

She arrives in the swagger little suburban town where her self-introduced hostess lives, to find a blizzard raging and no car to meet her. Walking into the house, cold, wet and reckless, she attracts the unofficial host of the party, the multi-millioned J. B. Hardiman, connoiseur of youth.

Now go on with the story.

Nan's eyelids, as if weighted with pain, dropped before his look of challenge. When they lifted again the eyes were dark and calm.

"I was thinking whether I'd put her in the blue room or the pink room." Her voice was even.

And the tone was almost banter as she added:

"The worries of a hostess, you know."

"Nan!" J. B.'s voice caroled his relief that there was to be no scene after all. "You're a girl in a million!"

She allowed the faintest suspicion of irony to accent her hysteria.

"Unless you want her to have my room."

Then J. B. Hardiman lied, not like a gentleman, but much like a man.

"You're seeing goblins, Nan. My only thought is that the poor girl will catch pneumonia if she goes out into the storm. And, Nan, you wanted the thingumabob at Cartier's—"

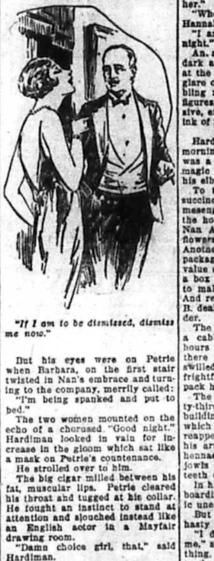

Her stricken hands went to her ears.

"Oh, don't offer to pay her lodging, for God's sake!" she gasped.

He opened his mouth for further protest, but her eyes cut him short.

"And"—her voice suddenly rose so high that Hardiman darted an involuntary apprehensive glance toward the drawing room full of aliens to this scene—"and do not think I want to interfere. If I am to be dismissed, dismiss me now."

She left him to intercept Barbara's eager entrance from the dining room. A speculative frown on his forehead, J. B. watched the encounter. There was a glint of cynical smile under the bushy eyebrows as the two women became entwined and lyrical like sister vines in which the thrushes nest.

"If I am to be dismissed, dismiss me now."

But his eyes were on Petrie when Barbara, on the first stair twisted in Nan's embrace and turning to the company, merrily called:

"I'm being spanked and put to bed."

The two women mounted on the echo of a chorused "Good night." Hardiman looked in vain for increase in the gloom which sat like a mask on Petrie's countenance.

He strolled over to him.

The big cigar milled between his fat, muscular lips. Petrie cleared his throat and tugged at his collar. He fought an instinct to stand at attention and slouched instead like an English actor in a Mayfair drawing room.

"Damn choice girl, that," said Hardiman.

"Yes, sir," agreed Petrie respectfully. "I—I congratulate you."

J. B.'s eyes gave him permission to join the revellers beyond the glass door. Alone, J. B. eased into a chair. Superbly vandal, on the chaste marble surface of an exquisite bit of Empire, he pencilled idle abstractions with a burnt match.

Five dollar marks in a row. Five dollar marks in a row.

* * * * *

Nan's embrace stirred in her a desire for confidence. She suddenly thought with panic of the borrowed shoes which encased her feet. Deviously she approached confession.

"It's rotten to be poor. You get into all kinds of mess. I wish you could understand. But you wouldn't know what it is to be—"

"Our kind always knows," Nan interrupted. They were at the door of the pink room, out of sight of the company below, and Nan abruptly dropped her arm from Barbara's waist. Barbara sensed her sudden aloofness and her story died in her throat.

She crossed the doorsill and found herself abruptly alone. Nan wavered at the door. The elder woman's face was glacial. So was her voice:

"I'll send the housekeeper. Her name is Hannah. You will find her competent — exceedingly competent."

* * * * *

Barbara fought a feeling of distaste as the maid moved smoothly toward her, soundless inside a dun colored gown which called to a remote corner of Barbara's mind a vision of the stripped dark walls of some nunnery consecrated to gray penitents.

"I think, miss," the figure's voice mourned, "you had better undress and get into bed. I think I can break the cold."

She pronounced the verb viciously, as if a cold were something to smash with a bludgeon as one breaks a neck.

"You—" began Barbara.

"My name is Hannah." The suspicion of an "r" in the pronunciation of the name confessed the speaker's New England origin.

"Well, Hannah," resumed Barbara, "I've always had a mustard footbath when I've had a cold."

The woman fairly gloated:

"Good. I'll make it so hot it burns."

She let her sleepy eyes rove over the details of the room's furnishings—perfect from the cozy rose of the walls to the darling carved gardenia on the footboard of the bed—and exhaled a quivering contented sigh.

Tomorrow, back to Ma Henig's boarding house. Back to the boulder stuffed mattress. Faintly from downstairs came shrieks of laughter.

Luxuriously Barbara lifted a doubled fist and drove it into the bleached paunch of the pillow. It went in a mile.

Tomorrow. . . . Tomorrow. . . . You couldn't call it a snore. It was more like a purr. Barbara slept.

Hannah abandoned, at the foot of the bed, an attitude of vigil and left the darkened room.

She found Hardiman and Mrs. Adams alone below. She reported in a toneless voice to a point exactly half way between the pair:

"The young woman is asleep."

She waited, a nun-like figure with hands clasped before her. Hardiman cleared his throat, but it was Nan who spoke:

"Hannah!"

"Yes, madam." Hannah shifted her eyes from space to the hem of her mistress' gown.

"Mr. Hardiman wishes you to understand that, during my absence, Miss Brown will occupy the house. You will take your orders from her."

"When?" asked the unperturbed Hannah.

"I am leaving, unexpectedly, tonight."

An automobile which had stood dark and silent through the hours at the porch suddenly burst into a glare of lights and a blast of rumbling noise as two silent cloaked figures, the slender and the massive, emerged and blended into the ink of night.

Hardiman's Genii

Hardiman, in his office, spent the morning touching buttons. There was a row of them on his desk—magic buttons. Each conjured at his elbow a genie.

To the first J. B. spoke a few succinct words. Within the hour mesengers were on their way to the house lately occupied by Mrs. Nan Adams. One bore a box of flowers almost as large as himself. Another carried a much smaller package worth a hundred times the value of the flowers. A third bore a box filled with bon bons molded to make a princess' mouth water. And remember that, in Barbara, J. B. dealt with but a cub of her gender.

The second genie noted on a pad a cablegram for Tokio. Twelve hours later a Mr. Horace Adams there slapped a geisha soundly, swilled a drink and, swearing frightfully, ordered No. 1 boy to pack his trunks.

The third, who had left the twenty-third floor of J. B.'s Colonial building by the same elevator which had borne Hardiman aloft, reappeared with Mama Henig on his arm. She was an overstuffed, hennaed creature with quivering jowls and one of the largest gold teeth ever manufactured.

