PITTSBURGH BANKERS CHARGED WITH CONSPIRACY

State Police Ordered to Complete Bandit Hunt Today

ARMY OF 500 POLICE UNDER ORDERS TO SHOOT WITHOUT WARNING IF THEY ARE SEEN

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Major Mark O. Kimberling, of the state police, today ordered his troopers besieging the Watchung mountain district where eight Elizabeth mail bandits are believed hiding, to complete their hunt today.

Armed with automatic rifles, machine guns, hand grenades and gas bomb, every member of the army of 500 state and city police, which was thrown around the district within a few hours after the holdup and killing Thursday was under orders to shoot without warning if convinced that he had come upon the bandits. They are believed to have three capable of 400 shots a minute.

Colonel Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of the state police was asked to ask for 1,000 militia if traces of the bandits were discovered. This was in accordance with Governor Moore's offer to call out all the militia if necessary and if the state police needed enforcements.

ORATORICAL LOVING CUP IS PRESENTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The silver loving cup symbolic of the world's scholastic oratorical championship was in the possession today of Herbert Wenig of Hollywood, Calif.

Before a distinguished audience that included President Coolidge, the Pacific coast youth won his title last night in the first international oratorical contest from a field composed of representatives of Canada, England, Mexico and France.

Wenig, who recently won the American championship here, spoke on the "American Constitution," Jose Munoz-Cota, Mexico City, who spoke in his native tongue upon "Bolivar and the Latin-American Peoples," was given second place by the five judges.

The contest was sponsored by a committee of American newspaper publishers and the cup was presented to Wenig by Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of The Associated Press, on behalf of the sponsor.

MUSICIAN IS KILLED AT CROSSING

PLATTSBURG, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Evadna Lapham, widely known musician, was almost instantly killed at a D. & H. crossing near the outskirts of this city late yesterday while driving to her home in Peru. Her husband, Edwin Lapham, who was driving the car, is in the Champlain Hospital, suffering from shock, but is apparently otherwise uninjured. The Laphams had been visiting friends in town and were driving south on the Lake Shore Road. Although the train which struck their car was going in the same direction they evidently did not see it until too late. Mr. Lapham tried to turn aside and struck the train broadside.

Mrs. Lapham had a nationwide reputation as a pianist and accompanist. She was for a number of years accompanist to Mme. Louise Homer, Metropolitan Opera singer. For a number of years Mrs. Lapham was one of the leaders in Chicago musical circles.

HOOVER TO SPEAK OVER RADIO FOR TWO SENATORS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16—(AP)—Herbert C. Hoover, secretary of commerce, will speak tonight over the radio in behalf of two candidates for re-election to the United States Senate, it was announced today at Republican national headquarters. He will make a plea for the re-election of Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, and Senator William M. Butler, of Massachusetts. His address will be made from WEAF, New York, hooked up with WGR, Buffalo, WEEI, at Boston, and WJAR at Providence, R. I.

18 OF CREW OF GLOUCESTER SAVED TODAY

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Eighteen men of the crew of the Gloucester motor ship Pioneer were safe today after having dirfted in dories in a rough sea for hours following a fire which was believed to have destroyed their vessel.

Fourteen of them were brought ashore early today by the coast guard crew at Nauset while four others, including Captain Michael Wyse, found hospitality aboard the Pollock Rip Lightship.

The Pioneer, a wooden ship of 233 tons, owned by Frank C. Pearce of Gloucester but fishing out of Boston, was bound for the fishing banks when it caught fire about 20 miles south by east of Peaked Hill Bar late Friday.

QUEEN HAS SLIGHT COLD

Well Enough, However, To Take Another Dip in Plunge

S. S. LEVIATHAN, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Although suffering from a slight cold for the last two days, Queen Marie felt well enough this morning to take another dip in the Leviathan's plunge after having a cup of tea. Marie and her daughter Princess Ileana, remained in the water about ten minutes.

Queen Marie and the other members of the royal family are interested in "scientific Christianity."

On board the Leviathan is a "soul surgeon," who is a friend of Marie and Nicholas. He is returning from the Far East, where he was in attendance upon the Empress of Siam.

He is Frank N. D. Buchanan, and while on his way back home from Siam he stopped off for several weks in Rumania. Prince Nicholas and Mr. Buchanan spent some time together in England and during the voyage of the Leviathan they have dined together.

A an informal reception of the newspaper correspondents yesterday the queen reiterated her great joy over being about to realise an ardent desire she has had for a long time of making a tour of the United States and Canada. Princess Ileana has the Niagara Falls and the Grand Canyon in her mind as places which will prove of greatest interest to her but she also wants to see "lots of Indians, living in their native state."

MATTHEWS IS ELECTED PUBLISHERS' CHAIRMAN

SYRACUSE, Oct. 16—(AP)—Burrows Matthews of the Buffalo Courier-Express was elected chairman at the fall meeting of the New York State members of The Associated Press here. Frederickw P. Hall, publisher of the Jamestown Journal, was re-elected as the organization's representative on the eastern advisory board.

ELEVEN DIE AS STEAMER GUIDE SINKS

Five Others on Board Saved in Tragedy on St. Lawrence River

QUEBEC, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Eleven persons, including one woman, lost their lives when the freight and passenger steamer Guide sank in heavy weather last night near Bodbout, on the northern shore of the St. Lawrence. News of the disaster was received today by the North Shore Trading Company owners of the vessel.

Five other men on board the steamer were saved. Among the missing are Captain J. M. Caron, First Mate Henri Fortin; and four passengers, Miss Anna Marcoux, address unknown; J. K. Lamme, a former mayor of Levis; Joseph Belanger of Ntashquan, Que., and Joseph Collar of Romaine, Quebec.

The Guide at six o'clock last night, two hours before the tragedy, passed Pointe Des Monts, about 15 miles below the place where she sank. She gave no signs of being in distress at that time, and it is believed that she capsised whei her cargo was shifted by the heavy seas.

Mails Will Be Protected Even if Necessary to Call Upon Army, Navy, Marine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—(AP)—The United States mails will be protected against bandits even if it becomes necessary to call upon the Army, Navy and Marine Corps to guard them. This defy went forward today from Postmaster General New following a decision reached by President Coolidge and his cabinet as the result of the $300,000 mail robbery at Elizabeth, N. J.

The postmaster general added that he would recommend to congress the passage of legislation to make an armed attack upon the mails a capital offense.

FOUR MAIL CLERKS, 100 PASSENGERS SLIGHTLY HURT AS PENNSY JUMPS TRACKS

DENNISON, Ohio, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Four mail clerks were slightly injured and more than 100 passengers slightly bruised when the west bound Pennsylvania flyer "American," New York-St. Louis flyer, jumped the track at Fisher, near here, at 5:30 a. m. today.

The mail car and seven sleepers were derailed when the tank car on the second locomotive of the double header struck a defective rail.

The mail car plunged down a 35 foot embankment, turning over several times. None of the sleepers went over the embankment. The two locomotives and the observation car, last car on the train, remained on the tracks.

Passengers on the sleeper were severely shaken up and in some instances thrown from their berths but none of them were injured.

LOS ANGELES HOME FROM DETROIT AFTER HURRIED TRIP DUE TO COMING STORM

LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP)—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles was back home today after a hurried ight from Detroit, made necessary by an approaching storm.

Her return marks the successful completion of a test ight similar to one that spelled disaster to her sister ship, the Shenandoah, while ying over Ohio a year ago.

The dirigible landed at the Naval air station field at 7 a. m.

The return was made in 13 hours and 5 minutes by way of Lake Erie, Buffalo, Syracuse, Albany and down the Hudson river valley to New York. It was without incident, the big ship functioning perfectly all the way. For a time a speed of 70 miles an hour was maintained.

The original plan of Lieutenant Commander C. E. Rosendahl, in command of the ship, was to remain in Detroit and vicinity until 10 o'clock this morning but the storm warnings made necessary the change in schedule. Accordingly the proposed trip to Selfridge Field was cancelled and the hawsers cast off from the Ford mooring mast at Dearborn at 2:30 p. m. Central time yesterday.

A full supply of gasoline and oil was taken aboard at Detroit and 300 pounds of provisions which consisted of roast chicken, veal cutlets, ham, bacon, soup, 40 dozen eggs, 100 loaves of bread and forty pies. While the big ship sped over Lake Erie the men enjoyed a friend chicken dinner.

During the stay at Dearborn the dirigible was visited by Henry Ford and his son Edsel Ford, and Mayor Smith of Detroit and many others. Mr. Ford and his son arrived at the airport shortly after midnight Thursday and watched the maneuvering necessary to anchor the big ship to the mooring mast.

While passing in the outbound trip over the Ohio area where the Shenandoah met disaster, extreme care was taken. Flying speed was reduced as low as 15 miles an hour part of the way and the ship was brought close to the ground. No difficulties were encountered, however.

The trip to Detroit was completed in 16 and one-half hours.

REP. SPLIT SIGNIFICANT SMITH THINKS

DUNKIRK, Oct. 16—(AP)—The most significant feature of Governor Smith's first week of campaigning for re-election, in his opinion, is "the hopeless split" in the Republican party on the prohibition question. This, he believes, will result in victory for the Democratic state ticket at the polls this fall.

"The Republican party is hopelessly split," he asserted, basing his opinion on talks with political leaders on his tour across the southern tier counties. "The candidates for Congress on the Republican ticket throughout the upper part of the state find it convenient to have a doctor's certificate rather than make a personal appearance when the Republican candidate for United States senator appears.

"If this means anything, it means a party division. Every candidate of the Democratic party from Niagara Falls to Montauk Point can appear with Judge Wagner and myself without prejudice to his own prestige."

Another significant feature of his trip, the governor said today, is that "statement after statement made by Congressman Ogden L. Mills has been openly challenged by men within and without his own party."

"The popular impression," he said, "seems to be that Congressman Mills was not relying upon his own knowledge but was permitting himself to be prompted by others. Nothing weakens a candidate so much as a well-grounded popular opinion along that line."

The "others" mentioned by the governor, included, he intimated, William Randolph Hearst, whom he charged in a speech at Hornell Thursday night with being allied with and directing the Republican campaign. Last night at the end of his speech here, the governor declared that he would "never stop talking about Hearst," while in his speech, he asserted that although he had seen some men "who were hungry for public office," he knew of none "unless it be his partner Hearst who would go as far as Congressman Mills is going."

Governor Smith, accompanied by former Justice Robert F. Wagner, Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, was to return to Buffalo this afternoon for the last speeches of the week.

"JERRY TARBOT" STILL MYSTERY

Mystery Man of American Legion Not Identified Despite Contrary Reports

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Who is "Jerry Tarbot," the mystery man of the American Legion?

This question remained unanswered today, despite efforts of identification or partial identification by persons who have seen "Tarbot" at the American Legion convention in Philadelphia or have seen his picture in the papers.

"Tarbot" is employed in a jewelry store in this city. His memory is vague pervious to the time, three years ago when he was dismissed from an asylum in Stockton, Calif. Although he says his fingerprints were not taken when he entered the service during the World War, the historical division of the Marine Corps at Washington is making every effort to identify him.

UNKNOWN QUANTITY IS CRISTMAN

If He Should Roll Up Between 250,000 and 300,000 Wagner Would Be Elected

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Political Correspondent for The Evening Leader
Copyright 1926, By The Evening Leader

SYRACUSE, Oct. 16.—The unknown quantity in the New York state campaign this year is Franklin W. Cristman, independent Republican candidate for the United States Senate. Governor Al Smith seems certain of re-election though probably by a diminished majority. Whether Senator James Wadsworth, Republican, will retain his seat depends on how much the truly sincere dry voters care about expressing themselves at all at the polls.

If Mr. Cristman should roll up between 250,000 and 300,000 votes, the effect would be to elect Justice Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, to the Senate. The last independent dry candidate received in the neighborhood of 160,000 votes. While Mr. Cristman seems to have aggressive support in some parts of the state, this cannot be said of all dry sections.

Party feeling, or rather the friendship of the regular organization men for Senator Wadsworth, will assist him in overcoming the handicaps of dry opposition. In some instances where Mr. Wadsworth's relation to the organization leaders is not as strong as it should be, the effect may be to present a passive rather than an active campaign. The more Republican drys who stay away from the polls, the better will Senator Wadsworth's chances be.

There prevails again an impression that Mr. Wadsworth's seat is in danger and that the election may be close even if he should pull through. It is recalled that Mr. Wadsworth ran six years ago during the Harding landslide. There was a spirit of resentment among the Republican women voters, but this failed to make any appreciable difference in the totals. Nevertheless, Mr. Harding carried the state by a much bigger majority than did Mr. Wadsworth and the resentment of the women voters will this year count for a great deal more than it did then.

The Democratic nominee for the Senate happens to be an able man, too. He was leader of the state Senate when Al Smith was leader of the Assembly. Before the Smith era of repeated victories Justice Wagner was looked upon as a popular choice for Governor.

Republican drys who are taken to task by other Republicans for supporting Cristman are being told that they are merely helping to elect Justice Wagner, who is wetter, if anything, than Senator Wadsworth. To this the reply is usually made that there is less concern about the victory side than the punishment of a Republican who so far strays from the rest of his party leaders in other states as to abandon the dry side of the prohibition question. This very attitude is making a good many "wet" Democrats think twice about the value of their own votes.

Those who are more concerned about prohibition than the political fortunes of any candidates are leaning toward Senator Wadsworth on the theory that if elected in New York state on the Republican ticket he will be able to do more to advance the cause of modification in respect to the Volstead act than a new Senator like Mr. Wagner could possibly do.

Here and there strong influential newspapers support Governor Smith, Democrat, and Senator Wadsworth, Republican. This is particularly true in wet centers. So the Anti-Saloon League knows that the real issue is not whether a wet governor shall be elected but whether a United States senator from New York shall gain independent votes and take his seat in the Senate as the exponent of change in the Volstead law. For this reason every effort is being made by the drys to bolster up the Cristman campaign. Thus far it has not had much publicity. It is said, that here and there the church organizations are quietly at work and that women's clubs are expressing their old time opposition to Mr. Wadsworth, who opposed women suffrage.

The trend in mid-October is toward a close result. Interest in the campaign is growing daily. Political meetings are well attended. New York deserves further inspection a little later in the month.

ALLEGE MORE THAN $100,000 BROTHERHOOD SAVINGS AND TRUST FUNDS ILLEGALLY USED

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Charges of conspiracy in connection with the alleged illegal use of more than $100,000 of the funds of the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, which was closed by the Pennsylvania department of banking today, were lodged against three officers of the institution and two other men this afternoon. The complaint was filed by State Bank Examiner R. P. Ferguson, and bail was fixed at $50,000 each. A hearing in the case will be held October 20 before an alderman.

