NO RADICAL DEM. ADDED TO SENATE

Means That Basic Problems Will be Resolved by Conservative Combination

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Special Correspondence to The Evening Leader Copyright 1926, by The Leader Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Analysis of the Tuesday elections show that not a single radical Democrat was added to the membership of the United States senate.

While Representatives Hawes of Missouri, Hayden of Arizona, Barkley of Kentucky and Thomas of Oklahoma and former Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Justice Wagner of New York and Colonel Tidings of Maryland who are the new members of the senate would hardly class themselves as "conservatives" nevertheless they are by no strength of the imagination to be included in the school of thought represented by Senators Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin and Brookhart of Iowa.

This means that while the major political issues may be determined occasionally by a coalition of Democrats and the insurgent Republican group, the basic economic problems of the country will be resolved by a combination of liberal conservatives in the Democratic and Republican parties.

Taxation, for example, has always furnished an opportunity for radical proposals. Senator Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina will be a more powerful influence than before in writing the new tax bill, but he is far from radical; in fact he has expressed the view point that the corporation tax rate should be reduced.

On the whole the business interests of the country which have from time to time included that Democratic control in congress meant disturbance to industry are not so easy today after the Republican radicals had been added to the insurgent Republican group.

The rise of the Democrats will probably be taken from the utterance of David Walsh on the night of his victory over Senator Butler in Massachusetts. He was careful to point out that President Coolidge was not an issue in the campaign and that he would support the president whenever he felt it was right to do so. It is significant also that the Democrats are not contradicting Senator Walsh by contending that the Massachusetts results that a repudiation of Mr. Coolidge's policies. On the subject of what caused his election, Mr. Walsh speaks with authority because he did not appeal to Republicans in Massachusetts on the ground that Mr. Coolidge had failed but on the ground that he too could be counted on to support Mr. Coolidge.

It is true, of course, that Mr. Walsh comes up for election again in 1928—one he has just been elected to fill out the term of the late Senator Lodge which expires in March 1929. So Senator Walsh knows that next time he will be running it will be a presidential year and usually Massachusetts goes Republican. He was beaten for 1924 on the Coolidge landslide and so Mr. Walsh must retain the strength he acquired from the Republican party last Tuesday and endeavor to win other Republicans who will be voting in 1928, if the country had turned to radical thoughts. Mr. Walsh would not have been appealing for support on the ground that he would support Calvin Coolidge. Neither Governor Smith nor Justice Wagner has any sympathy with radical programs though both would doubtless call themselves "progressive".

The Democratic party is not becoming the radical party of the country and in 1928 both its platform and its candidate are much more likely to be pointed toward the right than toward the left wing of economic and political doctrine.

DEFEAT OF STOLZ IS NOT YET CONCEDED BY NEW YORK DEMOCRATS

SYRACUSE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Democratic state organization does not yet concede the defeat of its candidate for attorney general, Benjamin Stolz of this city, despite the apparent victory of Albert Ottinger, Republican candidate, on the face of unofficial returns.

This announcement was made today by Robert J. Powers, secretary of the committee, who said he had sent to each county chairman a request to have a representative present when the official canvass of votes is made next Tuesday, in the telegrams he expressed belief there would still remained a good chance to show that Stolz was the victor.

ELECTED GYRO GOVERNOR

SYRACUSE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Robert F. Inch of Hamilton, Ont., was elected governor of district 3 of the Gyro Club at the closing session of the district convention here today.

WHITE HOUSE PLAN FOR TAX REFUND IS PRESIDENT'S IDEA

Treasury Describes it as Uninspired by Mellon and Unlikely to Cause Serious Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A White House plan for a 10 per cent tax refund was described in the Treasury today as President Coolidge's own idea, uninspired by Secretary Mellon but regarded by the Treasury officials as unlikely to cause serious embarrassment to the government's fiscal policies.

At the same time it developed that if accepted by congress the president's proposal probably would take the form of an early Spring bouquet to the taxpayer, not a Christmas present. The Treasury thinks it would be much easier and as satisfactory to apply the deduction as a credit on the March 15 payments of 1927, and not attempt the bookkeeping that would be necessary to make actual refunds during the present calendar year.

Mr. Coolidge's proposal came to most of official Washington out of a cloudless sky. Secretary Mellon has said repeatedly that it was too early to talk about tax reduction, despite the $250,000,000 Treasury surplus which seems to be in the offing. That attitude of the secretary was maintained stubbornly under concerted Democratic attack during the congressional campaign. High treasury officials said today that Mr. Mellon had not changed his mind, and pointed out that what Mr. Coolidge advocates is not a tax reduction making permanent revisions of the revenue schedules, but merely a charging off of the present surplus to the credit of the taxpayer.

Because of this temporary aspect of the plan, the Treasury thinks it can be carried out without embarrassment. It does favor a postponement until March, however, for reasons of its own.

NEVER KILLED WITH REVOLVER LAD TESTIFIES

MONTICELLO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—With unflinching eyes and a firm voice, Charles Wise testified before a jury in the county court here this morning that he had never killed a single thing with his .32 calibre revolver, which the prosecution charges fired the fatal bullet tablet shot slew 55 years old Nina Vilona at Bradley last July. The youth admitted that he never could hit a squirrel or a wood chuck.

He testified, moreover, that he had not seen the gun since July 17 when she brought it out at the request of Sheriff Fletcher E. Rhodes. Miss Vilona was killed and buried beneath a pile of stones near the Neversink river on July 9.

REPLACEMENT OF C. & O. UNCONFIRMED

NEW WYORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Reports that the Chesapeake and Ohio railway would replace the Nickel Plate as the central unit of the projected Van Sweringen railroad merger today lacked confirmation in Wall street, where the opening hour was close tonight with the Cleveland magnates asserted that no new plan had been adopted.

Proposals to make the Chesapeake and Ohio the principal holding company were discussed when the original consolidation was drawn up two years ago, bankers explained, and rejected as unworkable at that time. Chesapeake minority stockholders, it was said, probably would favor such a plan but it might be impossible to obtain the agreement of the other roads to the change.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Selecting a town where there were no marines or guards, three men yesterday stole a registered mail pouch, kidnaped a railway mail clerk, drove more than 200 miles—and netted $5.

The holdup occurred on a Hibbing street, within sight of several workmen. Truman M. King, veteran postal clerk of Duluth, was given the unceremonious automobile ride to Minneapolis.

EVERY PRECAUTION TAKE BY OWNERS OF IRON MINE

ISHPEMING, Mich., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Every precaution was taken by the owners of the Barnes-Hecker iron ore mine here to prevent accidents, a committee composed of mining engineers and officials of national safety organizations reported after an investigation of the shaft where 51 men lost their lives in a cave-in Wednesday.

Work of recovering bodies progressed slowly. Recession of the waters from underground seepage to other caverns has slowed down considerably. Pumps are drawing off water from the surface at the rate of 3,000 gallons a minute but the level has dropped only a few feet since yesterday.

MRS. SABIN RESIGNS FROM WOMEN VOTERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, Republican national committeewoman from New York, has resigned from the Non-Partisan League of Women Voters because of what she regards as "totally unfair" bias in the printing on the same page of the organization's Bulletin statements by Democratic and Republican women.

The statements about women in politics were from Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of the Democratic national committee and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., wife of the Republican senator from New York. Mrs. Sabin said that the latter "was a woman who has never held office or even taken an active part in politics."

Hall-Mills Trial at a Glance

COURT HOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson announced that he will not be embarrassed by the enforced absence of the sick Mrs. Jane Gibson before Wednesday, as he has witnesses enough to occupy the court until mid-week.

Mrs. Mary Demarest concluded her testimony began yesterday, reiterating that she had seen Ralph V. M. Gosline and Mrs. Mina Clark presumably observing Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills in a park three months before the double slaying, and saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick, the day after the double murder.

Henry L. Dickman, former New Jersey state trooper, testified that he interviewed Henry Stevens at Lavallette, his home, in February 1923, and was told by the defendant that he was "finishing on the beach" at the time of the crime.

PROHIBITION AGENTS ARE DISMISSED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Prohibition popped into the limelight again today in the nation's capital.

While Assistant Secretary Lincoln C. Andrews, in charge of enforcement, was denying that the coast guard had "sold out" to the bootleggers and was making known his determination to seek dismissal next month giving the government greater control over medicinal liquor, it was revealed that the chief of the prohibition machinery in and around the District of Columbia and three of his agents had been dismissed for conduct distinctly unbecoming federal officers" when they held up with drawn revolvers an automobile containing an unidentified government official.

The dismissed agents here were Robert L. Livingston, deputy prohibition administrator for the district, and Agents J. Carter, James Cook and John Fitzpatrick.

"Agents may not rush about city streets and country roads holding up automobiles without the slightest cause, using drawn revolvers and talking abusively to occupants of the automobiles they stop," said General Andrews in connection with the dismissals. "Such conduct is not becoming to an officer and must be stopped."

Says Married Men Don't Have to Pay Wives for Housework

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Married men in Minnesota don't have to pay salaries to their wives for house work. The state legal department says so in an opinion made public today.

The ruling was in response to a query from a perturbed housewife who wrote to Governor Theodore Christianson, asking if wives didn't have a legal right to regular allowances.

TRIAL OF MRS. FRANCES STEVENS HALL AND HER BROTHERS MOVES SLOWLY

COURT HOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, on charges of murder, moved slowly today, perhaps because the court was in session on a day usually made a court holiday. There was less sharp shooting by contending counsel. The first witness, Mrs. Mary Demarest, concluding testimony begun yesterday, seemed irritated at questioning by Clarence E. Case of defense counsel, and for a moment appeared on the verge of losing her temper. She recovered her poise after one very loud "no" had furnished the reply to a question.

Dickman on Stand

Henry L. Dickman, former New Jersey state policeman, who once worked on the police investigation of the Hall-Mills murder, and retired from the office without collecting back pay, was on the witness stand at the luncheon recess.

On direct examination, Dickman testified that in February 1923 he saw Henry Stevens at Lavallette, his home, and was told by the defendant that he was fishing there on the beach at the time of the double slaying at New Brunswick.

Prosecutor Simpson was content to develop this testimony on direct examination with a statement that Stevens appeared "nervous" and was "evasive" but did not ask the witness why he left the state police without collecting salary due.

On cross examination Dickman said he had been dismissed from both the army and navy but denied that he had deserted or even served in the marine corps.

Charlotte Mills on Stand

Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain choir singer, was on the stand for a few minutes to identify certain letters and a telegram written by the widow of the rector to Henry Stevens, her brother, last August.

In this letter Mrs. Hall wrote of the refusal of bail for her brother Willie Stevens, and as Prosecutor Simpson read to the jury a paragraph in which the defendant wrote, "Simpson insulted him outrageously and Willie jumped up to go for him," Willie Stevens chuckled as he sat across the room from the prosecutor. The letter later referred to Willie Stevens as a "brave gentleman" and Willie smiled again.

Reiterates Seeing Stevens

Mrs. Mary Demarest finished her testimony by again saying that she saw Henry Stevens in New Brunswick the morning after the killing. She was closely questioned by defense counsel, suggesting that the defense will claim that the defendant was at Lavallette, seventy miles distant.

Mrs. Anna Bierman, cousin of Mrs. Hall testified that while visiting at Mrs. Hall's home shortly after the tragedy she took away a brown coat and blue scarf which she sent to Philadelphia to have dyed black. On cross examination the witness said that she volunteered to attend to this matter for her cousin. The apparel was normal, she said, with no spots or other discolorations on either.

The defense sought unsuccessfully to develop evidence of friendship or lack of cordiality between Mrs. Demarest and her cousin, Mrs. Minna Clark, whom Mrs. Hall testified saw with Ralph V. M. Gosline in what the state strues as an act of espionage on the actions of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills in a New Brunswick park. The court did not permit this line of questioning.

Illness Not to Cause Change

That the illness of rMs. Jane Gibson will not cause an immediate change in the trial procedure was indicated today when Special Prosecutor Simpson said he had enough witnesses in readiness to proceed without disturbing from his plans until Wednesday. Mrs. Gibson today was "about the same," which was interpreted to mean that she is not critically sick but too weak to testify.

Dickman, continuing his direct testimony after the noon recess, testified that he was paid $5,000 as bribe by the late Asarian Boorman, once prosecutor of Somerset county, to leave the New Jersey state police force and to leave the state.

It is the state's contention that this money was given him in an effort to protect Mrs. Hall and her brothers from the discovery of damaging evidence.

Star Hall-Mills Witness

MRS. JANE GIBSON

Mrs. Gibson known as the "Pig Woman," is said to be too ill to testify in the murder case now being heard. She is in a Somerville, N. J., hospital and while her condition is not critical it is declared to be serious.

MUSSOLINI HOLDS SEVEN OF PORTFOLIOS

ROME, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Italy awoke t his morning to find Benito Mussolini holding seven of the cabinet's 13 portfolios and in exclusive personal control of a new formidable mechanism for the protection of the regime against all attacks, conspiracies and insults.

The wheat among the cohorts is to be separated from the chaff. The grand council of the Fascist party decided to authorize Secretary General Turati to carry out a systematic purification of the ranks of all members not giving absolute proof of their faithfulness to "the original Fascist spirit."

In addition to being commander-in-chief of the militia, Mussolini now holds the portfolios of premier, foreign minister, minister of interior, minister of war, minister of marine, minister of aviation and minister of labor.