In his office J. B. encountered the boarding house keeper's mastodonic uneasiness with mild courtesy.

But Mama Henig, still cross from hasty corseting, was querulous:

"I don't know what you got on me," she began, "but I ain't done a thing. You got no right to send anybody over to drag me here by force, neither. Let me wise you, mister, I got friends too."

"I have summoned you here," soothed J. B., "to ask you a few harmless questions. It will be to your interest to answer them—to your interest."

"Well, I haven't refused, have I?" The Henig baritone growled less.

"You conduct a boarding house on the West Side, do you not?"

"What if I do? It's perfectly respectable—mostly people in the p'fession."

"You had a lodger named Barbara Brown?"

She hesitated.

"You may be quite frank with me. I am, in a way, her—guardian."

He slid a brand new hundred dollar bill over the edge of the desk and Mama Henig broke into a flow of speech.

IMMENSE CROWD JAMS YANKEE STADIUM FOR OPENING GAME OF THE SERIES

TICKET LINE FORMED BY EAGER FANS AT 10 O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT

Thousands Wait in Line for Admittance; 25,000 Reserve Seats Snapped up; "Scalpers" Busy

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—(AP)—After a wait of nearly one week, the arrival today of the appointed time for the opening of the 1926 World Series found impatient baseball fans and their followers ready to become the order "play ball." The line, starting at 10 o'clock last night, was growing steadily this morning before the entrances to the Yankee Stadium where the first two games of the series will be staged. They sought a part of the 38,000 grandstand and bleacher seats made available to customers over the counter.

Forty-five thousand reserved seats were snapped up in record time on the mail order basis with the over subscription of 15,000 each club attaches suspended the count. Some of these tickets fell into the hands of speculators and high prices were asked of the fans who were willing to pay dearly rather than chance their lot on the long standing waiting list.

The practice period, with only light work permitted the athletes, brought no casualties to either the Yankees and Cardinals were able to put the same best foot forward with which they staggered through the season. Neither team was so impressive in the closing days of the season as it had been in earlier stages of the pennant hunt.

A battle of southpaws was forecast for the opening clash for baseball honors. Manager Huggins has on record last with the announcement that Herbert Pennock would toss lefthanded shoots at the Missourians while Manager Hornsby let it be known that William Sherdel, equally as left handed as Pennock, was his choice.

No widespread dismay was caused among the offensive forces by the news that the southpaws were to get the call. A total of five lefthanded batamen may be counted among the regulars of the two teams. Ruth, Gehrig, and Combs stand nearer first base when they go to bat for the Yankees and Southworth and Bottomley bat from the offside for the Cardinals.

The National League entry does not lack support in spite of the fact that the two games are played on alien territory. Many St. Louis enthusiasts could not wait until the teams reach the mound city Tuesday, and were expected to make their presence known among the 65,000 forecast as the opening day's attendance.

The sensational vote was being cast almost solidly for the visitors. St. Louis has had no pennant for 38 years while a few years ago the Yankees for a time threatened a monopoly on American League championships.

The series brings a competition of enthusiasm of youth and the experience of more mature years. The Cardinals won a pennant with one of the youngest teams in the majors.

The Yankees roll call shows eleven players who have previously played for baseball's highest honor. St. Louis can boast of only three players on the active list who can point with pride to World S-faces a stirring conflict with the capable machine of Gus Dorais, former Notre Dame field general.

A promising Harvard eleven, taking on a new lease of life under the tutelage of Arnold Horween, Crimson line smasher of a few years back, has picked a Tartar for a first assignment in Little Genny. The "Bo" McMillan squad held Cornell to one touchdown last Saturday. The loss of Crosby, one of the best of the 1925 backs, and Turner, varsity center last year, through scholastic deficiencies on the eve of the opener, has dealt a powerful blow at Crimson hopes.

Princeton, champion of the big three, faces another fitting test in Amherst, Lord of the little three, an opponent that last year held the powerful Tiger attack scoreless for half a game before crumpling 27 to 0 before the Orange and Black onslaught. The Yale Bulldog, revising the huddle system under Tad Jones, sets its teeth into the throat of the Terrier from Boston University.

COLLEGES TO PLAY TODAY

Final Contingent of Major Elevens Swing Into Fall Schedule

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—The final contingent of major football elevens, led by the big three of the Army, Navy, and Yale and the big ten in the western conference, pace the white lights of college gridiron fame in the last of hundreds of teams swing into their fall schedules.

Two intersectional conflicts vie with the opening games of Harvard, Princeton and Yale for the interest of eastern pigskin followers. A husky middle eleven from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, endowed with plenty of fine material and hoping this year to break the Army spell under the leadership of "Navy Bill" In-, meets its first test of the season in Purdue, a strong eleven from the western conference rivals. The Army mule at West Point, under a new leader "Biff" Jones, has a veteran squad entrenched on the Hudson to repel another western invasion, of Detroit University. Army

Olean Coach and Backfield Star

MORE WORLD SERIES PERFORMANCES

By Feg Murray

Copyright, 1926, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Another world series is here, and, as of old, it is customary to dig into the record books and unearth the remarkable and interesting performances turned in by the players of the past in the former inter-league classics.

Every fan remembers Casey Stengel and his two mighty home runs that beat the Yankees in two games in the 1923 series. Casey's first hit was inside the park, and his bandy legs barely carried him to the home plate in time, but his second cleared the fence and Mr. Stengel trotted around the bases, giving the well known "Cuban Presidential Salute" to Pitcher "Sad Sam" Jones as he went by.

But every one does not remember "Home Run" Baker, who was nearly as famous fifteen years ago as Babe Ruth is today. In the world series of 1911, between the Giants and Athletics, Rube Marquard, one of McGraw's two aces, was pitching against Connie Mack's stars in the second game, on October 16. J. Franklin Baker, Athletic third baseman, hit a home run that helped Philadelphia in his daily article in a New York paper, said that Marquard should never have pitched that kind of ball to Baker.

The next day it was Matty's turn to pitch and this time Baker won the game, 3 to 2, with another home run. Marquard, who was also writing newspaper accounts of the series, said that Christy evidently knew what he was writing about the day before, as he had pitched the same kind of a ball to Baker. Baker won another game from the Giants with a home run in the 1912 Series.

One of the features of the 1917 contests between the White Sox and Giants was Heine Zim's mad dash after the speedy Eddie Collins, from third base to the home plate. Heinie as a star third baseman, but not a star sprinter. Another high spot of that same series was Red Faber's theft of third base. Stealing third is O. K., especially in an important game, but when the famous White Sox pitcher stole it, it was already occupied by a team-mate.

"Hod" Eller's strike-out record is marred by the fact that his victims were members of the notorious "Black Sox." His feat occurred on October 6, 1919. "Chief" Bender, besides winning the most world series victories, struck out fifty-nine batters in five series, another record.