One of the defendants, Charles E. Knapp, known as a bond salesmanman, is missing. He is alleged to have disapepared with more than $300,000, including some of the bank's money. The funds, detectives alleged, represented a pool for the purchase of bonds said to be owned by a defunct banker. Knapp, after obtaining the money late yesterday, failed to reappear with the bonds. His wife also disappeared.

Others named in Ferguson's complaint were R. A. McCurdy, president of the bank; W. J. Ha[illegible]yl, vice-president; J. L. Nei[illegible], treasurer, and Frank T. Redm[illegible]. The latter, not a depositor in the institution, was said to have signed a note for $103,000 which sum went into the pool. Benj. Diamond, previously questioned in the case, was not arrested and was not named in Ferguson's charges.

HOWARD P. SAVAGE, CHICAGO, IS ELECTED NATIONAL HEAD OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Howard P. Savage of Chicago, was elected National Commander of the American Legion by acclamation. He was elected while the convention was in the midst of the 21st ballot in a hard fight between Savage and Col. J. Monroe Johnson of South Carolina. Savage was leading on the 21st ballot when Col. Johnson took the platform and withdrew. His action was followed by Thomas A. Loe of Kansas and Jay Williams of South Dakota, who had also been placed in nomination.

Williams in withdrawing moved the nomination of Savage. It was made by acclamation. The convention rose to its feet and there was a thundering "Yes," when National Commander John McQuigg of Ohio, put the question. The following were elected vice commanders: J. G. Sim, Marysville, [illegible] Thomas Busha, Helena, [illegible] John A. Towne, Waterville, [illegible] Starford King, St. Paul John [illegible] Curtiss, Lincoln, Neb.

The Rev. Joseph L. N. W[illegible], rector of St. Barbara's Catholic Church of Philadelphia, was elected national chaplain of the Legion.

HALL-MILLS GRAND JURY CHARGED TODAY

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 16.—(AP)—On request of State Senator Alexander Simpson, special prosecutor in the Hall-Mills case, Supreme Court Justice Parker today charged the September grand jury as to what constitutes an accessory after the fact in the crime of furder. Evidence is to be presented next Thursday against Felix Di Martini, private detective held in New York, and three other persons. On the same day Justice Parker will return to preside at the picking of a struck jury panel to try the four persons indicted for murder in the killings.

In charging, the justice quoted from both the common law and the statutes and informed that body it could indict under either or both.

Both laws provide for the indictment of persons who take active steps to shield, harbor, or furnish transportation to felons or withhold information of a felony.

The statutes, in addition, allow indictment of persons who wilfully make known false reports of the movements of felons.

MILLS SAYS SMITH BLOCKS INVESTIGATION

DUNKIRK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, Republican candidate for governor, today declared that the people of this state will have to retire Governor Smith and smash Tammany Hall before they will get the investigation of the New York milk frauds which he has been demanding.

In a statement on his arrival here from Jamestown, the candidate asserted that the governor and Tammany Hall were blocking an investigation despite the proof he has offered that most of the milk on sale in the Bronx and Queens is adulterated.

Mr. Mills made his first reply to the challenge of former Judge Charles H. Kelby to debate the milk issue, declaring that so far as he knew he had nothing to debate.

"I have said that Mr. Kelby went on a vacation as his first official act," said Mr. Mills, "that he occupies a law office with Mr. Craig (former New York city comptroller), and that he has no power of subpoena. If Mr. Kelby says that any one of these statements is untrue, I will withdraw it."

"If there is any insinuation that the New York city milk is poison," added the Republican candidate, "it is made by the governor himself. The governor says that in publishing the result of the chemical analysis of 47 milk samples purchased in the Bronx I sought to convey to the mothers and fathers of Bronx county the idea that the milk was poison and unfit for consumption. That is a deliberate misstatement."

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—With no respite from the selling movement which has been under way in the stock market, with few interruptions, for the past fortnight, prices again melted away today to the lowest levels of the current decline.

Losses of 1 to six points were common along the active issues. As liquidation spread from one group to another, causing sharp recessions in the speculative leaders, reports were circulated that one of the largest Wall street operators was throwing his holdings on the market because of the uncertain business outlook emphasized in the latest reviews of trade.

General Motors was hard hit by today's selling wave, breaking more than five points to around 144, nearly 30 points below its high record established two weeks ago. U. S. Steel recorded more than 2 points to 13(3-8 and DuPont tumbled 6 1-2 points to 317-1-2, which compared with its recent high of 360.

Renewed weakness in cotton brought pressure to bear against the southern carriers stocks, Atlantic Coast Line falling four points and Chesapeake and hio slumping more than 2. Other rails showed better resistance to the selling attack.

The closing was weak. Total sales approximated 1,000 000 shares.

Selling orders which had accumulated in heavy volume as a result of yesterday's severe reaction caused another abrupt decline in stock prices at the opening of today's market. General Motors and DuPont both opened 3 1-2 points lower and U. S. Steel fell back to 138, all touching the lowest levels of the current movement. Initial losses of a point or more were registered by many other industrial shares.

The downward movement gathered momentum as the bear drive against the market drew in selling orders from many out of town centers and forced the liquidation of impaired accounts. The decline, however, was more orderly than yesterday's headlong retreat and early losses were limited to a few points. Some uneasiness was created by the assertions of the weekly mercantile reviews than the gains in industrial activity over last year which were pronounced in August and September were no longer observable, and this was given expression by the general tendency to unload stocks of all descriptions. Mack Trucks and Jordan Motors sagged to new low prices for the year and declines of 1 to 2 points included Coca Cola, Warner Pictures, Air Reduction U. S. Industrial Alcohol, and National Lead. Rails held fairly firm in the face of the selling elsewhere, although Atlantic Coast Lnie and Northern Pacific were heavy.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular, with Norwegian kroner holding above 24 cents and Spanish pesetas losing ground.

Financial & Industrial

NEWS AND COMMENTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Efforts to bolster up the stock market this week were unavailing, and after a brief period of recovery another sharp reaction carried the prices of many active railroad and industrial shares to the lowest levels of the current movement.

Deterrent influences on general trade were more numerous, but few of them were important enough to be blamed for the selling movement which shook the stock market at the beginning and again at the end of the week. Money rates remained relatively firm but less concern was manifested over credit condition than in previous weeks.

Competitive price cutting and signs of slackening business in the motor industry made the automobile stocks vulnerable targets for bear attacks throughout the week. Hudson, Moon, Mack Trucks and other leading issues slumped to the lowest levels of the year and General Motors was driven down sharply.

The week's most significant development in the steel trade was the announcement of a noticeable reduction in buying on the part of the motor manufacturers. There were also reports of a dwindling demand for other steel products, with the exception of rails, but operations were maintained at the recent high rate. U. S. Steel was hammered to the lowest level since the final week of July, more than 20 points under its 1926 peak, and Gulf States Steel sold at the year's bottom price.

Railroad shares were strengthened for a time by the belief that heavy car loadings through September would be reflected in larger earnings, but gains were not fully maintained. Another flurry of buying in the Van Sweringen issues accompanied reports that a further revision of the Nickel Plate merger terms was planned and prices soared rapidly until realizing sales were encountered. Atlantic Coast Line sold some 70 points below its record of 262 1-2 attained at the height of the Florida boom.

Although the outlook for the copper market was brightened by the formation of a nation-wide export association, shares of the leading producing companies made no noteworthy response.

Popularity of Radio is Shown in Report of Manufacture for Year; Increase of 215 Per Cent

The popularity and universal increase in the use of radios by the people of the United States is shown in a report made public today by the Department of Commerce at Washington. The value of radio apparatus manufactured during the year was $170,390,572 an increase of 215.5 per cent as compared with $54,000,470 in 1923. The number of tubes increased from 4, 687,400 to 23,934,658 and the number of receiving sets manufactured increased from 190,374 in 1923 to 2,180,622 in 1925, the rates of increase being 410.6 per cent and 1045.4 per cent respectively.

A study of the report shows that radio fans are rapidly getting away from the use of head sets and instead using various types of loud speakers. The percentage of increase in the use of loud speakers from 1923 to 1925 was 318.3 the number in use in 1925 being 2,606,846 as compared to 623,146. The increased use of the speakers brings about a corresponding reduction in cost according to the report as the percentage of increase in number of horns was 312.2 while the increased value is given as only 241.7 per cent. The sum of $19,162,591 is given as the value of the loud speakers in 1925 as compared to $5,608,330 in 1923.

The decrease in the number of head sets manufactured in the two years is given as 21.6 per cent while the decrease in cost was 57.6 per cent showing the big reduction in this line of accessories. There were only 1,397,443 head sets manufactured in 1923. The difference in cost was $2,264,527 in 1925 and $5,346,380 in 1923.

Transmitting sets were cheaper and more popular in the earlier days of radio according to the department report as there was a decrease of 0.6 per cent in the number manufactured in 1925 as compared with 1923. The manufacturers reported 1,076 sets at a cost of $1,355,420 in 1925 while in 1923 the cost was only $919,930 for manufacturing the largest number of 1,082.

The report shows an increased demand for miscellaneous parts of 115.2 per cent. The total value of these parts in 1925 was $27,978,097 in 1925 while in 1923 the value was only $12,999,622.

The outstanding feature of the report is that the people of this country spent over $170,000,000 for radios and equipment during the year 1925 and it is predicted that this year will see the amount practically doubled.

U. S. Weather Report

BINGHAMTON, Oct. 16.—For Binghamton and vicinity: Showers tonight; Sunday cloudy.

For Eastern New York: Fair tonight; Sunday cloudy.

10:15 p. m.—Richard Crooks, tenor; symphony orchestra—WJZ, WGY, WRC, WBZ, KDKA.

Radio Reception Conditions

The relapse which reception experienced recently still continues growing poorer from day to day. Apparently the downward trend reached the limit last evening for conditions could hardly have been more unfavorable.

Buffalo and Schenectady, while only receiving fairly well, were the best heard.

Peculiar lights, suggestive of the northern lights seen in the sky recently, may be the cause of prevailing conditions.

Tonight's Program

Chicago vs. Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and Dartmouth vs. Yale at New Haven will headline today's radio football card, which brings practically every important contest in the country within reach of a receiving set. WIP, Philadelphia and WGN and WMAQ, Chicago, will put the play-by-play description of the big intersectional contest on the air, while WBZ of Springfield, Mass., and WEAF, New York, will describe the Yale affair. Other broadcasts from the field this afternoon will include Minnesota at Michigan by WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and WWJ, Detroit; Ohio State vs Columbia by WEAO, Colubus; Princeton vs. Navy by WGY, Schenectady, and WJZ, New York; Grinnell vs. Ames, by WOI, Ames, Ia.; Upsala vs. New York City College by WAAM, Newark; Hendrix College vs. U. of Arkansas by KUOA, Fayetteville, Ark.; University of California vs. Oregon Aggies by KPO, San Francisco.

Under the direction of Serge Koussevitsky, famous Russian orchestra, leader, the Boston Symphony Orchestra will broadcast its second contest tonight at 8:10 o'clock from Symphony Hall, Boston. The program will be carried on the air by stations WJZ, New York; WMZ, Springfield, Mass.; WGY, Schenectady; and WRC, Washington, D. C.

Finals in the Indiana radio talent contest will feature the five-hour broadcast of the National Barn Dance from station WLS beginning at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Numerous other vocal and instrumental numbers are also on the program.

Listeners in Montana will be delighted to find that they haven't been forgotten after all if they tune in on station WDAF, Kansas City, Mo., at 9 o'clock tonight. During the 'Around the Town' program broadcast at that hour the numbers will be dedicated to the radio fans of the Northwest state.

A band made up of ex-service men of Bergen County, will present a concert at 9:15 tonight through station WGBS, New York.

Highland, Kansas, is tonight's offering to the radio world via Station KFNF, Shenandoah, Ia. A program sponsored by that community will go on the air at 8 o'clock. At 11 o'clock a concert of old-time music will be broadcast.

ELMIRA MAN, WHO KILLED HIS WIFE ON REFUSAL OF KISS, TAKES LIFE AT COUNTY JAIL

ELMIRA, Oct. 16.—(AP)—George Earl Bromley, 29, who killed his wife, Lydia Mae Bromley, 28, Thursday morning when she refused to kiss him, hung himself early today in his cell at the Chemung county jail. Death resulted from a broken neck and was probably instantaneous, according to Dr. Tracey Hamilton, coroner. Frank Elwood, a trusty, occupying an adjoining cell, discovered the suicide and notified Sheriff U. S. Colleon.

Bromley refused to eat any breakfast at 7:20 a. m. today, but otherwise gave no intimation of his intention. A bottle of poison and poison tablets were taken from him following his arrest Thursday. On Friday he told jail officers that he wanted to plead guilty to first degree murder, with which he was charged, and die in the electric chair. He spent the day in reading light fiction, smoking cigarets and playing solitaire.

Bromley had told the police that jealousy over the attentions he alleged his wife was receiving from other men prompted the murder. While the refusal to kiss him was the crisis of their relations, he declared that his wife made no return of his affection, and tolerated him only because of their two sons, two and four years old.

Mr. Wood has recently completed a six months course at the Empire School of Printing, and has been working for a month on the Seneca Falls Reveille.

—The condition of Mrs. Arthur Miner, who is seriously ill with typhoid fever and complications, is reportted to be improving.

—Mary and Paul Godfrey, children of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Godfrey, who have been confined to their home for several weks with fever, are able to be out again. The other three members of the Godfrey family are recovering from fever.

RING HELD BY DUNDEE SCOUTS

Carlnelius Sackett Appointed To Take Place of Carl Miles

DUNDEE, Oct. 16.—A council ring under the direction of Assistant Scout Master Stanley Murdock was held at the Murdock farm north of this village by the Boy Scouts Friday afternoon. Each took his own lunch and cooked it over the camp fire. Each Scout made his report on tests for both first and second class.

Carl Miles, a member of the troop committee, has resigned as he has moved with his family to Painted Post. Cornelius J. Sackett has been appointed to take the place of Mr. Miles as treasurer. Burt Hunt, chairman of the troop committee, has been forced to give up part of his regular duties as he has left town for the winter. The Rev. M. E. Bartholomew is planning for a treasure hunt for the boys in the near future.