The solution is thought to lie in the continued presence of Mrs. Hillat Seattle and the retention of Major Washburn as aide. The major has agreed to remain with the party, at Marie's request.

M'CLINTOCK IS ACCUSED OF BRIBERY

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 6.—(AP)—E. L. Mills, attorney for the three defendants for the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, in a statement to The Associated Press today, declared Prosecutor C. B. McClintock attempted to induce Patrick Eugene McDermott, "key man" among those indicted, to implicate Ben Rudner and Harry Master, the defendants, but that McDermott declined.

Ten thousand dollars was offered McDermott as a reward if he would "tell all," Mills declared.

The prosecution and allied investigators have followed the wrong bent from the beginning, Mills declared. He does not believe the alleged murder conspiracy was linked with a liquor conspiracy. He discounts the story of the "informer," Steve Kaschok, who was the first to point to McDermott, Rudner and Master as the murderers of Mellett. He believes [illegible] identifications" by state witnesses are cases of mistaken identity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—Stock prices moved irregularly higher in today's market. The announcement that President Coolidge favored a rebate on 1925 income taxes had a bullish effect on sentiment but was offset to some extent by the unexpectedly small reduction in stock exchange member loans last month, compared with the Federal Reserve totals.

Bear traders renewed their pressure against the motor shares, forcing General Motors down to around 150 1-2 but this failed to stem the demand for high grade rails and industrials. Another reduction in bank clearings last month, compared with October 1925 was counteracted by encouraging trade and earnings reports.

Atchison led the advance in the rails by moving up 3 points, being closely followed by Union Pacific and New York Central. Van Sweringen issues were heavy on unconfirmed reports of another change in merger plans.

U. S. Steel was under heavy accumulation in anticipation of an usually favorable tonnage statement next Wednesday. Coppers reflected the improved statistical position of the industry and the prospect of higher dividends, Kennecott and Nevada touching new 1926 highs. Outstanding strength also was shown by Woolworth, Vick Chemical and Foundation Company.

The closing was firm. Total sales approximated 700,000 shares.

Stock prices displayed a firm undertone at the opening of today's market despite the surprise occasioned by the relatively small reduction in brokers loans reported by members of the New York Stock Exchange for October, compared with the Federal Reserve total during the same period. Lackawanna and Allied Chemical each showed initial gains of about 1 1-2 points and United States Steel common, May Department Stores and Mathieson Alkali showed substantial fractional advances.

The market turned irregular soon after the opening. Renewal of selling pressure against the motors was followed by the liquidation of some of the Van Sweringen issues, presumably on publication of a report of another change in plans involving the substitution of the Chesapeake and Ohio for the "Nickel Plate" as the parent company. Heaviness of "Nickel Plate" common which quickly sold off 2 points and Chesapeake and Ohio, which yielded one, checked a buying movement in other rails which had been inspired by the announcement that railroad earnings in the first nine months of the year had broken records. Atchison and Rock Island showed early gains of a point. Pools were again active in a number of specialties, early strength being srown by Radio, Vick Chemical, American Hide and Leather preferred and Owens Bottle. Foreign exchanges opened steady, demand sterling running around 484 1-4 and French francs around 3.32 1-2.

Financial & Industrial NEWS AND COMMENTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Despite repeated attempts of bear traders to unsettle the stock market, prices worked upward this week under the leadership of high grade railroad and industrial issues. Bond prices, reflecting the lowering of time money rates and the existence of a strong investment demand, moved to record high levels, with some of the best gains being recorded by foreign government securities.

Motors were the targets for bear pressure as a result of the usual seasonal curtailment of production by some of the large manufacturers. Mack trucks, Chandler common and preferred and some of the other popular shares received strong support. Bullish enthusiasm for the oil was dampened by the cut in Mid-Continent crude oil prices although operations for the rise were continued in a few issues.

Several of the coppers mounted to new high levels in expectation of higher dividends and increased earnings. Woolworth responded to a report of increased earnings by advancing several points, but the other merchandising shares were mixed. Amusement issues were heavily bought on reports of a successful opening of the Winter theatre season in most of the leading cities.

COTTON MARKET

New York State--News of Today Told by Wire and 'Phone

METHODS IN CANADA WILL BE STUDIED

ALBANY, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The New York state crime commission will study at first hand methods of dealing with the criminal in the Dominion of Canada.

Herbert L. Smith, secretary of the commission, announced today that the commission plans to visit the Dominion and hold hearings on November 9, 10, and 11 in Toronto, Kingston and Montreal.

The commission was created by the legislature to carry on in a broader way the work of the Baumes legislative commission, many of whose recommendations were enacted into law at the last session. The commission purposes to investigate causes of crime, punishment and law-breaking, especially major crimes.

TEN CENT FARE DEMANDED BY BUFFALO RAIL COMPANY

BUFFALO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The International Railway Company, operating the street car and bus service in Buffalo and suburbs moved to override the fare decisions of the state public service commission and to obtain a federal court order permitting it to charge a ten cent fare in the city.

The present rate is eight cents or two fares for 15 cents.

The International claims the present rates of rate amounts to confiscation of its properties because the service is operated at a loss.

QUICK-WITTED BOY SAVES HIS MATE FROM PIT

WATERLOO, Nov. 6.—Presence of mind of Carl S. Hunt, 13 years old saved the life of Seward McQuay, 10 years old, who lay unconscious in three feet of mud and sewage at the foot of an 18 foot gas pit. But for Hunt's prompt action, the McQuay boy would have suffocated, it was reported.

McQuay and three other boys were playing around the side of the pit of the abandoned gas container of the Empire Gas and Electric Company, near the limits of the village. Carl Hunt was swinging back and forth across the pit on a rope tackle workmen had been using in the demolition of the gas container.

The McQuay boy ran in front of him. Hunt's feet striking him in the stomach, knocked him over the edge of the pit and he fell 18 feet to the bottom. Three feet of mud and sewage had collected there and Mr. McQuay lay in it, partly unconscious.

Young Hunt slid down a ladder, lifted his companion out of the mud, dragged him to the surface, saving his life.

Vicinity Deaths

Frederic Ingraham

COHOCTON, Nov. 6—Frederic Ingraham, brother of Mrs. Mary Aldous of this village, died at the Memorial Hospital at Canandaigua, where he was taken for treatment some time ago.

Mr. Ingraham was born July 12, 1866 in the town of Naples, where much of his life had been passed. His parents were the late Myron and Permelia Ingraham. He leaves another sister, Mrs. Carrie Mucklow of Naples.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. William Partington of the Naples Methodist Episcopal Church with burial in Rose Ridge cemetery, Naples.

James B. Frazir

COHOCTON, Nov. 6.—James B. Frazir, who was born in Springwater February 26, 1849, died recently at his home in the town of West Sparta, Livingston County, where he had recently resided and which he had represented in the County Board of Supervisors several years.

He had been Superintendent of the Poor in Livingston County for the last six years. He was a son of the late David Frazir. He is survived by his wife, Sarah VanMiddleworth Frazir, and five daughters, Mrs. Mary Halsey and Ethel Frazis of Geneseo, Julia Frazir and Mrs. Charles Knappenburg of Dansville and Mrs. James D. Wells of Roslyn, L. I., and two brothers, Irvin Frazir of Bay Shore, L. I., and Warren Frazir of Rochester.

Mrs. John Brown

KEENEYVILLE, Pa., Nov. 6.—The funeral of Mrs. John Brown of Tioga was held here Wednesday. Rev. Blount officiated and interment was made in the Middlebury Union Cemetery.

Strictly Sanitary

Doctor—"Have you taken the necessary precautions to prevent the spread of this contagious disease?"

Woman—"I refused a jockey's license at the French Jockey Club on the ground that they lack sufficient strength of arms, legs and endurance to stand the strain until the end of a race such as the Paris Grand Prix."

LAKE KEUKA VINEYARDISTS ARE DISCOURAGED OVER SLUMP IN MARKET PRICE OF GRAPES

BATH, Nov. 6.—Before another month passes over 6,000 tons of grapes, the aggregate crop of the Lake Keuka grape belt will have been marketed, representing to the growers from $250,000 to $300,000, which is in marked contrast to the sum garnered as received by growers for the past several years, when from $500,000 to $600,000 was annually received from the sale of the grape crop in this same region.

The decided slump in the market price of grapes this season appears inexplicable, as well as being most decidedly discouraging to the Keuka vineyardists. But students of the situation, while admitting that the abundance of fruit of all kinds this year, and grapes especially, is contributive to low prices, claim there is no recession in price is not a sudden caprice of the market, due to the laws of supply and demand, so much as it reflects a fault of the growers themselves, the failure of vineyardists of the Keuka belt during the past 20 years to have properly capitalized the merits of their production.

Hammondsport Shipping Point

Hammondsport, at the head of Lake Keuka, is a main shipping point in the grape region, and during the present season of from 10 to 12 weeks, over 2,500 tons will have been shipped from this point to markets in many points of the United States. What is true of Hammondsport, applies equally to Penn Yan, Naples and other shipping points in the country—not over 50 per cent of the grapes shipped from these points finds its way to the market which it should command, and that is in the hands of consumers who seek the fruit because of especial merit as table grapes. The grapes of the Lake Keuka region are concededly premier among all other grapes produced in America. In fact, even the vineyards of France, Italy and Spain produce grapes of no finer flavor than those grown along Keuka's shores and in the immediate vicinity.

Grapes from the Lake Erie vineyards are admittedly lacking in flaver to those from Lake Keuka. The vineyards of Southern Ohio, in the vicinity of Cincinnati, and the same applies to the grapes from California, are lacking in the rich sugar content of grapes from the Finger Lakes country. Soil analysts agree that the Keuka Lake country enjoys the same requisites of soil as well as being on the same isothermal line as France, where the grapes are meritoriously recognized almost world-wide. The several lakes of the Finger Lakes chain break the vast expanse of vineyards of this community. The waters exerting a tempering influence, by which frosts are delayed from two to four weeks, later than in other communities is another advantage because the late days of Autumn, with this danger of frost remote, allow the fruit to fully ripen and mature on the vines, a condition which in many other grape growing centers is impossible. There the fruit is picked in a half ripened condition and so placed on the market, for if picking were delayed, the crop would be ruined by killing frosts.

Have Been Remiss

With all of these natural advantages combining in the production of most superior fruit, the Lake Keuka vineyardists are alleged to be unappreciative of this rich asset, and have thus far been grossly remiss and negligent in any attempt to properly capitalize this great natural gift.

One of Largest Depots

Hammondsport has one of the largest grape depots in the Lake Keuka section in the Gledhill & Putnam warehouse, where from 1,500 to 2,500 tons of fruit are received annually from early September days until the close of the season late in October. From this point carloads of the fruit are shipped daily during the season to markets as far west as Portland, Oregon, eastward to Boston and Portland, Me., south to Miami and Tampa, Fla., westward as far as St. Louis, Memphis and Knoxville, while Philadelphia, Reading, Washington, D. C., Baltimore, Richmond, Va., and Atlanta, Ga., are common points to which this fruit is consigned.

Every pound of this fruit goes forth to the retailer and reaches the consumer in a sealed package, inspected and graded by the staff of government inspectors, who are present as each carload is prepared. These inspectors who are from the Department of Farms and Markets of New York state, working with the federal inspection department, are present all during the time the grapes are packed in the containers.

The inspectors permit no fruit to pass that is regarded in any way inferior, and this inspection proceeds from the packing table until the car is closed and sent forward. This is the only fruit house east of the Mississippi river where government inspectors are employed, and where the products go forth under a United States Grade No. 1 shipping label, which in itself is a guarantee of quality.

The vast warehouses in Hammondsport at this season of the year, are alive with activity. The vineyardists daily bring in grapes in great quantities by wagon, by truck and by boat, and this fruit must be received and cared for as rapidly as it is received. The storehouses many times contain from 500 to 700 tons of grapes, all of which must be sorted, packed in cartons, labeled, inspected and hurried to market. The processes require rare team work, and in the warehouse during the grape season from 100 to 150 people are employed. Fifty or more women and girls act as sorters of packers.

They are employed in a large, well lighted room, occupying places at a long bench or sorting table. Before the sorters at this table are brought, as required large trays of grapes from the warehouses. Each bunch is selected and inspected by the sorter before being placed in its shipping container. This sorting provides for the elimination of all decayed fruit and removal of withered and all over-ripe berries from the clusters.

A seemingly perfect bunch of grapes comes to the hands of the sorter but with special type of small scissors, the sorter with deft fingers proceeds through this bunch, removing here and there a large, luscious berry. These berries so removed are in no way defective, but are dead ripe, which means they are very rich in sugar. If allowed to pass the sorter, these richest berries before they reached the ultimate consumer, might break from their fullness of sugar, and the berries so broken would detract from the perfect standard which the government inspection demands.

These berries which are removed by the sorter, are, however, not wasted. Instead, they are consigned to a basket at one side of the sorter, and from time to time as this basket becomes filled it is removed. Taken to the pressing room, these ripe grapes are turned into the vats, finally reaching the presses where the juice is extracted and later sold. Thus, nothing but withered or spoiled fruit is lost in this sorting process.