William Dineen To Umpire In Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.— — William Dinneen has been appointed by President Ban Johnson of American League to officiate as an umpire in the World's Series games, in place of Tommy Connolly, who is ill.

GALETON WILL PLAY BOLIVAR

Will Meet Sunday At Galeton In the First of a Three Game Series

GALETON, Pa., Oct. 2— Sunday Bolivar trimmed Wellsville 2 to 0 to win the championship of the Allegany County League and on the same day Galeton walloped Tioga 13 to 4 to win the championship of Northern Pennsylvania.

Sunday, Bolivar and Galeton play the first of a three game series at Galeton to decide whether the class of baseball played in the Allegany County League is faster than the Independent baseball played in Northern Pennsylvania. This promises to be one of the best series in the Northern Tier in a long time, as these two teams are said to be about evenly matched and will present their strongest lineups.

Garrison will be on the mound for Galeton and it is expected that Sprague, pride of th. Bolivar team, will twirl for Bolivar. Results of the World Series game will be received by radio at the ball ground. Game will be called at 2:30 p. m.

MANY DEER FOUND DEAD IN MOUNTAINS

OGDENSBURG, Oct. 2.—(AP) With the deer hunting season a few days off hunters are greatly stirred over reports of condition of deer herds in the Adirondacks. Already concentrating for the first drive hunters are plying game protectors with many questions pertaining to the season's prospects.

All summer long fishermen have reported the finding of dead deer along practically every trail. Ray L. Burmaster of Saranac Lake, who is in charge of game law enforcement in the northern and eastern Adirondacks, says that the majority of the dead deer were does. North and west of Saranac Lake the loss of deer was apparently the heaviest.

The deer herd is by no means wiped out, however, and there will be hunting in the Adirondacks as usual with many fine trophies of the chase to reward the hunters. The size of the kill will tell the true story of what happened during the winter. The season will begin as in former years on October 15 and will end on November 15.

AIRPLANES TAKE OFF

BOSTON, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Six airplanes, carrying members of the New York, New England Airway Survey took off at the Municipal airport for Hartford, Conn. today. They will fly from there to Syracuse, N. Y., and thence to Buffalo. The planes arrived here yesterday. The survey is intended to determine the practicability of an air route between this city and Buffalo.

FREDONIA—With 465 students registered, the normal school shows a gain of 79 over the first day last year.

ALL-HIGH GRID MEN WILL ENDEAVOR TO EVEN THE SCORE WITH OLEAN'S AGGREGATION TOMORROW AFTERNOON

All High Team in First Class Condition and Confident of Victory; "Hookey" Frey, Olean High School Mentor and Former Corning Boy Will Handle Whistle at Pyrex Park Tomorrow; Olean Team is One of the Best Outfits in State

The All-High football team will endeavor tomorrow afternoon at Pyrex Park to even matters with Coach Carberry's Olean Independents for the 6 to 0 trimming received in the season's opener at Olean two weeks ago. Sunday's contest will undoubtedly be the best on the local team's schedule this season and the members of the Corning aggregation are confident of being able to down the invaders who will be playing on a foreign field.

The Olean aggregation is rated as one of the best in the state and is coached by Carberry, former St. Bonaventure star backfield man. Carberry also plays a halfback position of the Indies' team although he did not play in the opening contest at Olean. Corning fans are offered a rare opportunity to see him in action.

E. Walter "Hookey" Frey, former Corning Free Academy and St. Bonaventure athlete who is now sport mentor at the Olean High school, will be one of the officials. "Hookey" has officiated many times in this position and is rated as one of the best whistle chasers in western New York.

The All-High team Sunday will be a much stronger aggregation than that which bung up a 7 to 6 victory over the Syracuse Yiddera last week as "Doc" Broomhall, best field ace and "Pirpo" McGuire, line star will be back in the lineup after a week's absence caused by injuries. Mahaffey, a new comer to Corning is making a bid for the team. He gained his early experience as quarterback at Bucknell and also played with the United States Marines.

Dawson

Captain "Pat" Dawson, who has been in boring with Coach Carberry in rounding the Yellowjackets into shape for the first game, say that in all his experience on the grid he has never seen as capable and as earnest a coach as Carberry. "With man like the Judge behind us an with as good material as we now have, not one team in a hundre can beat us."

Slayer

"Fundy" Slayer, sta backfield man and on of the most accurate passers in the gam Slayer enjoys the rep tation among teams th the Indies have stacke up against of being o of the fastest and hardest hitting backs in the semi-pro world. He will again appear wearing the Yellowjackets' colors in tomorrow's clash.

Seitler

"Sledger" Seitler, whose two hundred and some odd pounds of beef will bear the brunt of the locals' attack on the line. The entire back-field from the glass-city can hit "Tiny's" hulk at one time and still not gain an inch.

Ringhauer

"C" Ringhauer, husky full-back who should prove of real aid in Sunday's game. "Cy" carries the ball with a vigor that resembles an adv. for Peptona and backs up the line with vengeance. His work last season planted him firmly in the hearts of local fans while his husky frame was planting dents in his opponents' hides.

Mitchell

"Tally" Mitchell, former Thiel college captain and star who covers the center position in fine style. Before coming to Olean, Mitchell played with the Buffalo All-Americans and is consequently no stranger to the game.

Ryan

"Ted" Ryan, former O. H. S. captain, who holds down one of the half berths with the locals and plays safety. His work at running down punts last season gained him a regular berth again this year and fans who knew him while in school will watch with special interest his playing Sunday.

Schiff

"Ira" Schiff, veteran lineman, who has weathered many a fray with the Independents since the day of their organization. Ira is probably one of the toughest line-men in this section of the country and should be able to out-play any man that stacks up against him this season.

Morton

"Chuck" Morton, center and guard of last season, who will be seen in action Sunday. Morton plays a wicked game both on the offensive and defensive and judging by his work during practice should prove to be a cinder in Corning's eye.

Russell

"Skinny" Russell, former manager of the Indies and now one of the most valuable players. Together with his brother, "Pat" they make up one of the best brother grid combines that ever graced a semi-pro team. He is an excellent line-man and has had plenty of experience against some of the toughest pro outfits in the east.

Driscoll

"App" Driscoll, former high school star and member of St. Bonaventure's 1925 varsity squad. His work at end in nabbing passes and taking out men has assured him of a place in the Independent line-up. Known for his fighting spirit and thorough knowledge of the game, App is one of Carberry's strongest arguments for a victory.

Degnan

"Cub" Degnan, who holds down a wing position on the Carberry crew and who should prove a source of worry to Corning backs. His work as a tackler has shown the fans of Olean that he is of real value to the team. Nothing seems to be in the North-end lad's way when he is after a pass for he is a handy man in an aerial attack.