Benefit Picture Show

The Dundee Band is holding a benefit picture show at the Beekman Theatre in this village Friday and Saturday evenings of this week. An eight piece orchestra plays during the performance. The band has had a good many expenses this season and with part of the cost of their suits remaining unpaid from last year, it was necessary to raise extra funds. The village voted $500 at the annual meeting in March for its part in the support of the village band.

WADSWORTH WELCOMED AT HORNELL TODAY

ITHACA, Oct. 16.—(AP)—United States Senator James W. Wadsworth was carrying his campaign westward through southern New York today, confident and happy after meeting old friends and receiving a demonstrative welcome here last night. An audience which filled the Lyceum Theatre applauded his stand on prohibition modification and a continuation of the policies incorporated in the national defense act.

The senator was joined by Mrs. Wadsworth here last night and she planned to go with him today to hear him speak in Painted Post, Bath and Hornell. Tonight the senator will go with her to the Wadsworth home in Geneseo for the first time since he set out on his tour of the state at Canandaigua two weeks ago. He planned to rest Sunday at home and to go to Corning Sunday night to address a meeting in the First Congregational church.

Twice yesterday Senator Wadsworth scored the third party candidate, Franklin W. Cristman, for "trifling with the truth" and "suffering from confusion of thought" in charging that the senator advocated a return of the saloon and had violated his oath of office in urging a repeal of the 18th amendment. At Cazenovia he mentionel Mr. Cristman by name for the first time in the campaign and denied both charges. Again last night at Ithaca he reiterated his opposition to a return of the saloon and upheld his proposal to repeal the 18th amendment as the right of a citizen to suggest a change in the laws of the land.

At Morrisville yesterday, Senator Wadsworth was greeted by a farmer audience and at Cazenovia he was introduced as the greatest senator the state has sent to Washington. At De Ruyter, where only a brief stop was planned, the townspeople insisted that he speak at the town hall. This delayed his arrival at Cortland but an audience awaited him in the community hall.

At Ithaca Senator Wadsworth was introduced by Howard Cobb, attorney, with whom, as member of an all-collegiate baseball team, he had toured this country and Canada in 1897 to win 35 of 28 games played. Senator Wadsworth, then a junior at Yale, played first base. He won his varsity letter the following season. Mr. Cobb, a Cornell graduate, was second baseman of the team.

MILLS TURNS INTO NIAGARA, ERIE COUNTIES

JAMESTOWN, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Pleased with the reception tendered him on his swing through the Southern Tier in behalf of his candidacy for governor of New York, Ogden L. Mills today turned northward into Erie and Niagara counties.

Everywhere in the strongly Republican territory he has traversed in the past few days the candidate has been met with the blare of bands and the warm greeting of Republican county and district leaders. Last night about 2,000 persons gathered in the car barns here to hear him and Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state, urge the election of the Republican slate. The only discouraging information received by Mr. Mills here was that the Jamestown registration so far is the smallest in years.

This afternoon the candidate spoke in Lockport and he has another speaking engagement in the evening in Niagara Falls. On Monday his endurance will be tested in Buffalo where arrangements have been made for eight or nine meetings in one day.

HORNELL CAR OVERTURNS; IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

HORNELL, Oct. 16.—A sedan owned and driven by Joseph Mosgrove of 167 Prospect avenue, caught fire on the Big Creek road Friday and when the driver tried to stop the machine it went into the ditch and tipped over. Afterward it was completely destroyed by fire.

WADSWORTH WELCOMED AT ITHACA

HORNELL, Oct. 16.—Hornell is in readiness to welcome Senator James W. Wadsworth tonight at a meeting to be held in the Majestic Theatre here.

The senator is making Hornell the final stop of his week's tour of Southern Tier counties and from here will go to his home in Geneseo for a rest over Sunday. He will arrive here tonight about 6 o'clock from Bath, where he delivered an address at 4:30 o'clock.

On his arrival here in the big bus which his party is using for the campaign, Republican leaders of the city have planned a fine reception. An informal dinner is to be given in the Sherwood Hotel, where the senator will stop. At this dinner delegations from neighboring places will be present as well as the city committee and those engineering the reception.

At 8 o'clock, the political meeting will be held at the theatre. It is expected that the crowd will more than fill the seating capacity of the place for large numbers will come to Hornell from other places. Ogden L. Mills, candidate for governor and Mr. Wadsworth are following separate campaign trails and do not meet here. Therefore, the entire evening will be devoted to Wadsworth's speech. B. C. DeWitt, Republican state committeeman, who is engineering the plans for the meeting, has announced that there is little likelihood of having any other speaker for the evening.

Minor details of the meeting, such as the securing of someone to introduce the speaker, arrangements for music and the conduction of the meeting are now being completed by the committee.

The itinerary of the motor bus will include but four places in Steuben county, Corning, Painted Post, Bath and Hornell.

GOD'S PRESENCE—"But will God indeed dwell on the earth? Behold, the heaven and heaven of heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house."—I Kings 8:27.

PRAYER—Truly Thou art a wonderful God, in that Thou condescendeth to dwell with him that is of a lowly and contrite heart.

How to Obtain Success

(Canisteo Times)

Get firmly in mind the definite conviction that You can do anything you must do. Then set your goal and let everything you do, all your work, all your study, all your associations, be a step toward that goal. To quote Berton Braley:

"If you want a thing bad enough
To go out and fight for it,
Work day and night for it,
Give up your time and your peace
and your sleep for it,
YOU'LL GET IT."

For Posterity

Will H. Hays, czar of moviedom, suggests that a national collection of important moving picture films be started in Washington. He urges that vault space be provided in the capital for fifty thousand films.

It is a suggestion that possibly will be given serious official consideration.

Archaeologists dig with the most painstaking care for fragmentary bits of light on the life men lived in the world's far yesterdays.

The people of centuries to come will have the bound volumes, public documents, archives of various organizations, exhibits of museums and talking machine records of the present day.

Why not add to them the films of moving pictures faithfully depicting the life of today?

Infantile Paralysis

Infantile paralysis is a disease of the nervous system resulting frequently in paralysis of the muscles of the leg, arms, back and abdomen. It occurs most frequently in the summer and fall, and at all ages, though the large majority of the patients are children.

There are some new cases every year, but sometimes, as in 1907 and in 1916, the disease comes in epidemics afflicting many thousands. We are not quite sure of the exact cause, though it is reasonably certain that the disease is due to a very minute germ.

Scientific medicine is thoroughly familiar with the course of infantile paralysis and can prevent many of the after effects.

Deformities of the back, knees, ankles, and hands often can be prevented by early and careful treatment. This disease requires, in most cases, a great deal of attention, even under the most favorable circumstances. It is necessary to do everything to prevent avoidable deformities.

Knowledge of this disease enables us to help practically every case, no matter how severe the deformity or of how long a duration. By means of massage, muscle training, various types of splints and a host of specially designed operations, most patients can be improved and aided in becoming independent and self reliant, as far as sitting, walking and ordinary duties are concerned.

Do not decide from hearsay or upon a neighbor's advice that your child cannot be helped. Make sure before you permit a crippled child to go through life under a handicap that can be lightened.

Tolerance

Build into thyself the sublime and far-reaching virtue of tolerance—a quiet acceptance of each man, each form of existence, as it is, without demand that it should be something other shaped more to thine own liking. Beginning to realize that the one Life takes on countless limitations, each right in its own place and time, accept each limited expression of that Life without wishing to transform it into something else more to thine own liking. Learn to revere the wisdom which planned this world and which guides it. No more can justly be demanded from any man than he is able to perform.—The Ancient Wisdom.

Envoys of Sport

An American manufacturer returning from a foreign trip says that such sport envoys as Helen Wills, Gertrude Ederle and Bobby Jones "have done more than anybody can possibly realize to offset the unfavorable opinion of the United States fostered by selfish and dangerous politicians of European countries."

He wants more such unofficial ambassadors sent abroad to cultivate good will.

There is doubtless considerable truth in it. American sportsmen of the right sort do make friends abroad, for themselves and their country.

But there is also a danger in such activity. We don't seem to be able to send athletes to Europe without beating Europeans, and that is beginning to get on Europe's nerves.

On the Verge of the Flippant

Folks who go with the crowd are always just part of the crowd.

The man who is contented with his lot usually lets weeds flourish in it.

The man who counts a hundred before acting generally finds some one else has acted first.

A writer says that $500 a year is enough for a family of three to live on. This is too much!

Many a man thinks he has an inspiration to work, as long as it is not the kind that produces perspiration.

Florists say that old-fashioned flowers are returning, but of course this doesn't include wall flowers.

Paradoxical as it sounds, the man who does not permit the logic of the situation to cause him to quit usually succeeds.

Even the man who is most vociferous in declaring he wants all the facts known would like to scan the list before publication.

Four Common Defects of Childhood

"As the twig is bent; so is the tree inclined.

"Train a child in the way it shall go and when it gets old it will not depart from it."

For a month or more now boys and girls have been at work in the public schools of the nation, preparing for the time when they will assume the same sort or responsibilities their parents are now shouldering. To keep children physically well, to train them in health habits, therefore, is a mighty important part of their present training.

There are four common defects for which parents should be on guard if they believe that nothing should be neglected which will maintain or improve health in their children. These defects, all too common, are: underweight; bad tonsils and adnoids; diseased or defective eyes and teeth.

Every boy and girl at the beginning of school should have his weight checked. If much more than ten per cent underweight, it is advisable to consult the family physician to determine whether there exists faulty health or diet habits which should be corrected in order that the child can be able to withstand the strain and exposure of school life.

Have your children examined by your dentist, too. Protect their teeth because there is only one permanent set. By taking care of teeth parents can do a valuable service to their children which in later life will be greatly appreciated. Good teeth are necessary for good digestion.

Enlarged or diseased tonsils and adnoids are defects frequently present in children. These defects are often responsible for frequent colds, mouth breathing, restless sleep, earache, dull listless face expression, all of which are detrimental to sound present as well as future health.

Does your child frown while reading? Has he granulated eyelids? Does he hold the book too close to his eyes? A pair of glasses, fitted by a competent oculist, may be what your child needs for his eyes.

Correct these defects and physical and mental development will be normal. Your child also will be happier and do much better work in school.

WEAKNESS—A SIGNAL OF DANGER

By JAMES KRAUSS, M.M., Boston, Mass., Member Gorgas Memorial Institute

Disease begets disease! And at the bottom of almost all diseases is weakness or lack of strength. It precedes and follows disease with almost unfailing certainty.

If you are weak, you can offer only weak resistance to the attacks of infectious organisms. Weak blood vessels may become stiff, wanting in elasticity, and easily may break.

A weak stomach is easily upset. With weak eyes, you tire easily and cannot see well. A weak heart necessitates positive restrictions in your actions and mode of living. With a weak head one loses instinctive understanding and intelligent reasoning. Such persons are led into pitfalls of feeling, imagination, and suggestion. They are feeble, sickly and constantly ailing.

To guess what ails a person when he is weak often means irremediable disaster. Doctors must know before they can act properly in such conditions.

Often a person who feels weak is prone to believe that he is suffering only from nervous prostration, nervous exhaustion from overwork, when well meaning, but often pooly informed friends, tell him so. But nervous exhaustion is preceded by nervous irritibility; nervous irritability by defective nutrition; defective nutrition is preceded by insufficient or excessive food or drink, exercise and rest and heat and cold.

All this may or may not be coupled with organic defects and functional disorders.

For sturdy health, the state of weakness must be changed into a state of strength. Most oncoming diseases, indicated by the occurrence of weakness, that predisposes to disease, can be prevented. The ability of the family physician can remove diseases that are accompanied or followed by states of weakness.

If the disease is not removed, weakness remains, and the disease may beget new disease in addition to the old. Keep well! Health begets health as disease begets disease.

A VETERAN FIGHTER OF FOREST FIRES

By Arthur Hawthorne Carhart

The most spectacular of the thirty-seven hundred forest fires that Chief McLaren has fought are those of the dreaded "running crown" variety, favorite of story writers and motion-picture directors, but dreaded by foresters and lumbermen. Massed flames jump hundreds of feet at a leap, and every minute counts in the effort to check a conflagration such as once laid waste a tract of eleven miles of valuable timberland between three in the afternoon and nightfall. Chief McLaren can put in action three hundred men, completely organised, within thirty minutes after an alarm is sounded.

Chief McLaren tells the following interesting story: "Well, there was the time Jim Girard got caught between two fires up in Montana. There was a big fire burning in a wide canon. A second fire started up the canon from the first. I sent Jim in there with a gang of about five men to keep it from working down upon the main crew.

"Then the wind changed from blowing down canon to a much stronger wind going up canon. Before I could get to Jim and his crew, the fire was burning up so fast we had to run for our lives. The big fire below was running up canon with its front in the form of the forks of a 'Y'. That is, the fire was burned faster along the sides of the canon wall than in the botton.

"Of course with the smaller fire up canon the wind soon shoved the arms of the 'Y' to join with the upper fire. That trapped Girard's crew. They were caught in the forks of the 'Y' before they had a chance to realize what was going on and I hadn't a ghost of a show to warn them myself. It was all I could do to get my gang clear.

"'Well,' I thought, 'Jim is an old head and I guess it's up to him and the Almighty.' Fact is, I never expected to see those men alive. But I did.

"Girard waited until the fire burning up from behind finally shoved them out into the upcanon fire. By that time practically no flame was left there in the main up-canon fire or in the arms of the lower fire where it had joined with the upper burned-over area. It was hot, but a man with a wet coat around his head could walk through it. And that's where Jim Gerard took his men—out over the burned area. He had waited until the last minute letting the fire burn out as much as it could, before he led the dash for life that saved them. They were singed but safe."

The "Asbestos District" of the Forest Service would burn if it could. It has caught fire many times. But Mac and his staff, and back of them the cooperators, simply will not let it burn. Between fires and the forest stands that one sheet of paper, the fire plan—and John McLaren. After all, that is quite some fire wall. —From Everybody's Magazine for September.

STILL ADVENTURING

New Verse. Written in 1921. By Robert Bridges. Oxford: Clarendon Press.

It has been said that you can't teach an old dog new tricks. He can sometimes teach himself though; and it is striking evidence of Dr. Bridges' intellectual virility and artistic freshness that in more than half of his new book he should reappear, at the age of 81, as the adventurous experimentalist and innovator. And here should be remembered an old confession of his: "What has led me to poetry was the inexhaustible satisfaction of form, the magic of speech lying, it seemed to me, in the masterly control of material." The only trouble there is in the demand for a corresponding mastery that his own makes on his readers. There is likely to be some cudgelling of brains and, perhaps, vexation of spirit over

my well-continued fanciful experiment wherein so many strange verses amalgamate on the secure bedrock of Milton's prosody.