Many Tons of Overripe Fruit

The over-ripe grapes in a season will total several tons. When converted into grape juice, it is pasteurized, heated to a desired temperature and commands a ready sale. This juice is shipped to many parts of the United States. Even with the large production of grapes in California, much Lake Keuka grape juice is sold on the Pacific coast, and this past week, several thousand gallons were shipped to Porto Rico.

D. W. Putnam, who is in charge of the receiving and shipping plant in Hammondsport, feels that the vineyardists of the Lake Keuka country have right to expect and should receive the highest price for their grapes of any in this country. But he holds the fault is that the vineyardists themselves are lacking in discrimination in the markets which they make for their crops. In view of the natural superiority of the Lake Keuka grapes themselves, the growers should be keen to capitalize this superiority and insist upon a price commensurate with the quality.

But it is claimed the greatest difficulty is attendant the enlistment of the vineyardists in any plan of concerted action for the advantageous marketing of the crop. Every vineyardist is content to make his individual market. Too often his grapes, of admitted superiority, find their way to the jobbing houses of the city, where in competition with grapes from other parts of the country, fruit of less excellence, they are purchased by the man who desires them simply for grape juice manufacture, a man to whom grapes are grapes, without distinction. As a result the Lake Keuka grapes in a common market demand no higher prices than grapes not so desirable.

Mr. Putnam urges that the vineyardists for their own protection, advantage and profit should combine in the marketing of their product not as ordinary grapes but as "Lake Keuka Grapes," each package bearing a government inspection tag, thereby assuring a standard grade package, as the Keuka grapes are in themselves the embodiment of merit. In former years, many vineyardists did pack and market their own grapes, using individual labels. But the fault was that none of such packages were government inspected, and among so packages many products were not obliged to meet a standard in shipments, many inferior grapes from time to time reached the market. This worked to the decided disadvantage of the plan. Now with the government inspection, and each package bearing the government inspection tag, the product is again advancing in favor with the consumers.

Former Price $30 to $40

Five years ago before enforcement of present Prohibition laws, the average price for grapes in the Lake Keuka belt was from $30 to $40 a ton. Delawares, Niagaras, Ives and somes other early varieties, or grapes especially desired for wine making purposes, commanded higher price. But Concords and Catawbas of which more are grown in the Keuka region than all other varieties, commanded from $25 to $30 per ton. Beginning in 1921 with the enforcement of Prohibition, the price of Keuka grapes witnessed a steady advance. Two years after the Volstead Law was in effect, grapes had advanced to better than $100 per ton. Many vineyardists, discouraged by conditions existent in the pre-Prohibition period had torn up their vineyards, but with the return of high prices and a ready market wereinduced to plant new vineyards. The 1926 crop for grapes exceeded the days when the Lake Keuka wineries were prominent in the market, and this demand came from hundreds of people who, unable to longer purchase wines and grape juice in the market, purchased the grapes and manufactured desired products in their own homes.

Influenced by California Crop

The present grape prices this season, is without doubt largely influenced by the mammoth crop in California. On the Pacific coast, a government survey shows there has been an increase of from 225,000 to over 250,000 acres of vineyard since Prohibition became effective five years ago. These California grapes have flooded eastern markets, and while satisfactory for grape juice, they are incomparable as table fruit with the New York grapes.

Local grape shipping houses will be engaged until about November 25. By that time the entire crop will have been packed and shipped, reaching the consumers in time for the holidays.

The greater part of the Keuka grape crop is picked. Several large vineyards were caught by the frosts of the past week and tons of grapes were frozen. Such grapes will be picked and converted into grape juice, although as frozen grapes they will command for the producer but a small return.

SAY WOMAN WHO ELOPED NOT NORMAL

ELMIRA, Nov. 6.—An incompetency action started by relatives in the case of Mrs. Mary Louise Frink, now Mrs. Charles Fero of Harrison Valley, Pa., scheduled for October 26 before Judge Bertram L. Newman has been closed, the petitioners declared. The matter will be aired before a jury in county court when attorneys for the opposing sides agree upon a date. Neither party appeared in court October 26.

Petitioners are H. H. McComb of Tioga, Pa., and Mrs. Celia Schoonover of Beaver Dams. They set forth in papers filed with Judge Newman that Mrs. Frink is mentally incompetent to manage her property and ask the appointment of James Schoonover of Chambers, son of Mrs. Schoonover and nephew of Mrs. Frink as legal guardian.

Mrs. Frink, according to three relatives, was sent to their home more than a year ago from Roberts, S. D., where her husband had died and left her in possession of money and property said to total about $30,000. A physician in the South Dakota city had declared her to be suffering from a mental ailment by which her reason was unbalanced, the relatives declare, and sent her East to the only relatives left to her, in caring for the woman at their home. Mr. and Mrs. Schoonover state they were often compelled to exercise restraint upon Mrs. Frink to keep her from running away. A physician whom they summoned to attend her cautioned them never to leave her alone for more than an hour at a time, they stated.

On September 5, Mrs. Frink went to the home of Mrs. Schoonover at Beaver Dams, and remained there until October 9 when she came to Elmira and was attended for a week by local hotmane officers. At the end of that time she married Fero and is now a resident of Harison Valley. Relatives deny that Fero was a girlhood sweetheart and claim that he did not know the woman until a few months before their elopement.

Says Indian Seventh Son of Seventh Son Has Mystic Power

BATAVIA, Nov. 6.—Abram George, an 11-year-old Iroquois Indian boy has moved to Batavia with his parents. The father declares that the boy has a mystic healing power and a sixth sense peculiar to the seventh son of a seventh son and that he is ready to chase the voodoo man away from the fill or solve any occult mystery.

The family has taken up its residence at 104 Liberty street and the father claims to have records of the boy's achievements to prove the claims that he makes. The boy is called Dr. George by the father who says that the boy does not speak or understand a word of English and never has learned any language but the Indian. There are 11 children in the family, nine boys and two girls. He came to Batavia from Hobansburg, Franklin county.

MANSFIELD MAN STIRS UP ADDISON

ADDISON, Nov. 6.—F. E. Lent, of Mansfield, Pa., caused considerable excitement in town last evening about 6 o'clock, when he drove into the village from Woodhull in an alleged intoxicated condition and narrowly escaped colliding with several cars here.

Mr. Lent stopped his car in front of the American House and entered the hotel, planning to stay over night. However, he changed his mind later, it is alleged, and decided to proceed. His alleged carelessness in driving was reported to James Erwin, who is acting as chief of police during the absence of Chief Gillespie. Mr Erwin placed Mr. Lent under arrest and took him to the village jail, where he was detained all night. He was brought before Judge Darrin this morning for a hearing.

Mr. Lent is alleged to have driven his automobile, a large enclosed car into the refreshment stand owned and operated by "Chick" O'Neil on the Addison-Woodhull road, demolishing the stand, before he came into Addison. Mr. O'Neil notified the police here. The car driven by Lent was badly damaged both fenders being off and the headlights broken. The machine was placed in a local garage for repairs.

Kinship Puzzle When Woman Marries Stepson

S. MIDDLEPORT, Nov. 6.—The marriage of Mrs. Mary Brown Pender, of Middleport, to her stepson Bernard Pender creates a new status in relationships. Bernard has four other brothers and sisters who now have a new step-sister who also is their stepmother.

She is both her husband's stepmother and wife. The peculiar part is that she is her step-son's wife and as such will be both stepmaint and step-grandmother to the children of her stepchildren.

Still further if Bernard should be blessed with children in his family, they will have both a mother and a grandmother in the same person. Mrs. Pender gave her age as 33 in her license, while Bernard's age is 27.

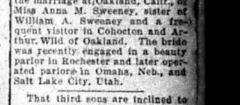

It is reported that Von Hindenberg's son has gone into moving pictures. Doubtless he decided he would prefer an easier path to fame.

Vicinity Weddings

Sweeney-Wild

COHOCTON, Nov. 6—Announcements have been received here of the marriage at Oakland, Calif., of Miss Anna M. Sweeney, sister of William A. Sweeney and a frequent visitor in Cohocton and Arthur, Wild of Oakland. The bride was recently engaged in a beauty parlor in Rochester and later operated parlors in Omaha, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

That third sons are inclined to be weak mentally is the opinion of Dr. S. Watanabe of the Education Department, who examined 438 "backward" children in 27 primary schools of Tokyo. Just why, the psychiatrist was unable to say.

National Education Week

America has many special "weeks" some fine in purpose, some commercial, some ridiculous.

But next week is American education week and it should provide a period of study and interest in our public schools.

The public school gives a higher tone to the social life of a community. It creates and maintains a moral atmosphere that bespeaks clear thinking, right living and noble purpose.

Instead of disciplining morality of child life, it directs and stimulates healthy, normal, ideal growth toward a citizenship that is pure, true and steadfast.

If the future community, state and nation are to be prosperous the child in his early years must be carefully and patiently brought to a keen sense of values along with that cooperative and social work that must make of us a truly great people.

The high school is the most fitting, logical and effective agency for creating, conserving and accomplishing these ends.

Asking Too Much

The sentimentalist, who in this case would have had the United States cancel the French debts with an eloquent gesture is always a difficult person to deal with. The trouble with his point of view is that it puts the United States in the position of paying for the war—or a large part of it.

We do not wish for the war, tried in every possible way to bring it to a conclusion and tried in every possible way to keep out of it. Then why should we pay the bills? For the two million soldiers sent to France and for the billions spent for war preparation and the maintenance of naval and military bases, we are paying gladly and freely. But to pay for the war otherwise, is almost too much to ask.

Electric-Lighted World

It is 47 years ago that Edison proved that a tiny loop of carbonized cotton-thread, sealed in a vacuum would turn electrical energy into light. What a change in the art of illumination has been wrought in the less than half a century, as well as change in the quality of the lamps which have followed Edison's firstone. Electric lighting has now become a commonplace. What was strange and wonderful in one on the most ordinary things in our lives.

Three years after the first electric lamp began to glow the first central station in the world was established in New York city, and in the 44 years since then there has grown up an electric light and power industry which serves nearly 15,000,000 consumers in the United States alone and whose 4,000 generating stations produce nearly eight thousand billion kilowatt hours of current, as much as is used in the rest of the world for other purposes.—Paul Pioneer Press.

Smith as a Possibility

By MARK SULLIVAN

The next presidency is comparatively close to us. A year from today everybody will be talking about it. A year and a half from now the nominations will be under way.

Can any one say the situation, as respects the presidency, favors the Democrats?

Governor Smith of New York has won an election which, read in connection with his previous record, gives him a strong claim on the Democratic presidential nomination, if he is given the nomination some millions of Democratic voters will hurry to vote the Republican ticket.

The defection of Democratic voters from Smith might not be fatal to him, for the defections would be spread thin over a great area in the South and West. But could Smith, running as the Democratic candidate for president, carry New York and Massachusetts? Smith has shown that as a candidate for governor he can carry New York under almost any and all circumstances.

But could he do it running not for governor but for president? Could Smith, running for the presidency, carry New York against President Coolidge, assuming Mr. Coolidge will be the Republican candidate?

That is one set of circumstances. On the other hand, the Democrats might refuse to give Smith the nomination which he and his friends think he is entitled to.

If Smith is denied the Democratic nomination, will that nomination be worth anything to any other Democrat? If Smith is denied the Democratic nomination, hundreds of thousands of his friends, filled with resentment, will hurry to vote the Republican ticket.

Clearly the Democratic jubilation over last Tuesday's successes will very quickly run into a period when delicate and difficult decisions are called for.

Likely to Wait and Watch

By MARK SULLIVAN

All the Democrats need to do is to watch the Republicans sweat. If they are unwise they will go beyond that and their position to spend two years in the active invention of situation designed to worry the Republicans and President Coolidge. Some individual Democratic senators have the temperament to find delight in that. But the Democrats as a group will refrain from it, and will let conditions promote their fortunes. It turns out there has been a surprising amount of quiet intelligence and cooperation in the recent Democratic campaign. That spirit will continue in control.

Through all this runs the assumption that the Democratic success of last Tuesday constitutes the beginning of a trend, and therefore the forecast of a time when the Democrats will have a majority in the senate. Politics does go by trends, and as politicians estimate such matters, last Tuesday's elections would be interpreted as a forecast of further Democratic gains two years from now. But two years from now everything will turn on one thing. The selection of a new president will dominate everything. As goes the presidency in 1928, so, in all probability, will go the senate and the house.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—We have often wanted to find a shoeshiner who, upon finishing his job does not give the cuff of the pants a twitch. But in vain. That gesture seems as certain as the barber's inability to part the hair in exactly the right place.

WHEN JONAH CAME HOME

The prophet Jonah had just arrived home after quite a trip, no small part of which had been inside of a whale. All the inhabitants were naturally much interested, especially his mother-in-law, who had speeded Jonah on his journey in the hot hope that Jonah would keep on journeying. "Well, boys," said the prophet, "I was inside there for 3 whole days and uncomfortable days they were—before the whale got sick and spewed me out!" "That must have been a strong whale!" said his mother-in-law. "You make most people sick at first sight." Which shows that the family life of a prophet is much like other families.

GIRL WHISTLERS GOT TO GIGGLING

Twelve hundred Jersey City school children have taken part in a whistling contest. But the girls got to giggling and not a single girl won a first place. The entrants ranged from 4 years up to 15. The youngest of the 16 winners was Walter Norton, age 9. Boys of Italian parentage whistled operatic selections, Irish boys jig and reel tunes. There was Spanish music, German music, Scandinavian, Russian and Negro melodies; and some of the contestants mimicked creaking gates, factory whistles, motor horns, squealing pigs and howling dogs." It was a great show, with no lack of novelties.