Bernard

"Dinny" Bernard, tackle de luxe and lineman extraordinary, is the short and sweet way of saying the Allegany flash up. At the tackle post, he is of decided aid to the team, playing a hard game both offensively and defensively. In the game with Jamestown last year he fought Linquist, star tackle, for forty of the hardest five minutes that the former All-Americas ever went through.

Kent

"Jimmy" Kent, full-back and line plunger who has proven himself to be of value. His work with the ball makes him one of the most feared backs on the squad. While in high school, he was awarded a trophy for being the team's most valuable player. His work at the present seems to carry out his high school record.

Dugan

Sage Dugan, who plays either half-back or end and who is a real ground gainer in either position, should prove his worth Sunday when he stacks up against Corning. At no time has he shown better form than he does now and much is expected of him this season.

Miltner

George Miltner, guard, who is playing his third season with the Indies. Miltner is a husky built line-man who works like a tractor when it comes to making holes in an opponent's line. Carberry intends to use him to one of the guard positions against Corning.

Nenno

"Jim" Nenno, another veteran line-man who boasts of never having been taken from a game through injuries. He is immune, apparently, to injuries as it takes advantage of this fact by placing his frame in the way of feet, faces and bodies that come his way.

Dollard

Trainer Dollard. Here is the most popular man in the city as far as the ladies are concerned. He acts in the official capacity of manager, trainer, skilly-man and what not. Without him, the team would not seem the same. He has not missed a practice session or a game in three years and is now serving his fourth term in the interest of the team.

MRS. STETSON IS CHAMPION

A Mother Wins National Golf Crown For First Time In 11 Years

HAVERFORD, Pa., Oct. 2.—(AP)—The women's national golf crown will remain in the east for another season—the possession of a mother for the first time in eleven years.

With the defeat of Virginia Wilson, 20 year old Chicago girl, at the hands of Mrs. Henry C. Stetson of Philadelphia, the last of a big field of youthful contenders from the fairways of many ot passed from the tournament. And today, for the second time in the history of the competition, two matrons, players from the sister states of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, were opponents in the 36 hole final.

Mrs. Wright D. Goss, of Short Hills, N. J., facing Mrs. Stetson, ruled a favorite on the basis of comparative medal scores. She has proven herself a powerful driver long and accurate in the use of her irons, and secure enough on the green to take advantage of her superior play with the wooden clubs.

To beat Mrs. Courtland Smith by 3 and 2 yesterday, she posted the finest round of the outgoing nine, chalking up a 40 to the turn as compared to Mrs. Stetson's 46.

TIGER GRID CAPTAIN SUSTAINS INJURIES

Briefs on the World Series

(By The Associated Press)

The New York Yankees have voted full shares of the World Series receipts to all the eligibles. Bill Skiff, utility catcher, was voted a three fourths share as was Doc Woods, the trainer, and Mark Roth, traveling secretary of the club. Eddie Bennett, the bat boy who has been with the Yankees since they won their pennant in 1921, was voted $500. Until he had been voted a share in the spoils, Skiff had the distinction of being on two championship teams without ever having shared in the money. He was shunted to the Toronto International in August and recalled by the Yankees just before the International season closed.

The influx of newspapermen to report the World Series is on in earnest. Headquarters have been established at the Hotel Commodore. More than 400 sporting writers are estimated to be at work on the series.

OPEN COLLEGE GRID SEASON

Larger Universities To Put Teams In Field First Time Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 2—(AP)—Gridiron warriors stood at attention today awaiting King Football's command to advance in full force into the 1926 campaign. While many college squads have been drifting into action during the past two weeks, the biggest elevens have been mobilizing for opening engagements on Saturday.

Heading a heavy card which puts all the college teams of the east into the fray are the tussels of the "big three" and intersectional meetings bringing together the Navy and Purdue at Annapolis and a Detroit invasion on the Army at West Point.

The Naval Academy has displayed a powerful attack in practice in preparation for Purdue. The Indiana team was holding a brief workout at Annapolis today. Coach Jones of the Army had his squad through a hard drill yesterday, and a light practice period today completed the drive for the tilt with Detroit.

Prospects of Yale concentrating on a passing game were in evidence. The Blue is well supplied with backs but needs strengthening along the line. Yale stacks up against Boston University at New Haven in its initial clash.

Harvard faces a hard battle with Geneva at Cambridge. The Geneva eleven held Cornell to a six point score last Saturday furnishing one of the surprises in early season struggles. Princeton meets the champion of last year's "little three," Amherst, at Princeton.

LINDSLEY IN STATE MEET

Bob Lindsley of the Corning Free Academy tennis team left yesterday morning for Clinton, N. Y., to compete in the New York State High School Tennis Tournament. This is the first time in the history of the Academy that a student has represented Corning in the annual tournament. Lindsley won the right to compete when he won the singles championship of Section 7 by defeating Monroe and Charlotte High Schools of Rochester.

Meeker Students See Value In Proper Working Attire

Other News Notes of Interest at "The School Worth While"

CASSON S. HARTZOG

Casson S. Hartzog of 243 E. Second street, Corning, was recently graduated from the Complete "Meeker Training".

The Meeker Employment Department has placed him in a position in Elmira where he will start work Monday, October 4.

Mr. Hartzog produced a fine record and is assured of success.

ELMIRA, Oct. 2.—Much interest is being exhibited by the entire student body in the work of the Personality Class, given for the students who entered in September. Recently a demonstration was given to show the students conservative styles appropriate for the business office. Through the courtesy of Mosch, the clothier, a number of students were clothed in conservative and extreme fashions and brought before the class for criticism and discussion. Much benefit has already been given the students from this work, which has been in progress only one month.

This work is being given to all who enter the Institute, without extra cost to the students.

KENNON—BUTTERS

The Management and Faculty of the Institute join in extending best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Butters. Mrs. Butters was formerly Miss Marguerite Kennon, a student at the Institute.

EMPLOYMENT RECORDS

The following young people have been placed through the Meeker Employment Department during the past week:

Miss Elnora Gardner of Lowman, Miss Mary Commisa, Elmira, Miss Isabel Erway, of Montoru Falls, and Mrs. Lawrence Fahr, of Elmira.

GOOD WORK

Commendable work has been done by Ralph Seddon of Sayre, and Emil Melnick of Elmira Heights, in the work in the accounting Department. Mr. Seddon completed the general bookkeeping practice set, which follows the regular work of the Junior Accounting Course, earning a mark of 98 per cent. Mr. Melnick, in the same test, rated 95 per cent. This, we feel is very commendable. Both young men have decided to stay to complete the work in Banking Theory and Practice.