These Neo-Miltonics, as he calls them, are, for the opening piece in hendecasyllabics and in dodecasyllabics for the remaining six; and at first sight they have the baffling aspect of most novelties. But the difficulty of getting the hang of them is more apparent than real. Of course it will be real enough for the rigid scansionist: it will, in fact, be insoluble. But to anyone who will read them and order his reading by a sense of the stress distribution of natural speech the difficulty should not remain. The lines just quoted represent the hardest side of the experiment; but it is often as easy as this:

Thus ever at every season in every hour and place visions await the soul on wide ocean or shore mountain forest or garden in wind and floating cloud in busy murmur of bees or blithe carol of birds.

That may be taken as the norm; and where there are variations the unchallengeably conscious and flawless artistry of the Laureate is the guarantee of their significance.

And of course all is significant; for it is not to be supposed that the experiments are mere exercises. In what is perhaps the liveliest of them—"Poor Poll"—he follows the lines of the first quotation, which also was addressed to the parrot, with this:

not but that when I speak you will incline an ear in critical attention lest by chance I might possibly say something that was worth repeating.

Little Red School House

BY A. C.

1. Please settle this question for me. In placing the guests at a dinner party, at which all of the guests are "paired off," should the lady be placed on the gentleman's left or right?

2. What work contains the following quotation: "Delay of justice is injustice?"

3. Can a Chinese, Japanese, or Negro when born in the United States become President of the United States if elected to that office?

Little Red Schoolhouse answers will be found daily in the classified columns of The Evening Leader, the "market place" of Southern New Yorkers.

GREYHOUNDS OLDEST DOGS

Their history traces back 30,000 years. They are found in Egyptian frescoes of the early Pharaohs. Greyhounds were used for coursing by Zenophon. And in the British museum a fine sculpture of two greyhounds at play shows that they were known to the Romans. But a greyhound is seldom seen in these airedale days.

Do You Like My Hair?

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I keep it ever-fluffy, ever-wavy, without ever a Marcel. I do it by applying Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. Then, when I want my hair fluffy, I simply comb it backwards. When I want a lasting curl, I use curlers, combs or my fingers. In any style of hair dressing, my Wave and Sheen keeps my hair as I want it.

In Paris last summer I found that most women liked sleek hair, like men. But they used this same great formula to get it without grease.

There was never a hair dress ever created to delight you like my Wave and Sheen. A hair dress like mine demands it, to retain the wave, or curl or fluffiness which makes my hair seem so abundant.

But my Wave and Sheen is just as important in keeping hair in place. For men and women who desire sleek hair, my Wave and Sheen does it to perfection without grease. And for those who have permanent waves, my Wave and Sheen will keep them in shape.

This is the hair dress now used everywhere by men and women who want beautiful hair. You can fluff it or curl it or hold it smooth. You can use it to maintain permanent waves. But it serves every purpose in the best way known.

Get a bottle at any toilet counter today. Note the beauty, the luster and color, the endurance that it adds. You will say, as all the world is saying, that this is the greatest hair dress in existence. The price is 75 cents.

EXCEPTION TO CURB PROJECT

West Erie Avenue Residents Petition Council To Make Changes

Residents of West Erie avenue are circulating a petition directed to Common Council and to the Board of Public Works requesting that the work of installing curbing from Hamilton to Fox streets be made uniform with the work already completed from State street to Hamilton street.

The petition points out that the curbing now being laid west from Hamilton street will take 28 feet more off the highway creating a dangerous condition by narrowing the roadway. It is also claimed that the work already completed has not been done in a workman like manner and that the improvement under the present system would be a detriment instead of an advantage.

The following communication in regard to the situation is published at the request of Louis Pacifico, A. Carapella and Peter Fratarcangelo.

Corning, N. Y.
[illegible] 16th 1926.

To The [illegible]
The Corning Evening Leader,
Corning, N. Y.

We wish to call to the attention of the Board of Public Works and People in the City of Corning, taxpayers in particular, the condition of the roadway and gutters on West Erie Avenue.

For the past several years this roadway, etc., has been in terrible shape and in the winter time almost impassable. Through the efforts of Alderman McKinney the City made an appropriation to lay curbing and repair the roadway in general. This curbing has been laid from State to Hamilton Streets on both sides and the road has been placed in good shape. They have also laid the curbing from Hamilton to Lexington streets on the South side and are now working on the block from Lexington to Fox Streets which is also completed on the South side. This block is several feet narrower and has not been filled in, which should be done before making excavation for this curb. Therefore, this block is considerable narrower than the blocks completed, and therefore, are not uniform in width.

If this work is allowed to proceed in this manner it will destroy all improvements of this street.

We earnestly request the Board of Public Works and Mr. W. O. Drake will see that this condition is remedied before further proceeding with this curbing.

Louis Pacifico,
A. Carapella
P. Fratargelo

MRS. FLOYD E. WRIGHT A GUEST AT LATTIN HOME

Mrs. Floyd E. Wright, of Des Moines, Iowa, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Lattin, of Corning Boulevard. Mrs. Wright, who is an outstanding business woman of Des Moines will be remembered by many people in Corning as Miss Susie Webb.

She spent her early girlhood in this city, was educated in the Corning schools and later worked in the the offices of the J. B. Maltby, Inc. plant. After going to Des Moines, she was married to Floyd E. Wright, who is in charge of the credit department of the Century Lumber Co., one of the largest industries of its kind in the country.

Mrs. Wright did not give up her business career but holds an important position with the St. Paul and Marines Insurance Company and is also second vice-president of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce. A short time ago she was sent to Washington, D. C., as a delegate from the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce.

TAX HEARING IS POSTPONED

Referee Folger Unable To Be Present Today in Case of J. O. Sebring

A hearing in the certiorari proceedings instituted by J. O. Sebring to secure a review of the assessment on his West Second street home, was scheduled to be held at the Court House here today but a telegram was received this morning from Referee Paul Folger, of Rochester, stating that he would be unable to come to Corning today. The hearing has been adjourned until next Saturday.

At the hearing last week Referee Folger announced that he would take the assessment roll and select 75 pieces of property at random for a comparison to establish the rate of equalization in this city. The hearing scheduled for today was for the purpose of having the referee visit various sections of the city and select 25 properties similar to the Sebring property to use for a comparison.

Mr. Sebring at the hearing last week introduced evidence tending to show that the wealthy property holders of the city are all over assessed and that the rich are forced to pay on an higher equalization than the less wealthy property owners.

15 YOUNG BOYS IN CITY COURT

Youth Given Reprimand Because of Damage Done Near Station

About 15 young lads from the sixth and seventh wards were lined up in City Court this morning and given a severe reprimand by City Judge H. B. Williams after they had been brought in by Detective Genewich, of the Lackawanna railroad who claimed that they had destroyed some railroad property.

According to the railroad officer the boys have been causing considerable trouble for the railroad officials at the Corning station for some time. He claimed that they tore up the lawn in front of the station, knocked down shrubbery and created other nuisances. Among the charges against them it was said that the boys had on some occasions fastened the doors of the depot when passengers were in the station waiting for trains.

Parents of some of the boys appeared in court this morning and Charles Blank, father of one of the lads became very indignant when the charges were made. He told Judge Williams that the speed of the trains along that section is such that people were forced to get off the sidewalks on the lawns or else take a risk of being drawn under the cars by the rush of air. He said that he intended to get up a petition among residents of the section requesting some action against the fast speed maintained by the Lackawanna trains while passing through the city.

Outstanding events in the churches tomorrow will include an address by United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., who will speak under the auspices of the Pilgrim Club, at First Congregational Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "Americanism." Senator Wadsworth will be the guest of the Rev. U. G. Warren, pastor of the church, while in the city.

At Christ Church tomorrow morning parishioners will have the opportunity of hearing Miss Hallie Randolph Williams, head mistress of St. Agnes' School for Girls in Kyoto, Japan. She has an interesting story of the work in that country.

Shank and Grimes, prominent as entertainers in piano and vocal solo work, will be heard at First Methodist Church Recreation Hall Monday evening at 8 o'clock in one of their interesting concerts. These two men won instant favor when they appeared here with Dr. George W. Anderson, evangelist, when he conducted a campaign in Corning last year.

The Rev. Charles T. Riggs will discuss "Turkey" at the morning service at First Congregational Church tomorrow.

Thursday evening, under the auspices of the choir of Grace M. E. Church, the famous Masonic Choir of Elmira was heard in a delightful concert.

A. F. Banker, noted evangelist and cartoonist, of Binghamton, will speak at the North Baptist Church Sunday evening.

The Forty Hours' Devotions at St. Patrick's Church closed Wednesday morning after a most successful observance of this special period of prayer and service.

Increased activity is noticed in the majority of churches where church suppers are being held and the various organizations are planning their winter programs.

NEW PASTOR AT POST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH COMING EARLY IN NOV.

The Rev. Carl Grabb is Successor to the Rev. Knox Now in Big Flats

Coming to Village Well Qualified to Take Over Pastorate of Church

THE REV. CARL J. GRABB

The Painted Post Presbyterian church is fortunate to obtain the services of the Rev. Carl J. Grabb, of Sauquoit, N. Y., who is expected to arrive soon to take up his duties early in November in the pastorate formerly occupied by the Rev. John Knox, who is now in Big Flats.

The Rev. Mr. Grabb was born in Webster, N. Y., December 17, 1892. He took preparatory work at Mount Herman Boy's School and then entered Brown University, wearing a letter in football. He left the University to enter the military service in February, 1918, and sailed overseas July 4, 1918. He was commissioned lieutenant in the Sanitary Corps, October 26, 1918. He was discharged from service, July 19, 1919, and was married to Eunice A. Little of Addison, December 20, 1919. He has one eight year old son, Robert, who was born while his father was overseas.

The Rev. Grabb entered Auburn Theological Seminary in 1919 and graduated in 1922. He then took a post graduate course in the School of Religious Education at Auburn the following year. During his four years at Auburn he lived at Cayuga and served as stated supply for three years and was installed as pastor after ordination. He also served as pastor of Half Acre Community Church for one year.

Mr. Grabb has been prominent in the activities of Sauqoit. He is Chaplain of Salem Town Lodge, F. & A. M., 150, President of Kappu Nu, an organization of ministers in the Sauqoit Presbytery, Secretary of the Sauqoit Board of Education, Superintendent of the District Sunday School Association and Edward Clonan Post, No. 100 of the American Legion.

Mr. Grabb comes to Painted Post with a vast amount of experience and with the qualifications of a capable minister.

Your Sunday School Lesson

LESSON TEXT—DEUT. 34:1-12

MOSES HONORED IN HIS DEATH

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1926.

GOLDEN TEXT—Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Sees the Promised Land.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Death of Moses.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Lessons from the Life of Moses.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What the World Owes Moses.

I. Moses Views the Promised Land From Mount Pisgah (vv. 1-4).

At the Lord's bidding Moses ascended the mountain from which he got a view of the promised land. He obeyed, though he knew that he was to die there (Deut. 32:50). He greatly desired to go into the land (Deut. 3:25), but graciously submitted to the will of the Lord. Though he was not permitted to enter the land, God gave him a view in its fullest dimensions of the land which was to be the inheritance of the people which he had delivered and led for forty years. The reason given by the Lord for refusing an entrance into the land was Moses' failure to sanctify the Lord at Meribah (Deut. 32:51, cf. Num. 20:1-13). This was too glaring a sin for the Lord to pass over. Though Moses had served Him faithfully for many years.

II. The Death and Burial of Moses (vv. 5-9).

1. His death (v. 5).

Though he died in the vigor of manhood, his work was done. He did not die before his time. God put him into the world for a purpose, and as soon as that work was done He called him home. Though Moses was a great man he was not exempt from death.

2. The burial of Moses (v. 6).

God buried him. Most likely this service was performed by the angels. Likely this is the time and circumstance when the devil contended with Michael, the archangel, over the body of Moses (Jude 9).

Moses (v. 8).

3. The time of mourning for Moses (v. 9)

They mourned for thirty days. It is not wrong to lay away earthly friends even with tears, but as Christians we should not mourn as those who have no hope. Indeed, it is much better to express our appreciation and love for our friends by showing the proper courtesy and respect while they are alive, than to mourn over them when they are dead.

III. The Successor of Moses (v. 9).

Joshua, who had been the minister of Moses during all the years of the wilderness journey, now became the military leader of the Israelites. That Joshua was a fit man as a leader of the Israelites is seen.

1. By the fact that he was full of the spirit of wisdom.

While the Lord is not dependent upon human wisdom, He does select as His representatives men whom He has endowed with the proper wisdom.

2. He was divinely ordained for the work at the hands of Moses, "for Moses had laid his hands upon him."

This had been done at the command of God (Num. 27:18-21).

3. The people owned him as their leader. "The children of Israel hearkened unto him and did as the Lord commanded Moses."

In order for successful leadership a ruler must have the individual affection and allegiance of the people.

IV. Encomium Upon Moses (vv. 10-12).

In this eulogy Moses is given a place at the head of the Old Testament prophets. With the exception of the Greater Prophet (Deut. 18:15-18), of whom Moses was a type, he stands as the greatest prophet of Israel.

1. He was great because of his intimacy with God (v. 10), "whom the Lord knew face to face."

2. He was great because he gave to the world a code of laws unequaled in the world's history.

3. He was great as a general in that he liberated the Israelitish nation from the oppression of the greatest nation on the earth.

4. He was great because he led two or three million Israelites through the desert for forty years.

SENATOR WADSWORTH TO SPEAK AT THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HERE SUNDAY EVENING

With the invasion of Steuben County by Governor Alfred E. Smith, Justice Robert F. Wagner and other Democratic candidates still in the minds of the voters, Republican leaders turned their attention today to welcoming Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr. The Republican candidate for reelection to the United States Senate had three stops in the county on his itinerary today, the first being at Painted Post this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Republican committee of the town of Erwin held a meeting last evening to arrange the reception for Senator Wadsworth. The welcoming committee drove to Horseheads this afternoon to meet the Republican candidate and formed an automobile escort to the town hall at Painted Post. This committee was composed of Supervisor P. R. Kinsella, chairman; H. L. Hollister, Lyman B. Hodgman, A. D. Stevens, B. Claude Piersons, Charles A. Cole, Bert Morse, E. J. Smith, W. C. Thompson, James Harrison, Charles Craig, Albert D. Randall and A. E. Mallory.