TRIALS OF BEING IN LOVE

I shall pass on presently, and am not personally interested, remarks Ed Howe, but sincerely wish those younger might find a more agreeable plan of association of the sexes. Could it not be handled better? In some way, both women and men suffer humiliation. What a sneak everyone becomes when he engages in love! He is ashamed because he has been in love with someone else, and fears being cheated. When the nicest women marry, people say: "I thought she intended marrying the other man." . . . And the husband hears about it, and is uncomfortable.

"I shall be sick tonight," replied the child, laconically helping himself to another. Barrie was so delighted with this quip that he offered the little fellow a royalty of a half-penny a performance for the copyright. It proved a good investment for the youngster.

SPIRITS LISTEN TO RADIO

Harriet Lee, radio singer at Homewood, Ill., believes communication with the spirit world will be accomplished thru radio. She is not a professed spiritualist and does not believe in mediums. Several years ago, a schoolgirl friend, Mary Eldridge, died in her senior year. Three times recently, says Miss Lee, the spirit of Mary has appeared and spoken to her. "Don't be frightened," said the spirit on her first visit when Miss Lee was about to faint with alarm. "I came because I recognized your voice on the air. After a little while she received the following letter from the department:

"Dear Madam: Your chickens are dead."

What Dope Does to You

For two years I was a slave to drugs. Do you know what that means? To begin with, you lose all sense of moral values. You are incapable of distinguishing between truth and untruth. You lie glibly, freely, with an increasing appetite for falsehood.

You lose all sense of humanity, so that when the hunger, when the terrible hunger for dope is on you, you would cheerfully take the bread from the mouth of a small child if it would give you what you want.

You lose all sense of cleanliness. This is, indeed inevitable. The act of bathing, even washing, is no longer a physical delight; it becomes a physical torture, so that you shrink from the impact of water with the same horror as the victim of hydrophobia.

You lose all sense of love. you regard your nearest and dearest merely as means to one ghastly end—the provision of dope. Then your nerves go. You see things which are not there; you hear whisperings; if you touch a book, a chair, the contact suggests something foul. The most familiar object has a dank clamminess.—Daphne Lucas, in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan.

JAPS LIKE AMERICAN MOVIES

The Japs go in strong for enoving pictures, even the small towns have picture theaters. Ninety per cent of the films are said to be American. This might seem to indicate that the Japanese know a great deal more about America than Americas know about Japan, but if all the Japs know about America is what they learn from Hollywood they know mighty little about America. A favorite picture with the Japs is "The Three Musketeers." The sword play in that picture is appreciated in the land of the Samurii.

STYLES CHANGING IN TIRES

Fifteen million balloon tires were in use the first 6 months of 1926, against 10 million for the first half of last year. The figure for high pressure tires was nearly 12 million in 1925 and 31,100,000 for the entire year 1925. Less than 2 1-2 million fabric tires were produced the first half of this year and in future their manufacture may virtually be abandoned. High pressure tires will be used for truck work and heavy service, and balloon tires will equip virtually all passenger cars and a great number of trucks and buses. So say the experts.

Mizpah Court No. 60 of the Order of the Amaranth celebrated its 10th anniversary Friday with appropriate lodge ceremonials in the afternoon and evening in the Masonic Cathedral with an interlude at 6 o'clock, when a banquet was served at the Recreation Hall of the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

TROOPER SAYS HE WAS PAID TO LEAVE STATE

COURT HOUSE, SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Testifying for the state at the trial of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her brothers, Henry and Willie, Henry L. Dickman, former trooper of the New Jersey state police, this afternoon said that he was paid $2,500 by the late Asariah Beekman, prosecutor of Somerset county, to leave the state in April, 1923.

Dickman said that at the time the offer was made and accepted he had been working for seven or eight months in investigating the slaying of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills. He declared that no reason was given for the payment of the money, the only condition being that he leave the state.

He was brought here to testify from a military prison on the Pacific coast.

CHILDREN TO HAVE OFFICER

Traffic Cop to be Stationed at Sly Avenue and Pulteney Street

Chief A. W. Eckess of the police department announced today that starting Monday he would have a traffic officer assigned to the intersection of Sly avenue and West Pulteney street for the protection of school children. The officer will be on duty there at the time of the non recess and at the time of school closing in the afternoon.

During the past several weeks there have been several reports of children being struck by automobiles at this point. None of the accidents have resulted seriously but it is the aim of Chief Eckess to attempt to prevent all accidents if possible.

Various complaints have been made concerning the actions of the children. Coming out of school in groups, the children chase one another and often run out into the street in the path of the cars. It is also said that some of the boys attempt to grab hold of the cars as they speed past and the chief feels that the presence of an officer on the corner would do away with the practice.

Complete arrangements for having an officer at this intersection have not been completed but Chief Eckess expected to confer with Superintendent A. M. Blodgett this afternoon. The parents are also asked to cooperate in the move so that all children who live south of Pulteney street will make the crossing at the Sly avenue intersection. Traffic on Pulteney street is very heavy especially during the noon hour and late in the afternoon and with an officer stationed there to direct pedestrian traffic, the numerous accidents of the past will undoubtedly be avoided.

WAR On WASTE!

THE SINCLAIR LAW OF LUBRICATION

for every machine of every degree of wear there is a scientific Sinclair Oil to suit its speed and seal its power

A powerful weapon in Sinclair's "War on Waste" is the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. This law tells the motorist that his engine has a "degree of wear" which requires just the right grade of oil "to suit its speed and seal its power." And he should change the lubricating oil in his car to fit its changing "degree of wear."

In following this Law of Lubrication, Sinclair dealers are rendering a real service to motorists. There is a science behind it—there's a real service behind it. There is a "War on Waste" behind it—a war on inefficient and destructive operation of machinery. Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil increases the efficiency and prolongs the life of the engine! It helps the motorist maintain economical transportation.

Just another service rendered by the men at the Red and Green pump to help the motorist get more mileage from his car.

Warning!

To protect the electric service of our customers and the lives of employees, as well as our property, we are obliged to issue this warning against shooting or otherwise damaging insulators and other transmission line equipment.

Broken insulators mean that homes—perhaps whole towns—must go without light, or that many people are kept from working in industries that need electric power. Often, too, the breaking of an insulator leaves a dangerous "live" wire dangling by the wayside.

Besides the trouble and danger to the public, a great amount of time and expense is required to repair the damage.

Breaking lamps, tampering with lines, and otherwise interfering with public utility equipment is a serious offense, punishable with heavy fine and imprisonment. Inspectors are constantly patrolling our lines, and anyone caught breaking insulators will be dealt with to the fullest extent of the law.

Service for Others—We will do our best to help those less fortunate than ourselves.

World Friendship—We will do all we can to promote international, inter-racial and interdenominational friendship.

Y CONFERENCE IS ARRANGED

George W. Pratt to Register All Local Boys Who Will Attend Meet

George W. Pratt, of this city, is in charge of the registrations for the Y. M. C. A. Conference to be held in Buffalo, November 26 to 28. Every church and Sunday school in the city is urged to send delegates.

A. R. Chamberlin, the County M. C. A. Secretary, says that the youth of Steuben County are to be put right up against the big racial, social and international questions, which are to be brought out by Rabbi Wise, the leading Jewish rabbi in America, Dr. Mordecai Johnson, of Howard University, the leading colored educator, and Arthur Rugh, intimate with the Chinese situation and problems of the Far East.

The Older Boys' Conferences held by the Y. M. C. A. have always been influential in the life of the boys who attend them, but this conference ought to make a real impression on the thought of any fellow who attends.

Most of the entertainment is furnished by the people of Buffalo, and reduced railroad rates are given by all the railroads.

REV. CARL J. GRABB

NEW PASTOR HAS ARRIVED

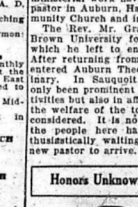

Rev. Carl J. Grabb to Preach at Post for First Time on Sunday

Painted Post Presbyterians, who have been anxiously awaiting the arrival of their new pastor, the Rev. Carl J. Grabb of Sauquoit, are glad to announce that he arrived here Thursday to take up his duties in his new pastorate.

The Rev. Mr. Grabb will preach his first sermon "The Positive Message" Sunday morning when the people of Painted Post will have an opportunity to hear their new minister for the first time. He comes to his new pastorate highly recommended and his long list of qualifications certainly fits him well for this position. The new pastor has had much experience in ministerial work having served as pastor in Auburn, Half Acre Community Church and in Sauquoit.

The Rev. Mr. Grabb attended Brown University for some time which he left to enter the war. After returning from overseas he entered Auburn Theological Seminary. In Sauquoit he has not only been prominent in church activities but also in affairs in which the welfare of the town has been considered. It is no wonder that the people here have been enthusiastically waiting for their new pastor to arrive.

Your Sunday School Lesson

THE FALL OF JERICHO

Lesson Text—Josh. 6:1-20

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 7

Copyright 1926 By The Evening Leader.

GOLDEN TEXT—This is the victory that overcometh the world even our faith.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Joshua Leads his People to Victory.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Victory of Jericho.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How God Helped Joshua.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Overcoming by Faith.

Jericho was the key to the land of Canaan. A general victory here would put the Israelites in control of the land. Failure here would mean irretrievable ruin.

I. Jericho Shut Up (vv.1-5).

The Canaanites fell secure because Jericho was strongly fortified from the south. Approach to the city from the east was not thought of as the Jordan river was a barrier. The miraculous crossing of the Jordan by the Israelites and their surrounding the city of Jericho greatly alarmed the people. Therefore none went out and none came in."

1. God's promise to Joshua (v.2).

"I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour." Because of this promise from the Lord their faith had a firm basis.

2. God's instructions (vv.3-5). They were to encompass the city with seven priests bearing trumpets of rams' horns. The ark, as symbol of the Divine Presence, went before the people. They encompassed the city once a day for six days and on the seventh day they encompassed it seven times. When the last circuit was made the priests were to give a long blast of the trumpets and the people were to shout with a great shout and the walls of Jericho were to fall down.

II. The Obedience of the People (vv. 6-16).

They advanced according to the direction of their leaders. They were going forth according to the command of the Lord. To the natural eye the means employed were very inadequate, even foolish. If they had looked at the inadequacy of the means in themselves, they would doubt would have faltered, but they believed that He who had given the orders would fight for them. Joshua and his people set out at once to obey the divine directions. The people marched around the city every day for six days. This, no doubt, was very trying to their faith. There was absolutely no connection between the means and the end. Perhaps on the days were nearly away the whole affair became monotonous. Even at the end of the sixth day there was no change. Doubtless the people on the walls of the city used this unseemly behavior as an occasion of great merriment and ridicule. Even at the end of the sixth round on the seventh day there was no change. Yea, the seventh round brought no change until the very last moment. At the mighty shout, accompanied with the blowing of trumpets, the walls came tumbling down. This is the way of all works accomplished by faith. At the time when everything seems against us, faith holds on and wins the victory.

III. The Fall of Jericho ((vv. 17-20).

At the end of the seventh day the seventh round having been made the circuit, the long silence was broken with a shout. As he walls crumbled down, the Israelites clambered over them, slaying men, women and children. They were not to spare anything save the gold, silver, brass and iron which were to be saved for the treasury of the Lord. However, Rahab and her household were saved according to the promise of the spies. This wonderful deliverance was calculated to inspire the people with courage and enthusiasm. They could now see how God could fight for them and deliver them from their enemies. All of a sudden it struck terror in the hearts of the Canaanites. The blowing of the trumpets and shouting of that day with its great victory is the goal of the Christian day when larger victories shall be won by the Almighty for His people, and no doubt would be instilled struck into the hearts of the enemies of God's people (1 Thess. 4:16, 17).

Let us learn of this whole lesson that spiritual victories are won upon principles and by means far above the natural and in themselves. According to human wisdom it is utter foolishness (I Cor. 1:17-29).

Golden Rule Sunday Will be Observed December 5; Purpose to Raise Funds for Children

International Golden Rule Sunday will be observed throughout the Christian world, Dec. 5. President Calvin Coolidge has sent to the national committee in New York City a letter, in which he expresses the wish that the observance of the day may be extended in America and throughout the world.

The purpose is to raise funds for the continuance of rehabilitation work among the homeless children of the Near East, as cared for by the organization on Near East Relief. Many of the children were deprived of home and parents in the World War. Suitable programs in the churches and elsewhere, in Elmira and practically all other cities of the U. S., will be arranged in celebration of the day.

In connection with the observance of Dec. 5, the firm of George Doran Co., publishers, of New York City have issued "International Golden Rule Sunday." The volume is prepared by Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief. It is dedicated to the memory of Cleveland Hoadley Dodge, "whose unfailing faith and unfailing support of Near East Relief made possible its demonstration of the international value of practicing the Golden Rule." Albert Shaw, editor of Review of Reviews, contributes an introduction.

The book is a symposium of matter relating to work of the Near East Relief. It traces the organization of the committees, gives a history of the inception and development of the work, prints President Coolidge's letter, contains the Golden Rule Code and the verses of various persons who have selected this work as a theme for poetic composition. The volume contains numerous photographic illustrations, chiefly of Golden Rule dinners and teas held in various parts of the world, that work done by the Near East orphans in acquiring homes and educations made possible by contributions to the cause, and cartoons from many newspapers urging support of the work.