EXEMPT FROM TESTS

The following young people in the first month Shorthand class have earned an average of above 90 per cent in their daily. This means that they are privileged to be promoted into the second month class without examination. They are as follows:

ASSEMBLY

Last week, the student body was addressed by R. C. VanMarter, Office Manager of the Associated Gas & Electric Company of Ithaca. Mr. Van Marter's remarks were very inspiring, due to the fact that he made plain the real opportunities offered to young men and women who are prepared for business. His company now employs over 30 Meeker graduates who have made wonderful progress with that organization. The Meeker Institute appreciates the courtesies this company has shown the Institute and the graduates.

OCTOBER 4

Monday, October 4 is another big day for Meeker's. 40 young people are expected to enter Business Training. It is expected that this number will fill practically every available seat in the Insti-

DANNY HAS A SHOCK

A sudden shock 'twill sometimes take
To get some people wide awake.
—Old Mother Nature

Danny Meadow Mouse had made up his mind that he was going to start for home, though where home was he didn't know. He had been brought to the beach in an airplane, which, as you know, he called a Man Bird. He had climbed out of it as soon as he arrived at the beach and he hadn't thought of it since. But now he could think of nothing else.

"If I can once find that Man Bird," thought Danny, "I'll be safe. Even if it doesn't take me back home right away, I'll be safe. But, of course, it will take me back home, just as it brought Nanny and me back from the Sunny South. The first chance I get I think I'll run over to the bathhouse and see if Jimmy Skunk is living under it now. He ought to know where it is."

Now, Danny didn't dare to go out at night for fear that Shortear the Marsh Owl would catch him. And he was afraid that Reddy Fox was watching for him by day. Wasn't that a dreadful situation to be in? But Danny had made up his mind that if he got out at all, it would have to be in the day-time. He wanted to start early in the morning, but he didn't dare do that. But later that morning he heard heavy foosteps. They were the footsteps of one of those two-legged creatures called men. They passed very close to that old log under which Danny was hiding.

"What?" squealed Danny. "Wh-wh-what was that you said?"

"Now is my chance," chied Danny to himself. "Reddy Fox won't be hanging around with one of those two-legged creatures here."

So those footsteps had hardly passed when Danny darted out from under the old log and headed straight for a certain bathhouse. It was some time since he had been over there and he wasn't sure that Jimmy Skunk was still living there. When he popped underneath and discovered a black and white ball up in one corner he gave a sigh of relief. It was evident that Jimmy had just come in. He had been out all night. Jimmy has a way of being out all night, and like most folks who have been out all night, he is pretty well tired out by the time he gets home. But there is one thing about him—he is always good-natured, which is more than you can say for some other folks. You see, being out all night is perfectly all right for Jimmy Skunk.

"Good morning," squeaked Danny. Jimmy didn't hear him. "Good morning, Neighbor Skunk," cried Danny a little louder in that squeaky voice of his.

"I suppose it is," replied Jimmy Skunk sleepily.

"You suppose what is?" demanded Danny, looking puzzled.

"Why, a good morning, of course," retorted Jimmy. "What are you doing over here at this hour?"

"I'm looking for some news," replied Danny. "Can you tell me where that big Man Bird is—the one that brought me here to the seashore?"

"How should I know?" replied Jimmy rather shortly. "That Man Bird flew away the very day after you got here. How should I know where it is?"

"What!" squealed Danny. "Wh-wh-what was that you said?"

"I said that that big Man Bird flew away long ago," replied Jimmy. "What's that to you. What are you whimpering about?"

"I-I-I want to go home. I-I-I want to go home, and now I can't. What shall I do?"

"Stay here," replied Jimmy Skunk dryly.

The next story: "Danny Sets Out."

POPULARITY OF ARMY GREATER

Indicated by Enlistments in Second Corps Area During Month

The popularity of the U. S. Army is increasing.

To support that statement Major General Charles P. Summerall, at his headquarters on Governors Island, N. Y., today announced that enlistments of young men in the Second corps area for the month of August has far exceeded the figures for the same month in every year since 1922.

A compilation of enlistments in the six recruiting districts of the corps show that 699 young men were accepted for organizations of the army in Panama, Hawaii, Philippines and China as well as for organizations within the limits of the corps area itself. New York city contributed 253 of this number; Buffalo, 141; Newark, 133; Syracuse, 92; Albany, 45; and Camden, 35.

In the past four years New York city during the month of August has sent 656 representative young men into the olive-drab uniform of the army. Buffalo was second with 327. The four other districts were: Newark, 313; Syracuse, 289; Albany, 150, and Camden, 75.

According to General Summerall, there still are a few vacancies in the garrisons of Panama, Hawaii and the Philippines, and at the posts in New York and New Jersey.

SUFFERING IN FLORIDA GREAT

Miles E. M'Intyre Writes of Recovery from Recent Hurricane

The following interesting letter was received today from Miles E. McIntyre, of Miami, Fla., formerly of Corning who was in the path of the recent hurricane which swept through that state:

"As one week has passed since our disaster and I am at liberty to enjoy my second nights rest since Sept. 17th, I feel that it is time that I let you and our other friends at home gleam a bit of our experience.

"On the 17th about 8 p. m., the wind began to blow from a due northerly direction. As time passed its ferocity increased. From 2 a. m., until 6 a. m., it seemed as though we would be blown to eternity without another glimpse of daylight. About 3 a. m., it began to rain, trees fell, small frame buildings began to break to pieces and hit our house. At about 4 a. m., a small garage which was over a block away crashed through the roof of our next door neighbor's home as well as part of our porch. Luckily none was injured. This neighbor and myself then called all the homes nearby so as to get the people all together.

"The wind became so strong that it was necessary for us all to join hands in order to get into our house. Suddenly at 6 a. m., the storm disappeared and in less than no time returned from the south. The first storm was nothing compared with this. Our home was in the middle of the block. I was outside attempting to repair the awnings when this gale came in all its fury. I tried to reach the front door but I was picked up bodily and the next I realized was that I was in a clump of shrubbery, past the corner, of the block. After crawling and rolling for what seemed a lifetime I gained the house. With this wind came rain so fast and furious that you could scarcely see six feet in front of you. For over three hours this unbelievable wind and rain continued.

"Homes sailed by in the air, automobiles were rolled over like a marble rolls, trees, bricks, cement blocks, in fact anything and everything in the world seemed to be coming at you from every direction. Windows were blown out, the roof ripped off, and terror seized us with an unholy grip. The only salvation was to lie on the ground and grasp anything your fingers could clutch. This continued for only about three hours but actually we all lived years in that short time.