The committee to welcome Mrs. Wadsworth consisted of Mrs. W. C. Thompson, Mrs. E. J. Smith, Mrs. Bert Morse, Mrs. Lyman B. Hodgman, Mrs. A. D. Stevens, Mrs. B. C. Piersons, and Misses Marguerite Kinsella and Mora Rarrick.

Following his talk at Painted Post at 3 o'clock this afternoon Senator Wadsworth and party left in the big blue bus for Bath where a meeting was scheduled to be held in Pulteney Park. Immediately following this the bus will carry the candidate to Hornell where an informal dinner is planned in his honor. At 8 o'clock tonight the Senator will speak at the Majestic Theatre in Hornell.

Following his Hornell address tonight Mr. Wadsworth plans to go to his home in Geneseo to rest over Sunday and will again take up his campaign tour on Monday.

Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock however, he has been invited to speak at the First Congregational Church here and will deliver a non-partisan address on "Americanism." This invitation was extended to the Senator some time ago by the Pilgrim Club. He will be the dinner guest tomorrow evening of Dr. U. G. Warren pastor of the church with whom he has been intimately acquainted for many years.

SHANK-GRIMES HERE MONDAY

Well Known Entertainers To Be Heard at Recreation Hall at 8 O'clock

Indications point to a large attendance at the Recreation Hall of the First Methodist Episcopal Church Monday evening at 8 o'clock when Arthur A. Shank and Homer W. Grimes, soloist and pianist respectively, will present a program of musical numbers.

Both men gained a large following of admirers while they were in Corning in 1925 with Dr. George Wood Anderson, evangelist. However, during their six weeks in the city they were heard only in evangelistic music and many had expressed the desire to hear them in classical and secular numbers.

In response to this demand, Mr. Shanke and Mr. Grimes are appearing in Corning next Monday. They are still with Dr. Anderson, who is holding services in Kane, Pa., but consented to come to Corning on their "rest night" as no services are held on Monday evening.

They are in great demand as radio artists and have accepted so many engagements to broadcast that it was with difficulty that they made the arrangement to come to Corning.

The concert is being given under the auspices of the Young People's Department of the church and tickets may be obtained from any member of this department or at the church door.

JUNIOR GUILD PLANS BAZAAR

Christ Church Organization To Stage Big Function on October 29

The Junior Choir Guild of Christ Episcopal Church will hold a bazaar and supper in the church parlors Thursday, October 28. This promises to be the best and biggest bazaar that the Guild has ever had.

A chicken supper will be served at 5 o'clock until all are served.

The chairmen of the different booths are: Mrs. Charles J. Leckner, chairman of the utility booth; Mrs. George K. Reynolds, handkerchiefs and Mrs. Archer E. Duke, bake booth, while Mrs. Rudolph Reed is chairman of the fish pond. Mrs. Herman Baker is chairman of the supper. Mrs. Clarence E. Pier, dining room and Mrs. Stephen Hayt of the serving room. Mrs. J. R. Jackson has charge of the tickets.

LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE

When we look into the long avenue of the future and see the good there is for each one of us to do, we realize after all what a beautiful thing it is to work, and to live to be happy.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

MISS WILLIAMS TO GIVE TALK

Head of Japanese School Will Speak at Christ Church Sunday Morning

Miss Hallie Randolph Williams who will speak Sunday at Christ Church, is the headmistress of the important St. Agnes School for girls which the Episcopal Church conducts in the Diocese of Kyoto. Miss Williams is a native of Lynchburg, Va., and is a concrete example of the earnestness and zeal of a young woman who, a member of one of the leading families of Virginia, preferred a life of usefulness in a far off country to the round of pleasure which is offered to the ordinary young woman of society.

Graduating from the Lynchburg High School, and later from the Randolph-Macon Women's College, she applied herself to social service work of various kinds in the Diocese of Virginia until 1915 when she volunteered for service in Japan. In her eleven years she has gone through all stages of educational work in the Mikado's empire to her present position of headmistress of an institution where approximately 800 Japanese girls of all classes from all parts of Japan are being educated by American standards.

St. Agnes School at Kyoto was one of the first educational institutions in Japan to free its pupils of the restrictions of Japanese foot covering, as well as the picturesque but uncomfortable kimona. Likewise it was one of the first educational institutions in the Empire which introduced its students to rational athletic exercises. Singing and folk dancing are a part of its curriculum in addition to the more solid branches of history, mathematics, English, geography, and home economics. It is one of the most substantial and progressive educational institutions in Japan. Not the least interesting feature in connection with St. Agnes is the fact that its student body includes many growing Japanese girls whose parents adhere to the Buddhist and Shinto faiths, but who knowingly and willingly send their daughters to this Christian institution, in which a native Japanese Christian is the principal and with whom Miss Williams, as headmistess, works in perfect accord. Miss Williams has traveled extensively throughout Japan and has an interesting story to tell of conditions there.

The members of the Christ church should be interested in hearing Miss William's talk as this Parish has given much money to this institution.

"TURKEY" TO BE SUBJECT

Rev. Charles T. Riggs To Speak Sunday Morning at Congregational Church

The Rev. Charles T. Riggs will speak at the Congregational church tomorrow morning on the subject "Turkey."

Mr. Riggs was born in Turkey of the celebrated Riggs line. He is a graduate of Princeton College and of Auburn Theological Seminary. As secretary of the Western Turkey Mission Mr. Riggs has had the advantage of a very wide acquaintance with Turkey. This has covered not only the field of Turkey, but that of Greece as well, with some considerable correspondence with and on behalf of Syria also.

His primary work, however, has been the supervision of the evangelistic efforts among the Greeks of Constantinople and vicinity. He has had much to do also with the establishment and conduct of the School of Religion which was first in Constantinople and later in Athens. For many years he was the editor of "The Orient," which was discontinued about two years ago. He is a frequent contributor to missionary magazines on both sides of the ocean.

His wide acquaintance in Turkey, his varied experience and expert knowledgeof its people and conditions will make his message informing and helpful to all.

Mr. Riggs will serve under the auspices of the Commission on Missions as the Foreign Missionary representative on the New York Missionary Team from September 21 to Novmber 5 inclusive.

SHINING AND SINGING

You may sing, "O for the wings of a dove!" but it is better to shine in the ways of God. Shining is the best kind of singing, and makes the singer sing to purpose.—Prophetic News.

DANNY HOLDS HIS BREATH

I wonder if for every rat
'Tis true there is a waiting cat.
—Danny Meadow Mouse

Danny Meadow Mouse, like most other members of the mouse family, and like many other furred and feathered folk of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows, hates cats. Yes, sir Danny hates cats. He doesn't mind Yowler the Bobcat so much, because Yowler isn't given to hunting on the Green Meadows for one thing, and for another Yowler is really one of the wild people. The cats that Danny and the other little people hate are the so-called "house cats."

"It wouldn't be so bad," says Danny, "if they belonged here; but they don't belong here. They don't belong here any more than Bully the English Sparrow. And it wouldn't be so bad if they really needed to hunt us for food. I haven't anything against anybody who is hungry and tries to catch me for food. But these cats hunt us just for the fun of hunting, and I hate them.

Yes, sir, I do; I hate them."

But Danny wasn't thinking of cats. You see, he had been so long on the marsh at the seashore that he had quite forgotten there could be such a thing as a cat. Down there there were hawks and owls and foxes to look out for, but no cats. So Danny wasn't thinking of cats as he traveled on his way home to the Green Meadows. Perhaps if he had been he wouldn't have been taken by surprise as he was.

Danny had just run out from under some sticks and grass which had been left on the shore of the Big River, up which he was now journeying. It was the Big River which flows through the Green Meadows, though Danny didn't know it at the time. As he ran out, he caught just a glimpse of a gray form crouching back of him. There was something about that gray form which warned Danny that he would be better off somewhere else. He turned to run back and as he did so that gray form came to life. It was as Danny had feared—a cat. It was a cat down hunting along the bank of the Big River. Now Danny has to think quickly sometimes. All little people who live on the Gren Meadows have to think quickly sometimes. If they didn't think quickly, they wouldn't live long. Danny saw that those sticks and the grass toward which he was heading would not make a very good hiding place, for there were not enough of them. A cat could pull them over. So Danny's sharp little eyes looked both ways to either side as he ran, in the hope of finding something else that would make a better hiding place.

Danny had almost reached the little pile of sticks and grass when just to one side he saw an old can. Danny knew all about old cans. He had escaped from enemies by means of an old can before now. If the opening to that can wasn't too big, he would be safe in there. Danny darted to one side just as the big gray cat brought both paws down on the very spot Danny had just left. The opening in the can wasn't very big. In fact, Danny thought it would be a tight squeeze for him to get through. He didn't hesitate. In he went. Then Danny held his breath.

Why did he hold his breath? Well, you see, it was a very exciting moment. He wasn't sure whether that cat had seen him go into that can. He wasn't sure but that that cat could get her paw in and get hold of him. It was a time to hold one's breath. It certainly was. So Danny held his breath, and waited, and listened, and wondered what would happen now.

The next story: "Danny's Queer Craft."

THE LILY

From the Celebrated David Belasco Play

Posed by BELLE BENNETT, JOHN ST. POLIS, IAN KEITH and a Noted Cast

Pure White, But a Scarlet Soul

A COMPLETE PICTURE STORY IN A WEEK

There is but one place where Christiane would seek refuge, Arnaud's home in Abbey Park, and there Odette hurries with Hyzar. Entering the studio, "The Lily" steps falteringly into the spacious room, fearing that Christiane and Arnaud may have thrown scruples to the wind and eloped to Paris. This terror vanishes, however, when at one end of the room she sees Georges bending over her sister, who, overcome by the abuse of her father, reclines on a divan.

Odette's heart goes out to the couple, and she draws her sister into her arms. Christiane, fearing to return to her father's home, pleads, "Georges, take me away with you to Paris." The artist hesitates and Odette, casting her own future to the wind announces, "Mons. Hyzar has honored me with a proposal of marriage, but my place is with Christiane. Go to Paris. I will accompany you [illegible] and slander's tongue will be silenced." The artist's reply is interrupted by the arrival of a telegram.

Georges, in the excitement, thrusts the message in his pocket and endeavors to explain that though he would love Christiane for life's duration, his mother-in-law's attitude makes the prospect of marriage out of the question, while for the girl to go to Paris with him would mean ruin for both. He declares that Christiane must return to her home and Odette, foreseeing her sister facing a life of misery, despairs, when Arnaud's old servant asks that he read the un-opened wire.

Arnaud reads. He gasps—at last—the grave has offered the solution to his problem. Turning to Christiane he solemnly says—"The message is from Madame Arnaud. Her mother is dead and that she is starting divorce proceedings at once." There is a moment's tense silence; as all realize that Death alone has paved the way to future happiness, and as Arnaud and Christiane stand, clasped in each other's arms, Hyzar kneels at the feet of "The Lily," before whom lies a new life of love and devotion.

(The End)

CORNING AND PAINTED POST GRID TEAMS PLAYING TODAY

The Northside High School football squad of 17 men, Coach Truman L. Jacoby, and several students and fans embarked for Dansville at 11:30 o'clock this morning where the Orange and Black aggregation is scheduled to lock horns with the veteran school team of that place.

Today's game will be the Orange squad's acid-test and will undoubtedly be the greatest factor in determining the season's success of the local who have dropped two of the first three games. The Dansville team is said to be composed of veterans who will have the added advantage of playing on their home field.

The Academy outfit faces the crisis of its football career at Hornerr today. The Blue and White teams for years have been regarded as the best in this part of the state but the aggregation this season has met with two decided set backs that may have weakened its morale. The Hornell outfit is regarded as the best bet for the county championship and is said to have a slight edge over the C. F. A. warriors who have not bowed to a team in the county in years.

The Painted Post High School gridders are battling this afternoon with "Sam" Myer's Starkey "Prep" school lads at Imperial Park. Elmer Snyder, star fullback, who was injured at Wellsboro two weeks ago, was regarded, this morning, as having a chance at getting into the fray although it was said that he would not play his usual position but would replace Scudder at center. Scudder sustained a fractured finger in scrimmage this week.

A mass meeting was held at the high school yesterday afternoon at which Edgar Tillman, alumnus and prominent athlete, gave a talk on "School Spirit." Misses Goodman, Myers, Simonds and Iredell, members of the faculty, also spoke and it was planned to have the student body meet at the school at 2:30 and march to the field.

ALFRED GRID MEN LOSERS

Bow to "Mike" Gavagan, Former Corning Boy, and His St. Bona Stars

HORNELL, Oct. 16.—St. Bonaventure, with a smooth working aerial attack, completely overpowered Alfred University Friday on Merrill Field 22 to 0.

In the first quarter, a series of passes quickly brought the ball into striking distance of the Alfred goal and Cummiskey kicked it over. Cummiskey came back in the second quarter with a touchdown and again in the third.

The St. Bonaventure men completed 10 out of 13 passes and kept the ball in Alfred's territory most the time despite the fact they were penalized a total of 90 yards.

The lineup:

Alfred		St. Bonaventure
Fulmer	Left End	Gavagan
Bliss	Left Guard	J. Trisky
Cottrell	Center	Hennessey
Stearns	Right Guard	Kennedy
Schlosser	Right Tackle	E. Trisky
Hollis	Right End	Coffey
Fredericks	Quarterback	Flynn
Gardner	Left Halfback	O'Neil
Lewis	Right Halfback	Cummiskey
Servatius		Conlon

Score by periods:

St. Bonaventure	3	6	7	6	22
Alfred	0	0	0	0	0

St. Bonaventure scoring: Touchdowns, Cummiskey 2, Gavagan 1, points from try after touchdown—Cummiskey 1.

"FREDDIE" COUMBE, STAR FIRST SACKER IN PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE, IS HOME

"Freddie" Coumbe, South Corning resident and well known athlete, who has been playing first base for he Hollywood Club in the Pacific Coast League, has returned to his home.

"Freddie" formerly played with the Cincinnati Reds and in his yyounger days was a member of several local aggregations. He is one of the best hitters on the Hollywood Club and was leading in slugging honors before he injured his arm in mid-season. He returned to the game after an absence of several weeks and finished in fine style.

It has long been a debated question whether or not football and baseball mix to advantage, and this writer stands strongly on the affirmative side of the case. Those who claim that successful participation in both sports is not possible to the majority of athletes usually cite the case of Jim Thorpe as proof, and seem to think that because one of the greatest football players of all time was a flop in the majors, and various lesser gridiron stars have also failed on the diamond, that the debate is won.