DIED AT HIS POST

It's hit in a hay field, but more stifling hot in a big city street. Joseph Ryan, for 20 years a Philadelphia policeman, collapsed at his post while directing traffic. Cars still whizzed past as he was picked up. In the afternoon a brother officer called at Ryan's home. "Your husband has been taken to the hospital; he has a pain in his head," he informed Mrs. Ryan. Mrs. Ryan, with her sister, rushed to the hospital in a taxicab. She was too late. "He died a few minutes ago," said the nurse. The patrolman was only 47, but the heat, coupled perhaps with some undiscovered physical weakness, got him.

Of all the automobiles in the world, 82 per cent are in the United States, as revealed by sale and registration figures, and statistics from hospitals.—Detroit Free Press.

DANNY'S TAIL IS DISCOVERED

The clever schemer never sleeps, But constant vigil ever keeps. —Old Mother Nature.

Danny Meadow Mouse was sitting in the grass beside one of the tiny little paths of Nanny Meadow Mouse. He was quite hidden in that grass. Nothing was to be seen of him from the path but his funny little short tail, which was sticking out right in the path. You know, Danny had left that tail out there on purpose. He was planning to break the news of his homecoming to Nanny Meadow Mouse little by little, and he thought the best way to do it would be for her to discover his tail first. Perhaps Danny wasn't thinking of Nanny altogether. I don't know anything about it, but perhaps he was thinking that if Nanny should discover that tail he might have a chance to find out just how she felt about him without having to face her. You see, he wasn't at all certain how welcome he would be after having been a rover all Summer.

Now Danny was very tired, for you know he had done a lot of traveling. It was very quiet and peaceful there. Danny began to doze. Two or three times his eyes almost closed, only to be opened hurriedly. But at last they did close and remained closed. Danny was taking a nap and out in the little path lay Danny's funny little short tail. It was a short tail, too. Sometimes Danny had been ashamed of that short tail. Sometimes he had been envious of his cousins with long tails. Many a time he had admired the long slim tail of Whitefoot the Wood Mouse, and the even longer tail of Ninnihiskis the Jumping Mouse. But now he was quite satisfied with that little short tail. You see, he hoped that little short tail was going to be a sort of ambassador for him. Ambassador is a big word, isn't it. It means some one who smooths the way for you. Danny hoped that the tail would smooth the way for him with Nanny.

Now it just happened that one of the half-grown children of Ringneck the Pheasant happened along that way. Young Ringneck was out in the Great World and very proud of it. He had perfect faith in his ability to pick up a living. His bright eyes, which were very sharp eyes, looked this way and that way in search of good eating. Many a worm and insect and many a plump seed those bright eyes discovered and his stout bill picked up. Despite this, he was still hungry. In fact, he had an extra good appetite that day.

Ahead of him, lying in the path, was a little worm

It was just by chance that young Ringneck found that little path through the grass. It was a good place to walk and so he followed it. Presently there lay Danny's tail right before his brightened eyes. Ahead of him, lying in the path, was a little worm. Never had he seen one just like it before, but he was sure it was a worm. He hurried forward. Just before reaching it he stopped. He cocked his head on one side and studied that worm.

"I never saw one like that before," said he to himself, "but when I'm hungry all worms look alike to me."

Just then Danny Meadow Mouse, who was dreaming, twitched his funny little short tail. Young Ringneck saw it. He saw that tail move. That settled all doubt there might have been in young Ringneck's mind. He would have that worm before it had a chance to get away. He took one step forward and swiftly picked up that tempting little worm.

Now, no two people have ever seen which was the more surprised—Danny Meadow Mouse or young Ringneck—when the latter picked up what he thought was a worm. He dropped it as quickly as he had picked it up, but he had pinched it good and hard, so hard that it had made Danny squeal. The instant he was dropped he took to his heels.

Young Ringneck looked quite upset. Then, as Nanny Meadow Mouse poked her head out of the doorway and inquired what the trouble was, he tried to look dignified, "It's a queer thing to me," said he, "how careless some people can be. If I had a tail I thought anything of I would leave it around where other folks would be likely to step on it."

The next story: "Nanny Has a Caller."

KING HAS TO FEED HIM A CARROT

Whenever his majesty King George returns to Buckingham palace from riding horseback in Hyde park, he finds a groom waiting with a carrot from the royal garden. After dismounting the king gives the carrot to his horse, which in return rubs his nose against the king's arm. Like a human sycophant, the horse refuses to be led away without the carrot or to accept the carrot from anyone else. But the circumstance speaks well for King George's kindness to animals.

PLANTING

A seed company received from one man fifteen applications for free samples of their pea seeds and when the sixteenth request arrived the manager decided it was time he did something.

"Dear Sir: I am sending you the seeds as requested; but what are you doing with so much? Are you planting your whole subscription with peas?"

A few days later he received a reply:

"No," it ran, "I am not planting them at all. My wife uses them for soup."

PARTICULAR FARM HAND

This advertisement in a Piqua, O., paper offers a sidelight on one of the besetting troubles of the farmer:

If interested write soon or come around and tell your kind of work and largest price you care to pay. Extra large farmer, dairyman or tightwad need not write. Charles G. All-High Men All Set to Meet Endicott Antlers Sunday

LOCAL OUTFIT IS EAGER TO EVEN SCORE WITH SHOE MEN

Tomorrow's Tilt is Feature Attraction of Season; Antlers by Their Recent Victory Regarded as Having the Edge on Corning Team

Corning grid fans will have a chance to witness the biggest game of the season at Pyrex Park tomorrow at 2:30 when the All-High and the Endicott Antlers lock horns for the second time this season. One of the largest crowds of the All-High followers is expected while around three hundred fans are to journey from the shoe town to help their team keep its record clean for the season.

The Antlers are coming up with a lot of confidence after defeating the All-High men in their last encounter which turned out so disasterously for the Corning players. The score was 13-0, but later, after much discussion it was learned that the real score was 9-0, but it must be the Antlers are not satisfied with such a small score and are going to try to raise it a little. The Corning men are thinking just in opposite lines for they expect to defeat the visitors by at least two touchdowns.

In that last game the All-High had the edge somewhat on the lower state team and outplayed them for almost all the game but the breaks were against them when the Antlers' star center stole through to block Mahafey's punts and break up a football game. The All-High men have been improving steadily under the watchful eyes of Coach Lynch and are now a keener aggregation that they were when they played the Antlers.

In tomorrow's game "Red" Cahill, the star end for the visitors will be shifted to the backfield where he made such a good showing against the Keyser Valley team last week. In the other game with the All-High he played end and did all the Antlers' punting, but being so fast and shifty a player he was changed to the backfield where he is now rated among the best backs in the state. The All-High will have to watch him if the expect to win. The line up:

Antlers		All-High
Brady	L. E.	Cushing
Bermont	L. T.	McClure, La Follette
Ciccola	L. G.	Summers
Goodnough	C.	Wisner
Ambrose	R. G.	Taylor
Toung	R. T.	Nelson, Pier
Corbett	R. E.	Miles
Talourette	Q. B.	Sheedy
Canavino	R. H. B.	Hallahan, Beck
Oshinsky	F. B.	Mahafey
Cahill		Flannery

Officials: Daily and Nordard; Timer, Ellison.

THREE TEAMS UNDEFEATED

Michigan, Purdue and Northwestern Have Flawless Big Ten Slates

CHICAGO, Nov. 6—(AP)—Three undefeated teams in each of the midwest's two major championship campaigns risked their title chances in today's gridiron conflicts.

Michigan, Purdue and Northwestern, all with flawless big ten slates despite defeats by non-conference foes, rallied against defeat virtually equivalent to elimination from the Western Conference race. A similar situation confronted the Missouri, Grinnell and the Oklahoma Aggies, Missouri Valley elevens.

Northwestern and Purdue were matched in the feature of the day on the big ten, before a Northwestern homecoming throng, swelled by a migration of Boilermaker's supporters to tax the 41,000 capacity of new Dyche stadium.

Michigan expected only moderate difficulty in humbling Wisconsin but the Wolverines were spurred by Yost's insistence that only a sweeping triumph would put the team in condition to turn back Ohio a week hence.

A homecoming Chicago crowd and almost half the student body of the University of Illinois gathered to watch the Illini and Maroons renew their ancient rivalry, with the Illinois team favored to win by no great margin for all of Chicago's recent ill fortune.

Another homecoming throng descended on Iowa's stadium for the game with Minnesota, in which the northerners were favored to outdrive the Hawkeyes. Victory meant an outside conference chance for each eleven.

Sport Briefs Sent Over the Wire By Associated Press

(By The Associated Press)

The proposed international flyweight title battle between Fidel La Barba of California and Elky Clark of England appeared virtually clinched today. La Barba has consented to the match in New York Tex Rickard announced.

Indications are that U. S. G. A. officials again will stage the national open golf championship in July next year to make possible another British invasion by American players. The British open already has been fixed for the week of June 20.

Had he not been tumbled from his throne as amateur champion, Bill Tilden might have turned professional this year, he says. "But as an ex-champion, I would have felt I quit under fire," he explains. "I told C. C. Pyle I would gladly listen to another proposition next season," he is quoted as admitting.

ALFRED GRID MEN LOSE TO HOBART 18-0

Field Inches Deep in Mud; Colgate Defeated in Cross Country Race

HORNELL, Nov. 6.—On a field that was inches deep in mud, Hobart beat Alfred University at Alfred yesterday 18 to 0. It was "Home Coming" day at Alfred and as a result there was a larger crowd than usual on hand to enjoy the program. Masten Park High School of Buffalo, won the interscholastic cross country run and Alfred defeated Colgate in the dual cross country.

Hobart outplayed Alfred in all but the second quarter. The game was replete with misplays due to the fact that the ball was coated with slime most of the time and the players were hardly able to stand. As a result, both sides were compelled to punt often. The final touchdown was one of the most thrilling, however, that has been seen here this year. Barrett made a perfect pass to Kiley who ran the ball five yards for a goal. The lineup:

Alfred		Hobart
Fulmer, Capt.	L. E.	Whipple
Lanphere	L. T.	Trapnel
Bliss	L. G.	Yarrington
Cottrell	C.	Vogt
Schlosser	R. G.	Orr
Miller	R. T.	Moore
Perrone	R. E.	Barna
Fredericks	Q. B.	Kiley
Gardner	L. H.	Leader
Lewis	R. H.	Barrett
Ferris	F. B.	Buley

Substitutions: Alfred—Nellis for Perrone, Devott for Schlosser, Vorheis for Lewis, Fenner for Gardner, Stearns for Miller, Whaley for Ferris. Hobart—Raymond for Moore, Cook for Whipple, Sayles for Barna and Tennet for Leader.

Score by quarters:

Hobart	6	0	6	6	—18.

Scoring touchdowns: Barna, Riley (2).

In the interscholastic cross country over a distance of 2.9 miles, Masten Park of Buffalo, was first, Rochester West High, second, and Erie, Pa., third. Rath, of North Tonawanda, was the first man in, and his time was 15 minutes and 30 seconds. Kreuger of Masten Park was second and Eckert of Masten Park third. Rikers, Rochester two-miler and favorite in the race, finished in fifth place.

In the Alfred-Colgate cross country, Alfred won in 33 minutes, 10 1-2 seconds, the distance being 5 1-2 miles. Ted Clark of Colgate was the first man in, Brown, Getz and Boulton of Alfred were tied for second, Ladd, Coe and Vorheis of Alfred tied for third and Beckwith and Reynolds of Alfred tied for fourth. The score was 20 to 35.

YATES SPORTSMEN ARE ALLOWED TO USE FERRETS

PENN YAN, Nov. 6.—Yates county sportsmen and Farm Bureau members who have put up such strenuous objections to the law prohibiting the hunting of rabbits with ferrets in Yates county have been rewarded by being allowed to use them from now until January 1.

Farmers claimed rabbits were too numerous and were doing great damage. Though ferrets are permitted the number of rabbits that can be taken in one day is limited to six.

PENN YAN, Nov. 6.—A deed has just been completed giving E. L. Phillips of the Phillips Construction Company title to the Fox Paper Mill on the outlet of Lake Keuka, formerly owned by John Fox of Penn Yan. Mr. Fox, who only this year purchased the property from his brother, William, will be retained as manager of the mill, which will probably continue to produce paper as heretofore.

The Phillips Construction Company, of which Mr. Phillips is president, does the construction work for the New York Central Electric Corporation and it is rumored that the present company will soon organize and name John Fox as president.

ACADEMY MEN SEE CORNELL PLAY TODAY

The members of the C. F. A. eleven have no game for today and will spend the afternoon at Ithaca where they will see the Cornell-St. Bonaventure fracas. About 20 men including the coaches and assistant managers will make the trip. Some of the players have chosen to spend the day hunting as it will be their last chance to "bring home the bacon" as next Saturday they are scheduled to meet Ithaca High School at Ithaca.