"However, God was most merciful and as soon as it somewhat abated we formed our own little relief committee and started out seeking the injured and dead. This was the most gruesome part and is best not repeated. It is needless to say, that no matter what your own condition was, you found some poor soul in greater distress. Buildings were unroofed, blocks demolished, homes overturned and left as a mere heap of broken lumber, wires were down, water, gas and electricity were destroyed. Everykind of a motor vehicle which was not drowned out was immediately put to work seeking and caring for the more unfortunate. Before 2 p. m., order began to assert itself from this unbelieveable and systematized efforts were being made.

"Practically nothing or no one escaped its fury. The wonderful Police Department headed by Chief Leslie Quigg, assumed command and began to restore order and direct all efforts, which was no small job where 200,000 people are living in one community. In ten hours time relief was on its way and Miami, the Magic City, began to assert herself.

"The city proper is divided into four sections—Southeast, Southwest, Northeast—Northwest, with Hialeah, Miami Beach and Coral Gables being separate surrounding cities. The brunt of the storm seemed to center in the Northwest section and Hialeah, although every section was badly damaged. In my estimation Hialeah suffered more than any other section. The scenes of horror and destruction are indescribable.

"To date the number of dead are reported as approximately 175, the injured 6,000 and the homeless nearly 50,000 poor souls to say nothing of the enormous property damage which is made more cruel by being forced to see what one has fought and struggled for swept away and scattered to the four corners of the earth by a gust of wind which tears a man's house apart, causes untold sorrow and distress in just a few moments time after he has felt secure in his home and all that was most beautiful to him but a moment before. I pray to God that no one in the good City of Corning nor vicinity will ever be forced to endure such an experience.

"However, today we are all bigger and better for it and the spirit of Miami is asserting itself while within 30 days she will be back on her feet so as to aid some other sister city in distress. The spirit of loyalty and co-operation is beyond description. Each one has lent the other fellow a helping hand, given unrestrainedly of what he had or could get and today, each and everyone is bound together in a grand communion of fellowship which sorrow and distress can bring about alone.

"We are most grateful that we escaped alive but my only regret is that I do not possess millions of dollars so that I might freely give to those who are motherless, fatherless, homeless and in dire straits of want.

"The City as a whole is well taken care of now with the exception of the need of money for rebuilding and refurnishing both homes and wardrobes.

"However the good people of the Nation have arisen in a body and up until tonight over two millions has been raised while at least five millions are necessary in cash.

"I have endeavored to locate all from Corning and vicinity and so far have found everyone I knew of being here is safe. I know the people of Corning are responding generously but the greatest need and help they can give now is cash to the American Red Cross, although do not think this is meant as an appeal.

"Trusting this has not bored you and in case anyone has a relative or friend whom they wish to locate, I shall be very glad to assist them in any way that I can if they will write to me at Box 1153, (Buena Vista Station), Miami, Florida."

Fire Prevention Week

Starts Next Saturday

National Fire Prevention Week, which starts next week, brings home to us the ever increasing dangers of our natural enemy—Fire.

This able servant, uncontrolled, has caused thousands of dollars damage and innumerable lives lost. And with this toll mounting, firemen throughout the country, cooperating with leading business men, are preaching the gospel of prevention.

Fire can be prevented in most cases. A little thought on elimination of hazzards and a little carefulness, woud have prevented numerous fires in the past year. Let us get behind Fire Prevention Week next Saturday and bring the number of fires in our city down to a minimum.

This agency, for the past three quarters of a century, has been telling this community the value of fire prevention. During these years it has shown the community the value of being on guard against this monster. This is only another one of our many services.

BANKROLLS IN THE DISCARD

Not the Size to Choke a Cow As They Used To Be Years Ago

People don't carry rolls of money "big enough to choke a cow" these days. Instead they carry a fountain pen and a slim check book, and as a result we seldom see bills of the larger denominations in active circulation.

How long has it been since you saw a $50 or a $100 bill? In the ordinary course of events a person would hardly see one in a year, unless he worked for one of those rare companies that pays its employes in cash. Most people now pay all bills, even down to those of a dollar or two, by check. If they travel they carry travelers' checks or bank drafts, and seldom have any great amount of cash in their pockets.

If you think that bills of large denominations are common, just try to get a $100 one changed in a few local stores, and watch the expression on the merchants' faces. Or, if you are lucky enough to get one even bigger, you might make a fortune out of it, as did the hero in Mark Twain's famous story.

There is thrill and an impressiveness in large banknotes or gold pieces that a person never gets from a check, but most of us are willing to forego the thrill for the greater convenience of the checking account.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATION AT ACADEMY COMPLETED

Charles C. Corwin, director of music in the schools in District No. 9 has completed the school musical organizations consisting of two orchestras and a glee club.

The Junior orchestra includes pupils from the fifth grade through the eighth, consisting of five first violins; four second violins; one cello; three clarinets; drums; piano.

The personnel of the Senior orchestra consists of the following high school students; First violins, Sidney Bailey, Charlotte Wolfcott, Norman Remmel, John Thomas and Rosalyn Bartholomew; Second violins, Sturges Cary, Clifford Gridley, Marian Long, Helen Schroeder, Gladys Schroeder and Marian Smith; cello, William Corwin; cornets, Donald Allen, first; Junior Goodyear, second; clarinet, Chester Rose; bass, Harold Stasch; bells, Helen Austin; drums, Wilbur Hyland; piano, Myrtle Harris.

The Glee Club, composed of only high school students, numbers about 60. This club was organized two years ago, and is still made up of many of the original members. Due to this fact the club should make an exceptionally fine showing in this year's work.

A concert is being arranged by the Senior orchestra and the Glee Club to be held next spring. For the past two years annual Spring concerts have been given with a great deal of success, considering the short time of their existence.

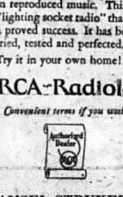

For late Fall is scheduled the operetta, "Goldilocks," by Henry P. Cross, to be given by the pupils.

This should prove to be as delightful to Corning audiences as former juvenile productions have been.

RENO COMPLETES 20 YEARS AS DRIVER IN THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

Has Piloted Both Teams of Horses and Motor Pumper No. 1, the Latter for the Past 13 Years

Francis J. Reno, of 240 West Third street, driver of Motor Pumper No. 1 at Fire Headquarters, today is celebrating his 20th anniversary of the department. He is receiving congratulations from his many friends as well as department employes on the completion of this long period of faithful service.

Frank, as he is better known, has been a resident of Corning for a great many years and prior to going into the department was a cutter employed by Guest & Sullivan, former partners in the silk building on West Tioga avenue.

Deciding that he would like to be a fireman, Mr. Reno became a probationary employe on October 1, 1906 and continued in that capacity until March 14, 1907 when he was permanently appointed to the paid department.

When he first entered the department he became driver of the famous "hays" that drew the first horse drawn truck to the Corning. It was a combination wagon, now supplanted by the motor driven trucks, the body of which is used on the Pierce-Arrow auxiliary truck in service at Station No. 1. Frank P. Potter, of the old time Chief of Corning Glass Works Fire Department, was one of the first members of the department and is still retained by the department as a call man.