But for every Thorpe, Killinger, Haines, Workman, Harley, Mohardt, Castner, and Uteritz who shone in college football and who failed to shine in Big League baseball, you can name a Mathewson, an Overall, a Frisch, a Collins, a Cochrane, a Gehrig, a Sewell, or a French who made good in the majors after a successful carreer as a college gridiron star. And, friends, that is only half of it, for there is also a host of others, including men like Alonzo Stagg, Tad Jones, Ted Coy, and Mack Aldrich, of Yale; Jim Cooney and Sam White, of Princeton; Sam Felton, Eddie Mahan, "Tack" Hardwick, and George Owen of Harvard; and Charlie Barrett, of Cornell—all of whom starred in both sports and never went on into pro baseball after graduation, even though they surely could have made good if they had wanted to try it.

Then there are men like Hugo Bezdek, Neale, Charlie Moran, and Ernie Quigley, who successfully have combined football and baseball; Bezdek as coach of the one and manager of the other, Neale as a star ballplayer and later a football coach, Moran as an umpire and coach, and Quigley as a baseball umpire and football official.

Usually, I think, the reason that many football heroes flop when they get into major league baseball, is because they are either signed up mostly on their football reputation, or else the wear and tear of the gridiron has incapacitated them for real diamond usage.

Other famous ball-players who also played intercollegiate football are Chief Bender, of Carlisle and the Athletics; Carl Lundgren, of Illinois and the Cubs; Dave Fultz, of Brown and the Phillies; Ralph Glaze, of Dartmouth and the Red Sox; Garland Stahl, of Illinois and the Red Sox; Riggs Stephenson, of Alabama and the Indians; Mike Gazella, of Lafayette and the Yankees Henry Vick, of Michigan and the Cardinals; Ernie Nevers, of Stanford and the Browns; and Paul Florence and Andy Cohen, of the Giants, who came from Georgetown and Alabama, respectively.

TWO BIG GAMES IN CONFERENCE

Michigan's Stadium Capacity of 48,000 Sold Out For Minnesota Game

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Two big ten games were outstanding among the eight conference and several inter-sectional clashes topping today's engagement of midwestern football teams.

Michigan's stadium capacity of 48,000 was sold ou tlong before Minneosota's appearance for probably the biggest game of the day in the middle-west, and it was estimated that the Illinois home-coming crowd at the Illinis' battle with Iowa would count 50,000.

Also meeting in the first games of the Fall with bearing on the Western Conference championship were Indiana and Northwestern at Evanston and Wisconsin and Purdue on Purdue's field. Michigan was generally given the edge at Ann Arbor, Northwestern was conceded the better chance and the Illinois-Iowa and Purdue-Wisconsin games were called a toss-up.

The other two big ten teams were on the eastern seaboard, Chicago at Pennsylvania and Ohio State at Columbia.

Missouri Valley squads plunged deeper into their annual title battle, with the Drake-Oklahoma and Kansas-Kansas Aggies encounters holding the major portion of the spotlight.

Drake went out to tackle the Sooners in a gloomy mood, occasioned by the recent illness which has kept Coach Solem from practice all week. At Manhattan, Kansas, it was a toss-up, with the Aggies and the Jayhawkers fit and anxious for their fray. Grinnel and Iowa State seemed evenly matched, also, but Nebraska expected to encounter only moderate difficulties with Washington at St. Louis.

Missouri marshalled to turn back Southern Methodist, invading the mid-west with Southwestern football in the valley's only intersectional game, at Columbia, Mo.

Penn State was at South Bend for a foorth inter-region game, with a Notre Dame team revamped to fill the gaps left by a somewhat costly defeat of Minnesota.

PIN TROPHIES ARE DISPLAYED

William G. Olson Creates Scene In H. B. Kelley's Display Window Honoring Bowlers

With the opening of the bowling season as an idea and inspiration, William G. Olson, a prominent pin man himself, has created a special window display for the H. B. Kelley store on Bridge street in honour of the great American game of ten pins and the bowlers of Corning.

The "bowling alley" with regular sized pins and balls installed in the display window has aroused a great deal of comment among bowlers of the city. The Pilgrim Club trophy cup presented by Harry W. Goldburg to the bowlers rolling the best individual game during the season and won for the first time last season by T. Cleveland Flaitz with a score of 253, forms the center of the attraction of the display. At one end of the alley are the pins, presented by the Pilgrim Club, and as part of the scene are two regular size balls seemingly rolling down the alley.

Three bowling shirts, bearing the lettering of some of the best teams in the United States, belonging to Mr. Goldburg, who was a member of the team that won the championship of one-half of America, complete the display.

The work has been artistically arranged by Mr. Olson who has dedicated it to the bowlers of Corning.

NEW YORK GAMBLER TAKES LIFE IN BUFFALO HOTEL

BUFFALO, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Arthur Moreno, 32 years old, committed suicide last night at his room in a hotel here by swallowing poison. According to police, Moreno was a well known New York gambler. He left a note stating he was "sick and tired of continually losing his money at gambling."

ALL-HIGH MEN AND ENDICOTT ANTLERS PLAY HERE SUNDAY

Invading Aggregation Is One of the Best in State and Has Been Scored on But Once in Two Years. Cushing Shifted To End and Broomhall Back in Lineup

If the All-High men defeat the Endicott Antlers tomorrow afternoon at Pyrex Park, they can call themselves the champions of the Southern Tier and Northern Pennsylvania. This is the honor which the Antlers claim to be theirs, for in the last two years they have been scored on but once that being at the hands of the Syracuse Knights, regarded as the fastest semi-pro team in this state

The Onondaga Indians, who the Bingo Prospects defeated by only two touchdowns, were defeated by the Antlers by the score of 44-6 in the first game of the season. In their next game the Antlers tied with the Utica K. of C., and in their next tilt with the Oakwood Knights, they were defeated 6-0. This was the only touchdown made against them in two years. That's a record to be proud of but the Corning squad is out to add a few more touchdowns to that scarce number.

The Keyser Valley Tigers were the next team to be taken into camp, 13-0 by the Antlers. The Syracuse Tigers, who the All-High downed by one goal, were defeated by the Antlers by the score of 36-0 which shows the Endicott lads to have the advantage on the Corning outfit. The Dartmouth A. C. and the Lafayette A. C., were two walk aways for the Southern Tier Champs and were defeated 36-0 and 27-0, and in their last game they put down the Binghamton Prospects 14-0. They played the Bingo's first team, while the All-High played their second team aided by a few first team men. During the season they piled up 188 scores to their opponents 6.

The All-High men have been working diligently under their new coach and are in the pink of condition. After watching the team for the first time last Sunday, Coach Lynch has been able to remedy their weak points so that the Orange squad is working like a well oiled machine. Now that Cushing has been shifted to the line and has had a week's practice spearing passes from Mahaffey, he should knock down a few of the overhead routers and add some touchdowns to the number made by the backfield men. "Fred" Broomhall has fully recovered from his leg injury and he will probably be seen in action tomorrow.

Next Sunday the All-High will play the best team on the schedule. This game with the Nash Collegians of Buffalo will be undoubtedly the best to be seen in this town in years. The Collegians made up of a bunch of College players are ranked with the leading Pro teams of the east. The All High management had to pay $350 to bring this team here and it is expected that in the return the largest crowd of the year will turn out to witness the contest.

The line up for tomorrow's game is as follows:

Antlers	All-High
Young	Summers	Left Tackle
Cicciola	Pier	Left Guard
Goodnaugh	Wisner	Center
Ambrose	Taylor	Right Guard
Bermond	McClure	Right Tackle
Corbett	Miles, Capt.	Right End
Latourette	Sheedy	Quarterback
Oshinsky	Mahaffey	Right Halfback
Yoder	Flannery	Fullback

The SPORTLIGHT

by Grantland Rice

SECTIONAL AND INTERSECTIONAL

Saturday's football menu can be divided into two main groups, the sectional and the intersectional.

The leading sectional contests include the following:

Yale-Dartmouth—East.
Navy-Princeton—East.
Army-Syracuse—East.
Georgetown-West Virginia—East.
Michigan-Minnesota—West.
Illinois-Iowa—West.
Vanderbilt-Texas—South.
Georgia Tech-Alabama—South.
California-Oregon—Pacific Coast.

The leading intersectional games can be listed under this group:

Ohio State-Columbia—New York.
Notre Dame-Penn State—Notre Dame.
Pennsylvania-Chicago—Philadelphia.
New York University-Tulane—New York.

The Sectional Check-Up

Dartmouth's fast and forward passing back field gives the Green a slight edge over the Blue, but the advance margin is slight, a margin that may be wiped away by Yale's stronger looking line.

Princeton must find its stride in a hurry to beat the Navy, and the Princeton line must come upon greatly added strength. The Tiger showing to date has been so much below the expected standard that this game is a hard one to forecast. Princeton, with Slagle, Caulkins, Prendergast and others, has winning elements if the line can support their play, a detail which has yet to be proved upon the field.

The Army's experience should be too much for Syracuse. The Georgetown-West Virginia meeting will be one of the best of the day.

Michigan and Illinois should predominate in their first Conference tests.

These two look to be among the strongest teams in the country. Both have strong, aggressive lines, good ends and fast back fields. Michigan should beat a first-class Minnesota team with something to spare, and Illinois should have the same edge above Iowa.

One of the best games in the South will bring Alabama and Georgia Tech together in a clash that should find Alabama in front with another winning combination.

Alabama has another Crimson Tide of first-class power and may once more ride the Southern surf.

The Intersectional Round-Up

Ohio State, with a good line and a brilliant back field, should be too good for Columbia, unless the Blue and White can play well above itself. Coach Wilce has one of his best teams with Marek and Karow in the back field, where Marek is one of the season's leading stars.

In the same way an old Notre Dame team looks too strong for Penn State.

Rockne has his 1925 cast almost intact, with some new stuff added, and this may mean another unbeaten South Bend team.

He has a hard-running back field that can strike with a world of punch and the same bewildering passing game whenever needed.

Chicago will meet one of the fastest and most deceptive attacks in the country when the Maroon moves out against the Red and Blue.

The Pennsylvania attack, led by Rogers and Wascalonis, directed by the canny Murphy, will be more than Stagg's defense can hold back.

So the West has the call in two of the three best intersectional pow-wows, with N. Y. U. awarded the winning splash above Tulane.

The Leading Battle

Considering the fact that Dartmouth has been unbeaten since the Cornell game of 1923, her battle with a strong Yale team at New Haven will have a big bearing on any mythical, elusive, historical or hysterical Eastern championship.

Dartmouth was rated above Yale two years ago, when Oberlander was running amuck and Eddie Dooley also was around, but Yale clawed her way into a 14-14 tie.

Yale has a world of fine line power and the Blue passing game has been improved about 34 per cent.

It all gets down to the matter of whether or not the Yale defense can break up the exceptionally strong passing-rushing combination of Dooley, Lane, McPhail, Horton and Black, five of the best backs you will find between Berkeley and Cambridge.

A forward passing attack doesn't always function up to standard. It can rarely be as consistent as a powerful rushing game, since there is always the element of chance.

But it is the combined strength of Dartmouth's back field in both systems of offense that makes the Green lineup so formidable, where only a marked superiority in Yale line play can keep the game on even terms.

This should be Dartmouth's hardest game, unless Gil Dobie has something in reserve at Hornell, and, as Hawley and his team together are quite keen to have three unbeaten years hung together, Dartmouth won't hold much back that may be needed to win.

This game should be one of the day's big thrillers, for both teams can play a lot of football when crowded into a teamy corner with victory or defeat swinging in the balance.

COUNTY ATHLETIC BODY MEETS TONIGHT AT BATH

The Steuben County Athletic Association will hold its semi-annual meeting at Haverling High School Bath tonight. This association is composed of all the high schools in the county and its duties are to direct county athletics and to draw up the county league schedules for the various branches of sports. The baseball schedule for the ensuing year will be made at tonight's meeting, the basketball schedule having been formed at the meeting held last April.

Those, who dislike the form of the latter, will be given a chance to voice their disprovals at tonight's meeting.

There is some speculation as to the attitude taken by Corning Free Academy regarding their game although it is known that the authorities at the hill school are somewhat displeased as they are scheduled to play the Hornell quint less than a week after their football game with Northside High School on Thanksgiving day. Hornell has no game on this day and will have longer time to get a team into shape. Gordon M. Ridenour will be the Academy's representative at the meeting while Hugh W. Gregg will act in that capacity for Northside High school.

YALE - DARTMOUTH STRUGGLE FEATURE OF GRID PROGRA

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Arrival of zero hour in football today found a spirit of apprehension in some camps, notably Dartmouth and Yale, furnishing one of the brightest spots on the card, top-heavy with feature games. Both Coach Hawley, of Dartmouth, and Coach Jones, of Yale, were in announced position of hoping for the best but fearing the worst.

Yale offers a team prepared to make up in enthusiasm a lack of experience. The big Green eleven has more veteran material but was not believed to boast the condition reached by the Elias.

Pennsylvania and Chicago, only one touchdown apart last year, promised another close contest today with the home team regarded as a slight favorite at Philadelphia.

Princeton slow in starting, expects to spend a busy afternoon in an effort to repulse a new but aggressive Navy crew. Announcement that Sam Ewing, after three years as a substitute, would start his first varsity game at quarter, indicated that Coach Roper may be applying methods of psychology against the Midshipmen as Ewing has won one game and tied another by drop-kicks over Navy goal posts.

The Army team today was giving no quarter and expected none ing no quarter and expecting none from Syracuse. Two evenly matched teams apparently left little to choose between them.

Harvard, with two disasters behind, was made a favorite over William and Mary College of Virginia but the visitors were given an edge in a game lining Ohio State up against Columbia at New York.

Tulane, making a long trip from New Orleans, brought a reputation for a dashing attack against which Coach Meehan had carefully prepared his New York University team.

Colgate opposes Pittsburgh, heavily supported by public opinion as the more formidable of the pair, while Notre Dame was favored to beat back an invasion by the Nittany Lions of Penn State.

Cornell meets serious opposition in Michigan State but the D machine was ready to function er intensive drilling.

Holy Cross was a decided fa ite over Rutgers and Brown conceded an edge over Bates.

Miss Nobody

by TIFFANY WELLS

Published by arrangement with First National Pictures Inc.

She focused singularly unmanageable eyes on a face close to hers. A shock of curly black hair over a high forehead. The face was the lean, muscled mask of a priest or an anarchist, mobile with every passing thought behind it. Her eyes came to rest in two circles of luminous brown which read into her heart a message of quiet and confidence.

"There, child," he said kindly. A general snicker went up. She sprang erect, in full command of her faculties.