This game will be played in the morning to allow any players who so desire to attend the battle of the Red and Green when Dartmouth stacks up against Cornell. The Academy will be fighting hard to win this game, as to make a .500 average it will be necessary to at least tie the Ithacans and then defeat N. H. S., as out of six games played they have won two, lost three and tied one. They have scored 38 points against 144. Their record so far and the scores of the games is as follows: Galeton game, 19-6, with the Academy on the long end; Geneva game, 39-0; Elmira fray, 21-0; Hornell contest; 0-0; Glen Cove fracas, 13-12 with the Academy once more on the long end; Endicott tilt, 66-6. This is not an impressive record but if the billsters win the N. H. S. game they will be crowned city and county champions while if they lose it will be the first time in six years that they have fallen before an orange and black aggregation. If they are scored on it will also be the first time in six years.

GRID WARRIORS OF HARVARD AND PRINCETON MEET TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—Football heroes of Harvard and Princeton were cast in the role of minute men today as more than 50,000 gathered to see the rivals of more than fifty years' standing grapple in the first conflict of the big three series this year at Cambridge.

Jake Slagle, star of sensational triumphs over Yale and Harvard a year ago, was not included in early lineup announced as almost certain to start for the moleskin clad bands from the jungle. Art French, whose spectacular dash for a touchdown beat Dartmouth, likewise was missing from the battle array of the Crimson. But both were expected to be called upon, and in Slagle, Orange and Black supporters pinned chief hope for victory.

Observers expected Princeton to darken the air with passes, for Harvard in its impressive rise from a disappointing start is conceded to have developed a powerful vanguard and a strong secondary defense against running attacks. Overhead, however, the Crimson appeared mystified by the dazzling aerial assaults of General Holy Cross and Dartmouth.

Of all the previous 28 battles between the rivals, no struggle appeared more in doubt than that of today. Although Harvard has been made a slight favorite, inspired Princeton teams have soared to so many magnificent victories from apparently hopeless backgrounds that Harvard supporters would give no better than even money in the wagering.

Bent on regaining their winning stride before next week's Princeton grapple, Yale warriors were ready to take the field at almost full strength against Maryland at New Haven. Noble still was missing from the backfield, but Kline and Foote were back to support Bunnell and Halahird.

New York University, aiming for its seventh straight victory, was stocked for a hard battle against Carnegie Tech, but confidence ran high as a result of the return to the lineup of Captain Frank Brinate at fullback.

Sharing the spotlight with these games were four other outstanding struggles bringing together Pennsylvania's magicians and rugged Penn State; Fordham and Holy Cross; Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and Syracuse and Georgetown.

The SPORTLIGHT

A WEEK AGO

A week ago how many alert soothsayers were there who predicted: (1) that the Navy would beat Michigan; (2) that Columbia would trim Cornell; (3) that Missouri would mop up West Virginia?

This Saturday doesn't appear to offer as many possibilities for wandering astray, but the guessing is never any too certain where injuries, the forward pass, psychology and fumbles combine to twist the dope out of shape.

The Saturday Round-up

HARVARD - PRINCETON—At Cambridge. Here is a contest that will take the most expert guessing of the year since so much of the gridding must be done in the dark. Princeton, rarely a good October team, has been unusually rickety this last October through injuries to such men as Slagle and Cqulkins and the late development of a line. Harvard, after a bumpy start, has been coming on briskly with growing strength and added spirit. If Slagle can get right, Princeton will have a high-grade backfield cast in Slagle, Baruch, Prendergast, Strubing and other fast Tigers who can pass, run and kick. It will then be largely a matter of Princeton's line, which is a complex problem that can't be answered until after this Harvard game. It is a certain gamble that both Princeton and Harvard will be far stronger than they have been to date. Harvard has been improving steadily week by week and if Princeton isn't 40 per cent better than Princeton has been so far, Harvard will be assure three. But Princeton has the possibilities of being just this much better with an astonishing advance over anything the Tiger has shown. This game should be one of the most interesting of the season and one of the closest. There will be no such debacle as the meetings of 1924 and 1925 sent spinning along to the records.

N. Y. U.-CARNEGIE TECH.—At New York. New York University has padded this far without a dent. A strong line and a fast, strong backfield ably coached has made up for youth and lack of big game experience. Carnegie Tech will offer the roughest obstacle yet encountered. Carnegie Tech was strong enough to beat Pittsburgh 14 to 0, and this is enough to indicate trouble for any opponent. Judge Wally Steffen, the Carnegie coach, always has something to offer in the way of a baffling attack. Yet N. Y. U., which is gaining in experience week by week, should have enough to get by even though the margin should be slight.

SYRACUSE - GEORGETOWN—At Syracuse. Another hard, even battle that should depend largely on the breaks. Both teams are strong and both have speed. Each team has lost a game, but Syracuse will miss Carr, the leading Orange back. Georgetown has been stepping since the West Virginia defeat and is quite capable of beating any one. Georgetown hit a fast November pace last fall, finishing like a young tornado. But Syracuse should have a slight edge.

YALE-MARYLAND — At New Haven. After two hard ones on the chin Yale is about due to start her splurge for Princeton and Harvard. It will be interesting to see in this game how much Yale has bounded back after the Army massacre and how many Blue regulars will be ready for work.

PENNSYLVANIA - PENN STATE—At Philadelphia. Penn State hasn't the same defensive strength to throw against Penn's attack that Illinois used last week. Penn still has a first-class football team in spite of the Western reverse, and this game should find the Red and Blue attack making good headway again.

The Western Conference

Michigan should beat Wisconsin and Minnesota should get by Iowa. Indiana from the Conference will find Notre Dame too strong in every way, although Rockne can't set off too many fireworks with the Army game just ahead. One of the best games in this sector will be Northwestern and Purdue. Northwestern held Notre Dame to 6 points and Purdue gave the Navy a battle to the last play. Illinois is too strong for Chicago.

There is no decisive Conference contest at hand unless Wisconsin should turn and overthrow Michigan.

In the South

Alabama should continue its winning way against Kentucky. Two of the best games will find Vanderbilt facing Georgia Tech and Georgia tackling Auburn. There is little to choose on either side. All four teams rank just back of Alabama with Auburn having slightly the better record.

Virginia has a hard afternoon ahead with Washington and Lee, the team that came near leaving Princeton on its neck.

One of the best Coast games will bring Stanford to battle against Santa Clara. Stanford had its hardest Saturday last week against U. S. C., but such Saturdays now and then lead to a sinking spell in the next start. Stanford should win, but Santa Clara is not to be placed in the set-up sector.

There is one thing to be said for the flapper of today. She doesn't sit around for hours at a time with a pug dog on her lap.

FREAK FOOTBALL

BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright 1926 by Macmedrian Newspaper Service

The other day I discussed some gridiron oddities, among them the 1925 Northwestern University captain's tackle of a team-mate in the mud, and a high school youth winning a game disguised as an official. Here are some more freak football incidents, which further prove the assertion that the game is like golf, because "anything can happen" in it.

In the 1921 Wisconsin-Illinois game, the Badgers scored three freak touchdowns, while making only two first downs in the whole game. After the Illinois punt, which was blocked and rolled back forty yards to be recovered for a Wisconsin score, a Badger grabbed the free arm of an Illinois run, and swung him off his feet, snapping the ball out of his other arm directly into the hands of a team-mate, who raced seventy yards for a touchdown.

In the Chicago-Illinois game of 1916, the Illinois captain punted, the ball hitting the foot of a team-mate deep in Chicago's territory. The men near the ball waited for the referee to declare the ball dead, but the official had not seen the off-side, and failed to blow his whistle. As the two teams grouped around, waiting, "Red" Graham, of Chicago, an Olympic pole-vaulter of 1920, picked up the oval and trotted sixty yards down the field, while the crowd laughed and hooted. But Red's freak touchdown was allowed, just the same.

"Snooks" Dowd, of Lehigh, once covered nearly two hundred yards in making a touch-down, after first running almost the length of the field in the wrong direction. Other players have done this same stunt with less happy results, among them Oscar Knop, of Illinois, who once raced thirty-five yards towards his own goal-line before he was tackled by a team-mate.

The play in which the ball actually did travel 221 yards occurred in the University of Southern California-California Tech game back who was attempting an end of 1924. Cal. Tech. kicked off, the ball rolling over U. S. C.'s goal line. While the rest of the players started for the twenty-yard line, thinking the ball would be put in scrimmage, there, as usual, Green, of Southern California, walked out onto the field without having touched the oval down, and when he had passed the group of players, suddenly, started sprinting down the field. Two opponents gave chase, and finally tackled him on the two-yard line, and tackled him so hard that he dropped the ball. Here one of the Cal. Tech. men picked it up and ran it back forty-three yards before he himself was thrown. That's one for the book!

NEW SUITS FOR ACADEMY TEAM

Court Aggregation to Get New Style Uniforms; No Practice Yesterday

The Corning Free Academy did not hold its regular basketball practice last night due to Mr. Lynch, head coach being in Rochester to attend a teachers' convention.

New suits have been ordered for the squad and this year the prison regalia, that made the hillsters so conspicuous, will be changed slightly. The trunks will be the same as those of last year but the jerseys will be entirely different. They will be blue at the top and have a square of blue and white checks in the middle. The bottom will be blue. It is not known how many suits are to be issued but at least eight will be given out. There are four regulars from last year's squad who will undoubtedly wear a new uniform, Captain Tunney, Moore, Rotsell and DeSilva. There are 15 other men fighting for a uniform and of these Beck, Murphy, McMillan, Krmnir and Waltman have the best chance to cop.

There will be a second team of eight men and the first team suits of last year will be given them.

The first game is December 3, against Elmira Heights at the Academy gymnasium, the next tilt will be a county league fray with Hornell at the Maple City, and the next game will be with Northside High School at the Academy. The dates of these games are December 10 and 17 respectively.

At this season of the year, a number of inquiries are being received from people who contemplate entering school in December or January. It is not too late for school juniors to make similar arrangement. However, it is not necessary. The seating capacity of Meeker's school is practically filled, but local vacancies are being filled by students who graduate. Those who are planning to enter school in December or January, should write for circulars of [illegible] or call.

"One Revealing Romance of a Flapper's adventure on life's highway"

Miss Nobody

by TIFFANY WELLS

Published by arrangement with First National Pictures Inc.

"It isn't in your interest, precisely, to have our search for the missing child successful."

He ended on an inflection of interrogation.

"No," said Barbara dully. "It isn't. But I know where you may find him. Mr. Hardiman's son is known as Bravo Kohler. You will find him when you have traced him from Sparta, North Carolina, where he was known to all the townsfolk there."

"You—you know him?" demanded the astounded lawyer.

"Yes."

"May I ask what your relationship to him is?"

Barbara hung her head.

"We were—sort of friends once," she said.

The First Crocus

In Ryeneck, with the Spring advancing with flags of flowers to conquer the melancholies of Win-

"Very little was said." The lawyer's eye twinkled. "Mr. Kohler struck Mr. Petrie on the jaw."

ter, Barbara found it increasingly difficult to recapture the mood of tender regret with which, at first, she had been able to contemplate the image of Hardiman, dead.

But on the day the first crocus came up Barbara met with.

A year since two tramps in a Carolina copse of pine had snatched together at a first crocus there, and somehow their fingers, in the leaves, had twined.

Her affection for baby, though she suspected that it was not the perfect maternal love, had become distractingly intense. Some nights she would have the nurse bring the boy to her bed to sleep against her breast.

After such nights, haggard and hollow eyed, she would live a day of utter dejection. For from his tiny head stood out the pointed ears of Bravo.

But she was very careful on the Spring day of Lawyer Walden's visit when he came with a report of the missing heir to conceal from him her eating anxiety to hear his news.

"H. Kohler!" she languidly exclaimed. "Ah, yes."

"He is New York," said the attorney. He studied Barbara's reaction to his reply.

But a woman is even more expert in duplicity than a lawyer. Outwardly she did not signal the turmoil within.

"That is convenient, isn't it?" she commented lightly.

"You puzzle me," frankly admitted Walden. "You apparently knew all about this young man. However," he shrugged, "my business is to settle the estate, not to uncover any secret you may wish to keep."

Barbara had recourse to the old set of feminine tricks. She lifted her eyebrows prodigiously and stared. Mr. Walden's lean jaws worked nervously. He sifted and said abashed:

"I beg your pardon. I spoke without reflecting."

When next he spoke the attorney was strictly formal:

"I assume, then, that you know that we have to deal with a pretty wild youngster. I wish, in fact, that Mr. Hardiman had left his bequest to him in the form of a trust fund. The young man needs to be protected against himself. Does my estimate of him agree with yours?"

"Why should I have an estimate of him?"

"Sorry," apologized Walden, this time with an admiring grin.

"Why do you consider him irresponsible?" said Barbara with careful detachment.

"About that there can be no doubt," said Walden incisively. "Mr. Kohler—or Mr. Hardiman, I suppose we should call him—has just completed in a North Carolina penitentiary a nine month term of imprisonment for a felony. It appears the young man blew up a town."

Barbara went sick all over and had no further thought of concealment.

"Not so indifferent after all," thought Walden.

Barbara turned on him eyes luminous with tears that gathered unchecked.

"Oh, yes, I am interested," she cried passionately. "Why don't you tell me the rest?"

"It may have done him a great deal of good," began the lawyer seriously.

"Not Bravo!" Barbara interjected. "Oh, you don't know him. He's so sensitive," she added pitcously. "It will have done him nothing but harm. It might ruin him."

"He has taken it very well," said Walden. "I have spoken with him and I detect no bitterness." He paused before he added: "By the way, he insists that he'll refuse his father's money. He won't touch a cent of it."