Later in 1907 the Fire Commissioners purchased the hand drawn hook and ladder truck and Mr. Reno was transferred as driver of that truck when Mr. Huggins was made the permanent driver, remains das driver of the big truck until 1913 when the first piece of motor apparatus was placed in service. Eugene Rice, of West Third street, then became the driver of the hook and ladder truck.

Early service in the fire department saw comparatively small fires, although there were few large ones, and Mr. Reno comments on the small losses in the early days despite the fact that the equipment of the department was not anything to compare with today's powerful fire fighting apparatus.

20 Years In Service

Mr. Reno is the oldest member of the paid department, being appointed on March 14 the same date the Fire Chief J. W. McCarthy, then first assistant chief was named on the salaried call man roster. Chief McCarthy assumed charge of the department in December, 1906 upon the resignation of the late Quincy W. Farr, who moved to the state of Washington to engage in the lumber business.

Mr. Reno is married and has three children, Francis, Lawrence and Florence. He is an expert mechanic and his years of service have qualified him as an excellent and careful driver.

In honor of the event Mr. Reno is entertaining this evening at 6 o'clock with a dinner at Fire Station No. 1. His guests will include the members of the fire department, Mayor and Fire Commissioners and others.

LAKE PROJECT IS DISCUSSED

Various Committees Hold Meeting To Take Up Denison Park Question

Committees representing Common Council and various civic organizations held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office last evening to discuss action toward applying the lake at Denison Park with water. All present were enthusiastically unanimous in voting that the work should be done but plans for raising the money were not completed. A second meeting will be held in about a week.

The meeting last evening resulted from a petition presented to the Board of Public Works by residents along Avenue asking that water be supplied to the park to eliminate the present mosquito nuisance and to also further beautify the park. Plans for flooding the lake were discussed at length, the present plan being to lay a pipe line along the Chemung river dyke from near the Delaware street bridge to the eastern extremity of the park. The cost of this would be about $26,000 it is said.

Although nothing definite was decided it was the consensus of opinion that the best means of raising the necessary fund would be by popular subscription. It was brought out that if a few thousand dollars could be raised locally the balance would be forthcoming. At a recent meeting of the Board of Public Works, representatives of the Board of Health were present and insisted that something had to be done to eliminate the mosquito nuisance in the park. It was brought out at that time that if the lake was not supplied with water it would be necessary to fill in the lake with earth.

The main thing accomplished last night was the step taken to perfect a permanent organization to carry through the project. A committee of which Council President Reed is chairman, was appointed to arrange the organization and another meeting will be held at the call of Alderman Beyea who presided last night. The other members of the committee are E. L. Goldrich, Fred G. Gardner, Rev. W. H. Tew and Mrs. C. L. Cook.

In discussing the necessity of supplying water to the park lake it was emphasized that three important points would be accomplished by such action. First, it would comply with requirements of Board of Health in eliminating mosquito nuisance, second, would provide a safe place for skating and third, it would add beautify the park and hasten the completion of the original plans for the recreation center of the city.

It was also suggested that Common Council should be asked to appropriate $5,000 for this work to start the fund. The vote on this proposition as it was pointed out that such an amount would give the movement an added impetus. It was also brought out that later a popular subscription could be started and the people of the city could show in a concrete way just how much this project was desired. It was said that if several thousand dollars were raised locally that the remainder could undoubtedly be secured from outside sources. W. O. Drake, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, who was present at the meeting as a member of the Rotary committee stated that his estimate on the cost of filling the eight acres of lake with water would be $26,500.00.

Those present at the meeting last evening were as follows: Alderman H. F. Beyea, Alfred G. Hood and S. L. Cole, from Common Council; John L. Thomas, E. S. Underhill, Jr., and William H. Tew from the Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. C. L. Cook and Mrs. John L. Thomas from the Woman's Club; Dr. H. W. Lawrence and Fred G. Anderson from Corning Lions; John Comosh, W. O. Drake and Morris Davidson from Corning Rotary; George W. Pratt, representing Corning Lodge 1038 F. & A. M.; Lloyd Conable representing Painted Post Lodge No. 117 F. & A. M., Mayor Harry A. Rood and Secretary Selden C. Adams of the Chamber of Commerce.

The committee of five headed by Mr. Pratt will hold a meeting Tuesday evening in Mr. Pratt's office to plan for the permanent organization. The principal business to be taken up will be the selection of a permanent chairman to carry the park project through to completion.

DEATH CLAIMS JOHN F. HOARE

Former Corning Man Dies Suddenly In Wellsboro Due To Heart Attack

John F. Hoare, of Wellsboro, Pa., formerly of Corning, son of the late James Hoare, of this city, died suddenly at his home in Wellsboro, Pa., last night at 11 o'clock following a short but severe heart attack.

Mr. Hoare had been in apparently good health and had ate with his wife to the theatre. Upon their return, they had stopped at an ice cream store and eaten some ice cream. After leaving the store, Mr. Hoare complained of a pain in his chest which grew worse so rapidly that he was unable to continue home. An automobile was summoned and he was taken home and in a doctor called. He lived but a short time after arriving home.

John F. Hoare was born in Corning, March 23, 1884, the son of James and Frances Dailey Hoare. He was educated in the Hotchkiss Private School in Lakeville, Conn., and at Alfred University.

After his graduation, he was associated with his father in the Hoare Cut Glass Factory, of this city, which at that time was one of the most important plants in the city. About 18 years ago the factory was moved to Wellsboro, Pa., and Mr. Hoare went there to make his home. About 10 years later Mr. Hoare went out of the glass business and became associated with his father-in-law, Otis Evans, of Wellsboro, in the Tioga Crushed Sand and Gravel Company. At the time of his death, Mr. Hoare was manager of this company.

On February 14, 1917, Mr. Hoare married Miss Dora Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Evans, of Wellsboro, Pa., who survives his with one child, John. He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of Wellsboro, Pa. Besides his wife and son, Mr. Hoare leaves seven sisters, Mrs. William J. Fitzpatrick, of Corning, Mrs. Kate Pierce, of New York City, Mrs. Q. W. Farr, of Washington, D. C., formerly of Corning; Mrs. E. Ross, of San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. Amos Heare and Mrs. C. D. Champlain, of Hammondsport, and Mrs. W. M. Malburn, of Brighton.

The remains will be brought to Corning, where the funeral will be held Tuesday at an hour and place to be announced later.

Mr. Hoare followed for many years in the business which his immediate ancestors had assisted to establish and to make famous in America, the manufacturing of cut glass. For three generations, the fame of J. Hoare & Company's products was world wide and with the products of T. G. Hawkes & Company and Ezzinton gave to Corning its name "The Crystal City."