She had been initiated. He had told her "Now you're one of us."

"Where do you get that child stuff?"

Bravo stood curiously silent at a distance from her. She faced him like an enraged bantam, ready to crow again if he moved. From somewhere among the dozen men lounging at the other end of the car a falsetto mocked:

"Pipe down, Priscilla!"

She swung on her heel and advanced toward the group.

"Who said that?" she demanded, shrill with rage. Soprano laughter greeted her. She strode toward the nearest recumbent figure and viciously aimed a kick at its ribs. The figure howled in pain and jumped erect.

"I'll break your jaw for that!" He advanced on her, swinging apelike arms. She stood her ground. He paused before the crazy fury of her eyes. He didn't know it, but she was standing for her future on the road.

A four spot made it thirteen. She drew a trey and a five.

"I'll bust you apart, you shrimp!" His voice was less arrogant. Bravo strolled leisurely up. She stuck her hand in her pocket and dragged out Alley.

"Hold my cat," she gritted, and thrust it into his hands.

There was a loud guffaw as he accepted it. Loudest of all laughed the man whose ribs she had kicked.

On the soap-box beside her she saw a wicked, taped-handle knife. She seized it and raised it aloft in a gesture of menace. Her antagonist led the rush to the back of the car. From the rear of the cowering column a voice snarled:

"Put that knife down!"

"There isn't a bum among you who has the nerve to take it away from me," she taunted.

Bravo came up, the kitten in his hand. He stroked Alley's fur, and Alley arched his back with delight.

"Let's have it, child," said Bravo gently.

She handed him the knife.

"I didn't mean 'bum' to you," she muttered.

"I didn't mean 'child' to you," he said.

Peace with honor.

It began to rain. Water dripped into the car. Some of the bums dozed, tied up in frowsy knots of one or more men. A single sleeper sprawled in a corner of the car, on a thin layer of dirty straw. His knobby red nose pointed roofwards. From a crack in the wood ceiling raindrops fell metronomically on the ruby spud and splashed off. She could slowly count to five between each splash.

Rough, unkempt as they were, Barbara felt for her fellow rejectaments a kinship tinctured with affection. They had accepted her without any curiosity about pedigree. She was in a place full of men and she felt such privacy as she had not had in years full of sister women. Trousers were a better envelope of the soul than skirts.

A card game started. A surprising amount of silver and greenbacks appeared. The bums had money. Where did it come from? Certainly they had not earned it. She recalled the ease with which, in Somerville, she had mooched a half dollar from a sympathetic townsman.

Of it she still had twenty cents. Half of this was the lucky dime she meant to hold as long as she lived. She jingled two nickels and was filled with a sense that they were lucky, too.

The game was called Black Jack. One drew cards until one had a lot totalling 21, or short of that count by as little as possible. The more cards you drew to make the total, the more money you collected. She brought her two nickels to light.

"Deal me in!" She plunged.

When her turn came she was schooled in the jargon of the game:

"Hit me!"

Bravo [illegible] watch from he[illegible] hidden card [illegible] exposed card the [illegible] Milkshake, the banker, dealt her a five spot. That gave her a total of seven. She looked up enquiringly at Bravo and showed him her hidden card. He grinned.

"Hit me!" She cried, delighted. Milkshake slapped down a deuce.

"There ain't no justice," he groaned. Barbara totaled on her fingers. Nine. She ignored a nudge from Bravo's knee.

"Hit me!" she demanded.

A four-spot made it thirteen. She drew a trey and a five.

Milkshake, with no real hope of anything but the worst, drew the overdue face card and announced himself beaten. Polysyllabic obscenities accompanied his announcement. He flipped up Barbara's concealed card and wearily pushed over 90 cents.

In the strong passion of hazard she forgot her aches. If ten cents became ninety in this interesting game, what might not happen to ninety cents? When it came her turn to bid she pushed her all to the center of the soap box.

"The woiks?" asked Milkshake uneasily.

"The woiks!" exulted Barbara.

This time she drew seven cards.

"I've got twenty," she announced, obligingly.

"Take another!" insinuated crafty Milkshake. "You might hit 21."

"The kid'll stand on what he's got," interfered Bravo.

"I'm cold," exploded Milkshake and tossed the pack of cards over his head. "I claim there ain't no justice."

He began to count out money. He shoved over $9.90. He expressed regret in simple, awful terms. Barbara buried her winnings, deep.

"I'm through." She rose and stretched.

"What!" Milkshake was not only surprised; he was severely wounded.

"I might lose next time," explained Barbara simply.

"There was a howl of laughter. She withdrew, blushing. She appealed to Bravo.

"What's wrong? Can't I quit when I want to?"

"Certainly you can."

She retired to her corner. How simple the scheme of vagabond economics! One panhandled or gambled. A player from the ruined game crossed to her.

"They took me," he informed lugubriously.

"That's too bad," sympathized Barbara.

"I'm clean," he confided. (She doubted that!) "Can ya lend me the loan of a ten?"

"Sure thing, brother!" She resurrected her hoard and found a dime. "Here."

He was ungrateful. He looked at the dime blankly, came to the unalterable conviction that a dime it was indeed, and finished the pantomime by hurling the bit of silver violently into the other end of the car. Strange people, these hoboes.

"Takes all the dough in the game," complained the mendicant, "then refuses to stake a guy. I ask, is there any justice?"

"Pipe down," said Bravo quietly from the shadows. The surly one shambled away.

The door in the roof of the car opened and a man in oilskins clambered down. The card game expired. The intruder's eyes caught the money on the surface of the soap box and lit.

"He's the shack," informed a cryptologist at Barbara's feet.

"And what's a shack?" queried Barbara in a whisper.

"A brakie."

"What's a brakie?"

He grunted disgust. Milkshake was negotiating converse with the interloper.

"Wanna be dealt in?" he asked.

"Sure I do—for a buck apiece."

There was a grumble of protest.

"We pay the other shack a dollar," said Helsingfors.

"Yeah," said Oilskins. "That was another shack and another division. You bein' here ain't likely to cost him his job. He collected for one division and that division's up. Kick in, all of you, or I'll have to kick you all out.

The man who had asked Barbara for the loan of a ten was the first to shell out his dollar to Oilskins. The rest followed suit. Barbara counted out a dollar in change and reluctantly handed it to the brakeman.

His departure released sulphurous comments.

"The dirty sapsticker," from Milkshake.

"Damn t'ief," from Helsingfors.

"The big bum!" contributed Barbara. She felt resentful. She was imbued with a warm fellow feeling for her exploited brotherhood. She counted her money. The dollar outlay had reduced it to an insignificant $8.80. What was the use of honest enterprise? One scraped together a competence and authority in oilskins took it away. She definitely adopted the hobo creed:

"There ain't no justice."

She learned about women from the man-talk that assailed her ears. And what she learns about her own sex does not please Shebo.

* * * *

Now she was a veteran of the road. She had come through her first night on a freight. Breakfast the second day was muddy coffee and bread crust smeared with peanut butter; not epicurean, but it filled. Lunch had been muddy coffee and Mulligan. Supper was Mulligan and muddy coffee. Alley the cat fared well on condensed milk.

REGISTRATION BELOW NORMAL; LAST CHANCE TO QUALIFY TONIGHT

Only 1,267 Appear at Polls for Third Day Making Total in the City of 2,993

Yesterday's registration was the heaviest of the three registration days, the total for the day being 1,267 almost as many as registered during the first two days. On the first day it was 693, the second day 1,033. The total for the three registration days is 2,993.

During last year when there was a mayoralty campaign being waged the total registration was 5,209 and if the registration is brought as high this year it will mean that over 2,200 voters will have to turn out during the day and evening.

Large gains were seen in practically all of the wards yesterday but the whole has been very disappointing as a heavy registration was expected by the party leaders due to the national issues involved in the coming election.

There is still ample time to register as the polls will be open until 10 o'clock tonight and everyone is being urged by political workers to appear at their polling place to enroll and register. The big question is not how the voters enrolls but unless each one enrolls personally this year, the delinquent citizens failing to do so are virtually disenfranchised. Registration today is more important than getting your dinner or supper because you can get something to eat after 10 o'clock tonight if necessary but you cannot register after that hour no matter how much you want to.' And you cannot vote.

The following table shows the registration of yesterday, the total for the three registration days this year and the total for last year:

MRS. WILLIAM GOODING IS HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. William Gooding delightfully entertained the members of the W. A. R. Club at her home on Houghton Circle Thursday afternoon. Most of the afternoon was spent sewing after which a short business session was held followed by an informal social hour.

A delicious luncheon was served, covers being placed for 11. The feature of the luncheon was a white birthday cake decorated with pink candles and American flags, in honor of Columbus Day and the birthdays of two of the members of the club, Mrs. Fred Jones and Mrs. Artemus Hedges.

Two large bouquets of gladiolas and one bouquet of various old-fashioned flowers added decorative touch to the room. The next meeting of the organization will be held at the home of Mrs. Daniel Killigrew, of Corning Boulevard, October 28.

Those present were Mrs. Mason Bower, Mrs. Robert Brackman, Mrs. Theodore Derrenbacker, Mrs. Walter Gleason, Mrs. Artemus Hedges, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Daniel Killigrew, Mrs. R. Bertrand Mosier, Mrs. George Strange, Mrs. O. M. Sutherland and the hostess, Mrs. William Gooding.

FIVE CORNING NURSES TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Five Corning girls are among those who will be graduated from St. Joseph's Nurses' Training School, Elmira, on the evening of October 21. The graduation exercises will be held in St. Mary's Hall, Elmira and the Right Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, bishop of the Rochester diocese, will address the class and award the diplomas.

Those from Corning, who will be graduated include Miss Anna Stack Miss Margaret Loughlin, Miss Madeline Cunningham, Miss Catherine Reagan and Miss Mildred Fermer. There are 25 nurses in the class.

CHRYSLER CARS HAVE INFLUENCE

Improvements Brought Out In First Car Nearly Three Years Ago Have Revolutionized Motordom

DETROIT, Oct. 2.—A study of the motor car of today reveals the continued far-reaching influence that Chrysler has exerted on all types of motor cars. That company, nearly three years ago, pioneered a score or more of fundamental and revolutionary improvements which are consistently being adopted—some in one car, others in another. Moreover, continuously since its first car, Chrysler has added numerous other features, in keeping with its policy of maintaining leadership.

The company points out that it introduced the car which first combined the abilities of 70 miles and more per hour, acceleration of 5 to 25 miles in 7¾ seconds and a gasoline economy of better than 20 miles per gallon. Its model "70," it declares, is still the only car that enjoys this combination.

Chrysler's seven-bearing crankshaft, extra large and balanced statically and dynamically, with shimless bearings, was the first such in its field. The combination brings about remarkable smoothness of engine operation and prolonged endurance.

On the first car the company produced, appeared as standard equipment the oil filter, now widely accepted throughout the industry; thermostatic engine heat control new in cars of this price class; heat indicator on the dash, known as the radimeter; and the air cleaner, restricting all dirt and dust from the engine, and assisting to eliminate carbon.

Scientific fuel distribution in the first Chrysler was achieved by designing each cylinder to receive identical charges of gas vapor at identical temperatures, with its resulting fuel economy, power evenness and flashing pick-up. To facilitate cold weather starting and minimize crankcase dilution, the engineers introduced the electrical fumer. Manifold heat control, another pioneer step, makes for continued better operation. Its more convenient light control—integral with the horn button—has been widely used. Likewise the indirect lighting of the instrument board and gasoline gauge on dash, which it first introduced as standard equipment.

Chrysler popularized among other fundamental chassis betterments the tubular front axle designed particularly to take the torsional strains of front wheel braking; hydraulic four wheel brakes making for safety of handling, pioneered and developed by Chrysler engineers; pivotal steering, resulting in self-righting of the wheels following a turn and assuring easier handling; specially designed rear springs parallel with the wheels, eliminating sidesway, and also was first with small balanced wheels and tires.

Chrysler popularized ornamental radiator caps, introducing wings as part of its characteristic design. Today nearly every car maker has devised something along the same pattern.

Late in 1925 its engineers found, after long testing, that a high grade steel alloy, Invar, made an ideal strut for pistons, enabling them to be fitted closely and permitted them to combine the advantages of both aluminum and cast iron pistons without the disadvantages of either. Pistons with Invar struts are now used on the "60," the "70" and Imperial "80." This Chrysler innovation is being elsehere adopted.

The first Chrysler advanced an entirely new body design, a compact yet roomy car, combining comfort and driving ease without wasteful weight or extravagant size. Dynamic symmetry of design in the motor car body, which calls for smoothly flowing curves throughout the length of its construction, is an adaption of the principles of descriptive geometry to motor car design, never before then heard of.

It was first to design, also, the front end as an integral part of the body, considering the body as a unit from the radiator shell to the rear quarter, instead of merely from the cowl. That is why, in the Chrysler design, the hood flows into the body, and looks like a definite part of it. It finished these bodies with the doubletone color combinations, which recreated American taste of that period in motor car finish. It was first to use the double bead, which was actually part of the construction and not simply tacked on to enhance appearance.

More than a year ago ot instituted, first of all makers, the Fedco numbering system as a protection against theft.

The vogue of the roadster is another distinct Chrysler contribution. Chrysler popularized the roadster by building a car in duotone that appealed to the public as a "lively, get-up-and-go" car. It also popularized the rumble seat, as well as unison seats in this type car.

NOW DRIVE THE CAR!

Only those who have driven a Dodge Brothers Special Sedan—or any Dodge Brothers car BUILT RECENTLY—can fully appreciate all that Dodge Brothers have accomplished during the past few months.

So swiftly has improvement followed improvement, that today the car, to all intents and purposes, is a different and incomparably finer vehicle.

The announcement of smart new body lines and attractive color combinations first attracted general favor. But since then, improvements even more fundamental have been accomplished mechanically.

Drive the car NOW! Observe its impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity of performance, and you will then begin to realize just how vital and varied these and other later improvements actually are.

"Who wants to go back to the buggy and the candle? The 'good days' are now. The radio, telephone, daily papers, automibiles, electric lights, moving pictures, are of this generation. Who would give them up and go back to 'the good old days?'

"It is a mental attitude and nothing else. Did you ever go back to the 'old swimming hole?' I have. There isn't enough water in the little muddy hole to cover my knees, but when I was a boy, it was a wonderful place. I confess that I prefer the bath tub of the present generation."