Barbara leaped up.

"Where is he?" she asked. "Bring him to me. He must take it. Life must be very kind to him from now on."

"Life is," said the lawyer drily. "I find him a member of the Bohemian Club in excellent standing. He lives very comfortably in bachelor quarters in East Fiftieth street. Last week he sold to a Fifth avenue jeweler for a very good sum a jewel inherited from his mother. I understand from the jeweler that his mother was a famous singer. The jewel is as famous as the mother. It was given her by a king."

"Did he—did he—?" Barbara choked on the query.

"He did not," the lawyer penetratingly answered her uncompleted thought, "mention your name at all."

"However, Miss Brown," said Walden, "during my interview with him, which took place in the club rooms, it was mentioned by a third person who joined us."

"Who?"

"A member named Petrie—August Petrie."

"Please, please tell me what was said," she cried, shuddering inwardly at the thought that Bravo would have from Petrie a venomous account of her life in the last year.

"Very little was said," the lawyer's eyes twinkled. "Mr. Kohler struck Mr. Petrie on the jaw and Mr. Petrie fell to the floor in a state, I believe, of unconsciousness."

The shrewd legal eyes glistened with amusement as they watched the effect of his words.

"Am I," he asked with clumsy archness, "to bring the gallant knight into the presence of his lady—to be rewarded?"

"No!" Barbara recoiled with a gesture almost of horror. "For God's sake, don't do that. Bring Bravo to me?" She became stately. "I never want to see him again."

"Oh—" Mr. Walden was all at sea. "Now I understand less than ever."

"Without trying to understand me," hotzed Barbara, "will you do something for me? Will you go and bring Mr. Petrie to me?"

The attorney dazedly drew his hand across the sparse hair on the crown of his head.

"I don't understand. Why, this man Petrie is a tale bearing sneak—" He paused and glanced at Barbara.

"Oh, I can imagine what it was he said," she nodded.

"And," Mr. Walden hesitated, "I think Mr. Kohler is a fine fellow."

He got the surprise of his life. A pair of arms were wrapped about his neck, and his hostess, taller than himself, was kissing him on the forehead.

"Her!" shouted Mr. Walden nonsensically.

"You are the sweetest, nicest lawyer in all the world," cried Barbara idiotically. "And I love you."

"I begin," thought Mr. Walden dubiously the while he retreated, "I begin to understand."

MR. KOHLER, of the Bohemians, proudly moved his hands in ellipses. The cocktail shaker made interesting sounds. Mr. Kohler was slightly lit. He proposed to become further illuminated as the afternoon wore on. As he shook the silver container, he kept time to its circlings with reiterations of a phrase:

"I won't take a cent of it. I won't take a cent of it."

"I won't go to see her. If I do, it's only making a bigger fool of a fool. I'd ask questions. She'd know she had me licked. She'd gloat."

In the privacy of this man's rooms Barbara was called an ugly name.

The slanderer's face was a bad gray. For several days Mr. Kohler had been unable to sleep. He had spent nine months in a jail and had had there 267 nights of serene sleep.

"Never sleep again," he owlishly told himself.

For the crime of dynamiting the streets of Sparta he had drawn a light sentence once the facts had been revealed. His picaresque feat of riding alone to the rescue of a woman victim of the lusts and tar pot of a mob had appealed mightily to the imaginations of a Southern jury. A great many people of Sparta itself wanted the interest ing criminal acquitted. Torn between a judicial duty and a human liking for chivalry, a judge had favored tall youth at the bar. The law was lenient.

Through his jail term Bravo had dreamed of the day when he would be released to go to New York and, search for the loved girl for whom he had pierced the heart of a mountain and had torn up a town.

That search was fruitless until the memorable day when in his club, Attorney Walden found him to give him the news that his parentage had been established, that he was heir to a great fortune—with a footnote to the effect that the father had given him wealth and had taken his love.

PETEY—He Fails to Gain a Recruit -By C. A. Voight

CONDITION OF INJURED IS MUCH BETTER

Death of Timothy Train Near Addison Fourth Tragic One in Family

ADDISON, Nov. 7.—The condition of Silas Ripley, of Freeman, foreman of a Galeton section gang who is alleged to have been ordered to Addison yesterday morning on a section job, and whose motor car on which he was riding on the D. & S. Railroad, collided with the motor car carrying the Addison section gang of which Timothy Train, Sr., was foreman is reported as favorable today.

Mr. Ripley received bad lacerations and a badly sprained shoulder in the collision.

The condition of Irving Coleman, another member of the section crew, painfully injured, is also reported as very favorable. Lacerations, bruises and a broken ankle are the extent of his injuries.

Mr. Train was thrown from the speeder and his neck was broken presumably when he struck a rail on the track, and then fell off into a deep ditch. The supposition of Coroner Dr. E. E. Webster of Woodhull, is that he died instantly.

George Sibley and George Babcock, the other members of the Addison section crew escaped with minor injuries. It is alleged that the Addison crew was dispatched to Galeton, Pa., on a special job, and the Galeton crew are alleged to have been ordered to Addison. Both speeders came together around a dangerous curve between Freeman and Van Vloets at 8:15 o'clock. Dr. John M. Crane and Dr. Ralph P. Davis of Addison were both called in attendance and cared for the injured men. Mr. Train's remains were brought to the McDowell undertaking parlors here, after which they were removed to his late home on Steuben street.

The funeral of Timothy Train Sr., will be held from St. Catherine's church here Monday morning at 9:30 and burial will be made in St. Catherine's cemetery here.

Mr. Train's death is the fourth tragic one in his family. His niece was killed in a gas explosion at his home here several years ago, a son fell to his death from the D. & S. bridge near here and his wife dropped dead in an Addison store sometime ago.

Inspectors had to pry away a thick covering of lath with crowbars before they reached the barrels containing the ale.

SPYING CHARGES ARE MADE AGAINST CANISIUS

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 6—(AP)—Frank Weitzman, secretary of the Student Council at Niagara University, today issued a statement in which he charged that representatives of the football team of Canisius College, Buffalo, have been spying on the Niagara eleven during secret practice in an effort to learn Niagara's signals before the game scheduled between the two schools Saturday.

Formal protest of the alleged spying has been made to the Very Rev. Peter F. Cusick, S. J., president of Canisius, in a letter forwarded last night. Niagara is considering the advisability of calling off Saturday's game.

QUARTET WILL SING MONDAY

Criterion Male Four to be at Northside High School in Lyceum Number

The Criterion Male Quartet of New York City will be hailed with delight by the music lovers of this city when it appears as the second number of the Lyceum Course presented by the Senior Class of Northside High School Monday evening, November 8, in the high school auditorium.

Last year when this quartet was brought here by the seniors in their Lyceum Course, it was so pleasing to all who heard it that a return engagement was requested.

The personnel of the quartet has remained unchanged for over five years. It consists of Frank Mellor, tenor; John Young, tenor; George Reardon, baritone, and Frederick Thomas, basso. Mr. Young and Mr. Reardon have been Criterions for 11 years and Mr. Mellor and Mr. Thomas for five years.

Each member is a truly great singer and together their voices blend perfectly. Their solo and ensemble work is unparalleled by any male quartet before the public. They have made records for all talking machine companies, sung in the largest theaters of New York City, toured every state in the Union east of the Rocky Mountains, broadcasted by radio from the Strand Theatre, New York, and filled more return engagements than any other quartet in New York City. In addition to their work as vocal artists each member of the quartet has a charming personality which makes itself plainly evident during the course of the evening.

This quartet presents a well balanced program from an extensive range of selections. Their repertoire is almost unlimited and includes classical, selections and popular songs, ballads and negro melodies.

This noted musical organization carries its own pianist, who adds materially to the enjoyment of the evening's program.

Plans have been made to seat as many as come. The students are requested to take the chairs which are placed in the hall. Therefore these are usually filled early and this leads people to believe that there are no more seats. However, there will be plenty of room for all.

SWAPS TEETH FOR NECKTIES

Dentist with Vein of Humor, Has Plan to Meet Mail Order Business

Salesmanship a la 1926, as conducted by some mail order houses, has brought many a wail from the home town merchant and strong talk from the victims of their sales. A good story which is said to have actually occurred is going the rounds and is well worth publishing as it tells of how one citizen met the mail order house with a dose of its own medicine.

A well known Steuben county dentist who lives within commuting distance of Corning recently received a package of assorted ties through the mail with the suggestion that if he could not use them to advantage to adorn his own person that the neckwear might be used as appropriate gifts. The professional man was urged to keep the package and "please remit $1.90."

Having a sense of humor as well as a strong resentment against such "strong arm" methods of selling, the tooth extractor brought out two old sets of false teeth which were forwarded to the necktie concern. Accompanying the teeth was a letter which set forth the qualifications of the dentist, the virtues of the substitute ivories and his terms. He also explained to the firm that the teeth could be used in making gifts if found suitable for the recipient and that the difference between the price of the teeth $50, and the price on the ties, $1.50, could be returned to him at their convenience. Needless to say the professional man heard nothing further from the tie company.

PERSONALS

—Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Lawrence Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Ellison, Mr. and Mrs. George G. Clark attended the theatre in Elmira last evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Clark of Norfolk, Va., were guests her yesterday, of their son, George G. Clark, while they were en route to visit in Rochester.

—Mrs. William Lawrence and son Howard, of Hornell have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Lawrence of Chemung street.

187 CASES LISTED ON CIVIL CALENDAR FOR SUPREME COURT HERE

Justice A. J. Rodenbeck to Preside at Term to be Convened Monday at the Court House

Justice Adolph J. Rodenbeck will preside at a trial term of Supreme Court that will be convened in Corning, Monday, November 8. A grand jury will sit in connection with the term and there are four prisoners in jail at Bath, awaiting consideration of charges against them by the indicting body. Among the prisoners in Bath jail is Mrs. Anna Ashe, of Palmyra, who will be charged before the grand jury with being a party to the assault and robbery of a taxicab driver in Hornell, five years ago.

The civil calendar numbers 187 cases, and of that number 156 are issues of fact to be decided by a jury. Among these jury actions is the preferred cause of Cora Wilhelm, of Thurston, against Lynn W. Kellogg, of Bath, a former Steuben County sheriff. This is an action for false arrest and has appeared on the calendars of three previous terms of court. Its trial at the coming term is expected. Mrs. Wilhelm was detained in custody by Sheriff Kellogg on the charge of forgery. She was not tried on the charge, as it was discovered she was innocent of the forgery and another party was arrested for the crime. She now sues for damages for the arrest.

John W. Pitt is plaintiff in an action against the Erie Railroad Company for damages of $10,000. Mr. Pitt and his brother, Charles, since deceased, motoring in East Steuben street, Bath, in the summer of 1924, were struck by a train on the Bath and Hammondsport branch of the Erie system. The automobile was demolished and both of its occupants badly injured, for a time the life of J. W. Pitt being despaired of. He alleges that the railroad company is guilty of negligence in its failure to guard the crossing with gates or the services of a watchman.

Jay Nichols, of Bath, has an action against William Richardson, of Corning, for an accounting, the men being formerly engaged in the promotion of automobile racing events. Mr. Richardson has a counter suit on the calendar against Mr. Nichols, wherein he also seeks an accounting.

John W. Stever, of Bath, sues Ansel J. Barkley, of Bath, for damages resulting from an accident when the plaintiff some weeks ago alleges he was struck by an automobile operated by the defendant. The accident occurred in Liberty street in Bath. One of the principal features of the defense is alleged contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff.

Minnie Chamberlain is plaintiff in an action against her husband, William H. Chamberlain for separation with alimony. Mrs. Chamberlain now lives at Canaseraga, where she is engaged as a chiropracter. Mr. Chamberlain for the year past has lived at Lawrenceville, Pa. Both are former Bath residents, and well known in this community. Mr. Chamberlain is a former assemblyman from this county and Mrs. Chamberlain is well known in social circles.

F. R. Aulls as administrator of James Margeson, sues Thomas W. Hopkins, Francis M. Ellis and Frank Van Dusen of the town of Erwin, for damages in the sum of $10,000 for Margeson's death. Margeson with a number of other lads was at play in the highway near the Bowlby school house, east of Bath, some months ago, when struck by a truck alleged to have been owned or operated by the defendants. Negligence on the part of the driver is alleged as a cause for the accident.

Clarence Woodruff of Hornell, formerly of Bath, has an action against Charles Swarts, of Hornell, for damages for an alleged assault. The plaintiff for a time was employed in the Erie railroad shops at Hornell, where the defendant was a foreman. During an argument which resulted over a piece of work, the plaintiff alleges he was subjected to an unwarranted assault at the hands of the defendant.

The actions of Grant L. Case, Robert E. Wright and Llewellyn L. Hoester against the town of Erwin are for collection of damages because of a motor accident alleged to have resulted because of negligence of a highway in the defendant town.

H. L. Miller, Ralph S. Peck and George H. Jackson sue Archibald Harrison for damages because of an automobile collision that occurred last winter on the Hammondsport-Bradenport road on the west side of Lake Keuka. Three cars were damaged in the collision, which the plaintiffs allege was due to negligence on the part of Mr. Harrison. The defendant, protected by liability insurance, will be defended by the insuring company.