In the late eighties and in the nineties Corning was in the height of its cut glass business attracted there because the Corning Glass Works then specialized in the manufacture of "blanks" for rich cut glass. These "blanks" were taken principally by J. Hoare & Co., and T. G. Hawkes & Co., which then employed hundreds of men in the cutting, engraving and metallic decoration of glass.

The principal ingredient of these blanks was sand brought from Berkshire county, Mass. then the source of the purest supply. Glass made from these blanks was colorless and diamond like in brilliancy and when engraved and decorated were accorded a place o fits highest ornamental value. J. Hoare & Co. with T. G. Hawkes & Co. produced a quality of glassware which won the highest prizes at the Paris and Columbian Expositions, outclassing all competitors. The Hoare factory was established in 1853 and the Hoare family was among the most firmly established in social and financial circles in New York. Hoare glass was distributed through the leading jewelers of the world while famous men of all nationalities had elaborate services made and cut for their private homes.

PATROLMAN ROWE IS NAMED ROUNDSMAN IN TEMPORARY CAPACITY

Appointed as Acting Roundsman Effective First of Month; Duty to Relieve Officers on Beats

Patrolman John Rowe has been appointed as acting roundsman by Chief of Police A. W. Eckess, effective October 1. This is the first time that the police department has had such an office and it is expected that some action will be taken by the Police Commission to actually make the office a permanent one.

The duties of a roundsman will be to make a round of all the patrolmen on their various beats during the night and to act as a sort of assistant captain. Officers on the fourth and seventh ward beats are relieved for their meals by the roundsman and he also relieves Captain Shinners at 5 a. m. Mr. Shinners is relieved daily on duty until 6 o'clock in the morning.

Common Council in adopting the police budget last July allowed an increase of $4 a month in the salary of one patrolman for the purpose of creating the office of a roundsman. The Police Commission has never taken any action in the matter. To create such an office it would be necessary to call for civil service examination and the man getting the highest rating would be appointed.

Patrolman Milton Kirk resumed day duty yesterday for the balance of the month and Patrolman Harry Hammond who has been working days was shifted to the night force on the center beat, his hours being from 7 o'clock in the evening to 4 o'clock in the morning.

The beats of the other members of the department for the month are as follows: Howard Rose, east end, 6 p. m. to 3 p. m.; Herschel Farrell, outskirts, 9 p. m. to 6 a. m.; William Coumbe, center beat, 6 p. m. to 3 a. m.; Joseph Erhardt, hill beat, 10 p. m. to 7 a. m.; William Collins, southside, 4 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon; David Crandall and Fred Denson, traffic duty.

NEW MEMBERS ARE RECEIVED

Chamber of Commerce Bulletin Announces Activities of Organization

The Chamber of Commerce office this week issued its third monthly bulletin to members and two new members are announced for the month, Corning Terra Cotta Company, Inc., and Harris Barth.

Solicitation of merchants for "gift advertising," is criticized in the bulletin and it is pointed out that such a solicitor first secures the endorsement of the Chamber before making a canvass. Regarding this practice, the bulletin states:

"Merchants are especially afflicted with solicitors for space selling in souvenir programs, calendars, directories, etc. There is an understanding among the merchants that endorsement should first be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce before such space contracts are sought. If this rule was applied and observed before buying space it would prove a protection to the merchant. Let's give outright to charity and buy our space where we think it will give results. The Chamber of Commerce endorsement committee will be guided by hard and fast rules of business before making endorsement."

Fire Prevention Slogans

In the past 50 years while the increase in population has been 150 percent, that of fire losses has been 630 per cent. This is only one reason that the nation is observing its annual Fire Prevention Week beginning next Monday. The bread we eat, the clothes we wear, the books we use and the machinery we operate all have in their cost a part of the national fire loss, says Fire Chief J. W. McCarthy in giving out the following slogans:

"Rubbish heaps are fire breeders, get rid of them.

"Dead campfires insure live forests.

"Fire prevention is not a science; it is just common sense.

"Don't feed the fire demon—Clean up!

"Fire prevention is an asset to the community. Carelessness is a liability.

"Clean your chimney out before it cleans you out.

"Matches out—leave no doubt. "Protected wires—mean fewer fires.

"Matches are always a dangerous plaything for children.

"'Tis better to be sure than sorry."

AUTO IS DAMAGED

An automobile owned and driven by R. F. Aldrich, of North Hamilton street, Painted Post, a member of the Painted Post High School faculty, was damaged to the extent of $100 Thursday near Bath due to the unusually heavy traffic at the Bath Fair.

SMITH UNABLE TO COME HERE

Not a Hall Large Enough In the City to Accommodate Democratic Rally

The coming of Governor Alfred E. Smith and Justice Robert F. Wagner to Steuben county to be speakers at a Democratic rally at Hornell on the evening of October 14, is arousing a great deal of interest among the Democratic voters. Some criticisms have been heard directed against the county committee for not having this gubernatorial candidate visit Corning on his itinerary but Lesie W. Wellington secretary of the committee has given assurance that efforts were made to have the governor speak here.

Governor Smith had a slight illness a short time ago, and his physicians will not allow him to speak out of doors, Mr. Wellington explains. Corning has no large enough for a county rally and therefore it was found necessary to hold the meeting in Hornell where the a large armory can be used for the rally.

The Republicans have made no announcement as yet in regard to upstate meetings but party leaders say that it is understood that either Congressman Mills, candidate for governor or Senator Wadsworth will be heard in the county during the campaign. Leaders of both parties state that it is apparent that the candidates will devote more time and attention to western New York than usual this year.

Benjamin C. DeWitt of Hornell, Republican State Committeeman from the second district, stated today that he was practically certain that Senator James E. Wadsworth and Odgen M. Mills, would also be in Hornell during the week of October 18.

SHERIFF'S MEN AT BATH FAIR

No Pickpockets Reported and No Cars Stolen During the Week

The efficiency of the county authorities, cooperating with the Bath police and special officers, kept things safeguarded at the Steuben County Fair the past week, according to Sheriff W. P. Page. No pickpockets were reported and no cars were stolen.

Mildred Decker, 55 years old, a resident of Penn Yan, was reported missing Thursday and the authorities have received no report since as to whether she has been located. She attended the fair in company with relatives and failed to meet them at an appointed hour. Thinking that she had returned home the family left the grounds but reported to the sheriff's office that she was not there. A sister, Mrs. Harry Lyman, who lives in Corning was notified, thinking perhaps she had gone there. She knew nothing of the missing woman's whereabouts.

Thursday it was reported that a car owned by Albert Argett of 320 Chemung street, had been stolen but on investigation it was found that the car had only been moved from one parking place to another.