CRYSTAL CITY GAS COMPANY IS GRANTED RIGHTS BY COMMISSION

Public Service Commissioners Approve of Plan to Extend Supply to Village; N. Y. C. Company Withdraws

Residents of Painted Post, will be provided with a mixed gas for heating and cooking within a short time following the approval yesterday by the Public Service Commission of the franchise granted by the village to the Crystal City Gas Company. The application of the New York Central Electric Corporation for approval of a franchise granted by the village to that company, was withdrawn.

It was announced by the Crystal City Gas Company today that pipe and other materials for extending the lines to Painted Post had already been ordered and the work of digging the trenches and laying the pipe will be started within a week or 10 days. The estimated cost of the work is $50,000.

The following statement was given out this morning by the Crystal City Gas Company in regard to the approval of their franchise:

"The application of the Crystal City Gas Company for approval by the Public Service Commission of the State of New York of the franchise granted by the Village of Painted Post to the Crystal City Gas Company was disposed of yesterday before Public Service Commissioner Pooley of Buffalo.

"The Village of Painted Post issued two franchises, one to the New York Central Electric Corporation and a similar franchise to the Crystal City Gas Company. These franchises, however, were of no use until they were approved by the Public Service Commission. The Commission might have approved both of these franchises or either one of them.

"Yesterday the Crystal City Gas Company was represented by Attorney Thomas F. Rogers, The New York Central Electric Corporation was represented by John H. Doherty, The Allegany Gas Company was represented by William Crippen of Port Allegany, Pa., and Stevens & Wood, Incorporated were represented by Attorney Frank Irvine of Ithaca.

"Upon the hearing Mr. Doherty for the New York Central Electric Corporation withdrew the application of that Company for the franchise.

"Thereupon the Commission heard the proofs presented by the Crystal City Gas Company, which showed that the Crystal City Gas Company under its arrangement with the Allegany Gas Company, and with Stevens & Wood, Incorporated, of New York, was in a position to furnish all the gas that was necessary for general use in Corning and Painted Post, and that there was in construction at the present time a container or storage tank in the City of Corning with a capacity of one million cubic feet of gas and that there was also in the course of construstion at Roulette, Potter Company, Pa., large producers and gas plants which will be used for making a mixed gas of 800 B. T. U.s. This gas while not quite as rich as the natural gas itself will be, however, about twice as rich as the regular manufactured gas and will not require any change either in meters or burners now in use by users of gas in this vicinity.

"It was shown to the Commission that this plant would be completed and in operation by December 15th. It is expected also that the container now in the course of construction at Corning, will be ready before that time.

"After hearing the evidence Commissioner Pooley stated that the certificate of approval would be issued when the Commission met next week.

"The people of Painted Post will be glad to know that immediately after the close of the proceedings at Buffalo yesterday these pipes and other supplies which had been ordered but the date of delivery not specified was ordered immediately, and the work of flaying the pipes and putting gas into Painted Post will be begun just as soon as these necessary supplies arrive which will probably be within the next week or ten days."

MANY WITNESS FASHION SHOW

1,300 People Present at Annual Display at Wing & Bostwick Store

About 1,300 people of Corning and vicinity witnessed the annual Fall Fashion Show at the Wing & Bostwick Company Thursday and Friday evenings.

The models were in most instances chosen from the two high schools in the city and the girls proved excellent models for displaying the new Fall garments. Besides the ready-made garments that were worn which included sport dresses, afternoon frocks and evening gowns and coats and wraps for all occasions, one model wore gowns draped from materials in the yard goods department.

These gowns showed the effectiveness of these materials when made up to good advantage. A touch of humor was added to the show by the youngsters who displayed the newest vogues in kiddies' clothing.

Their mannerisms and gestures while walking the "board walk" was so typically displayed by the children of the mothers present that each mother could visualize her youngster dressed in the same togs.

The senior classes of the two high schools are to receive the money from the sale of tickets. Then the senior in each school selling the largest number of tickets is to receive a $10 prize. Neither class has completed its reports as yet so the winner is yet to be announced.

SOPHOMORES ENTERTAIN FOR C. F. A. FRESHMEN

The members of the Sophomore Class of Corning Free Academy delightfully entertained the members of the Freshmen Class last evening with a dancing party held at the Gymnasium.

The hall was attractively decorated with blue and white crepe paper streamers draped from the center to the side walls of the gym.

Dancing was enjoyed from 8 till 11. During the evening grape juice and wafers were served, and each Freshman was awarded a green satin bow pin as a reminder that as a Freshman, he has much to learn.

The patrons and patronesses were: Supt. and Mrs. Sherman L. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Corwin, Mr. and Mrs. William Severn, Miss Dorothy Veysey, Miss Carolyn Bennett Miss May Waterbury, Miss Cornelia Crafts and Charles Severn, Arthur Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Sturges F. Cary and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Taylor.

RADIO SETS BADLY HIT

Telegraph Wires Also Affected When Aurora Borealis Makes Appearance

Thursday night's display of the aurora borealis had a blanketing effect on all radio sets and telegraph instruments in the city. Hundreds of lines connecting telegraph and telephone companies between New York and Buffalo were affected. Radio sets, including single tubes and super-heterodynes, were all under the influence of the phenomenon. Telegraphs, however, did not receive the brunt of the interference until this morning between the hours of 8 and 10 a. m.

The origin of the "Northern Lights" is not known but its relation to and effect on electric lines has been known for years. The "earth currents," as they are known to telegraph experts set up a constant current in the magnets of the relays and receiving sounders causing them to stick and produce untrue signals. Sometimes this current has been known to exceed 300 volts. The pressure or amperage of the current, however, is extremely small, but often upsets burn-out breakers in the telegraph circuits. The seat of the trouble in the radio receiver can not be satisfactorily explained.

According to the Buffalo central station of the Bell Telephone System, the night's display had little effect on the wires at the time. On the 120 wires of the system running from New York to Buffalo the greatest interference is evident at the ends of the lines. Stations, such as at Elmira, receive only a small portion of the induced energy. The morning's peak period for interruptions occurred at 9 o'clock.

It is a singular fact that the spots on the sun and the aurora borealis occur at the same periods in the year, notably the Spring and Fall. The effect runs in periods of 15 or 20 minutes, rising from zero to an average peak of 100 volts and back to zero again. Often the effect is noticeable for an hour at a time.

The rays of the aurora borealis were visible to Corningites for several hours Thursday night. Like narrow strips of ribbon fluttering in the wind they covered the northern sky to the zenith and were visible until shortly before midnight in the city. A fog fell and the beautiful spectacle was no longer visible. Only residents of the suburbs were able to view the phenomenon after 12 p. m.

Among those from this village who attended the installation of officers for the Rebekah Lodge at the Odd Fellows' Temple last evening were Mrs. George C. Straubinger, Mrs. Roy Bucher, Mrs. Will Gorton, Miss Jessie Gorton, Mrs. Max Thomas, Mrs. L. R. Stebbins, Mrs. Clyde Copp and Mrs. George E. Wolcott.

Grange Meets Tonight

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the South Corning Grange will be held this evening in the Grange Hall with Ragy G. Sweetland, master, in charge. Mrs. Sweetland will have charge of the literary program.

Plans for a Hallowe'en party to be held by the members of the Grange will be completed.

Deaths-Funerals

Frank B. Ford

Word has been received here of the death of Frank B. Ford, of Troupsburg, nephew of Mrs. Thomas Cushing, of this city.

Mr. Ford died last night following a lingering illness. He was 84 years of age.

Mr. Ford was a Civil War veteran and a member of the G. A. R. of Troupsburg. He was also a member of the Troupsburg Baptist Church.

Besides his aunt, Mrs. Cushing, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Roy Price, of Troupsburg, and one brother, Delbert Ford, of Jasper.

The funeral will be held at the Troupsburg Baptist Church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in East Troupsburg.

Philip John Rhinehart

Phillip John, the nine year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhinehart, of East Corning, died this morning at 5:45 o'clock at the family home following a 10 days' illness. Death was caused by pneumonia incurred when the lad caught cold after being exposed to the rain.

It was the opinion of medical authorities that the child might also have had infantile paralysis but this could not be confirmed as he did not live long enough to allow the development of the disease.

However, as the child had developed many of the symptoms, the house was quarantined in order to prevent any possibility of contagion in case the disease should develop.

Phillip was a pupil in the East Corning school, where he was in the fifth grade. He was particularly bright in his studies and was well-liked by both teachers and pupils.

He was born in East Corning, September 28, 1917, and had lived there all his life. Surviving him are besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rhinehart, one brother, Charles, 13 and one sister, Alice, six, his grandmother, Mrs. Alice Leonard, and an uncle, Fred Rhinehart, all of East Corning.

The funeral, which will be private, will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home. Burial will be in Rural Home Cemetery, Big Flats.

Joseph Lauchie

The funeral of Jasper Lauchie was held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Friendship Baptist Church. The Rev. M. Taylor, of Binghamton, a former pastor of the church, officiated.

The bearers were J. T. Carter, M. T. Hooden, Alfred Frank and A. G. Watkins. Interment was in Hope Cemetery Annex.

Miss Ellen Moloney

The funeral of Miss Ellen Moloney was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Gorton Undertaking Parlors. The Rev. George S. G. Hares, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church officiated. Interment was in Hope Cemetery. The bearers were L. O. Saunders, Arthur Brown, E. L. Crego and A. B. Austin.

MR. CURTISS EXPLAINS PURPOSE OF BOARD IN CHEST DRIVE PROGRAM

Analyzes Local Situation With Respect to Community Chest Work by American City Bureau

W. H. Curtiss, president of the Board of Directors of Corning Community Chest in an interview today with The Evening Leader explained the attitude of the board in regard to obtaining the services of the American City Bureau, of New York City, in directing the activities of the Community Chest drive. Mr. Curtiss also pointed out that the board felt that it was much more economical and beneficial in proportion to the results attained to add the expense of the director to the expenses of the campaign.

Previously the Community Chest, which was really an outgrowth of the War Chest, has received its money from a campaign instituted and directed by local business men. This arrangement, according to Mr. Curtiss, has proven a great burden to those in charge besides failing to gain for the chest the quota needed.

In regard to this matter Mr. Curtiss said today: "Heretofore the raising of funds for Corning Hospital, Corning Social Service and the other community projects of which we are so justly proud, has been done entirely by a local committee working only along such lines as have been used from year to year.

"As chairman in charge of raising the money in 1924, I can speak frankly and say that working in this way, we never reached our goal. The reason for this seems to be that we have failed to enlist the support of a sufficient number of people, who should be contributors to these institutions.

"In the present community chest, we have 950 subscribers from a community, including Greater Corning, which numbers about 20,000 persons.

"This figure is absurdly small in comparison with what other towns the size of Corning have done."

Here Mr. Curtiss presented figures showing what towns ranging in size from 15,000 to 20,000 had accomplished in the number of subscribers to their community chests. They were as follows: Ann Arbor, Mich., 3,000; Ashtabula, Ohio, 4,000; Champagne, Ill., 2,200; Glens Falls, 1,900; Gloversville, 4,600; Lafayette, Ind., 2,200; Mason City Iowa, 3,600.

"The problem that we have here is to arouse the other 2,000 that ought to be contributors to the chest.

"Certainly Corning is not such a peculiar community that only a few people are interested enough in welfare and charitable work to become subscribers to this movement. But the members of the Board of Directors and others in the city were very willing to admit that they did not know how to reach the general public.

"Then certainly the common sense thing to do was to do what any progressive business man would do in the same situation; if he finds a task he can not do himself, he hires an expert to do it for him.

"The American City Bureau has been conducting community chest drives for 14 years in cities of all sizes in the United States and Canada. Therefore while it costs money the board of directors thought it the wisest thing to call upon this organization for the services of trained men, who will work for a certain specified sum (not based on percentage of or depending in any way upon the amount of money collected for the community chest) and who will direct this campaign in an efficient and practical manner.

"However, the cost of this service is only a very modest addition to the expenses of the campaign had the local board conducted it.

"Furthermore, the board has undertaken this campaign under the direction of the American City Bureau with the full belief that it will produce more contributors and as a consequence more funds for the institutions that benefit with this outside help than could possibly be done while depending on its own resources, including part-time service, casual experience and incidental ability in this line of work.

"Having had experience in other drives, the board also feels that it is not fair to ask a busy business or professional man to take entire charge of the responsibility of providing the funds needed in the drive as the responsibility is too great for a man already occupied with business responsibilities of his own.

"The job is too big and too vitally important to entrust to volunteer aid. Furthermore, in many cases the men who are capable of directing the work are in positions where they cannot afford the time and energy for it while those who have the time and are willing to do the work are not always fitted by training and experience for it."

HENRY DEATS GETS AUBURN

Corning Young Man Sentenced To Five Years on Grand Larceny Charge

Henry Deats, of Corning and Olean, has been sentenced to five years in Auburn state prison by County Judge Orla E. Black of Cattaraugus county following a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with grand larceny, second degree. Deats was on parole from Auburn at the time of his arrest.

He was arrested in Corning by the local police after he had escaped from the police of Salamanca who had attempted to arrest him on a charge of stealing an automobile from that city. When he was stopped by a policeman of Salamanca, the officer stepped onto the running board of the car and directed Deats to drive to police headquarters. After starting his car Deats gave the officer a push from the machine and made good his escape. He was later arrested in Corning where he came to visit relatives. Detective Raymond Brooder was in Little Valley last week to attend the trial as a witness.

Deats is well known to the local police and has a police record in this city. While employed as a New York Central brakeman here he was arrested on a non-support charge and later in March, 1921, he was arrested on a charge of grand larceny for stealing the automobile belonging to Floyd Daniels, of this city. A short time after that he was involved in an alleged hold-up at a chop suey place in Corning and his companion was hit over the head with a cleaver by the proprietor of the place. At that time Deats was sentenced to Auburn and was out on parole at the time he committed his last crime.

Penny Wise and Pound Foolish

There are yet, some people who are penny wise and pound foolish—when it comes to insurance. For a small expenditure of a few dollars they could have a protection around their savings that would protect them from losses if a calamity should visit them.

Every day we read in the papers about auto accidents, homes burning, wind storms wrecking valuable property. And thousands of other accidents such as destruction of plate glass windows, and the like, we don't hear about.

Yet each of these bring losses to the owner and sometimes losses too great for the owner to bear.

Insurance protects you from losses due to these accidents. And an investment of a few cents placed correctly will save you many dollars when your turn comes.

To get the utmost insurance protection for your money you should consult a reputable agent. This agency has for the past three quarters of a century been advising this community on the right insurance. It has an enviable reputation for its courtesy and service to its clients. Consider these qualifications and consult us today.