Carmine Della Salla has two actions, one against the Great American Indemnity Company and another against the Home Insurance Company for collection of policies which he alleges to have held in the defendant companies on property which was destroyed by fire at Savona, near Bath last March. The defendants have retained Cheney & Costello and will contest the actions.

Andrew Burrell, of Campbell, has an action for damages against the Steuben County Agricultural Society. His complaint recites that during the county fair in Bath in 1925, a cafe tender employed by the defendants opened a gate and allowed the plaintiff to pass through. As the plaintiff essayed to cross the race track he was knocked down by one of the horses, suffering permanent injuries. He alleges negligence on the part of the defendants' employe, and demands $10,000 damage. A liability insurance company where in the defendants were protected, will defend the action.

Unless moved for trial at the coming term, the action of Frank Van Keuren against Robert Duck, will be taken from the calendar under the court rules, although if such action should result, the case would be restored upon stipulation. In this action the plaintiff as administrator of the estate of his son, Leonard, sues for $10,000 in the lad's death.

The lads are alleged to have been discovered by Duck in his vineyard at night in September, 1925. As he claims he had been annoyed by unknown parties who visited his property and took away his fruit, Duck was in hiding. When he heard the lads in the vineyard, he discharged a shotgun in their direction, claiming he wished to frighten, but not harm them. In the darkness he miscalculated his aim and young Van Keuren was killed outright, while VanKeuren's companion was badly wounded. Duck, who is nearly 80 years old, surrendered himself to the sheriff and related his version of the shooting. He was not indicted by the grand jury. The present action is for all damages of $10,000 on the ground that Duck's action in firing in the darkness was negligent and unwarranted.

Actions for separation on the calendar of the coming term are: Anna Marie Thompson of Bath vs. Carl Thompson, of Corning; Julia L. Doran vs. Albert F. Doran, both of Corning; Elizz Jane Keegan vs. Thomas H. Keegan, both of Corning; Rose J. Thomas vs. Frank N. Thomas, Corning parties; Grace M. Bennett vs. Ernest Bennett, also of Corning; Herbert L. Wheeler vs. Esther P. Wheleer, Corning; Mildred E. Audry vs. William Audry, Corning; Maude M. Chamberlain vs. John W. Chamberlain, Corning; Grace C. Devalle vs. Frank Devalle, Corning.

The actions of Grace R. Christian vs. George Christian, Corning, and Cyril J. Howe vs. Dorothy Howe, Corning, are for divorce.

The visit of the queen of Rumania to America is going to be fine if somebody doesn't revive that old song about "Sweet Marie."

CORNING BOY SCOUTS OF TROOP 2 WIN THE SECOND MEET HONORS

Hornell Takes First Place With 137½ Points at Bath Rally While Corning Makes 90

Corning Boy Scouts through their representative, Troop 2, won second place at the meeting of four Steuben Districts Friday evening in the Haverling High School, Bath, Hornell, Dansville, Bath and Corning were represented at the meet.

Hornell won first place with 137 1-2 points; Corning, second with 90 points; Dansville, third with 82 1-2 points and Bath, fourth with 65 points.

Troop 2 was presented with a complete set of signaling flags as a reward for winning second place. Two hundred forty-two scouts were registered, 70 of these came from Troops 2, 3, 20 and 22, of Corning. All of these troops, who had 50 per cent of their membership registered at the meet, will receive treble the number of counts won by Corning Troop 2, or 270, in the efficiency contest held in the county throughout the winter.

During the contest, Robert Welch, of Dansville, won especial attention by producing a fire by flint and steel in the record time of three and three-fifth seconds, at the coming first place for Dansville and establishing a record for himself.

The judges of the contest were Fred Paige, scout executive, of Bath, Samuel Bogan, of Ithaca, Arthur Chamberlain, of Bath, Dr. York, of Ithaca, and Jay Stevens, of Hornell. The official scorer was Bayard Knapp, of Dansville.

During the intermission, W. Howard Vanderhoef, Superintendent of Bath High School, formerly of Corning, was introduced and addressed the scouts. District Commissioners James Drake, of Bath, Fred G. Anderson, of Corning, and John R. Thom, of Dansville, were also introduced. A feature of the intermission was a clever tumbling act staged by Scout Marines Clayton Hand, of Bath, assisted by the Cox brothers, two of his scouts.

Scout Executive Samuel Bogan, of Ithaca, was in charge of the closing exercises.

Besides the scouts, many scout masters, parents and others interested in the work attended the meet. Many of those listed below drove their cars and thus furnished transportation for the scouts. Those not scouts attending were Dr. George V. McCauley, Richard Phillips, Leon R. Hoyt, olds, Mrs. S. L. Cole, Richard Rial, Dr. H. E. DeCamp, Harold Pierce, Michael Kalinich, Charles C. Corwin, Claude Wasson, Mason J. Coger, Samuel K. Wolcott, Fred G. Anderson, Harrison Hood, W. W. Allen and Robert Horton.

COMFORT CASE IS ADJOURNED

Held for Hearing in Violation of Conditions of Suspended Sentence

Efforts of Harold Comfort, 19, of Pine City and George Kelsey, 22, of 203 Canal street, Elmira, to straighten out the tangled affairs which have involved them with the law came to naught in Police Court, Elmira, Friday and adjournments were taken in the actions against them.

Comfort will now appear for hearing on a charge of violating the conditions of a suspended sentence for petit larceny on Nov. 8. At that time, on the strength of his admission to the police of check forging activities, he may also be charged with forgery. Corning police arrested him Sunday and he has admitted forgeries in Elmira, Elmira Heights and Corning.

Kelsey is facing two charges involving the waste and sale of several automobiles. In February he was arrested on the complaint of the Merchants Acceptance Corporation, charged with disposing of a mortgaged car, and the action is still pending. Representatives of the corporation in court Friday morning indicated their intention of pressing the charge. He is also faced with a second charge, to which the complainant is John Osowski of the Silvertown Motor Company. He charges that Kelsey turned in to them in payment for another car, a machine which was mortgaged for $50 and upon which they allowed him $100 toward the purchase of a new automobile.

The adjournment until today granted on Friday was to give the defendant time to obtain legal counsel.

ISSUE WARNINGS TO MOTORISTS

Beginning Nov. 1st All Drivers Advised to be Cautious

A general warning has been issued that serious concerns every motorist, who is interested in avoiding radiator freeze up during the coming cold weather.

This week several cars were frozen up, but hard enough to break blocks, but enough to act as a gentle warning of what's coming.

This year the motorist can best prevent freeze ups with Glycerine, which is without doubt the best anti-freeze ever offered to the public. Glycerine, trade named Ivo, has several advantages over alcohol and other anti-freeze mixtures in that it is odorless, non-evaporating, non-inflammable, harmless to fine finishes or hose connections, and will not boil or evaporate out of solution, leaving only water, as alcohol does. Another distinct characteristic of Ivo is that it may be used winter after winter with the same effectiveness, so that in the end, it is cheaper and, safer than any other anti-freeze solution. For further information phone 329 or stop in at the Corning Building Company, foot of Cedar Street, where free servicing of Ivo is now obtainable.

LEO CANALE IS UNDER ARREST

Former Corning Man Charged with Conspiracy to Violate the Carlton Act

Served with a bench warrant while he was visiting a friend at the Chemung county jail, Leo Canale, of Elmira, formerly of Corning, is now being held on charges of conspiracy to violate the Federal Carlton Act. William Wheeler, of Elmira, is also being held in connection with the same case and the pair will eventually stand in Federal court to answer a charge of stealing and receiving stolen property from the American Railway Express Company.

Canale lived in Corning about seven years ago and conducted a restaurant and cafe here. Mable Webber, wife of John Webber, of this city, and who is now located at Philadelphia, may also find herself in trouble in connection with the case. These cases which are now pending resulted from a wholesale raid made in Elmira on October 2, 1924, when several Chinamirans were arrested and later sentenced to Atlanta prison. Canale and Mrs. Webber appeared in City Court here some time ago and made charges against John Webber of stealing some tools from the Canale car besides slashing the four tires with a knife.

Special Agent F. J. Kordenbrock of the American Railway Express Company worked several weeks in Elmira during 1924 and eventually solved one of the biggest robberies ever executed in this section. Recently, Mr. Kordenbrock unearthed additional evidence which he placed before the federal grand jury in Canandaigua some weeks ago with the result, Canale, Wheeler, Mabel Webber and others were indicted. Mable Webber lived with Leo Canale in Elmira, but removed to Philadelphia some time ago.

In the 1924 case Merton Pitt, H. J. Grace, Louis E. Redder, Warren C. Davis, John Hiltz, William Hamm, Harold Brace, Dale C. Morgan, Michael Donovan and several others were implicated. Several of them were before Judge John R. Hazel in federal court and sentenced to Atlanta Prison. Mrs. Mable Webber was held as a material witness at that time, a quantity of stolen goods having been found in her rooms. Wheeler and Canale also were under suspicion, but sufficient evidence was lacking to take them in custody.

Following the indictment of the Elmirans, a capais was issued for their arrest and Marshal Bush arrived in Elmira Thursday afternoon. Somebody telephoned Canale that his friend, Toni Rossi, who is in jail, desired to see him. Leo promptly responded and was greeted by the Marshal. Wheeler later was located and taken in custody.

Arrest of the Elmirans is the result of considerable effort on the part of Agent Kordenbrock.

Much of the merchandise was recovered valued at thousands of dollars. The robberies extended over a long period.

What action, if any, will be taken against Mable Webber is a matter of conjecture. However, as she was held as a material witness in 1924 it is reasonable to believe she will be called upon to supply some information connecting Mr. Wheeler and Canale.

WOMAN HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Flora Moore Sustains Injuries to Her Back in Auto Crash

Three automobiles were damaged and one woman was injured in an accident at the West Pulteney street crossing of the Erie Railroad last night about 7:30 o'clock when one driver was temporarily blinded by the glaring lights from another car. Mrs. Flora Moore, of this city, suffered injuries to her back when the car in which she was a passenger was struck. Her injuries are not considered serious.

R. F. Duffy, of 84 John street, whose car was the most seriously damaged had stopped at the crossing to wait for the crossing gates to be raised when Theodore J. Wurth, of 429 Pine street, Painted Post, smashed into his machine from the rear, pushing him into a car ahead. Mrs. Moore was a passenger in his car.

Mr. Duffy in his report stated that he was headed east and had been stopped at the crossing due to the gates being lowered. His car was at a standstill when the Wurth machine also proceeding east came up from behind and crashed into him driving the Duffy car into a third machine which was ahead of him.

In making a report of the accident Mr. Wurth stated that due to the glarin gheadlights from a car on the opposite side of the tracks, he was momentarily blinded and could not see the Duffy machine. When he did see it he was only about 10 feet away and did not have time to stop. No report was made by the driver of the car which was ahead of Mr. Duffy.

—Mrs. Milner Kemp of 145 East First street has returned from Olean, where she was the guest of her daughter.

—Mrs. F. H. Lyon of Jennings street has returned home from Addison, where she was the guest of Mrs. George Stevens.

NEW TRAFFIC CONTROL PLAN CONSIDERED BY POLICE COMMISSION

Market and Pine Street Intersection in Need of Most Attention; May Purchase New Signals

The street traffic problem in any city is a complex of conflicts and Corning is no exception say members of the Police Commission who are endeavoring to iron out the difficulties experienced locally. Motor cars and street cars obstruct each other, vehicles war upon walkers and walkers in turn ignore traffic signals and traffic movements. Those who desire to move are at odds with those who desire to park.

The cost of street congestion is rather expensive and it is a problem so vitally connected with the orderly development of the community that the commission feels the conflicting interests should be harmonized. Working towards that end, efforts have been made for weeks to adopt some uniform system in Corning and part of this system would be the installation of traffic lights.

The Police Commission held a regular meeting last evening and this angle of the problem was discussed at length. No decision was made as to what type of lights or how many would be installed but it was planned to hold a meeting with directors of the Chamber of Commerce and with officers of the Corning Auto Club with a view to secure ideas from those two bodies as to what can be done in Corning in regard to regulating traffic by signals.

Public authorities are frequently criticized for their lack of initiative and force in dealing with traffic matters. They are often more to be pitied than blamed. They find themselves the storm center of conflicting demands for parking and traffic regulations through legislation. Compliance with the demands of one group bring denunciation from another. There is no city too small to profit from the assistance of intelligent citizens who are giving their continued attention to the relief of existing street traffic difficulties. The local Police Commission feels that the Chamber of Commerce and the Auto Club are just the agencies to help meet the emergency and following considerable discussion on the problem last evening it was voted to ask their assistance. This meeting will be held some night next week.

In the budget of 1926 only $1,000 was appropriated for traffic equipment and this has presented another angle of the problem for the commissioners to decide. They feel that Corning has several intersections where traffic control lights are needed but funds are not available for all. It is the concensus of opinion among the commissioners that Pine and Market street corners need the most attention and their idea is to secure a traffic signal that could be used automatically part of the time and controlled by an officer in charge during the busiest hours.

Commissioners Caley and Sill have investigated various types of control signals and so reported at the meeting last evening. It is now only a matter of decision before the equipment can be purchased and installed and speedy action is expected in this.

SPECIAL TERM COUNTY COURT HELD AT BATH

Harold Lippincott and Kern New pleaded guilty to burglary of the Rosenberg store at Canisteo and sentence was deferred until November 19. Both waived examination.
